We have arranged to furnish our churches with these bells at the prices named, which is the same as they can be bought for in Cincinnati, Ohio, where they are made.

The Bells are too well known to need any recommendation from us.

On receipt of the price we will at once order the bells shipped.

HER WORK WAS DONE.

Threescore four-score and seven well-rounded years
Were drawing to a close. Her work was done.
The very house missed her familiar step;
The antique clock, companion of her life,
Ticked slowly in its long-accustomed place;
Her saintly face was turned to greet the first
Pale beams of dawning day; she gently raised
Her head, and resting it upon her hand.
The rosy lips of morn kissed lightly then
Her aged brow and silver hair. "The morn
Is beautiful," she said, then closed her eyes
And sank to rest. Grandmother dear was dead!
And yet the clock ticked on—the sun still shone.

Excitement and Quietness Tested by Conduct.

BY DANIEL WISE, D.D.

In the early days of Methodism there was vastly more emotional excitement than appears to-day in Methodist assemblies, either in England or America. Awakenings were very sudden, profound and in[illegible] in those days. Men who [illegible] very Goliahs in wickedness [illegible] stricken as by lightning under the Word. They sometimes fell to the ground, cried aloud for mercy, and even lost strength and consciousness. Their conversion [illegible] in joyfulness to the [illegible] terror when under [illegible]. They shouted aloud [illegible] when their faith [illegible] the Redeemer's outstretched [illegible], and His voice whispered [illegible]. And [illegible] and sisters [illegible] respective cries of "[illegible]" and "Glory to God in the [illegible]!"

[illegible] things are very generally [illegible] now a days. Methodist [illegible] are more quiet. Men are [illegible] they do not cry out, [illegible] groan in an agony [illegible] in the olden times. [illegible] preaching, re[illegible] of sinners [illegible] in believers, [illegible] demon[illegible] by loud re[illegible] are more subdued [illegible], but they are [illegible] as happy. [illegible] be[illegible] be[illegible] Methodism? [illegible] than [illegible] latter better [illegible] in the gen[illegible] circumstances [illegible] to do with [illegible] times, [illegible] as well [illegible] of the [illegible] cited when such scenes were novelties in the Church. But in our day what was then strange, both in doctrine and experience, is familiar, and can be more calmly experienced and witnessed.

The test, both of excitements and subdued feeling is to be sought in results. Mr. Wesley, when accused by the enemies of religious excitements of improperly favoring them, replied that he judged them by the lives of those who were subject to them. Said he: "I will show you him that was a lion till then, and is now a lamb; him that was a drunkard, and is now exemplary sober; the whore-monger that was, who now abhors the garment spotted by the flesh. These are my arguments."

Wesley was right in thus trying excitements by their fruits. We must test them where they exist now by the same rule, which we must also apply to our present subdued methods of worship. The quiet preacher who lives a pure moral life, is to be preferred even to a revivalist who, after shouting himself hoarse in the pulpit, goes among his people flirting with women, eating with greediness, jesting, trifling, trading dishonestly, or doing any other wicked thing. A quiet church, living an unspotted life is to be preferred to a noisy one which permits sinful habits in its membership. The main question is always, what is the practical result. Of both classes Jesus says: "By their fruits ye shall know them." Let us, therefore, be careful for moral fruit in the life.

Arkansas Correspondence.

BY REV. L. ANDERSON.

There is an idea prevalent among a certain class of people that a more friendly feeling exists now between the two great branches of Methodism than has ever existed since the split of '44.

That a more friendly feeling exists in the North-east and West cannot be denied, the question now arises why all this?

1st. The Southern branch (so-called) are greatly in the minority in the anti-slave territory, and in order to succeed in said territory it is necessary for them to show a fraternal spirit. If they should meet the opposition in the North that we meet in the South they could do nothing at all. But instead of being opposed by our Church they are encouraged to come and help them to drive the enemy from the land, and where the Southern branch is somewhat dependent upon the North they are very sociable and agreeable, but where they are in the majority they are much more hostile.

The writer is personally acquainted with a preacher of the Southern branch in the State of Missouri, who prayed for the Lord to send fire and brimstone down from heaven and consume every "yankee" in the whole country, and our church opened her doors to him because he had no house in which to "explode" at that place. While I don't believe they did right in giving him access to one of our houses of worship yet it showed a disposition upon their part to be fraternal; but it is like casting pearls before swine from the fact that as soon as they get a foothold they do all they can to overthrow the others, and in "The" branch of Methodism there is no reality in any such actions or pretensions, and it leads the world to remark that we (the world) are as good as those who are in the Church, for we are at peace with all men but the Churches are fighting all the time, thus it is in the North, and, in consequence thereof, hundreds of sinners have gone and are still going to destruction.

The above is nothing in comparison to the manner in which our church is treated in the South. Our preachers are looked upon as [illegible] when they try to establish our Church on Southern soil; our ministers are not welcomed [illegible] friendly feeling, by the [illegible] preachers, that they are [illegible] with by our preachers. If [illegible] were it would not be long [illegible] the foundations of sin would [illegible] shattered that they would [illegible] and crumble away, and [illegible] righteousness would have [illegible]. There seems to be [illegible] the churches [illegible] anyone comes in [illegible] after them they [illegible] in the bitter [illegible] wrong conception of real Christianity, and my position needs no further proof than what their actions afford. When Jesus Christ was on the earth John said to him, "Master, we saw some casting out devils in thy name and we forbid them, because they followed not after us;" but the kind rebuke of the Master was, "forbid them not, he that is not against us is for us."

Now, that is just what is helping to impede the progress of real and genuine Christianity at this present day. If we, as members of the different branches of the great and glorious Church of God, would only keep this in view how much greater would be our success in saving immortal souls! But if a denomination other than our own is engaged in a series of meetings we will not give our assistance, for fear the converts will seek a home in some church of which we do not represent. While it is our duty to do all we can for the welfare of the church to which we belong it is also our duty to help the representatives of our sister Churches, push forward this branch of the work when the opportunity is given, and not say, "Oh, they don't believe as I do therefore I can't work with them." When unfriendly feelings exist between members of different churches it is very evident there is something wrong somewhere. Such feelings are not prompted by the spirit of God, but all manifestations of the spirit of Satan which worketh in the children of disobedience.

The past six months have been our first experience among colored people as a preacher, but we must say that it has been very pleasant and we think somewhat profitable.

Since conference we have had one convert and four accessions. We have no church buildings of our own on any part of this circuit (Brinkley), but have the lumber for one which we expect to build as soon as the brethren get their crops laid by so they can work at it. Pray for us, not that we may tear other churches down, but that we may join them in pushing forward the kingdom of our Lord.

Cotton Plant, Ark., June 30th, 1880.

East Tennessee Wesleyan University.

This institution is the only one of high grade among our whole white membership in the central South. It has just closed (most prosperously) the thirteenth year of its existence.

During the past year 200 students have been enrolled in the literary department, and a class of 11 graduated. The alumni already number between 60 and 70, and over 500 have gone from her halls into the various professions—largely into the field of teaching and the ministry. Annually from 20 to 30 young ministers are assisted with free tuition and text-books. The class of '80 manifested marks of culture and talent, of which any College might well be proud. The Commencement exercises were most creditable, and were largely attended by the friends of the Church and University from the patronizing Conferences in the South. The baccalaureate sermon was preached Sunday, May 30, by Rev. Thos. H. Pearne, D.D., of Dayton, Ohio. Ex-Senator Gibson, of Knoxville, Tenn., delivered the annual address before the Literary Societies. Rev. Bishop Warren favored us with his presence for one day, and gave us his celebrated lecture on "The Forces in a Sunbeam." All parties were delighted—captured, with this the first visit of our resident Bishop. His manifested zeal and earnest push to advance our difficult work in the South won all hearts, and gave new life and hope to our workers for the next quadrennium.

Wednesday, June 2, was Commencement day. Richard J. Cook, of New York, was the salutatorian, and Wilford Caulkins, of Knoxville, the valedictorian of the class. The coming year is bright with promise for this University.

Its noble and indefatigable President, Rev. John F. Spence, took it five years ago, burdened down with an enormous debt, under the Sheriff's hammer, and without a dollar of endowment, has freed it from financial embarrassment, and raised it to a position in the foremost rank of Southern colleges.

The faculty for the coming year has received a valuable accession in the election as Principal of the Preparatory Department of Mrs. A. C. Knight, a sister of Bishop Warren and of W. F. Warren, D.D., of [illegible] University, and a teacher of many years' experience in Wilbraham Seminary, Mass. The Church has few institutions of learning which are doing a more important work for humanity than this, and none in which a liberal endowment would be productive of greater returns to the Church and State. The poverty and illiteracy of our Church in this South land should have stronger claims upon our hearts than any other section of the country, and we beg the continued sympathy and liberality of our friends in the North. Manual of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The General Conference provided for the publication of a Manual to be published in the interests of the benevolent secretaries of the Church. The committee having the matter in charge meet in New York June 18, and we are indebted to Dr. A. J. Kynett for the following account of the meeting. Such a manual as is proposed will be of great value to the whole Church. The committee decided as follows:

1st. That we issue a number of the Manual October 1st, as a quarterly, and no other to be issued until January 1st, 1881.

2d. That said number shall consist of at least 48 full octavo pages—the same size and form as the report of the Missionary Society with wider margins.

3d. That each department as follows: Missionary, Church Extension, Education, Publication, Freedmen's Aid, and Sunday-school, and Tracts, be allotted 8 pages each with the privilege of more, under the action of the General Conference, if desired.

4th. That Rev. J. M. Freeman be requested to take charge of the first number, editing the same.

5th. That each department be requested to place their manuscript for the 8 pages (or more) allotted in the hands of J. M. Freeman at 805 Broadway, before August 15th.

6th. That J. M. Freeman be requested to procure an article on general benevolence, to occupy the first four pages.

7th. That the Secretary, pro tem, of the committee be requested to write a prospectus to be inserted in the first number above provided for.

8th. That the book agents at New York be authorized to devise a suitable title page, and to fix the price at which the Manual may be furnished to subscribers.

9th. That the Secretary, pro tem, be directed to correspond with absent members of the committee asking their concurrence in the foregoing provisions for the first number and to call a meeting of the committee for formal organization and for such business as may come before it, to be held in the mission rooms, 805 Broadway, New York, Wednesday, July 14th, at 10 o'clock.

A Last Call.

BY C. C. McCABE.

This is the last time I shall publicly call upon all persons who know themselves to be on the list of subscribers for the relief of our church at Salt Lake City, to pay the promised sums. Out of 1,125 ten-dollar subscriptions I have over three hundred yet remaining unpaid. Some of you have been sick and unfortunate. I do not blame you for not succeeding, but I do blame you for not writing me a postal asking the withdrawal of your name. Do not treat a promise of any sort with indifference. Over 800 ladies have faithfully kept their pledges. Please pay up, or withdraw from the league. But how much better to go through and succeed! An hour given to the work will bring the money. All that remains of the second $20,000 is at this date $4,731, upon which I have fully $1,700 in reliable subscriptions. I want to close this matter up promptly. This burden should not have been allowed to rest upon me so long. It belongs rightfully to the whole church. Please send by draft, check or postal-order within ten days to C. C. McCABE, 184 Thirty-first street, Chicago, Ill.

A final printed report will acknowledge all sums received.

The school board of the city of New Orleans has closed the public schools from June 30 to Oct 1, a very sensible provision for the children amid the Tophet of a Southern summer. In addition, the teachers are dismissed, from July 31, with an ominous suggestion of no more money for schools. Louisiana, for the last dozen years, seems to have found money enough to keep the dirtiest political machine in America in excellent repair. Would it not be a pleasing variety to try honest politics for a year or two, and invest in the children? We fully appreciate the poverty of our Southern friends; but we would remind them that all good things, education included, come to men and States through the "strait gate and narrow way" of sacrifice. Old Colonial Massachusetts raised in one year a sum greater than her united expenditure, to found Harvard College, and that sort of pluck has planted the public schools in every State where it now exists. Less corrupt politics, less whisky, and a little more courage to work for the children, will place Louisiana, Mississippi, and the Carolinas in line with Virginia and Georgia, in the forward movement that shall bring in the children's day in the South.—N. E. Journal of Education.

Dr. Doddrige's Dream.

Dr. Doddrige was on terms of very intimate friendship with Dr. Samuel Clarke, and in religious conversation they spent many happy hours together. Among other matters, a very favorite topic was the intermediate state of the soul, and the probability that at the instant of dissolution it was not introduced into the presence of all the heavenly host, and the splendors around the throne of God. One evening, after a conversation of this nature, Dr. Doddrige retired to rest with his mind full of the subject discussed, and in "the visions of the night," his ideas were shaped into the following beautiful form: he dreamed that he was at the house of a friend, when he was suddenly taken dangerously ill. By degrees he seemed to himself to grow worse, and at last to expire. In an instant he was sensible that he had exchanged the prison-house of suffering and mortality, for a state of liberty and happiness. Embodied in a light aerial form, he seemed to float in a region of pure light. Beneath him lay the earth, but not a glittering city or village, the forest or the sea was visible. There was naught to be seen below save the melancholy group of his friends weeping around his lifeless remains.

Himself thrilled with delight, he was surprised at their tears, and attempted to inform them of his happy change, but by some mysterious power utterance was denied; and as he anxiously leaned over the mourning circle, gazing fondly upon them, and struggling to speak, he rose silently upon the air, their forms became more and more indistinct, and gradually melted away from his sight. Reposing upon golden clouds, he found himself swiftly mounting the skies, with a venerable figure at his side guiding his mysterious movements, and in whose countenance he marked the lineaments of youth and age were blended together with an intimate harmony and majestic sweetness. They traveled through a vast region of empty space until at length the battlements of a glorious edifice shone in the distance among the far-off shadows that flitted athwart their path, the guide informed him that the palace he beheld was for the present to be his mansion of rest. Gazing upon its splendor, he replied that while on earth he had often heard, that the eye had not seen, nor the ear heard, nor could it enter into the heart of man to conceive the things which God had prepared for those who love Him, but, notwithstanding the building to which they were then rapidly approaching was superior to anything which he had actually before beheld, yet its grandeur had not exceeded the conceptions he had formed. The guide made no reply, they were already at the door and entered. The guide introduced him into a spacious apartment, at the extremity of which stood a table, covered with snow-white cloth, a golden cup, and a cluster of grapes, and then said he must leave him, but that he must remain, for he would receive in a short time a visit from the Lord of the mansion, and that during the interval before his arrival, the apartment would furnish him with sufficient entertainment and instruction. The guide vanished, and he was left alone. He began to examine the decorations of the room, and observed that the walls were adorned with a number of pictures. Upon nearer inspection he found to his astonishment that they formed a complete biography of his own life. Here he saw upon the canvas, that angels, though unseen, had ever been familiar attendants, and sent by God; they had sometimes preserved him from imminent peril. He beheld himself first represented as an infant just expiring, when his life was prolonged by an angel gently breathing into his nostrils. Most of the occurrences here delineated were perfectly familiar to his recollection, and unfolded many things which he had never before understood, and which had perplexed him with many doubts and much uneasiness. Among other he was particularly struck with a picture in which he was represented as falling from his horse, when death would have been inevitable, had not an angel received him in his arms, and broke the force of his descent. These merciful interpositions of God filled him with joy and gratitude, and his heart overflowed with love, as he surveyed in them all, an exhibition of goodness and mercy, far beyond all that he had imagined. Suddenly his attention was arrested by a rap at the door. The Lord of the mansion had arrived. The door opened and he entered. So powerful, and so overwhelming, and withal of such singular beauty was the appearence that he sank down at his feet completely overpowered by his majestic apperance. His Lord gently raised him from the ground, and taking his hand led him forward to the table. He pressed with his fingers the juice of the grapes into the golden cup, and after having himself drunk, presented it to him saying, "this is the new wine in my Father's kingdom." No sooner had he partaken than all uneasy sensation vanished, perfect love had now cast out fear, and he conversed with his Saviour as an intimate friend. Like the silver rippling of a summer sea, he heard fall from His lips the grateful approbation: "Thy labors are over, thy work is approved, rich and glorious is the reward." Thrilled with an unspeakable bliss, that glided over his spirit and slid into the very depth of his soul, he suddenly saw glories upon glories bursting upon his view. The doctor awoke. Tears of rapture from his joyful interview were rolling down his cheek. Long did the lively impression of this charming dream remain upon his mind, and never could he speak of it without emotions of joy and tenderness.

The Negro Exodus.

During Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, June 15, 16, and 17, the arrival at St. Louis, Mo., of colored refugees has been very large, and to-day every available space in and about the relief headquarters is crowded with the immigrants of all ages, sexes, and sizes. If the statements of the new-comers are to be believed, the exodus has only set in. The negroes of Mississippi and Louisiana, especially the latter State, fear a revival of the ku-klux and bulldozing rule, and they are all preparing to leave, in many instances sacrificing what little they possess for a sufficient sum to transport them to St. Louis. Numbers are now encamped on the river bank at various landings, awaiting the arrival of boats to convey them to this city. Nothing can be done to check the stampede, and it is thought that by November many counties will be entirely depopulated of colored people. Strenuous efforts will be made by the Relief Association to meet the exodus, and the refugees will be reshipped to Kansas or distributed in the farming regions of Missouri, Illinois and Iowa, as rapidly as possible.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Among the victims of the late terrible disaster in Long Island Sound was Rev. Ensign B. Lockwood, a probationer of New York East Conference, and pastor of the Sixty-eighth Street Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a graduate of Drew Seminary and a young man of vigorous mind and sincere piety. When found, he wore a life-preserver, and his death was attributed to exhaustion. He was on his way to Boston, where he was to preach on the following Sunday. He had in his possession a copy of Paine's "Age of Reason," on the fly-leaf of which, as if guided by some dim presentiment, he had written, "If I go down with this boat to-night, I should be ashamed to have this book found with me, were it not that I read it to refute its doctrines." Was it only a reasonable fear, or was it a warning from the unseen country toward which he was speeding, that led him to indite this vindication? The young minister's funeral was largely attended at the Seventh Ave. Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Dr. J. P. Newman, the uncle of the deceased, is pastor. Dr. Terry, the presiding elder, conducted the service, and several of the clergymen who were present drew the great lessons of his death in the midst of youth and earnest service to God.

The New Census.

The following table shows approximately the population of fifty-seven cities in the United States according to the new census, population of the same cities in 1870, the absolute increase, and the ratio of increase. The figures have been furnished from day to day by the Tribune, with the exception of a few returns which are taken from exchanges. They are all, however, within a few thousand of what the official count will be when completed:

The cities showing the largest ratio of increase are Atlanta, Ga., 106 per cent.; Denver, Colo., 614 per cent.; Minneapolis, Minn., 244 per cent.; Milwaukee, Wis., 92 per cent.; St. Paul, Minn., 100 per cent.; Waterbury, Conn., 103 per cent.; Meriden, Conn., 80 per cent.; and Camden, N. J., 84 per cent.

It will be noticed that there has been a very surprising growth in manufacturing cities, such as Camden, Columbus, Lowell, Meriden, Newark, Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Waterbury.

Returns from Jersey City, Albany, Richmond, Charleston, Toledo, Syracuse, Memphis, Portland, Savannah and other considerable cities have not been received.

The first ten cities in population are in the order named: New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, Cincinnati, San Francisco, New Orleans.

The Green Bay Advocate says: A good story is told of Gen. Grant when taking his early morning walk in this city on Saturday last. We are told when near East river bridge he met a man making an effort to walk fast with a shockingly bad looking home made wooden leg. The Gen. stopped him and asked how he lost his leg. The man replied in the army. The Gen. then asked him why he did not get a better leg, to which he replied that he was poor had a large family and could not afford it. The General handed him $25, with the remark that it would help him get a better leg. The man expressed his gratitude over and over and said that he was on his way to the city to see Gen. Grant and when that was accomplished his happiness would be complete. The Gen. extended his hand with the remark "you now see General Grant," when the soldier extended both hands and embraced the General, his tears showing his joy and gratitude.

Bishop Wiley says: "In taste and neatness of dress, in politeness, courtesy, and etiquette, the Japanese lady is not easily surpassed in any country. In her love for her children and care of them, in her care for home, its cleanliness and adornment, in the freedom and affectionateness of her nature, she will compare well with women of any nation."

The gross receipts from the internal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, will be, in round numbers, $123,000,000. This is an increase of $10,000,000 over last year, and of $3,000,000 over the estimates. The increase is derived from whisky, cigars and cigarettes.

Geo. Elliott, a young man of Elkhart, Ind., borrowed a pistol from a friend on the street and went back into his mother's house and called Miss Mattie Darcy, his affianced, into a bedroom, saying he had something to tell her, locked the door and commenced firing at her. She fell after the second shot, and he then placed the revolver to his own head and shot himself dead.

A meteor as large as a barrel starting from the zenith, plunged down the northeastern sky, and exploded near Macon, Georgia, with a report that reverberated for forty seconds. It was five seconds in falling, during which time the city was lit up as though by powerful electric light. There were three minutes between the disappearance and the report. Its estimated distance from Macon was forty miles.

Gen. Krischanoffsky, the Governor-General of Orenburg, has reported to the Russian Government that the unprecedented severity of the last winter has caused immense destruction among herds of the Kirghiz. In the district of Turgal, out of 860,000 head of cattle only 50,000 have survived the winter. It is reported from Semipalatinsk that in the Panlograd district 1,000 camels, 6,000 head of cattle, 26,500 horses and 51,000 sheep have perished during the winter. In another district 200,000 sheep perished at once in a snow-storm. Similar losses are reported from all parts of Turkestan.

The Berlin conference has unanimously approved the final draft of the document prepared by the Count de Shevallier, embodying its definite decision. The new Greek frontier commences on the east at the month of Manrolongos, and passes thence over the highest peaks of the Olympus and Pindus ranges. At Kanhalabachi it strikes the river Kalamas, the course of which it follows to its mouth. Turkey retains the Seagoria district. The conference afterwards disposed of the questions insuring the freedom of worship in the ceded territory, the settlement of the claims of Mussulman land owners who may prefer emigration to Greek rule, and the amount of the Turkish debt to be transferred to Greece. Prof. Kiepert, the famous geographer, who drew up the conference map, estimates the extent of territory ceded to Greece at [illegible] 390 geographical square miles, [illegible] taining 400,000 inhabitants.

Bishop Warren's First Offense.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate, the Raleigh Christian Advocate, and other papers of the M. E. Church, South, are exercised over the first letter written from the South by Bishop Warren to the New York Advocate. The Bishop, speaking of his ride on a stormy night from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, said:

> Behind were marble churches, elegant homes, cultured companions, the beauty of music and the glory of art. But the before to which I was going had lowly churches, the results of generations of oppression and cruelty, and possibly the hostility of what culture there was. But my first recollection of a political act is this: My father carried the only vote that was given for abolition in his town, while the crowd shouted and jeered, "Here comes the third party, the whole of it." And I have long regarded the following verse of Doddridge as a touchstone of Christian faith and practice:
> Hast thou a lamb in all Thy flock
> I would disdain to feed?
> Hast thou a foe before whose face
> I fear Thy cause to plead?
> Hence I felt that just as I was being thrust forward through all the stormy night by the strong arm of Northern capital and power through two States 330 miles into the South, so was I carried by the stronger and longer arm of God into the ignorance I went to enlighten, and the sin for which I brought Christ's healing.

Herein is the offense: he spoke of "generations of oppression and cruelty," his father was an "abolitionist;" he felt he was being sent of God into the South to "enlighten" the ignorant, and to bring "healing" to those in sin; his words imply that there is less ignorance in the North from whence he came, and to crown all he publishes what he thought.

For this "offense" one paper hopes that a "longer residence and more careful observation will enable the Bishop to judge more fairly, and write more carefully." Another says: "Such writing may make him popular North, but it will not open his way South. Oh, that he had come in the spirit of the Master, bearing the olive branch of peace!"

And so, at the very first, Bishop Warren has offended our Southern brethren, precisely as every other man will who, with an eye single to the glory of God, speaks out plainly his thoughts and convictions in opposition to the prevalent Southern notions and prejudices. The fact that of the 2,000,000 voters in this nation who cannot read, 1,700,000 live in the Southern States, must not be mentioned, even if it be to arouse the nation to greater efforts in popular education. That slavery was a crime and cursed the South, must never be hinted at, even if the spirit of slavery still stalks abroad over the land to perpetrate every sort of outrage upon the colored man. It must never be said that the South is sectional, not if history does prove its sectionalism until now, from the time that the Carolina's and Virginia compelled Jefferson to strike from the Declaration of Independence a denunciation of the slave trade. No, No,—no mention must ever be made of any of these or kindred subjects, lest the men be offended who preached that slavery was divine, who baptized treason at the altars of the Church, who until very recently opposed every step made to educate and elevate the colored people, refusing even to do as Christians for freedmen, what they had done for them as bondsmen; or, lest "Southern society" and "Southern chivalry" be unfavorably criticised in any of the details of its work during the past two hundred years in building up a civilization, which has in it to-day, the chief dangers which threaten this Christian Republic. Silence Bishop Warren! You must not speak, only as you frame your words and sentiments after the style of the goodish twaddle which fills many of the religious papers of the South, or harmonize them with Southern sentiments and prejudice. If your father was an abolitionist, you must never mention it; if you know that one of the great wants of the South is education don't say so; if you really believe that slavery was wrong and the colored people in America have ever been oppressed, don't mention it.

Such is the greeting that Bishop Warren receives from our Southern Methodist brethren.

Ames Church, New Orleans, Out of Debt.

[Thank] God the debt which has [illegible] years hung over Ames [Church], in this city, has been paid! [illegible] sketch of the financial [history] of this important church [illegible] will be interesting. The [church] was built during the pastorate [illegible] the direction of Dr. [illegible], now of New York [illegible] transferred from this [illegible] the chaplaincy of [the] [illegible] Senate, the first [illegible]. The lots [illegible] stands cost [illegible] amount was [illegible] and his peo[ple] [illegible] a time [illegible] sion Society $10,000, and the people were to raise $15,000 more. The contract was let on this basis. The Missionary Society gave its amount, but the death of Rev. Dr. Monroe, Secretary of the Church Extension Society required a re-organization of its work, and it was found that only ten per cent. of the outstanding appropriations could be paid, so that instead of the $10,000 Ames Church received $1,000 from the Extension Society. At a later period $5,000 were granted as a loan, but for the above reason, together with such failures to collect as are common in church building, the Trustees began from the first with an embarrassing debt. On dedication day Bishop Simpson preached a grand sermon and a subscription of nearly $5000 was taken. This met the immediately pressing claims.

Dr. Matlack succeeded Dr. Newman in the pastorate, taking charge in March 1869, and remained in charge for ten months when he was appointed presiding elder of the district.

We were appointed to the pastorate by Bishop Scott in February 1870, and remained in charge for three years. Our first greeting respecting the debt was a tabulated statement which amounted with interest to nearly $14,000. During the three years of our pastorate the church received no appropriations from the Missionary Society so that the whole burden of supporting the pastor and providing for the incidental expenses fell on the people of the congregation.

During the first year of our pastorate no effort was made to pay the debt. During the second year a strong effort was made to raise the amount. The Church Extension Society remitted its claim, and through the liberality of the members and friends of the congregation in this city the pastor's salary and expenses of the church were provided for, and the debt reduced to about $5000.

About this time began the political excitements in this city and State which so much interfered with all kinds of benevolent and church work. Rev. James Morrow, now of Philadelphia, succeeded us in the pastorate and did most faithful and excellent service for three years. During this time the debt was not decreased but at the close of the pastoral term was a little larger than at the beginning. Bro. Morrow raised the interest on the mortgage two or three times which, considering the circumstances at that time, was doing well. The church received no missionary appropriations during this pastorate.

Rev. Dr. J. D. Adams, now of Syracuse, New York, was the next pastor and remained in charge only six months. During this time the debt was let alone but $500 was raised and the church frescoed, which added much to the beauty of the auditorium and Sunday-school room. This year the church received $400 from Missionary Society.

The next pastor was Rev. Dr. J. H. McCarty, now also of Syracuse, New York, who was in charge two years and a half, and done faithful work.

With the aid of missionary appropriations on an average of $800 a year, the church under Dr. McCarty kept the mortgage debt interest paid, but other smaller debts grew. The interest paid by the church from the first has been ten per cent on nearly all accounts This fact as in the payment of all debts has been a most annoying factor, requiring in ten years in interest account alone an amount almost equal to the whole debt.

After the departure of Dr. McCarty there was an interim of about four months. During this time the gravity of the situation became evident and, as presiding elder, we were called in counsel by the Trustees. It was evident that the church must have relief. The yearly effort to raise interest had grown monotonous, and the debt grew rather than diminished. Weekly meetings were held for some time, and the pulpit was supplied, the Bishops not yet having secured a pastor. It was decided to make a last and desperate effort to pay the debt. Bishop Haven, on his way from Texas, had met the Trustees and the management of the campaign was placed in the hands of the presiding elder. Bishop Haven subscribed $50. Bishop Andrews, at the annual conference, gave $50, which he afterwards increased to $100, and it was arranged that the matter would be brought before the Board of Bishops and an appeal to the Church secured. In March it was decided by the Trustees to ask to be left without a pastor for a year so that every dollar raised should go on the debt. In reply to the telegram to Bishop Andrews making this request he stated that the [present] pastor Rev. Dr. Bristor, a [illegible] man, had just [illegible] for the church or the request would have been granted. His pastorate began April 14 1880 Before he came nearly $2000 of the debt had been provided for mostly by reductions on the claims of Brothers Page and White, by themselves.

On his arrival Dr. Bristor took command and laid hold of the work with heroism and aided by General Bussey, Mr. Heath, the ladies of the church, and others in this city; and by Dr. Kynett, Mr. Tasker, Bishop Simpson, of Philadelphia, and others in the North, the work is finally done. Dr. Bristor deserves great credit for the persistency and ability with which he has prosecuted this work to the end. One thing that has greatly aided him was the fact that during the nine months of 1879, his salary ($900) was paid without embarrassment to the church. The Missionary Society paid $400, and the remainder, $500, was paid by General Bussey, with the understanding that this would leave the church free to work on the debt. Of the $850 paid the pastor during the six months of $1880, $400 was paid by the Missionary Society. The whole amount of debt paid the past year and a half, including the reductions on old claims, and also insurance bills, is something over $8000.

In behalf of all the old pastors and the many friends in and out of this city we congratulate this pastor and people upon their success under God in paying their church debt.

From San Antonio.

Rev. M. A. Daugherty, of San Antonio, Texas, gives the following account of the good work accomplished in the church under his care:

Our new church in San Antonio Texas, was opened Sunday, June 13. We began our work here from the foundations, one year ago last January. The population of the city, about 20,000, is fully one third infidel, Jewish or Roman Catholic Germans. Another third are Mexican and colored. The remaining third are white Americans, and of this latter a large proportion are Romanists.

Infidels, Jews, and Papists control three fourths of the moneyed interests of the city, and their ideas largely shape all public interests and sentiment. It is unfriendly soil for Protestantism, and the few churches here find support difficult and religious life very feeble. The demoralization caused by the general desecration of the Sabbath is an overwhelming tide. There is an important lobe of the people, which we can reach more easily than churches heretofore on the ground, and it is expected that this element will increase. A number of intelligent members of our church have settled here, and many others from Methodist homes, schools, and congregations. We conclude that our church had a mission here, and with the sole object of blessing the community and reinforcing Protestant churches by adding another needed agency, "in the name of the Lord we set up our banners." We have gathered a respectable congregation and Sabbath-school. We have built a house of worship that will seat 500 people, and last Sabbath threw it open to the public. The church is of stone, and finely trimmed with cut stone. It has an audience room, chapel, and gallery so arranged that all can be used as one room, or shut off into separate rooms. The woodwork is finished in native colors, with walnut mouldings. The walls are beautifully frescoed and the windows of stained glass—a model of convenience, cheerfulness, and beauty. Many have declared it the finest public building in the city, inside and out.

Including the site, the very finest in the city, the enterprise has cost us $9,454. Of this sum $7,196 has been paid: a loan of $1,500 of the Church Extension society for six years and good subscriptions cover all present indebtedness. Besides, we have good assets that will pay a large proportion of the loan before it is due. The inside lacks only the pews of being complete. It is seated with chairs, but we hope soon to put in the pews. The tower and two class-rooms are unfinished. We thus record our gratitude to God and our friends by whose help we enter these "courts with praise," and add another important outpost to our Zion.

The Jesuits in France.

The Republic of France, as a measure of self defence against their seditious influence against its existence, decreed the expulsion of the Jesuits. Up to July 1 forty-nine perfects of departments had resigned their offices to avoid participation in the execution of the law. The government promptly appointed successors, and by the use of police and the military, ejected the Jesuits from their domiciles and closed them up, where they had sullenly refused to obey the decree until compelled by force. Large crowds of sympathizers with that religious order of the Catholic church assembled, but the officers of the government had prepared for riotous demonstrations and provided sufficient force to render them futile. Several Jesuit establishments will institute legal proceedings for violating domicile and infringing liberty, but it is scarcely probable that these enemies of human progress will be able to successfully resist their ejectment. Showing the intense feeling, a Paris dispatch says that M. Constans, Minister of the Interior and of Public Worship, received a letter threatening him with assassination in the name of the Sacred Heart.

Not After Titles.

Rev. Miles Proctor, of Athens, Miss., writes: "I am a poor worker, and have to hoe cotton for a living. I have six charges, and one of them gives monthly the large sum of eighty-five cents. I have seen a piece in the ADVOCATE about preachers building churches. A man can say anything when he is in a fat field, but put him out where he has got Baptists to contend with, and Southern Methodists all the time talking to the members and telling them they are in the wrong church, then let that brother build a church. That is the way some of our preachers love to make themselves look large in conference. I have belonged to the Methodist Church fifty-one years, and been trying to preach forty-one years. I never thought about joining another church in my life. I don't believe in those brothren who are always looking after the titles."

The Albany Journal says: "One of the most eminent Bishops of the Episcopal Church is a Democrat. When he heard that General Garfield was nominated, he took occasion to say that he knew him and admired him as one of the best and purest men in the Republic. 'And,' said he, 'I congratulate you upon the wisdom of the convention. Whatever others may do, you may be sure that at least one Democrat will vote for him.' Another clergyman of this city, who was a classmate with the General said: 'I am glad beyond expression that the convention has nominated General Garfield. He is a pure and noble man, and has been pure and noble from his youth up. It would afford me great pleasure to say so publicly on any appropriate occasion. Indeed, I so admire the man and deem him to combine so many elements of true greatness and personal virtue, that I would be quite willing to make a speech in his favor before your club at any time.'"

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Bishop Warren has been quite ill since his Southern trip.

—Bishop Keener of the M. E. Church, South, whose home is in this city is sick.

—Rev. W. J. Grant, of the Austin Conference is now manager of the Iron Age published in Austin, Texas.

—Ram Chunder Bose, lay delegate to the late General Conference from India is lecturing throughout the West, and is everywhere welcomed.

—Rev. Richard S. Rust, President of Cincinnati Wesleyan College has received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Ohio Wesleyan University.

—Rev. J. A. Ivy, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, supplies Ames Church, in this city, during the absence of the pastor on his summer vacation.

—Wesleyan University parts with Dr Foss with regret and yet in hearty words of commendation gives him up for the high office to which the General Conference elected him.

—Bishop Merrill accompanied by his wife sailed from New York July 3d. He is to preside at the various annual conferences and mission meetings in Europe and in India. He will spend the winter in India

—General Cyrus Bussey has been again elected President of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce. For several years he has held this important position, which fact indicates his high standing among the chief business men of this city.

—Rev. Dr. G. R. Bristor, pastor of Ames Church in this city left last Wednesday for three months' vacation in the North. He has engaged to act as pastor of a Philadelphia Church during the three months beginning the second Sunday in July.

—Rev. Dr. L. Nippert, of Bremen, Germany, who has in charge our publishing interest there, sailed for home last week. He was a delegate to the General Conference. While in America he raised the $2000 necessary to free the German Publishing House of debt.

—Zion's Herald says of the new Missionary Secretary Dr. C. H. Fowler, who recently attended the East Maine conference: "He had a very warm welcome from the stalwart brethren toward the rising sun, and they greatly enjoyed his visit. The old missionary triumphs of the best days of Dr. Durbin seem to be about to return under Dr. Fowler. For the great cause's sake, entrusted to his hands, we heartily pray for the divine benediction upon him."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. Collins, Homewood: "Our Sunday-school was started by Rev. J. W. Parks in 1876, and has from 20 to 25 pupils. We have had a nice time."

A. Handy, Evergreen: "I held my second quarterly conference at St. James church. Elder D. A. Williams was with me, and we were thankful for it."

Rev. J. B. Smith, Pass Christian, reports that a Sunday-school exhibition was held Wednesday and Thursday, June 30 and July 1. About $40 were realized for the church. The church and Sunday-school are doing well.

G. W. Cox, Okolona: "Union Grove Sunday-schools celebrated the centennial. Our pastor, Rev. L. L. Shumpert, made an earnest talk for the S. S. Union. Collection $14 39. Miss Agnes Mayo read one of the best essays I ever heard."

Henry York, Elijah Chapel: "The church and Sunday-school are in a prosperous condition. Centennial on the 30th was a glorious day. A collection of $4 was taken. We intend to do all we can for Shaw University. We intend to raise money by subscription for it."

J. W. Parks, Canton: "We commenced our protracted effort on the 3d of June. The following is the result; 47 converts, 5 reclaimed. The church is thriving spiritually. The present management of the Sabbath-school is excellent. The enrollment, I think, is more than 125. On centennial day the church was like a flower garden, having been artistically decorated by the young ladies."

P. Bine, Aberdeen: "Our protracted meeting resulted in 18 conversions and 31 accessions to the church. Our second quarterly meeting was held on the 12th and 13th of June, and we had a pleasant time. The elder preached Sunday night and administered the sacrament to 215 communicants. Elder's collection, $12; receipts for the quarter for benevolent purposes, $15. Adults baptized, 17; infants, 14; additions to the church, 37."

A. K Davis, Lauderdale: "When I came to this charge there was not a Sunday-school organized on the work. I have 4 organized and in a promising condition. I had some difficulty in getting teachers. To get persons that are qualified to teach is out of the question. We did the best we could with the thought that if God would have a Sunday-school in this section He must take such material as we have to build it up."

S. Thomas, Mayersville: "There had been no preaching in the church in this place for thirteen months until the second Sunday of May last. For some unknown reason the minister who had the church under his charge failed to preach. At the last Annual Conference Mayersville was left to be supplied. At the district conference, held at Jackson, in February, I was sent. The church was found closed—having been taken for debt and sold at sheriff's sale. It has been open for the last three months, on account of the public schools, the teacher paying ten dollars a month rent. During that time we were able to have preaching; but the school has stopped, and we expect the church to be closed again. The members have nearly all left, but will return as soon as they can get a place to worship. The Sunday-school numbers fifty pupils, and the cry of the children against being turned out is going up like the cry of the children of Israel in Egypt. We sincerely hope that the sister churches will unite in aiding us. The amount required is $350, and we hope with kind assistance and the blessing of God to be able to raise it. All money should be sent to Rev. Simon Thomas, Rolling Fork, Sharkey Co., Miss."

LOUISIANA.

A. Hilton, Cheneyville: "We have completed, on a piece of deeded land, six and a half miles below Cheneyville, a fine M. E. church. We dedicated it on the 13th ult., and a large number of people attended. A beautiful sermon was preached by Rev. S. H Cooper, of the M. E. Church, South, and a collection was taken up after the sermon amounting to $56.15, after which the trustees delivered up the church to be dedicated, and after reading, prayer was offered by Rev. A. Hilton. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, a good sermon was preached by Revs. W. Brooks and M. Wallace, after which a collection of $12.85 was taken. We have God on our side."

A. Moore, LaTeche: "During the General Conference our people in this section watched the proceedings with great interest, and felt it a grand treat to have the paper and its present editor sent back to us. May God bless the editor in his good work. Our work in this part of the vineyard is growing brighter and brighter every day. We have just closed our protracted meeting with about 20 converts. On the 6th ult. I baptized 8 persons. Our church was crowded. Administered the Lord's supper to 75, and received 11 into the church. 20 have been added to the church this year. We are pushing the work for the Master. Pray for us."

TEXAS.

Wade Hamilton, Brewer's Hill: "In a short meeting, just closed, we were made glad by the accession of 35 souls."

Henry Christmas, Corpus Christi: "Our little flock will grow rapidly. Collections are small. Prospects are good. Baptized 3."

J. Jarmon, Giddings: "We are not doing much. We are preparing for a protracted meeting. Times have been very hard. I hope to have great success."

R. H. Jones, Burleson: "The railroad is now within about 26 miles of Caldwell, and the company thinks it will reach here by the last of July, and we are trying our best to get a church lot there now."

A. R. Noris, Victoria: "This is a live church. There has been a continuous accession of members. Rev. M. Henson was with us May 22-23, and we were greatly strengthened by his visit. The centennial was a grand occasion, and we raised $4.10."

Teuolia Edwards, Mt. Vernon Church, Houston: "The Sunday-school Centennial Service was observed in our school May 30th, and we had a grand day of it. The church was decorated for the occasion, and every thing that pertained to the service was performed. A great number were out to witness the scene."

W. H. Jackson, San Feilpe: "Lewis Lane will hold a camp-meeting on the San Felipe circuit at Laryer's Church, opening July 22. It is nine miles south-west of Hempstead. We will be thankful to Rev. E. Lee to attend and bring as many as possible. Rev. F. C. Moore, P. E., will be there. Provision will be made for all that come from a distance."

J. C. Akers, Crockett: "The M. E. Church was planted at this place within the last two months. I came here and commenced teaching a private school, and being a deacon and a member of the M. E. Church, I began a protracted meeting and had thirty odd converts. After conversing with some of the leading colored men, at their request I opened a church, received 24 members, and sent for Presiding Elder Walter Rippetoe who came and organized it. We bought a lot, have lumber to build a small church, it is on the ground, and work will commence at once."

TENNESSEE.

Wm. Dwegans, Memphis Circuit: "My work is in a prosperous condition. Our Sunday-school numbers over 150, and is improving all the time. I have collected some money for benevolent causes. I have baptized 45 children, received 12 in full connection, and there has been 4 deaths. We are asking for a better time. Pray for us."

Jesse P. Price, Mason: "Our third quarter closed on the 6th inst., which was a glorious occasion. Our beloved Presiding Elder W. S. Butler was at his post, and preached with great acceptability. 150 partook of the Lord's Supper, 38 members paid 25 cents, 28 were received into full connection, 12 joined the church, one convert since last quarter. The reports of the leaders showed that the circuit is coming to the front. The Centennial was observed on the 30th of May all around the circuit and will be long remembered. $4.80 was raised on the occasion. Our Sunday-school work is yet blooming. Our preparatory school has had good success this session. I have held 4 Sunday-school institutes this quarter. During our quarter our elder received a dispatch that one of his children was dying. Since then I received a notice that two of his children were dead and others very sick. Pray for him."

ARKANSAS.

I. G. Pollard, Lonoke: "The meeting announced in your last number to be held in Richwoods, is a camp meeting, not a conference meeting. Glad to say Bro. Linning is doing well at Devall's Bluff. Held the best quarterly meeting there on the second Sabbath of June that I ever held at that place. They paid my fare back to Little Rock. This being the largest collection ever raised for the Presiding Elder—$1 95."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

There are immense fields of ice in the Northern seas.

Republicans of third Vermont district nominated W. W. Grant for Congress.

West Virginia Republicans nominated George C. Sturgess, of Morgantown, for Governor.

If all the missings be added to the known loss by the Sewanhoka disaster, the total would be sixty-two.

Republicans of the fifth Iowa district nominated Hon. John A. Kasson for Congress; sixth district, M. E. Cutts.

The first meeting of the International Society for Investigating and Promoting the Science of Teaching, will be held at the Thousand Island Park the 16-21 of August.

In the late British elections the London School Board was sustained by a Liberal majority of 140,000. The Tories unsuccessfully attempted to cut down educational expenses, and to substitute denominational schools for the generous system now in force.

Capt. A. S. McClure has been nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the eighteenth district of Ohio. Major George W. Steele, of Marion, Ind., has been nominated in the eleventh district of Indiana. Major William H. Calkins in the thirteenth district of Indiana, Hon. Benjamin F. Marsh in the tenth district of Illinois.

State Senator John K. Stoneman, of McGregor, Iowa, a life-long Democrat, spoke at a Republican ratification meeting there. He said: "I believe that Mr. Garfield is an honest man, and if any charges shall be made against him during the campaign, which I hope there will not, I want to give my word, from what little I know of him, that he is a good-principled man; and if he is beaten for President I hope it will be upon loftier grounds than any personal charges of that kind." Judge Reuben Noble congratulated the Republicans on the nomination of so great and so good a man as Gen. Garfield.

The last steamer from the south coast brings the details of the capture of Tacua by the Chilians. The allies fought desperately, but were completely defeated, losing in killed, wounded and unaccounted for about 6000 men. Among the Peruvian superior officers killed were Colonels Comacho and McLean and Gen. Perez. The list of subordinates killed and wounded is very large. The Chilians admit the loss of nearly 4000. 2000 of the defeated Peruvians under Montero were retreating in one direction, while Campero with a fragment of the contingent was making his way homeward, ostensibly to reorganize his army, but really beaten and disheartened. The number of Bolivians who came out of the fight cannot exceed 1000. The victorious Chilians, 6000 strong, attacked Arica by land and sea on the fifth. Their naval force consisted of six ships of war. It was reported and believed in Lima on the eighth that Arica had fallen.

Says the Nashville Christian Advocate: "From time to time a party of colored people passes through Nashville bound to Kansas, or some other Western land of promise. Good will come of all such movements in the end. Knowledge is increased when many run to and fro. Experience is the only teacher whose lessons will be received. Free intercommunication between the people of all parts of our great country would do more than any thing else to dispel illusions, spike the guns of demagogues, make common sense take the place of fanaticism, and give us lasting peace."

After the Battle.

BY REV. E. CORDOZO.

All is quiet on the Ohio! Doubtless, Mr. Editor, you echo, "All quiet on the Mississippi." The smoke has cleared away, we find no dead on the field; there are, doubtless, a few wounded ones, but Time will prove, as usual, a sufficient healer. Only let those who stand on the walls of Zion give their trumpet no uncertain sound, and the hosts of Israel will still be found at their post. "Woe be unto the pastors who scatter the sheep of my pasture! saith the Lord." Ambition misleads and rivalry excites; but let the sober second thought speak, and patience will subdue discontent; modesty restrains censure; and hope supersedes doubt. The outlook to us is promising; the promotion of colored men to the highest place in the gift of the church is only a question of time. Opportunity too, is ours; these will secure the fitness so essential to a true success. We are apt to forget that the office does not make the man. 'Tis true that it affords chances for the development of gifts, but it cannot create them. The "root of the matter" must exist before the fruit can appear.

We have our literary and theological institutions which, with the study, the pulpit, and experience, supply us with the materials and scaffolding with which we may construct character. It is as strange, as it is true, that we too commonly allow the taunts of sister denominations to goad us to discontent! There are several facts that ought always to take the sting out of them, viz: Our superior faculties for education, together with the material aid we receive in our pastoral work, and in the construction of churches. Also, that it is the higher standard of fitness for office, [illegible] than color prejudice, that [illegible] made promotions slower among [illegible]. We know that we have men [illegible] us who would long ago have [illegible] made bishops had they been [illegible] of our sister denominations. [illegible] would the distinction have [illegible] them any abler, or better [illegible]. It sometimes has a con[illegible]. Again, we are differ[illegible] ; we are in ecclesias[illegible] with our white breth[illegible] this just and expe[illegible] desire to continue that [illegible]. A colored bishop must [illegible] as general a superin[illegible] of the work as a white one. By its Mission[illegible] Aid, and Church [illegible] Societies, and its cheap [illegible] literature in the form [illegible] and periodicals, the [illegible] has amply evinced [illegible] devotion. This is done [illegible] when we become [illegible] and it [illegible] another [illegible] and their own [illegible] dis[illegible] we [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] will be [illegible] in [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] We [illegible] He [illegible]

ing will be needed in October when the next session of the Medical department begins. It should be well furnished, both the dormitories and the school-rooms. Five hundred dollars will meet a large part of this expense. The Freedmen's Aid Society is burdened with other large enterprises, and a large indebtedness. This society has helped us grandly in the past, and will continue to aid us in the future. But it cannot unless the church furnishes the means. Our conference can help. It is pledged to raise five hundred dollars this year. Ten cents a member will more than secure that amount. Will the presiding elders, preachers, and members unite in the effort to raise for this purpose, ten cents a member on all our charges. How many of our preachers will report this amount at conference? The collections can be sent to Dr. Rust at Cincinnati, or to the undersigned at Nashville. Credit will be given to all sending their collections through the ADVOCATE.

Congratulations and A Call for Work.

BY REV. I. G. POLLARD.

I congratulate the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN, in the re-election of its editor, and the very high endorsement the General Conference gave him by having the secretary cast the ballot. What more could we ask? We are satisfied. But there is another phase to this subject, and that is the paper must be supported. We want to send at least 10,000 subscribers. We have a church membership of less than 400 in the White River district, but if we have made no mis-count we have between 125 and 150 subscribers. This is an average of more than one for every four members and probationers. But we can do better and must. Let him that readeth understand. In our work Baptists, Africans, Methodists, Presbyterians and sinners take the SOUTHWESTERN. Why? Because it is food to the hungry, it is light to them that walk in darkness, it is one of the best, if not the best, paper, so they say, that is possible for them to get. But notwithstanding these facts, we must increase the number of subscribers:

1st. Because it is Dr. Hartzell coming into our homes once a week, having with him a number of other brethren who tell you of their work.

2d. Because the paper is sound in its teachings. Though small in size, as compared with some other sheets, it is large enough and is filled with hot shot every week against every form of sin, especially the great sin of race caste.

3d. It is very cheap—cheaper than any book you can buy except the Bible.

4th. The preachers can not do without this great lever among the people to help him. It will help him in preaching, in saving sinners, in building up Sunday-schools, in raising finances, in making the people one for Chist in thought and purpose.

Let the pastor and presiding elder of each charge see that every family, black and white and all the way between, subscribe for this messenger of mercy. Brethren, preach about it, talk about it, and commence now. See who will renew this fall—who will subscribe. Go to the people of all churches, take the paper with you and plead until you succeed.

Brethren, the White River district must have more subscribers per membership than any other within the patronizing conferences, and the Little Rock Conference must lead all the conferences in the South. We are only in our third year, but at the close of the second we led the Arkansas conferences in our benevolent collections. We had as well let our people bear away the honors as to allow others to take them. Work, work early and late; work all the time and pray for more subscribers, and God will give them.

Teachers' Institutes in Tennessee.

DEAR EDITOR—In company with Rev. H. S. Bennett, of the Fisk University, and Z. T. Thistle, of the Normal Theological Institute of this city, I have been holding teachers' institutes for the colored teachers of Tennessee. We held these beginning at Springfield, then to Paris, Franklin, Columbia, Athens, Ala., Tullahoma, McMinnville, Winchester and Fayetteville. For four years past we have given a month or six weeks to these institutes.

1st. We notice that the intelligent citizens of Tennessee have either looked on quietly or have spoken favorably, and acted heartily in co-operation or indorsing our work. 2d. There is less disposition to put a low estimate upon the ability of the colored people to acquire an education. 3d. There is a more favorable view taken of the effects of education on the colored laborer. 4th. There is a more hopeful outlook, taken by the colored people themselves, of their present condition as compared with the past. 5th. They are becoming more self-reliant. In one place we found them talking of buying school property formerly used by the whites, costing nine thousand dollars; at another they are arranging to buy ground and build a high school; and at Athens, Ala., we found them at work for a brick building, making the brick and arranging to put up the walls of a school house, which will take about two hundred thousand bricks. Others are to help finish the building, but the colored people take it as their part to put up the walls. 6th. A more general desire for better teachers, and more intelligent preachers is very manifest among them. There are, however, very many who still think the old way is good enough for them, and oppose all new notions, to them, of religious worship and intelligent exposition of the word, and clear instruction of Christian life and duty. These will have less and less influence on the colored people. The car of progress has started, and ignorance and prejudice, whether in politics, social life, the school-room, or in the pulpit, must clear the track or go under. While there is much to lament in the condition of the colored people in the parts of the State we have visited, and much of the old life still hanging around them, yet the future is full of hope for improvement, and those, who oppose the progress of their people, lest they lose their positions and power, will soon find that the advancement is too real, and the progress too genuine to be checked by croakers, who are either unable or unwilling to keep pace with the onward march of their people.

Letter from Lodi.

LODI LANDING, Miss., June 25, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—On the 30th of May, the Raikes Centennial services were held at Holly Grove Church. The bell was rung at 6 a. m., in honor of Raikes; at 8:30 Teachers' and Officers' prayer meeting was held, and at 10 the following addresses were delivered: Relation of Sabbath-school to the Church, by Wm. Blake; How Sabbath should be spent, by O. J. Taylor; Heathenism at Home and Abroad, by Hilliard Golden; Raikes and the Development of his Great Work, by A. S. Jackson.

At 11:30 Bro. J. C. Houston, one of our young local preachers of much promise, preached an interesting sermon in the interest of the Sunday-school Union. At 3 o'clock p. m., there was held a Centennial Jubilee. More than five hundred verses were repeated by pupils who had learned them. Many interesting questions were asked about the meaning, as passage after passage was recited. Mrs. Laura A. Jackson read an essay on Religious Education, and Mrs. Julia Granderson on Mothers' Work. Vesper service at 6. Services opened at 7 by singing, "What shall the Harvest be," and the writer preached from the words, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." In response to an inquiry by Bro. Houston some forty pupils promised to seek the Savior, and all present promised to enter upon the new century with more zeal for the cause of Christ. Many sweet and appropriate songs were sung at each service. The house was crowded. The day will not soon be forgotten. It left its impress for good upon the hearts of the people.

The collection for the Sunday-school Union was $12.05.

If I do not intrude I would like to make a few observations concerning these good people, which I have gathered from six years' acquaintance with them.

First. They are awake on the educational subject. During the [illegible] sessions the school, which is [illegible] into two departments, is [illegible] the most part with bright and promising children, and when this is ended they untied their private purse strings each year since I have known them for the maintenance of a school in their midst They are represented at the Atlanta University, Central Tennessee College and Alcorn University, and if the Lord bless their fields some of the young men will go to Shaw University. One positive evidence of their increasing intelligence is their increasing appreciation of the SOUTHWESTERN ADVOCATE.

Secondly. They are, I think, progressing religiously. There is an annual transplantation of pupils from the Sunday-school, which is under the faithful supervision of Bro. Hilliard Golden, into the Church, and among them are some of the brightest and most useful members. Many of the older members who have heretofore regarded religion as an emotion only, begin now to realize that they must do something to inherit Heaven.

Though circumscribed in their resources they are comparatively liberal. Last year their already comfortable house of worship was nicely ceiled at an expense of more than a hundred dollars, also last Spring the old floor was replaced by a better one at a cost of some $60, and now the new pastor has succeeded in collecting means to put in better seats which will cost $75. They respond quite liberally to all the conference claims. In short this place is one of the strong holds of Methodism in the Yazoo Valley.

Rev. I. B. Griffin, the new pastor, is much beloved for his Christian zeal and enterprise and the people will do their duty to him.

Respectfully,

A. S. JACKSON.

Information Wanted.

We give place with pleasure to the following from J. C. Burke, editor of the Wesleyan Alumni Record, of Middletown, Conn.:

The alumni of Wesleyan University have a bond of union which those of no other American college possesses. We refer to the influence of the Alumni Record. This record contains, so far as the facts can be obtained for publication, the condensed history of each alumnus, stating occupation since graduating, honorary degrees conferred, family records, latest addresses, etc.

The honor of first collecting and compiling the records of all the graduates belongs to Orange Judd, A. M. It was through his persevering efforts that in 1869 the Alumni Record appeared for the first time. Four years later this edition was revised and completed to date by the arduous labors of a committee of three—Professors C. T. Winchester, Wm. North Rice, and G. Brown Goode. There is now in preparation another edition, which will contain in addition to the records of the graduates and list of honorary alumni, the names of all former students not graduates, with present addresses and other information, and also a bibliographical record of the more important literary and scientific work done by graduates and non-graduates of the College.

Considerable material has already been gathered for the completion of the records of the alumni, but information is still desired concerning a few from whom as yet nothing has been heard. For the interest of friends—alumni or others—who may be able to send any information concerning these to the Alumni Record, Middletown, Conn., we give below a list of each with the year of graduation and the latest address:

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

July 11, 1880.—THE FALL AND THE PROMISE.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 3: 1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin."—Rom. 5: 12.

TOPIC.—The Fall of Man.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Intermediate.—In regard to the habitation that God had prepared for man, three things are to be noticed. 1. That man was not placed in it for idle enjoyment merely. 2. In the midst of the garden were two remarkable trees. The tree of life our first parents, although there was no prohibition against so doing, did not partake. 3: 22. The tree of the knowledge of good and evil obtained its name from the event rather than from any quality of its fruit. 3. God created for Adam an help "meet" for him—a companion every way worthy to be his life associate.

Whether the story of the temptation is to be understood allegorically, or as veritable history, and, if the latter, whether the devil assumed the form of a serpent, or whether he entered into a living one, are some of the questions that have been raised in regard to this account of the fall. The identity of the serpent with the devil is assumed with more or less directness until in Revelation, in plain terms, it is declared: "That old serpent, called the devil and Satan." Had it not been for this outward solicitation the fruit of that forbidden tree forever would have remained unplucked. Eve felt that there was a fretting restriction in Eden. In the same way many a boy has been contented with his lot, never dreaming of questioning the wise limitations put upon him by a loving father, until some crafty offspring of Eden has suggested to him that his lot must be a hard one, without the liberty of partaking enjoyments in which hundreds of others freely indulge. If the devil only can sow the seeds of discontent, he will succeed in destroying any Eden. The woman—as others since often have done—made the mistake of parleying with the tempter.

No doubt the woman thought that the serpent referred to a divine omniscience that should be hers upon the eating of the fruit, whereas he meant that she should know what evil was by woeful experience and chuckled over her misapprehension of the facts, as now he does over the same misconception with which at the present day he leads the young astray. With the woman he gave weight to what he said by affirming that God knew of its truth. He made it appear that God had been deceiving them, and had kept back the highest good in order to keep these creatures of his from becoming his equals!

Instead of the grateful sense of perception of wonderful wisdom, for which they were looking, "they knew that they were naked." They were increased in knowledge, but it was in a knowledge of their own guilt and shame. No sooner had his children gone astray than God came to seek them. He did not wait for them to call upon him, but he called for them. Adam's real place of safty was not behind the trees, but at the feet of the God whose command he had broken. Adam shows his fall from true nobility of character by meanly attempting to throw all the blame upon the woman, and the woman again by shifting it upon the serpent. The serpent was first cursed because he was most guilty. The two things that were to be the mark of this curse were that it should crawl upon its belly and eat dust all the days of its life. It is the head of that serpent that is to be crushed, and, quite plainly, by one who was to be a seed of the woman. Of course there is no one in all the long line of centuries since who answers to this prophecy, except the Lord Jesus Christ, and he was "manifested that he might destroy the works of the devil." The sentence of death was spoken upon them both. "Dust thou art, and dust shalt thou return." They did not immediately die a physical death. They did, however, become "dead in trespasses and sins," and the seeds of physical death then planted, which in due course of time brought forth their harvest of corruption. From that day death had dominion over them. They were driven out of Eden—lest they also should put forth their hands, and eat of the tree of life, and so live forever.

CONSTIPATION has been called the father of disease, therefore it should not be regarded as a trifling ailment. It is quite as necessary to remove impure accumulations from the bowels as it is to eat or sleep, and no health can be expected where a costive habit of body prevails. Take a half-tablespoonful of Simmons Liver Regulator after each meal, the bowels will be gently moved, as naturally as if no medicine had been taken. Regularity in taking the medicine daily will effect a permanent cure.

"Have used Simmons Liver Regulator for Constipation of the Bowels, caused by a temporary Derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always when used according to the directions, with decided benefit. I think it is a great medicine for the Derangement of the Liver; at least such has been my personal experience in the use of it.

HIRAM WARNER, Chief Justice of Georgia."

The Evangelical Hymnal, with Tunes, compiled by the Rev. Charles Cuthbert Hall and Sigismond Lasar, has just been issued by A. S. Barnes & Co., New York and Chicago. It is an attempt to adopt worthy hymns to tunes of equal worth.

An Unusual Record.

The life of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., was saved by the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, which now bears his name. What this wonderful remedy did for him it has done for thousands, and, we believe, will continue to do for those afflicted with kidney, liver or urinary troubles of any kind. If any reader has any organic trouble, this remedy will prove "a friend in need."

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The American Journal of Microscopy for June has an article on Fresh Water Sponges. P. O. box 2852 New York.

Cincho-Quinine cures Chills and Fever.

PREVENT

Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT.
The Healthful Seltzer Water for a hundred years or more,
Has been held of all Earth's fountains, the most potent to restore;
But why across the ocean this boon of Nature bring
When the sick man in his chamber can extemporize the Spring?
The bottled Seltzer Water—so our leading chemists say—
Parts with half its healing virtues, and turns vapid on the way;
While TARRANT'S RARE APERIENT, from a Powder changed to foam,
Is an instantaneous Seltzer Spring in every sufferer's home.

A FEW SHORT YEARS.

A few short years for showing love to Jesus;
For doing, day by day, His holy will.—
For working actively, if He should wish it,
For resting, if He bids us, calm and still.

A few short years! Ah, yes, we have not many
In which to manifest denying zeal:
But yet enough to prove to all around me,
By words and actions, what we truly feel.

Shall they be wasted—spent in selfish folly?
In doing nothing for our gracious Lord?
Not even offering a cup of water,
Nor speaking faithfully a passing word?

A few short years! How soon they will be ended!
How soon our earthly life will cease to be,
And we shall stand, our one probation ended,
Upon the threshold of Eternity.

What will our feelings be if we have never Done aught for Christ upon this transient shore?
For if we have been helped to do a little,
How often we shall wish it had been more!

Leopards in Pay for Learning.

BY EDWARD S. MORRIS.

I send the electrotype plate, representing a little boy from the jungles of Africa in the immediate rear of the Negro Republic of Liberia. The story is simply this: It was at sunset one beautiful Sabbath day, as I stood for the last time on the [illegible] at Monrovia, waiting for my [illegible] to take me out to the anchored [illegible] at sea. A little native boy [illegible] me, bowing low, but with [illegible] firmly fixed upon me. I [illegible] to stand up and never bow [illegible] man (believing that to be orthodox to begin with). Understanding [illegible] actions more than words, he [illegible] up. I then said, "What do [illegible] want?" In broken, disjointed [illegible]—the best the little fellow [illegible]—and pointing out to [illegible] ship, said: "You God-man, [illegible] me big America, big ship." [illegible] for?" I asked. He answered, "Me learn big English [illegible]

LEMONS,

A Wonderful Medicine!

A RECENT DISCOVERY BY A PROMINENT SOUTHERN PHYSICIAN.

A PLEASANT LEMON DRINK.

REGULATES THE LIVER, BOWELS, STOMACH AND KIDNEYS.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR ALL CATHARTIC AND LIVER PILLS.

An interview with a number of St. Louis' most prominent citizens as to the merits of this New Medicine, a few whose names appear below. They have been using Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir personally and in their families for twelve or eighteen months. They pronounce it a most wonderful Medicine, and recommend it to the PUBLIC as the only Pleasant, Thoroughly Reliable and Economical remedy they have ever used for the diseases for which it recommended:

Judge Alex. —. Davis, Fourth and Chestnut streets.
Judge John P. Hudgens, 102 N. Fourth street.
Hon. John I. Martin, office opposite Four Courts.
T. P. Grastey, Law office, 1107 Clark avenue.
Capt. J. A. K. Stotts, of the St. Louis Beef Canning Company.
J. T. Morris, Real Estate Office, Sixth and Chestnut streets.
Dr. L. C. Mutz, 1412 N. 9th street.

Lemon Elixir cures all Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Indigestion, Bilious, Malarial, Remittent or Intermittent Fevers, Sallow Complexion, Pimples or Blotches on the skin, Impure Blood, Foul Stomach, Pain in the Back, Kidney Disease, Loss of Appetite, Weakness or Debility, Chills, Colds, and all other diseases caused by a torpid or diseased liver; nine-tenths of all diseases of the South and West are caused by the failure of the liver to do its duty. Show me a sick man or woman and I will show you a torpid or diseased liver. It is an established fact that the fresh juice of lemons, when combined with other liver tonics, produce the most desirable result upon the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, such is Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

A Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c.

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

Dr. Harter:—Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefits his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

Nothing Equals the New La. Remedy,

a product of the swamps of Louisiana, discovered by the Indians. It contains no poison, and is delicious to the taste. Unequaled as SOOTHING SIRUP for children. It has been sent to more than twenty States, and to England, and is everywhere winning golden opinions.

Fourteen pages of names of Home References and piles of documents steadily increasing, attest its extraordinary merits.

From the same vegetable product of our swamps, LIFE TONIC is prepared for chills and fever, Debility, Scrofula, Diarrhœa, poor appetite, etc. The epidemic in New Orleans of 1878 proved it a perfect preventive of yellow fever and all other fevers. Contains NO poison. Sold by druggists and country merchants.

Travelers Should Not Forget

The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the

Louisville and Great Southern Railway,

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management. THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

NO NIGHT IN HEAVEN.

No night shall be in heaven, no gathering gloom
Shall [illegible] landscape ever come,
Or mournfully over fall in sadness o'er those Scenes
That breathe their fragrance through celestial bowers.

No night shall be in heaven—no dreadful hour
Of mental darkness, or the tempter's power;
Long, those skies no anxious clouds shall roll,
To dim the sunlight of the earnestured soul.

No night shall be in heaven. Forbid to sleep.
These eyes no more their painful vigils keep,
[illegible] fevered, their tears all wiped away,
[illegible] gone redeemed on eternal day.

No night shall be in heaven—no sorrow reign,
[illegible] anguish, no distracting pain.
[illegible] there,
[illegible] no winter of despair.

No night shall be in heaven, but endless noons
[illegible] declining sun, nor waning moon.
[illegible] the Lamb shall yield perpetual light,
[illegible] green and waters ever bright.
No night shall be in heaven, no darkened
[illegible]
[illegible] carelessness or the world,
[illegible] fresh, with love and truth
[illegible] with an immortal youth.

[illegible] in heaven: but night is here,
[illegible] night is there;
[illegible] now gone afoul,
[illegible] may yet impend.
[illegible] God I faith
[illegible] faithful
[illegible] homeworth on earth to me.

[illegible] Conference and [illegible] Southern Work.

BY REV. W. D. GODMAN, D.D.

New York, June 9, 1880.

MY DEAR DR. HARTZELL—Like many others, I followed the proceedings of the late General Conference with deep interest, especially in the belief that I am fully cognizant of the embarrassments and difficulties of our great work in the South. Those difficulties are chiefly not [illegible] And [illegible] expects to [illegible] with all the [illegible] good men [illegible] Conference [illegible] good things [illegible] the harvests [illegible] in the past and [illegible] op- [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to me.

Faith and Knowledge.

Human knowledge is from three sources—intuitions, reason and inspiration.

An intuition is a direct apprehension of the mind, by which we know a truth without effort or evidence. Such are the God-appointed relations of the soul to its surroundings, that we know to be true many things about us, of which no reason could instruct us, and of which no forms of denial can rob us. The existence of this intuitive power of the mind is now almost universally admitted by philosophers. All reasoning and all experience rest in certain fundamental truths or principles, not taught by experience or reason; but which are before them, and are the foundations on which they rest. Every true proposition carries the evidence of its truth in itself, or derives it from some other proposition on which it depends. The same is true of that other proposition, and so on forever, until some proposition is reached which is self-evident, that is, a first principle or truth. Now these self-evident truths are given by that intuitive judgment of the mind which we call intuition. These truths can all be tested by simple [illegible] on which philosophers have [illegible]; they are first truths, not derived by observation or experience; they are simple, each being a complete truth in itself: they do not admit of proof; the denial of them would involve us in [illegible], and they are universally [illegible] to be true. Examples of [illegible] truth are, that we exist; [illegible] have a personal identity; [illegible] every cause must have an [illegible] that Nature is uniform; the [illegible] of space and time—and so on. [illegible] any one of these it will be [illegible] it is a simple, self-evident [illegible] which cannot be demonstrated, disproved, and yet which [illegible] believes, accepts and [illegible], no matter what his age [illegible] or surroundings.

[illegible] of the faith faculty [illegible] soul to these self-evident [illegible] manifest. It is by this [illegible] they are grasped and [illegible]

[illegible] great source of knowledge [illegible]. The word [illegible] here [illegible] broadest sense, to include knowledge which [illegible] by logical deduction [illegible] from the [illegible] by the intuitions. [illegible] all knowledge of [illegible] degree, is what [illegible] mental or physical [illegible] be discovered or [illegible] The instrument used by [illegible] work is logic, by [illegible] known premises con[illegible]

[illegible] to give even a [illegible] reason in its [illegible] generation, prod[illegible] gone before, [illegible] conquests, until [illegible] implicitly [illegible] of the child. But [illegible] gained its tri[illegible] what faculty is it that [illegible] with method [illegible] power to the [illegible] work? [illegible] that the in[illegible] self-evident [illegible] example that the [illegible] greater than its parts, [illegible] of perception [illegible] facts, [illegible] and im[illegible] not [illegible] thought [illegible] the [illegible] man [illegible] by [illegible] evidence [illegible] essential [illegible] by what [illegible] these [illegible] be [illegible] the power of faith, by which all knowledge is made possible, and definite and useful.

The so-called positive scientists of to-day are prone to look upon faith as an orthodox whim. They demand that everything shall be analyzed and explained—or rejected. What absurdity! Who can analyze or explain the intuitions that lie at the foundation of all truth, and which make reasoning possible? The scientists must accept by faith that upon which every one of his premises rest; He must accept by faith every fact out of which he frames his premises, no matter whether that fact be a stone, a mountain, or a man; and by faith alone can he reach beyond the regions of sense, and grasp the conclusion toward which his premises point. Science without faith is an impossibility.

The third source of truth is inspiration. We use this word to include all knowledge which man can have from any source above and beyond himself. Here, again, no effort is made at classification, our inquiry having to do only with the manner of our receiving the truths of inspiration. It will not be necessary to discuss the exact limits of reason, in any great subject—as for example the existence of God. It is sufficient to remember that reason is limited, and that God has given by inspiration, truths which man could otherwise have never known. The richest and most blessed illustration of this is found in the Holy Scriptures.

It is in the reception of truth given by inspiration that the faith faculty comes out strongest and clearest. Not that intuitional knowledge is to be less relied upon in its sphere, or that reason is to be less active—not at all. As the eagle soars o'er mountain and plain, it does not, as its vision widens, and new and grander views are beheld forget its natural or acquired powers of flight. The wing is still relied upon for motion, and the skill born in the tempests of many storms is utilized with never-failing precision. So with man as he rises into the realm of inspiration, his intuitions are no less active and natural, he is no less an intelligent thinking being, but into his soul there has come a new power, bringing with it new thoughts and feelings and purposes, giving a new vigor, beauty and reality to his whole manhood.

From inspiration comes all the grand and glorious truths relating to man's future existence. Reason of itself can know nothing beyond the grave. It is from divine inspiration that we have the Bible with its revelations of God, of Man's future, of heaven and hell; of the cause and effects of sin, and its gracious remedy wrought out in the mediation of Christ. Inspiration reveals the work and office of the Holy Spirit in convincing the World of Sin, of righteousness and judgment to come, and of regener[illegible]tifying the believer [illegible] and bearing witness of [illegible] with God.

Now it [illegible] admitted that what reason cannot [illegible] faith can at first apprehend. Take, for example, the fact of a written revelation from God to man. Reason can, by studying the character of God conclude that a revelation is possible; and by studying the condition of man, needing moral light and guidance, and of God, infinite in wisdom and resources, reason can conclude that a revelation would be probable; but, it is only in the hand of faith that a revelation can be placed. Once received, all questions relating to authenticity, preservation and interpretation can be entered upon and the correctness of the faith which accepts it, verified. This illustration will serve for all truth received by inspiration—that truth can only at first be received by faith.

The universality of faith as essential to knowledge is taught by universal experience. Take the little child nestling in the arms of its mother, how simple and beautiful its faith! How delightful the faith of youth in the protection and care of home! How the attentive scholar catches every word from the lips of the teacher he loves. In maturer years it is the faith that man has in man that makes life endurable, or even possible. What would the records of history be without faith? or, to put it still stronger, there could be no record of events without faith. Take out faith as a factor in the commercial world and commerce is ruined, whether it be between nations, communities or men. Without faith, [illegible] what man's intellectual [illegible] would be ignorant of [illegible] subjects—in [illegible] be no social order [illegible] lies at the [illegible] affection, by [illegible] are real, [illegible] disasters to the individual, society and the world.

All knowledge, whether from intuitions, or logical deduction or inspiration, whether relating to man or God; whether in practical life or in the fields of science or literature or art, whether pertaining to the redemption of the body, the developement of the mind or the salvation of the soul; whether relating to time or eternity, all knowledge is made possible to the human soul and is utilized by [illegible]

Central Tennessee College Record.

Dr. Braden, President of Central Tennessee College, continues year by year to demonstrate his eminent fitness for the work of his important position. A late evidence of enterprise is the publication occasionally of the Central Tennessee College Record, a neat little paper devoted to College interests and news. No. 2 has come to hand. This number contains an account of the exercises of Commencement week, including a memorial sermon in memory of Bishop Gilbert Haven. We quote from the Record as follows:

RETROSPECT.

The College closes its fourteenth year most auspiciously. Since its organization over three thousand different students have been enrolled. Nearly one-third of them have engaged in teaching and tens of thousands have received the benefit of these labors in the school room.

Sunday-schools have been organized in connection with most of the day-schools of our students and many of them are doing good work in the Conferences of our own and other branches of Methodism.

The past year has been one of unusual prosperity to our College. In nearly every department there has been an increase in the number of students, and also in regularity of attendance.

The following is a summary of the enrollment for 1879-80:

College Classes	18
College Preparatory	18
Academic	12
Normal	173
English Course	91
Theological	50
Medical	22

OUR NEW BUILDING.

Two years ago Rev. Alexander Meharry and his brother, Rev. Samuel Meharry visited this city, and appreciating the importance of proper Medical instruction for colored students, and realizing the necessity of enlarged accommodations for the Medical Department of our College, selected a [illegible] the erection of a new building, a [illegible] near the other College [illegible] about two acres [illegible] completed and will be ready for use at the opening of our next session.

It is built of brick, four stories in height, sixty feet long, and forty feet wide. There are four rooms on the first floor, on the second the office, museum, and dwelling apartments; the third floor contains a large lecture room, recitation room and laboratory, and on the upper floor are rooms for the students.

From the tower a fine view of the city and surrounding country can be obtained.

This building has been erected by the generous donations of Rev. Samuel Meharry, his brothers Rev. Jesse Meharry, Hugh Meharry and the late Rev. A. Meharry, and his widow, together with liberal personal donations from Rev. Dr. R. S. Rust, Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

The building will be dedicated about the first of October next.

Wiley University.

The catalogue of this institution, at Marshall, Texas, for 1879-80, is at hand. This school was established by the Freedmen's Aid Society in 1873, and is one of the large number of schools of that splendid society which now bless the South.

The present faculty at Wiley University are Rev. W. H. Davis, A. M., Rev. T. W. Lincoln, A. M., and Miss S. G. Patton, and others. The course of study is ample and the building accommodations are first class. A three year's theological course is arranged for those who intend entering the ministry. The expense is moderate. Write to Rev. W. H. Davis, Marshall, Texas, for information.

Mississippi State Sunday-school Convention.

The Mississippi Methodist says: "The State Sunday-school Convention met in Meridian, Wednesday morning, July 7th, in the Presbyterian Church. Dr. H. F. Johnson, of Brookhaven, is the President; Wm. J. Brown, Secretary. The attendance of delegates, perhaps, is not as large as at last year's convention. The morning session was taken up in the appointment of committees, and in receiving reports. Only twenty-one counties in the State have county conventions organized, but this by no means represents the Sunday school work done. Some counties where the most is done are not represented here. Reports from some counties were full of interest, that from Attala being, we suppose, the best. We report only the proceedings of the first session."

An Abbeville, Miss., correspondent writes: "One of our friends has returned from Kansas. His expressions are satisfactory. It is a free State, and it has the best soil in the Northwest. Hogs are from eight to nine feet long, and weigh from 800 to 900 pounds. There are plenty of public schools and whites and blacks go to the same school."

A correspondent at Frelsburg, Texas, describes a school celebration held there last month. The children, preceded by the colored brass band, marched to a stand. The opening address was delivered by G. R. Smith, of Alleyton. The children were examined in their studies and acquitted themselves nicely.

The St. Landry Democrat says that District Judges had not under the old and have not under the new constitution of Louisiana, any authority to perform the marriage ceremony.

If correspondents desire to avoid errors in their printed communications, they must learn to write plainly; and especially is this true in regard to names of persons.

Pastors, send us six months subscribers. The paper and the premium book, from now to the end of the year, for $1.50.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Judge Don A. Pardee, of this city, returned last week from the North.

—Bishop Wiley spent last Sabbath in Omaha, on his way to the Pacific coast.

—Bishop Hurst was accorded a cordial reception at Ocean Grove, New Jersey, last week.

—Fifteen thousand people welcomed General Grant to Emporia, Kansas, on the fourth of July.

—Bishop Pierce, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is reported as improving in health.

—President I. N. Failor, of the New Orleans University, is spending his vacation at Goshen, Indiana.

—Philip G. Gillett, Esq., has been elected chairman of the Western Section of the Book Committee.

—Rev. Wm. P. Stowe, the newly elected Book Agent, has received the Doctorate of Divinity from a prominent Western college.

—Beloit College, Wisconsin, has conferred the degree of D.D. upon Rev. W. S. Alexander, President of Straight University, of this city.

—General Grant denies that he ever said that General Hancock would be elected, or that he had any intention of voting for him. He wil[illegible]ublican ticket.

—Re[illegible]sey, of Pittsburgh, recei[illegible] degree of D.D. at the last commencement of Allegheny College.

—Rev. A. A. Johnson, formerly of this State, has been transferred to the Austin Conference, and stationed at Fort Worth, Texas. He left Indiana for his new field last Monday.

—Bishop R. H. Cain, of the African M. E. Church is in the city. He preached in St. James Church and Union Bethel, of that denomination, last Sunday.

—The Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Lambuth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mission at Shanghai, arrived in San Francisco June 6th. They will spend the summer in this country.

—A special meeting of the General Council of the Reformed Episcopal Church, held in Philadelphia on the 30th ult., elected Rev. Edward Wilson, D. D., bishop of the Synod of Canada.

—Bishop Warren, in a private letter speaking of missionary work by women in the South, from house to house, says: "I desire that we should teach, besides religion, industry and civilization."

—A correspondent of the New Orleans Advocate (Church South) thus refers to Bishop Warren: "There is in his style a sparkle, freshness and classic finish much resembling his well-known Episcopal predecessor at Atlanta, who, within the range of my reading, was the finest newspaper letter-writer in America."

—Col. James Lewis, naval officer of New Orleans, has been suspended from office, and A. J. Dumont, president of the Republican State central committee, and a deputy collector, appointed his successor by President Hayes. Col. Lewis believes his support of Gen. Grant at the Chicago convention was the cause of his removal. Mr. Dumont is a faithful customs officer.

—The Methodists of Chicago gave Bishop Merrill a royal reception in that city before his departure for Europe, at the house of Rev. Dr. Arthur Edwards, editor of the Northwestern. The Bishop and his wife sailed July 6th from New York, to meet the conferences in Europe, and will then proceed to India by way of Bulgaria, holding the conferences in India during the winter. He expects to return to America next spring.

—The New York Advocate of July 8th, says: "Bishop Harris has received a telegram from Bishop Simpson stating that in consequence of the severe illness of Mrs. Simpson at San Francisco, he will not be able to continue his journey to Japan and China. The Bishop, with Mrs. Simpson and his two daughters, reached the Pacific coast safely, in good time to take the outgoing Pacific Mail steamer on the 1st inst., and with all arrangements completed for the continuance of the tour. All will regret this unexpected hinderance in the consummation of the work assigned him by his Episcopal colleagues."

—A correspondent in Zion's Herald, writing from Washington, says: "Ever since Mr. Garfield has been in Washington, he has attended his own church (the Christian, or Disciple), and had a class in the Sabbath-school. The church is a small, plain, wooden structure, out on Vermont Avenue. The fashionable churches have no attraction for him. He sticks to the faith his good old mother taught him, and is, I think, a good Christian man. At all events, he has not done like many other statesmen—left his early training and his Christianity at his old home—but has brought both with him, and practices them in the city of Washington."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

LOUISIANA.

Edward Fields, Houma: "The measles brought a great many people down. Many children have died. It has been hard to keep up the services."

R. Anderson, Centreville: "Our fair came off June 5. They say it was one of the best ever given at this place. We raised $86.50, and paid $82 on the indebtedness of the church."

Mount Zion, New Orleans, Rev. P. King, pastor: "Second quarterly conference was held July 8. The reports showed that both pastor and officials had been working zealously for the upbuilding of the Master's kingdom at this point. This beautiful church is groaning under a burden of debt, for which there is not as yet any remedy. All things considered the brethren have done nobly. The pastor's report is an improvement upon last quarter: one Sunday-school efficiently officered; three classes formed for religious instruction; received into full membership, 14; children baptized, 23; admitted on probation, 35; converted during quarter, 25; excluded from church, 5; dismissed by letter, 5; received by letter, 1; families visited, 25; benevolent collections during quarter, $21.50. Owing to the straightened circumstances of the membership at this time of year the stewards, with effort, have raised $196.55. Salary to the pastor, $136.35; paid current expenses of church, $60.20."

Geo. Lacy, Jackson: "On the 20th inst. we had at our church (Magnolia) a union basket meeting, resulting in a grand success. The attendance was large, and there was a bountiful supply of good things to tempt the appetite, which we enjoyed greatly. We took up a collection of $30.80, to be applied to the repairing of our church which it is beginning to need very much. We are now preparing for a Sunday-school celebration, time not yet fixed. At present we are not prospering much spiritually; we seem to be about holding our own. Financially we are doing very well and hope to continue to do so as the present outlook of the crops in this section is good."

First Street Church, New Orleans, Rev. S. Priestley, pastor, held their second quarterly conference July 9. The Sunday-school, under the superintendence of Bro. Campbell, is flourishing, with an average attendance of over 200. The pastor has a large class of children for religious instruction. Five members had died during the quarter. The finances of the church are all up, and the church is being repaired. The congregations fill the house to overflowing. The report of the leaders was interesting. We give it entire as a specimen of thorough work, in tabular form:

No. 1	110	58	$15 00
" 2	88	58	11 50
" 3	62	34	9 55
" 4	6	49	11 90
" 5	38	45	8 10
" 6	262	66	28 85
" 7	122	46	21 15
" 8	120	41	8 75
" 9	52	28	10 75
" 10	40	37	7 95
" 11	500	55	2 50
Total	1400	475	$126 00

Class No. 11 is the pastor's class, and composed largely of probationers. Leaders visiting their members is Methodistic. The class collections are, of course, in addition to the public collections. This is a working church.

MISSISSIPPI.

Wm. Russell, Mashulaville: "On May 30th our celebration was hindered by the rain. Collection $5.15."

J. W. Winbush, Abbeville: "We have 5 teachers and 53 pupils in Sunday-school. Eight have been converted."

L. Echles, Waynesboro: "June 20 the Sabbath-school had a grand celebration, which was largely attended. Over one hundred visitors were present."

G. Wear, Mashniaville: "Our pastor has been hard at it to build up this work. We have taken up $6 missionary money. Sunday-school is flourishing."

N. Cannon, Moss Point: "I wish to correct a mistake that was made about our observance of the centennial day the collection by congregation was $5, by Sunday-school $6; total $11."

Jacob Cannon, Pickens: "Sunday-school is prospering. On Centenial day we collected $2 30. Elder Bradford held my second quarterly. He is greatly beloved by my people."

C. W. Ivy, Shuqualak: "My second quarterly conference was held, on the 26th, by Elder J. W. Dunn. Pastor reported 2 converts; 11 adults, baptized 7 adults. The Lord's supper was administered to 94. Elder's collection, $9.05."

H. Avant, Holly Springs: "Very many have been converted and joined the church recently. To our pastor, W. H. Gallion, is due much credit. He steadily gains the approbation of his people. Our superintendent, W. W. Hooper, remains with us during the summer."

R. Hays, Philadelphia: "My work is growing. Children's day was observed. We are building two new churches on this work. The times are hard, but we will do all we can, remembering the words of our beloved Bishop Harris, who told those who had hard circuits to make them good."

G. H. Byrd, Columbus: "Our Sabbath-school is increasing in number. On the 20th we had a large number of visitors. Mattie Hill, aged 12 years, was able to recite the three months' lesson without hesitation; each golden text was committed to memory and delivered distinctly. She is the beloved star of Class No. 4, composed of pupils from six to fifty years of age."

TEXAS.

B. F. Williams: "Centennial day was observed. I fear we will not have any camp meeting."

G. Wilson, Spring Hill: "I have succeeded in organizing a church at Union Hill after some opposition. Would like to hear from Bro. J. W. Robinson."

R. Williams, Richmond: "A protracted meeting resulted: 2 converts, 1 backslider reclaimed, 1 joined by letter, 4 on probation. I expect to hold a camp meeting next month."

J. Henderson, Gonzales: "The presiding elder administered the sacrament to 36 persons. There were 13 converts this quarter. Our camp meeting begins July 15. I hope to get the help of the preachers. We want the district conference here."

James Sloan, Luling: "Our Sunday-school has 75 pupils, and two classes of old people. Elizabeth Huff, the old mother of the church, did not know what a verse was, now she can recite two. A little boy named George Smith recites 140 verses."

A. Williams, Paris: "I preached in Honey Grove the 20th inst. to a large congregation of intelligent people. My work is doing well. I have been much hindered to get a house as a place of worship. I have secured the public school house in Honey Grove."

E. E. Cooper, Alleyton: "We will soon have a nice little church ready for dedication, with 40 members. At Talen's chapel Bro. Talen will soon give us the deed for one acre. Here are 29 members. At Mt. Pleasant there are 28 members. Good Sunday-school at these three appointments. G. R. Smith, O. R. Clark, and J. Lewis are the superintendents. Children's day was observed."

TENNESSEE.

H. Primm, Spring Hill: "We had a storm on the second day of July, and it blew down the Ruel Hill church, three miles from here. The people of this place are very poor, but they say they want to put the church up as soon as they can. Send contributions to me."

J. B. Bradford, Martin: "As our beloved presiding elder, Butler, was not present, on account of sickness and death in his family, Bro. J. P. Price presided. The collection, $12.60; 50 communed at the altar; 2 were received in the church; 5 children baptized and 1 adult."

The Leading Question of the Age.

BY DR. J. W. HARMON.

There is no one moral question of this age that is likely to become more prominent in the political economy of our national and State legislation in the future, than the rigid prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and the placing of it under the strictest government surveillance.

The Hon. Henry W. Blair, of New Hampshire, has introduced in Congress an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, to take effect after the year 1900, when ratified by three-fourths of the States, altogether prohibiting the manufacture, sale and importation of liquors, as a beverage any where in the United States, except as the government shall provide.

The exhaustive speech made by Mr. Blair in presenting the amendment, ought to be placed in the hands of every voter in every State of the Union. The philosophy of this whole subject, in connection with its political and financial economy, as bearing upon society and the prosperity of the country, is now engaging many of the master minds and leading men of the age in its discussion. Leading journals in Europe and this country are giving much prominence to this engrossing subject demanding the highest order of statesmanship and wise legislation.

Men who have not investigated the subject in all its damaging relations to the commonwealths, and pass a premature judgment upon the action proposed, based upon custom, prejudice or interest, think that a great wrong is sought to be perpetrated by suppressing the manufacture, sale and importation of liquors, upon all those who choose to engage in the traffic.

These men argue that moral suasion ought to accomplish the desired purpose, and thousands who echo this sentiment know very well, that if moral suasion could accomplish this work, that they would be as violently opposed to moral suasion as they are to the legal prohibition of the traffic. This exploded plea for the suppression of the traffic may sound very soothing in the ears of a class of men who desire to cover up the political cowardice of the upright and religious elements of society, who have, in all these years past, allowed themselves to become mere slaves to the political dictation of parties, and have heretofore refused to throw off this dictation and act and vote on this great question in an independent spirit, and for the permanent good of the country.

If it should so happen, however, that three-fourths of the State Legislatures should, under wise and intelligent legislation, endorse Mr. Blair's Constitutional amendment and say: "We will not allow you by your gross tastes and for the sake of gain, to corrupt the public morals, originate nine-tenths of the crimes, impose unnecessary taxation upon our citizens, and otherwise militate against the laboring and mechanical and agricultural interests of the commonwealths," we do not see how a minority can prevent a legal and legitimate action of this kind.

If the suppression of the traffic for only a few months is found to abate intemperance, crime and taxation, which the statistics can amply prove, then the argument is conclusive, that the abolition of the indiscriminate manufacture and sale, only as the government shall provide, will abolish the great mass of criminality and taxation with which the States have been so sorely afflicted, we cannot discover how the majority of the legislatures can be prevented from taking such legislation.

The facts on these various points are now made so clear as shown by voluminous statistics, that when the voters shall become sensible and familiar with these convincing truths, the work of prohibition will then be really accomplished.

As to the commercial interests involved, and the millions invested in the traffic, some may think it a great hardship to have all this outlay left unproductive, but this is a mere gratuitous assumption for they have fair warning as guaranteed by the bill of amendment, and like wise men they have ample time to change their investments into other channels of production, which will be conducive to the moral, financial and agricultural interests of the Commonwealths.

For it is an indisputable fact that millions spent annually in intoxicating beverages, are millions utterly lost to the communities, because there is no adequate compensation for such expenditure, and because they are sustained out of other necessary industries of the States. They add nothing to the real wealth, health or prosperity of the country.

Whenever a majority of the voters therefore, come to understand these unanswerable facts, and understand them well then the manufacture, sale and importation of intoxicating liquors will be carried on by the government only for medical, mechanical, manufacturing and art purposes under the most rigid surveillance.

Now let the voters make up their minds to throw off political dictation for mere party ends, and rise up to the greatness and importance of this great question of the age, and close up the whole business by the year 1900 as proposed by Mr. Blair's amendment to the Constitution.

Notes from Aberdeen.

MR. EDITOR—As there has been a good deal said recently about church government and uneducated preachers, I agree with that "Observer," and think that men professing to be called to the ministry ought to be held back in their studies until they have mastered them. As a general thing there is a great contrast of thought between old and young of our people. They disagree on most everything, even preaching. Those old men who had read several books before connecting with the conference, keep pace and in advance of the young with their experience, but it is almost universal that professional men are satisfied with their own qualifications, and therefore blame all that may chance to differ with them. The hardest man to convince of his errors is he who forms his opinions without the aid of books, for he has never learned enough to know that he is ignorant, and therefore thinks that he has only to open his mouth, and God will do the preaching. He also ignores the man whom he finds preparing a sermon for the pulpit. Few of the members study the church history, or know anything about the twenty-five articles of religion, and, therefore, if a man has good use of his lungs he is by them put down as a good preacher. But, Mr. Editor, there is something more grevious that prevails among both young and old; that passion is the ruling element of our people. They very often leave the church and go to some other church because they are not put in some office in the church. I hear of some educated young people not sixty miles from here, who have been members for years, leaving the church and going to other churches. They have been teaching Sunday-school in our church, praising our books and papers and shouting all the way along. Passion made them leave. P. B.

And success is certain.

Boys Smoking.

When boys are advised not to smoke, on hygienic grounds, they laugh at the advice and speak of the givers as old fogies. But careful experiments, lately made by a physician of repute, prove that the habit is very injurious. He took for the purpose 38 boys, from nine to fifteen, who had been in the habit of smoking, and examined them closely. In 27 he found obvious hurtful effects; 22 having various disorders of the circulation and digestion, palpitation of the heart, and more or less craving for strong drink; 12 of the boys were frequently troubled with bleeding of the nose; 10 had disturbed sleep; 12 had slight ulcerations of the mucous membrane of the mouth, which disappeared after the discontinuation of tobacco for some days. The physician treated them all for weakness and [illegible] though with but little [illegible] they had relinquished the habit, when health and strength [illegible] restored. Even if it [illegible] that smoking is not [illegible] to adults, there is no doubt [illegible] harmfulness to the young. [illegible] Dr. Richardson, and [illegible] who have made a special [illegible] subject, all agree in [illegible] that it causes in them [illegible] of growth, premature [illegible] and physical degradation. [illegible] worse effects is the pro[illegible] an appetite for liquor, [illegible] is not confined to [illegible] grown per[illegible] able to manage [illegible] to excess, they [illegible] smokers; and [illegible] to find a man over[illegible] is not addicted [illegible] who want to give [illegible] usually have to give [illegible] at the same time, for [illegible] a cigar or a pipe [illegible] a desire for liquor [illegible] so control.—New York [illegible]

A Bird's Grief.

[illegible] been known to die of [illegible] of their master, [illegible] that such af[illegible] only to this [illegible] of man. It [illegible] that birds [illegible] in Jackson [illegible] with [illegible] child had [illegible] grove [illegible] which [illegible] came to [illegible] and [illegible] corpse was [illegible] was seen to [illegible] of the [illegible] his sweetest [illegible] dead on [illegible] was killed by a lie which another boy told with his finger." I suppose that the boy did not know the mischief he did. Of course nobody thinks he meant to kill a little boy when he pointed the wrong way. He only wanted to have a little fun; but it was fun that cost somebody a great deal; and, if he ever heard the results of it, he must have felt guilty of doing a mean and wicked thing. We ought never to trifle with the truth.—Illustrated Christian Weekly.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my aunt, Delia Stover. She belonged to Capt. Stover about 29 years ago, as near as I can remember. She has a brother named Jack Powe, who used to go by the name of Jack Stover. Just before Capt. Stover's death he made a will, and my aunt and father were separated. Aunt fell to Bob Gordon's wife and was carried to Texas in 1852. Her husband's name is Jim Paper. She now goes by his name. Father received three letters from her about five years ago, in which she spoke of us moving to Texas. We have written several letters, but only received three. The last we heard of her she was in Fairfield, Freestone county, Texas, where she said to direct her letters, which we did but failed to hear from her. It has been five years since we heard from her. She has five children, Andy, Henry, Ransopher, Martha and Adam. Aunt's mother's name is Judy. Please address me at State Line, Miss. B. POWE.

LEMONS,

A Wonderful Medicine!

A RECENT DISCOVERY BY A PROMINENT SOUTHERN PHYSICIAN.

A PLEASANT LEMON DRINK.

REGULATES THE LIVER, BOWELS, STOMACH AND KIDNEYS.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR ALL CATHARTIC AND LIVER PILLS.

An interview with a number of St. Louis' most prominent citizens as to the merits of this New Medicine, a few whose names appear below. They have been using Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir personally and in their families for twelve or eighteen months. They pronounce it a most wonderful Medicine, and recommend it to the PUBLIC as the only Pleasant, Thoroughly Reliable and Economical remedy they have ever used for the diseases for which it recommended:

Judge Alex.——, Davis, Fourth and Chestnut streets.
Judge John P. Hudgens, 102 N. Fourth street.
Hon. John I. Martin, office opposite Four Courts.
T. P. Grastey, Law office, 1107 Clark avenue.
Capt. J. A. K. Stotts, of the St. Louis Beef Canning Company.
J. T. Morris, Real Estate Office, Sixth and Chestnut streets.
Dr. L. C. Mutz, 1412 N. 9th street.

Lemon Elixir cures all Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Indigestion, Billious Malarial, Remittent or Intermittent Fevers, Sallow Complexion, Pimples or Blotches on the skin, Impure Blood, Foul Stomach, Pain in the Back, Kidney Disease, Loss of Appetite, Weakness or Debility, Chills, Colds, and all other diseases caused by a torpid or diseased liver; nine-tenths of all diseases of the South and West are caused by the failure of the liver to do its duty. Show me a sick man or woman and I will show you a torpid or diseased liver. It is an established fact that the fresh juice of lemons, when combined with other liver tonics, produce the most desirable result upon the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, such is Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

Fifty cents for one-half pint bottle.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

Travelers Should Not Forget

The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the

Louisville and Great Southern Railway,

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully,
JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.
Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly.
R. CAULKINS, M. D.
Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporal relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

July 18, 1880.—CAIN AND ABEL.
SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 4: 3-15.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer."—John 3:15.
TOPIC.—The Enmity of Man.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Introductory.—Eve, utterly ignorant of babyhood, upon the birth of Cain, joyfully declared: "I have gotten a man from the Lord." Her exclamation is a significant one. The name Cain means possession, and the fact that she says that she has received a man from "the Lord"—from Jehovah, the covenant-making and covenant-keeping God—indicates that she felt that in Cain she had realized the promise he had made to her, when, in pronouncing sentence upon the serpent, he had held out a hope in saying that her seed should bruise the serpent's head. If this be so, how bitterly her hopes were doomed to be disappointed! Instead of redeeming the race, he plunged it into deeper guilt, and, as many another boy has done since, became a sword to pierce the mother's heart, instead of a balm to comfort it.

Cain's Offering (3-5).—The instinct of worship and the condemnation of sin, operating together, naturally would make men resort to some method of approach to God, that, on the one hand, would acknowledge their own amenability to condemnation, and, on the other, would be an expression of their adoration. Nothing could answer to this want except the sacrifice of something in their place, and hence, from the remotest ages since the fall, the feeling has obtained that "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin.

Abel brought to the Lord the best and the fattest of his flock. The acceptance of Abel's offering certainly was manifested in such a way that it was apparent to Cain that his was received, while his own was rejected. Why was Cain's offering not accepted? Some think that God did not receive it because it was an offering of the fruits of the sin-cursed earth. Two things to us seem to be destructive of such a supposition. 1. God finds no fault at all with the offering, but with the man. 2. In aftertimes such offerings were specially sanctioned by the Lord himself. Cain came into the presence of the Lord with the same spirit that was manifested by the Pharisee in the temple, when he thanked God that he was not as other people were, and Abel appeared before him with the feeling of the publican who dared not so much as to lift up his eyes to heaven, and smote upon his breast, and said: "God be merciful to me a sinner!"

[illegible] and kindly God [illegible] this unreasoning, [illegible]! He does [illegible] to the [illegible] Cain has [illegible]. He [illegible] imply- [illegible] not so [illegible] that [illegible] slew him." Doubtless Cain was startled at the results of his wrath, and was seized with horror at the looks of the ghastly dead. But the deed was done. The mortal stroke was beyond recall. He could hide the body in a shallow grave, but he never could hide the look of that dead face. "Where is Abel thy brother?" That was the last voice that he cared to hear. He had got rid of Abel, but he had not got rid of God. God made the inquiry not to learn the facts, but to lead the guilty Cain to confess and repent of his crime. The appeal was in vain, the heart of Cain had become hard. His resentment is an implication that it is unjust to bring him to account for the disappearance of his brother. Cain would not confess, and therefore another witness was called—even the blood of the murdered brother. Had Cain repented he might have been punished, but, also, he would have been pardoned. The earth, which had been compelled to drink his brother's blood, now is represented as opening its mouth again to curse the murderer. Its aversion towards him was to be manifested: 1. In withholding from him the full rewards of his husbandry. It was not to yield unto him its full strength. He not only was to earn his bread in the sweat of his brow, but often was to be doomed to disappointments in his harvests. The decree given was carried into execution. The last sad and most pregnant sentence in regard to this woeful affair is: "And Cain went out from the presence of the Lord."

HORSE NOTES.—"For Colic and Grubs in my mules and horses I give them about half a bottle of the liquid—Simmons Liver Regulator—at a time. I have not lost one that I gave it to. You can recommend it to every one that has stock as being the best medicine known for all complaints that horse-flesh is heir to.

"E. T. TAYLOR,
"Agent for Grangers of Georgia."

"My mode of using Simmons Liver Regulator for horses is as follows: One teaspoonful of the powder, Simmons Liver Regulator, in a mash three times a week. For Cough, Hide-Bound or Pneumonia it will be found invaluable in such complaints as above named. In using it with my chickens for Cholera I take a package of the Regulator, mix it with the dough and feed it to them once a day. By this treatment I have never lost from Chicken Cholera or Gapes a single chicken in the last five years.

At Alleyton, June 30th, 1880, near Columbus, Mr. George Brown to Prudence Smith; Mr. Dickis Gants to Miss Louisa Edwards; Mr. Lewis Reed to Miss Rosey Hall; Mr. Tucker Williams to Miss Amanda Alley, all of Colorado.

G. R. SMITH.

The rites of matrimony were solemnized between Mr. C. P. Westbrooks, of Aberdeen, Miss., and Miss L. A. Moore, of Mason, Tenn., at the residence of Mr. William Garrison, of Alamo, Crockett county, Tenn., July 4, 1880, at 3:30 p. m. Both are late graduates of the Central Tennessee College, of Nashville, Tenn. They are also members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and entered into the great work of the elevation of their people. We bid them God speed.

Sister Margaret Majehake died June 12, aged between 75 and 80 years. She left ten children. She was a faithful member of the church for forty years.

R. WILLIAMS.
Richmond, Texas.

Bro. Leonard Cooper died last Friday morning. He was born in Macon Co., Ala., and was 23 years of age. He had been a member of the church for two years. He leaves a wife and three children.

Sister Amy Bentley died last Monday morning, June 21, aged 45 years. A member of the church for twelve years, she died in triumph. M. ADAMS.
Sartrain, Miss.

On Friday, June 18, 1880, our [illegible] beloved brother, Tilman Rob[illegible] [illegible] in Christ. He has been a member of our church for 30 years, district steward this year and trustee of our church for several years. He died in full triumph of living faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. He leaves a wife, six children and many friends to mourn his loss. REV. P. GATES.
San Antonio, Texas.

Sister Amanda Hudson, a daughter of Bro. Jerry Hudson, and a sister of Rev. H. Moody, now pastor of Murfreesboro circuit, left us for heaven, June 28. She lived a bright Christian life, and after a short illness, caused by exposure in rain, returning from the public school I was teaching, she expired. During four weeks I made pastoral visits, and she enjoyed prayer very much, and would say, "Bro. Hay, I am ready, for my way is clear and bright." JESSE D. HAY.
Mansfield, Tenn.

June 20, 1880, Wm. Goodby, born in Louisiana in 1834, aged 64 years, 4 months and 28 days. He came to Texas since the war and married in 1865. He lived in Harrisburg most of the time, and was considered one of its best citizens. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church in 1873, and since that time he has been a faithful member. Soon after he joined the church he was appointed class-leader, and made a faithful officer. He fell from his chair without a moment's warning and passed from earth to his home above. May God bless and keep his heart-broken wife and helpless children.

W. L. MOLLOY.

Benjamin Davis was born in 1806, in Caroline county, Va., and departed this life May 30th, 1880, at Mason, Tenn., aged 74 years. He was converted 50 years ago, and was one of the first members of Mason Chapel, M. E. Church, also its first trustee and steward. He was one of the first that bought the church and has ever since endeavored to lift the debt from the church. Bro. Ben's whole soul was engaged in the church. He was its strict member, and a constant attendant of the Sabbath-school. He was a great lover of the cause of education, was a trustee of our preparatory school, and did much for it. He is much missed by the church and community. He was a kind husband and left behind a kind wife and three children. Even in his old age he managed to buy a little lot in Mason, Tenn., and to build thereon a comfortable little house for himself and family. But as soon as he completed it the Lord took him away. He often spoke of the Lord taking him away after building a home for his loved wife; his last words were "where is Bro. Price." And he tried to talk to his pastor before he departed.

REV. J. P. PRICE, Pastor.

Hundreds of Ladies.

Who have been unable to attend to their duties owing to periodical sicknesses, have found Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure a real "friend in need." Being a purely vegetable compound and containing all the elements of safety as well as those of power it has become universally popular. During the summer especially, it is a certain preventative for the numerous Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles incident to the season. All druggists sell it, and none except those in perfect health can afford to be without it.

NEW BOOKS.

THE TEMPERANCE LIGHT. A new collection of gospel temperance hymns and sacred songs. By G. C. Hugg and M. E. Servoss. Published by Oliver Ditson & Co.

This is a cheap (10ct.) Temperance collection, whose contents are evidently carefully selected and condensed. There are thirty-two tunes, and the words and music were procured of twenty-seven different writers. Two or three dollars will procure quite enough books for an ordinary "reform club."

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—Golden Hours for July has a pictorial article on the death of King Charles I, Oliver Cromwell. and Charles II, of England. "The New Baby" is written up also, Walden & Stowe, publishers.

—The numbers of The Living Age for June 26th and July 3d respectively, contain: The English Flower Garden, Quarterly; The Backwoods of Ceylon, Fortnightly; On Ants, Contemporary; Fiction—Fair and Foul, by John Ruskin, Nineteenth Century; What Shakespeare Learnt at School, Fraser; A Lost Poem by Edward Spencer, Macmillan; A Princess of the Seventeenth Century, Temple Bar; The Civil Code of the Jews, and The Decay of Revenge, Pall Mall; Curiosities of Omniverous Mankind, Land and Water; The Dynasty of the Romanoffs, Traveller; Milk for Republican Babies, Saturday Review; David Garrick, Chambers' Journal. A new volume begins July 3. Subscription price $8. Littell & Co., Boston, publishers.

—Elen W. Olney contributes the leading story in Good Company, Number Ten. Under the guise of a fish story Mrs. L. W. Champney happily hits off various theological isms, and Seneca Falls, including the origin of the Bloomer costume. It seems that Mrs. Bloomer was not the first to wear it, though it took its name from her. E. S. Gilbert has a most seasonable study of nature, Along the Brook; George M. Towle writes of The Three Emperors; there is an account of an interesting historical collection of wax-works in Westminister Abbey. Contributions from Mrs. Edward Ashley Walker and Miss Katharine Carrington; poems by Dora Read Goodale, T. S. Collier and Walter Learned; and the pros and cons as to decorating confederate graves. An article in the Editor's Table rejoices in the cheap books now so plenty, and expresses the opinion that in the long run they will tend to promote the sale of bound books.

—The Library Magazine for July has The French Republic and the Catholic Church; Landscape Painting; Xantippe, a Fragment; Henry D. Thoreau, His Character and Opinions; Health at Home; Plea for Musicians; Dr. Channing; On the Method of Zadig; The English Poets, etc. Price 10 cents. American Book Exchange, New York.

—The August number of Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine is exceedingly brilliant and attractive. Among the especially notable articles are a careful and loving estimate of the life and character of "Sister Dora," the model Christian nurse; an admirable one on "Missionary Efforts in Patagonia;" a very interesting one on "Venice; Its Past and Present," beautifully illustrated. "With St. Paul at Athens," "Religious Aspect of Gothic Architecture." "The Roman Catacombs," etc., etc., are among the other prominent features. The department of fiction is rich with serial and short stories. "Be-Be, the Nailmaker's Daughter," is continued, and a new serial, by the author of "Little Hinges," is commenced, entitled "Maid Marjory." There are sketches of thrilling interest; essays replete with pleasant thoughts; poems of unusual merit. The 128 quarto pages, with over 100 illustrations contained in each number, may be obtained for 25 cents a copy, or $3 a year, postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Washington and Lee University, chartered in 1782, endorsed by Washington and long presided over by Robert E. Lee. The fall session of 1880 will witness an increase in the number of pupils gratifying to the friends of the University.

Cut this out and Save it.

If those persons laboring under disease proceeding from vitiated humors in the blood; causing Ulcers, White Swellings, Coxalgia or Hip Joint Disease, and the class of diseases termed Scrofulous, proceeding from hereditary taints, where the bones are destroyed, defying the usual treatment of physicians, will procure SWAIM'S PANACEA, they will find a remedy which has saved thousands of lives; and thoroughly tested by the late professors Chapman, Dewees and Gibson of the old University of Pennsylvania; besides hundreds of medical men eminent in their profession, continues to be a "forlorn hope" to sufferers worthy of its fifty years' reputation.

SWAIM'S PANACEA is imitated and a preparation sold for it by druggists with a name somewhat similar. Purchasers therefore must be careful and see they get that containing the recommendations of the distinguished professors alluded to. It is seldom advertised in our public papers.

PREVENT Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

The right to wake when others sleep;
The right to watch, the right to weep;
The right to comfort in distress,
The right to soothe, the right to bless;
The right the widow's heart to cheer,
The right to dry the orphan's tear;
The right to feed and clothe the poor,
The right to teach them to endure;
The right, when other friends have flown,
And left the sufferer all alone,
To kneel that dying couch beside,
And meekly point to him who died;
The right a happy home to make
In a clime, for Jesus's sake:
Rights, such as these, are all we crave,
Until our last—a quiet grave.

Kansas Correspondence.

BY REV. W. O. LYNCH.

Perhaps many readers of your paper would like to hear from the Kansas district.

Our cause is steadily advancing over the State. It may be remembered that this district has been [illegible] twelve months and seventeen days. We have now in this [illegible] the south side of the river, Rev. Thos. J. Merritt in charge. He [illegible] from Philadelphia here more [illegible] months ago. He has [illegible] the membership both in [illegible] church and Sabbath-school. [illegible] Ramsey is well known by a good many readers in Georgia, having been formerly a student of [illegible] University, and has since graduated at Meharry Medical [illegible] at Central Tennessee College. He was appointed at the last session of the Kansas Conference to take charge in North Topeka, and was at the same time admitted [illegible] into the Medical [illegible] here in the city, and commenced his practice of medicine together with his church work, and [illegible] proved to be successful—so [illegible] he had to resign his [illegible] pastor and go into the [illegible]. The people are liking [illegible] very well as a young physician. [illegible] Dr. Lewis, late of [illegible] has been appointed to [illegible] Dr. Ramsey. He is suc [illegible]. Dr. G. W. [illegible] of the same [illegible], is in charge [illegible]. At Dun[illegible] small church and [illegible] a pretty good [illegible] one of my men came out here under a misapprehension as to the work to be done and the support to do it. In all my correspondence with them I never failed to set forth facts concerning Kansas, and the chance for support, and the result is they found every thing as good as they had expected. Not one of them seems to be dissatisfied; all seem to have an eye into the future of our church and people in the State of Kansas. As to myself, I can say my cares have been many since my lot has been providentially cast in this direction. I have seen and have done a good deal since twelve months ago, having to serve as pastor, presiding elder, a member of the board of directors, a member of the executive committee, also a member of the visiting committee of the Kansas Freedmen's Relief Association. Have helped to handle, one way and another, between 20,000 and 25,000 of our people coming into this State from the South, besides a good many have gone into Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado. They have been steadily coming each week since this exodus began, and since the National convention has passed off they are coming in larger numbers than any time since my tour South, in March and April. Both time and money have been wasted in trying to condemn the Republican party for this exodus movement of the colored people from the South, while wise and good men, who are not prejudiced to the colored people, have tried to show in every possible manner that this movement was not a political scheme, and yet it may serve to an advantage on the one side, and to a disadvantage on the other; while the exodus movement is only the outgrowth of manhood that has been groaning under that miserable oppression of negro-haters in the South for the last six or seven years. As one that was born in the South, and raised up in slavery, and having spent thirteen years in public life for my people, as a school teacher and preacher in different portions of Alabama and Georgia, I know my people better than any one else who is not identified with them. I can state in one word what the main-spring of all this exodus movement is, and that is, the majority of the colored people in the South believe that slavery is not dead, but sleeping in disguise, as it were a wolf in sheep's clothing. It is true, it may never come again in the shape it was prior to 1865, but it can and has come to a state nearly as bad as the former. This may be the case if the laws of this government float along, powerless in future, down the tide of rotten politics a few more years.

[illegible] Gibbs came from [illegible] months since, [illegible] Rev. [illegible] is in [illegible]. The people [illegible] and so [illegible] from [illegible] in charge at [illegible] and is [illegible] Felix [illegible] is in [illegible] made [illegible] very, [illegible]

Now, in conclusion, I may say a large proportion of the white population of America has been mislead by bad literature concerning the colored population, which has been laid before them by prejudiced writers. Soon or late an acknowledgment has to be made by those negro-haters. Three facts have to be admitted before peace and harmony prevail between the races. First, they must acknowledge that the negro is an equal factor of the human family on natural grounds before the God who made him. Second, that he has rights that a white man is bound to respect, and among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Third and lastly, that the negro race is possessed with every faculty for development that any other race has. The sooner these facts are acknowledged the better it will be, for the whole nation will be forced to acknowledge it. We are among the servants of God, and shall again be as useful in the world as any other race. God will see to it. As a black race we shall remain so; no solution will take place, we were distinct in the beginning and will be so in the end. God alone can control the destiny of nations. Therefore in the providence of God Africa shall flourish and prosper—a mighty nation unto herself.

Topeka, Kansas, July, 1880.

Letter from Illinois.

As debtor to your excellent paper [illegible] year, I now seek to fulfill [illegible]. This week's number is [illegible] interesting to me. No [illegible] how much such articles [illegible] Albert's, Cushman's, [illegible] of rising young [illegible] who have helped [illegible] and watched [illegible] servers" criticisms, deserve special attention. He knows by personal experience whereof he speaks. Educated, in part, in the schools of the American Missionary Association—the Congregational schools of the South—he well understands how persistently they labor to hold the young people to them. Let us emulate them in the earnestness and thoroughness of their work. They deserve success, and they have it. When they make the extravagant claim of being unsectarian or undenominational to induce some to their schools, they "forget" that the reading public understands the administration of the A. M. Association, and that as is the Association so are the schools. Bro. Albert speaks truly when he says that the efforts of the African M. E. Church to disintegrate our churches and lead away our young people on lines of race pride is one of the evils we have to contend against. This fact makes your note on the color line in reply to Dr. Tanner very pointed. When the A. M. E. Church works less in the line of race prejudice, they can more justly criticise this evil in the M. E. Church. The "Colored M. E. Church of America" ought to be ashamed to cry "caste," when its constitution "excludes from membership any white person." What church has a more unchristian constitutional provision? Shame on the Bishops and leaders of the M. E. Church, South, who so organized their colored children and brought forth such an abomination in Christendom!

I rejoice that we have such a grand body of men and women in the colored membership of our colored membership in the South. After only fifteen years of freedom and of access to the Bible and the common schools, we present a church in the cotton States of 200,000 colored members, with 1200 pastors and over 1800 local preachers, 75 qualified presiding elders, 18 professors in our higher seminaries of learning and more than 1200 colored young men and women qualified to teach in her day and Sunday-schools. Many of them having completed a college course; with a host of young men such as Bros. R. S. Roberts, Ames, Hays, A. E. P. Albert, W. O. Lynch, Wm. Corgman, W. H. Hammond, etc., whose correspondence, orations and addresses are an inspiration to the church and a blessing to their race and the nation. Fifteen more years of faithful work among God's poor in the South, under such leadership as these men, will surely hasten that day when "the wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad, and the desert shall bloom as the rose."

Say to them of a fearful heart: Be strong, fear not. Behold your God shall come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; He will come and save you. Let my brethren read this wonderful promise to them in the 35th chapter of Isaiah; rejoice that so much has been accomplished, and go forward. God is on the throne.

Letter from Crockett, Texas.

DEAR EDITOR—Allow me to say a word about how the M. E. Church was planted in the town of Crockett, Houston Co., Texas. Having been a minister in the A. M. E. Church for several years, about July 12, 1879, I found the proper place for a true loyal Methodist preacher was in the old mother of Methodists—the Methodist Episcopal Church, that knows no North, South, East, nor West, but to preach Christ and Him crucified to all the world.

On the date above mentioned I met the quarterly conference of the M. E. Church in Huntsville, with Rev. J. Shackleford presiding. Then and there I cast my lot with the mother of freedom. The church was placed by him under Rev. J. Smith, in charge, until Sept. 30, 1879, when I was ordered by the presiding elder to go to Willis, in Montgomery county. I taught school there six months and came to Crockett, and opened a private school. I found the colored M. E. Church had been here ten years, and had no house, but worshipped in a school house. When the head men found I belonged to the old mother church they became alarmed and told the white people all kind of stories, in fact did everything in their power to get them down on me. I received a copy of the SOUTHWESTERN giving an account of what the church was doing in [illegible] of education, and added that to my own knowledge of the churches. I got a chance and tried to preach. At the close of my remarks, as a deacon, I opened the doors of the M. E. Church and received 24 members. Then the war broke out and a battle commenced in earnest, but God fought our battle. I sent for Rev. Walter Rippetoe, presiding elder, and he came and organized the church. We then bought a lot, got our deed, and have been holding meetings in members' houses. We made application to the extension board for help to build a church, but a few of the members thought it best to put up a small house until we got some aid. We have built a nice little house, 16x26 feet, and organized our Sabbath-school yesterday. We want a little aid from the Church Extension Board and Crockett will be ours. My local preacher, and also head trustee, Arnold Foreman, came from the C. M. E. Church, is a noble man and faithful Christian, working day and night explaining our church to the people.

The Democratic Candidate.

MR. EDITOR—Please allow me space to say a few things concerning the Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

The Southern friends of Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, the Democratic nominee for President, give a strange reason for their preference of that Federal soldier, over the statesmanlike civilians of their party. Says the Baltimore News:

> It may be taken for granted that if Winfield Scott Hancock had never been military commander of the department of the Gulf he would never have received the Democratic nomination. It is because when in that position he unequivocally recognized the Democratic doctrine of the subordination of the military to the civil power that the Democratic party recognizes his fitness to fill the place which is at the same time both the highest civil and the highest military position in the country.

We have read the statement in a Richmond (Va.) paper, that Hancock's nomination was not expected, he lacked 150 votes of a nomination, when the flag of the Louisiana delegation was moved up to the platform, and during the confusion, many thinking he had received a majority, made haste to change their votes. There was a stampede. The Louisianians claim, and not without good reason, the honors of that day.

Let us examine the record which gives to the Democracy the sole evidence of Hancock's statesmanship. When President Andrew Johnson interposed his policy as a substitute for acts of Congress, on the question of reconstruction of the Southern States, Gen. Sheridan who was determined to execute the law according to its spirit, was in command of the Department of the Gulf. The duties of military commanders was very plain, and on account of the opposition of President Johnson, they were made responsible only to the General of the Army, though the commander-in-chief could exercise his power of changing the officers. Against the protests of Gen. Grant, who had charge of the execution of the reconstruction acts, President Johnson late in the fall of 1867, superceded Gen. Sheridan, sending Gen. Hancock to New Orleans to assume command and attempt to carry out the President's policy, in the face of the explicit provisions of the laws. The New York Times gives a graphic outline of the situation here at the time when Hancock came:

> Louisiana was in a state of semi-revolt, and the turbulence of New Orleans had more than once broken over all restraint, and yet his first words were to express gratification that peace and quiet reigned, and to declare his purpose to maintain the civil authorities in the exercise of their functions. He was sent to execute a law whose provisions were explicit, and which plainly subordinated all existing civil administration to the military authority of the United States, and he fell to preaching about the proper functions of the civil and military power. All the doctrines and theory of the matter had been settled by Congress, and with that he had nothing to do, but his first "special orders" were made up of a rehash of Andy Johnson's arguments about the rights of the people of those States and the supremacy of their authority in civil affairs. Of course, there was no hope of carrying out the execution of the plan of reconstruction with such a man, and, fortunately, his conduct was subject of the approval, not of President Johnson, but of Gen. Grant, a man whose single purpose and determination in any position was to perform his duty without flinching. He exercised his right of disapproving of Gen. Hancock's conduct in one or two instances, and that officer asked to be relieved in high dudgeon. He was accommodated, and under Gen. Buchanan the reconstruction of Louisiana was successfully carried out. Hancock was a dismal failure at New Orleans, but by undertaking to set his views and opinions of State rights—with which he had been duly coached in advance—against the authority of the United States, whose officer he was, he endeared himself to ex-rebels and wins from Bourbon Democrats of the North the title of statesman. Whatever may be said at this day of the reconstruction policy, it is plain that it saved the enfranchised negroes from a galling serfdom and put their feet upon the path that must ultimately lead to the establishment of their rights.

General Hancock allowed himself to be manipulated by local politicians, against the law of the land and his plain duty as a soldier. The Union people of the country condemned him. As a direct consequence of his obsequious obedience to a President who narrowly escaped impeachment for his detestable conduct, there was a carnival of bloodshed in Louisiana. Gen. Hatch reported during the first nine months of 1868: killed, 297; wounded by gunshot, 50; maltreated, 142—total, 489. A committee of the House of Representatives investigated the same period and found in addition: killed, 784; wounded by gunshot, 50; maltreated, 365. Total in both reports, 1852. These were the Republicans and Unionists stricken down by that "civil authority" that passed the black codes, resisted the negro franchise and defied the laws of Congress.

CANDOR.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from Allen.

ALLEN, La., June 22, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—I am having a hard time. Twelve miles from this place we have a log house to worship in 90x20 feet, and at every appointment there the house is crowded with both white and colored people. At that place I have a good deed to two acres of ground—one acre for a church, and one for a graveyard. We have had one basket meeting at this log house. The people are very poor and not able to do much. I have collected $6.40, the whites paying the most of it. This is Union Chapel. Magazine Chapel is about eighteen miles from here, where we have a log house about ready to fall and a deed to one acre of land. I expect to have a basket meeting there next Saturday and Sunday. Brethren from other circuits will assist.

Ten miles in another direction we have Friendship Church, with one acre of land deeded and the foundation for a frame church 30x40 feet is already laid. I have had one basket meeting there and collected $6 55—the whites paying the most of that. My next appointment will be at Haven Chapel—the only church building on my work, the mother church of the circuit. I have four appointments, and but one church. The circuit, by combined effort, furnished me a horse worth about $60. If there ever was a circuit that needed Church Extension help, it is Allen circuit. Through all the hard times my work is prospering, but I have nearly broken myself down. Only 14 have joined the church, and 10 been converted. Yours in Christ,

JOHN BROOKS, P. C.

Condition and Results of Education in the United States.

BY HON. E. D. MANSFIELD.

This country, great, growing, and prosperous as it is, presents nothing in all the elements of its growth more remarkable or important than the progress of education. At the time of the Revolution, and immediately after, the New England States were regarded as remarkable for their public schools and attention to education; but this was by no means the case with other parts of the country. Pennsylvania was not remarkable for education, and the South was extremely deficient. A few men in the South were well educated, but the mass of the people very ignorant. Since 1790 we have had an immigration of 11,000,000 of people, at least half of whom were ignorant and uneducated. We have added twenty-four States, all but four of which are in the valley of the Mississippi, and the population has increased 46,000,000. With these great facts given, without knowing the historical development since, one could hardly infer that this nation could at this time be a people almost universally educated, with hundreds of colleges for the higher learning, and with a general intelligence which certainly no other nation surpasses. Yet this is the undeniable fact, and the statistics show a most extraordinary educational growth. This growth has, however, been very unequal. Until recently the blacks had no possible opportunity for education, and millions of whites in the South but little more. On the contrary, the Northwestern States, in 1790 a wilderness, have surpassed New England, and the five great States (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin), which in 1880 made the Northwestern Territory, have more institutions of education, and have advanced further in intellectual development, than probably any equal body of people on earth. The two grand ordinances of 1785 and 1787 (passed by the Congress of the Confederation) made provision for the stability of land titles and the promotion of education as well as the prohibition of slavery. Thus was given a tendency to certain things, such as freedom and education, which set these great States in certain lines of growth, from which they have not departed, and which will probably mark the line of all their future growth. Let us look a little into the statistics of education, which we can see and understand in a few lines of figures. I will state the money expenditures for education in the public schools, so as to show the present ratio of support to public schools in different sections. The total expenditures for public schools is nearly $2 per head for the whole population of the United States. But, as I said, it is very unequally distributed, as will be seen:

Whole cost of public schools	$80,678,584 00
In New England public schools	9,298,000 00
In five States of the old Northwestern Territory	25,404,000 00
In the eleven States which made the rebellion	4,562,000 00
Proportion of New England, per head	2 40
Proportion of the five States of the old Northwest, per head	2 30
Proportion in Ohio	2 66
Proportion in eleven Southern States	59

There is certainly some difference to reflect upon. Suppose the Southern people had been as well educated as those of Ohio. Is it possible to imagine the rebellion would ever have occurred? Is it possible to suppose they would have rushed on their fate with a wild but blind audacity, only paralleled with that of a wild bull? The South, more especially the freedmen, are now profiting by the active and generous efforts of the Northern churches and of many private individuals to enlarge education among the blacks. There are now several flourishing colleges in the South, established for the freedmen.

Let us now take a view of the extraordinary rise and progress of the higher education in this country. Let us take first the growth of collegiate institutions. Prior to the last forty years there were very few colleges, and those almost exclusively in the Eastern States. But since then the increased sense of the necessity of education, the great increase of surplus wealth in the hands of Christian people, and the great and liberal grants of land by the government, have greatly and rapidly increased the number and quality of colleges. Dividing the ninety years since 1790 into three periods, we see the establishment of colleges as follows:

	Colleges.
Established prior to 1790	14
Established from 1790 to 1820	13
Established from 1820 to 1850	80
Established from 1850 to 1880	251

A glance at this table shows how very recent, and yet how great, has been the advance in collegiate education. The year 1840 may be taken as the beginning of the advance. Out of 358 colleges now existing, nearly 300 have come into existence in the last forty years. A superficial observer might be apt to say that this advance of students and the quality of education were not as great as the advance in the number of colleges. This would be only superficial; for the increase of students is even more in proportion to that of colleges, for not only have many of the new colleges a large number of students, but the oldest and best colleges have more than doubled their numbers and doubled the means of instruction.

The following is a tabular view of the condition of the colleges in regard to their principal elements:

Number of colleges	358
Number of instructors	3,203
Number of students	30,868
Number of volumes in college libraries	2,187,932
Income from productive funds	$2,548,324
Value of college property	$36,871,213

More detailed statements may be found in the reports of the Bureau of Education. The number of students above mentioned are those in the college classes proper. There 27,000 more in the preparatory de-departments. It will be seen above that there is a proportion of one instructor to ten students, which is a very large proportion. The difference between the older Eastern colleges and the new ones of the West consists chiefly in the munition of materials of instruction, rather than in the course of instruction or value of studies. When we get down to the bottom of education—in regard to the studies pursued, and the intellectual development—four-fifths of it will be found in the study of the exact sciences and the languages. Numerous attachments have been put to these and a great display made of various studies and literary entertainments and natural history searchings, but the bottom planks are science and language. Language properly studied and pursued will include logic, metyphysics, and literature, and hence is the basis of all that class of studies. So the exact sciences are the basis of all others, and thus we have the great foundation of a thorough education, to which hundreds of other things may be added, but will avail little except pursued by the student himself in after life. In this great foundation of intellectual education some of the new Western colleges have just as much advantage and give just as much instruction as any of the older ones.

One marked feature of American colleges, and one that has peculiar virtue in this time of loose thinking and infidel philosophy, is that much the largest part, and that the most valuable part of American colleges, is based on religious principles. Four-fifths of American colleges have been founded by religious men, and are nominally called "sectarian," and half of those "not-sectarian," are conducted and taught by religious men. In fact, the colleges are not sectarian, teaching the doctrines of a particular sect. But they are Christian, which would have been by no means certain if they had been founded by the State. There are 100 Presbyterian and Methodist colleges, but a young man may go to either of them and hold what faith he pleases; but he will be under Christian influences, and, so far as the college can do it, will be brought up in the way he should go.

This brief review of American education shows that we have advanced quite as rapidly in this great department of life as we have in any other. If you want to know why hundreds of thousands of people from the most civilized countries of Europe are coming to this country, you will find it is not altogether because this is a republican country and they may be free. They come to better their condition, but not wholly in one line. They know, the world knows now, that our free institutions have not merely given political liberty. They have developed industry more than in any country in the world. They have developed invention, science, art, more in half a century than was ever done anywhere, from Rome to France. And here, as we have seen in this brief abstract, they have developed education as it never has been in the same time upon earth. They are bringing education home to every child, and giving every one the opportunity to become the peer of nobles. This is the glory of our country, that it is developing beyond any precedent the mind, the industry, the genius of the people.

Hancock and Garfield.

The White League leaders of Louisiana have, as Senator Hoar fitly describes it, put up a "mask, not a representative of the Democratic party." The people will look behind it and view the party records. Hancock is a soldier, and not a statesman: Garfield has proven himself to be a fair soldier and an accomplished statesman. In contrast to Hancock's weakness appears this extract from a speech by Gen. Garfield:

> The Republican party offers to our brethren of the South the olive branch of peace and invites them to renewed brotherhood on this supreme condition: That it shall be admitted forever and forevermore that in the war for the Union we were simply right and they were wrong. On that supreme condition we meet them as brethren, and on no other. We ask them to share with us the blessings and honors of this great Republic.

The Roman Catholics and Gen. Hancock.

The Washington World says that the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, has sent a congratulatory letter to General Hancock in which he says: "Beloved son, I tender congratulations upon your nomination. The children of your illustrious namesake and your own were reared in our holy Church. May the teachings they have imbued lead you wholly within our fold, and may the earnest prayers of the faithful place you in the highest position in the republic. Affectionately and fraternally." The letter is signed, "John Archbishop."

[illegible] SOUTHWESTERN.

[illegible] C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JULY 22, 1880.

A Few Plain Words to Our Preachers.

As publishers of the SOUTHWESTERN we must say a few plain words to the preachers who act as agents for the paper. Our financial year ended June 30, and at that time we have made up from the books a statement of all receipts and expenditures for the previous twelve months. We also have a complete table made of all bills due us, so by comparing year with year we can know just what each preacher does for the paper. Some preachers, no matter where they are stationed, send good cash lists of subscribers. Other preachers, no matter how good their appointments, never do anything. Others are always running in debt and hardly ever pay, or if they do, want half their bill thrown off. Where the preachers are poor and have taken large lists for the paper and have lost by the death, removal or dishonesty of subscribers we always are ready to make due [illegible]. There are also agents who collect money and keep it, and when their attention is called to it, FORGET that they had it. There are not many of this class, but there are some in every conference.

Now, brethren, our books classify the [illegible] of the SOUTHWESTERN into several [illegible].

1. There are the GOOD AGENTS. Every [illegible] of this class have lists of subscribers and get the pay for them and send [illegible] money to us promptly. No matter [illegible] poor the appointment they always do [illegible]. AND THESE MEN WE SEE BY THE [illegible] MINUTES GENERALLY ARE [illegible] SUPPORTED. People support the [illegible] who labor for their good and [illegible] member knows that the man who circulates the SOUTHWESTERN is doing good.

2. There are the GOOD FOR NOTHING [illegible]. No matter how good the appointment or how large the list was at that place the year previous, this class never does [illegible] for the paper. It is sometimes [illegible] to collect a dollar a year from them to pay for their own paper.

3. There are agents who get LARGE [illegible] BUT ARE POOR PAY. Many of these [illegible] think that when the names are sent [illegible] their work is done, and toward [illegible] of the year, write or say at Conference "I did not collect the money and cannot [illegible] it." We are persuaded that a good [illegible] of this class are careless and do not [illegible] collect. As a rule people who want [illegible] and subscribe for it will pay for [illegible] a little at a time. But if an [illegible] that a subscriber does not intend [illegible] he should at once write us and [illegible] name stricken from the list.

[illegible] are other classes we might name [illegible] the principal ones. Brother, [illegible] of these classes do you belong? [illegible] all we can to put a good [illegible] hands to help you save and [illegible] people. We give you your own [illegible] a year, and give you a commission [illegible] subscriber you send us the [illegible]. The General Conference made [illegible] to help support the [illegible] not take hold at once [illegible] for the paper? If [illegible] heretofore, do better; if [illegible] nothing remember your vows [illegible] "pay thy vows." If you [illegible] amounts will you not at [illegible] money, at least in part. Do [illegible] until conference. WE NEED [illegible] bills.

[illegible] but just talking plain [illegible] give fair warning that [illegible] the fail to send what they [illegible] write and explain why they do [illegible] their papers stopped.

God the Supreme Object of Faith.

Last week we discussed Faith and Knowledge. We now discuss the kindred theme that God is the Supreme object of Faith.

It is one of the chief glories of the Christian religion that it dignifies even the commonest acts of life, whether pertaining to ourselves or to each other. This comes from requiring that every act shall be tested by the simple rule—is it right or wrong? Whatever it is right to do, it is grand to do, no matter whether it be to give a cup of cold water to a beggar at the door, or to emancipate a race. Whatever it is wrong to do no matter how small that wrong, partakes of damnation. It is this radical and divine distinction running through all acts, great or small, individual or collective, which brings God into the most ordinary relations of life, and gives dignity and grandeur to the humblest soul in the commonest walk of life, if the faith of that soul be but centered in God.

Another glory of Christianity is that it encourages and rejoices in the greatest possible success in everything that is right, among men or nations. There have been, and yet are, organized forms of corrupt Christianity which have stood in the way of science and art and culture. Draper, in his "Conflict of religion and Science," has blundered by substituting the dogmas of corrupt Christianity for the real thing. But that blunder only hurts the blunderer. Real Christianity glories in human triumphs, whenever they have to do with the physical, intellectual, social, moral or political good of man; and in whatever has to do with the discovery and harmonizing of truth.

Bearing in mind the relation of Christianity to the humblest and grandest things pertaining to the good of man, we are prepared to see how various are the right objects of faith in this life. It is, of course, unnecessary to discuss the bad objects of faith, for no one will contend that the soul can reach its highest destiny by following evil. With a large mass of men there is no purpose except to exist as best they can. Their souls are never stirred by any great purpose to rise in intelligence or power. We are not to despise these, for they have in them latent, immortal powers which may be, and perhaps are redeemed through Christ, and which, if not awakened to grand efforts in this life, will, sometime in the future be aroused to sublime faith and purpose. Besides, we are not to judge harshly the man without great purpose, for we know not what hereditary forces have been born into him, and what may have been his environments, since his birth to make him just what he is, in spite of himself.

But age after age the number of men of heroic faith in the walks of life has increased, until to-day in all fields of activity there stand out multitudes of grand souls; who, inspired by a faith, born of heroic purpose, directed by a cultured intelligence and broadened by increasing triumph, have commanded the admiration of angels and men.

Some have given their lives to the study of mechanics, and have filled the world with inventions to lighten the labor of men's bodies, and multiply fields of activity. Others have given themselves to the study of agriculture, and have transformed many a wilderness into a garden, and have reduced to a science the cultivation of the soil, the planting of seed, the harvesting of crops, and the culture and care of stock. Others have entered the various learned professions, and in each of these we have the results of all knowledge concentrated to bless man. Others enter the field of literature, and as a result the past records of humanity, no matter where or how found, are being disciphered and given to the world in every language, and the thoughts and words and deeds of men in every possible sphere of activity, are being recorded for study and preservation. Others study the fine arts and the world is charmed with poetry and inspired with music, and enobled by the reproduction and preservation on canvas of historical characters and scenes. Others, again enter politics, not simply to manage parties, and advance special [illegible]; but to develope the [illegible] of government, so that the [illegible] of the earth can live in [illegible] good will among them[illegible] preserved from foes within [illegible] increase their strength [illegible] protect their citi[illegible] their intelligence [illegible], again, others [illegible] and have awak[illegible] the world, [illegible] in the [illegible] the freeing [illegible] the lower classes among all nations and communities.

Let no man detract an iota from the sublimity of the faith which inspires the souls doing such wonders as we have named. Neither let any man question their motives, nor permit the shadow of an impression to gain ground that their glory is to be dimmed, or that they are not to be encouraged to yet greater efforts and conquests. Whatever betters man's body or mind, and gives greater stability or efficiency to good government, or elevates society glorifies God. Every invention, from the stone hatchet of the Indian to Edison's phonograph is in some sense a preacher of righteousness, a schoolmaster leading up to higher plains of peace and power.

But the question before us is this: Is it possible for faith to reach its highest power or perfection in one or all the spheres of this world's activity? Let us state the question in its best and strongest form. Suppose it possible to endow a man with perfect intellectual power, with a will that could know nothing but success, with sensibilities that were pure and true, and attuned in perfect harmony with the true, the good and the beautiful; without malice or hypocricy, with no purpose but to deal justly and do good. Suppose that science, art and literature have gained their zenith of perfection and utility, and given to the race every possible physical, intellectual, social and political blessing within their reach. Could such a man, in the midst of such marvellous surroundings, animated by the highest and best earthly ambition, satisfy the faith of a human soul? Our answer is: No—and the reasons are manifest. One reason is found in the fact that no human knowledge can account for the origin of things. That knowledge every human soul longs for. Whence am I? Who made this wonderful mechanism which I call my body? Whence these faculties of thought, will and feeling with which I am endowed? How came the world that is about me? Whence the laws which give beauty, utility and uniformity to nature? The stars are beautiful, but who made them? The relations of one atom to another are important, but who made the atoms? The fields are beautiful to look upon, but who made the grass to grow or the violet to bloom, or whence the life of the beast? No science can answer these, or a thousand similar questions we could ask. And yet every thoughtful soul meets them everywhere, and wants them answered. And again, this is a world of afflictions. Minds loose their balance and are wrecked. Bodies waste away with disease, our business plans fall, and in trouble and anguish of soul we struggle for existence. Death comes and snatches our children from our arms, and our loved companions and friends from our embrace, and we are left heart broken and sad. Ah! in such hours—and they come to all of us—how the soul longs for a sympathy that shall help. Friends gather about us, but they are as helpless as we.

Turn now to the books of earthly wisdom, and point, if you can, to a single sentence that can satisfy the heart of the mother as she sees her darling child put away in the tomb? And think you not her heart longs for some satisfying sympathy? Then again what about the problem of evil in its conflict with virtue? Whence is evil? Why its power among men? Is it permitted or necessary? Who shall explain the oppression of the good, the triumphs of sin, the manifest unequal distribution of this world's good irrespective of moral character? And again, who shall explain the problems involved in death? And still again, what of the future? Does death end all? And if there is a future who can tell us anything about it?

These are not idle questions. They are in the universal heart of mankind, no matter what the race or nation, or grade of civilization. They are a part of the soul's being. Now as no science can account for the origin of a single atom of matter, or give one balm of sympathy to afflicted humanity, or grapple with the problem of death, or solve the existence and power of evil, or tell us anything as to the certainty or meaning of the future, are we, therefore to conclude that there are no solutions to these problems, and no answers to these questions?

These questions are answered, fully and plainly. Beyond the realms of intuition and reason, there are fields of knowledge into which the soul may rise. No truth which intuition gives is to be discarded, no fact which reason finds out is to be forgotten. All possible truth within the range of human ken is to be cherished, and the soul is to act upon and rejoice in all possible culture, which may free it from absurdities and fanaticisms and give [illegible] correctness of judgment; but, [illegible] this is done, and the soul stands in sadness and anguish in the presence of death, or is overburdened with despair by the accusations of conscience, or is trampled beneath the heel of vindictive wrong, it is then that the words of Jesus have their full significance, "Have faith in God." He lives and reigns over the destinies of men, and in him the soul may find a balm for all its woes, and a solution for all its questions.

An inspection of these returns shows the gains to be almost wholly within those districts where the blacks are in greatest number. They are the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh districts. The white population has been almost stationary. Bulldozing in the country parishes caused several thousand negroes to flock to the city for refuge, and for the past three years the press has noted the presence of a larger number of laborers than could be profitably employed here. The yellow fever epidemic of 1878 operated also to greatly check the city's growth; but it may well be doubted, taking into account the new railroads, the jetties, and largely increased trade facilities, whether the yellow fever has been more destructive than Bourbonism and bad municipal government. The scheme of tax resisting, begun to crush out Republican rulers, has received encouragment, by special legislative acts, and special provision in the new State constitution, from their Democratic successors. The burdens of government have, therefore, fallen heaviest on small tax and license payers, while the rich have, in a large measure, avoided their duty in its support. Not enough money has found its way to the city treasury to keep up an efficient police, clean the streets, or pay public school teachers. Bourbonism has blighted the prospects of a great natural trade metropolis, until her surrounding rivals have profited by her follies. We hope there is a better future in store for New Orleans, and the next decade will witness great commercial prosperity.

The Indian Policy.

We unite with a sister society in saying whatsoever the Indian policy may be, however it may be changed, the one duty rests on the church to press ever forward with the appliances of Christian instruction and Christian sympathy. The report of the Indian commissioners for 1879, shows that on the whole the general principles on which the last administration has dealt with the subject has been successful. Here are some of the fruits: Indian population in 1868, 16,160; Indian population in 1878, 16,100; children in schools in 1868, 144; children in schools in 1878, 991; acres cultivated by the Indians in 1868, 3946; acres cultivated by the Indians in 1878, 20,419; bushels of corn raised in 1868, 62,825; bushels of corn raised in 1868, 479,292; cattle owned by them in 1868, 1092; cattle owned by them in 1878, 14,847; hogs owned by them in 1868, 1473; hogs owned by them in 1878, 18,788. Several other items are given, showing that in every material interest there has been gratifying improvement.

We regret very much to learn of the continued illness of Rev. H. Skewes, of the Austin conference. Some months since he took a trip North to raise money for our church in Palestine, Texas, of which he is pastor, and returned home unwell, but was not seriously ill until May. During May and June he was very sick, and on getting better he did not gain strength, and his physician stated that he must have a change of climate. He is now at DeLassus, Mo.

Dr. Godman's Work.

We are glad to note from a published statement in the New York Advocate, that Dr. Godman, who is in the North, representing the interests of the Orphans Home Society, of New Orleans, is meeting with success. He reports the following contributions.

Mrs. H. Lauderbach, Philadelphia	$600 00
Mrs. W. H. Bowen "	500 00
James Armstong, Esq., "	500 00
Mrs. Ziba Bennet, Wilkesbarre, Pa.	275 00
A. V. Stout, Esq., National Shoe and Leather Bank, New York	100 00
Miss Lily Hill, Philadelphia	100 00
Mrs A. V. Stout, New York	50 00
Mrs. Rev. Dr. Newman, New York	50 00

Other names for $50 and less will be published hereafter.

The money goes toward refitting the Home building which was greatly damaged by the storm, so that it can be used for school purposes. Dr. Godman will open the LaTeche Seminary, in November next. And it is expected to make it a first class school.

A New Church at N. O. Seamen's Bethel.

Rev. L. H. Pease, chaplain of the down-town Seamen's Bethel, in this city, has organized a church to be known as the "Brotherhood of the Sea and Land." Thirty-two members have already joined, some are Catholics, some Presbyterians, and some are Methodists. All denominations are represented. The church work will be carried on in English, Scandinavian, and French. The church has a creed that is evangelical, and the purpose is to do thorough work for Christ, especially among the sailors. Success to this enterprise we say, and heartily.

The Louisiana Journal of Education for July has a memorial supplement on the death of Rev. Barnas Sears, General Agent of the Peabody Fund. It says: "Our lamented friend, by his enlightened labors, instructive addresses and liberal concurrence with school officers, has rendered the name of George Peabody a household word in many a Southern home, and reared, in the chief towns of every State in the South, enduring monuments to the fame and benevolence of that peerless philanthropist." Other articles of interest refer to public education in Louisiana, and the memorial of the Peabody trustees to Congress.

A Sunday Law.

The Chief pleads with the opponents of the new Sunday ordinance of the Ascension parish police jury as follows:

Let us take this new departure on a venture, and give it a trial, throwing aside the foolish fear that because we go out of the rut we have been plodding in for lo! these many years, disaster and ruin will overtake us. What other peoples have done we can do, and if Sunday laws benefit other communities, as has been proven beyond question, why should we fear that they will produce a contrary effect in Donaldsonville?

Lincoln University, Marion, Ala., turns out six graduates of the normal course this year, the first in the history of the school under Prof. W. B. Paterson, president.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. J. B. Ford has been unanimously reappointed Sunday-school Agent for the South.

—Delegate Bose, from India, is fully occupied for addresses and lectures up to August 23d.

—Dr. J. W. Beach has been elected President of Wesleyan University in place of Bishop Foss.

—Dickinson College has conferred the degree of LL.D. upon Bishop Hurst and Judge Agnew, and D.D. upon Rev. D. C. John, of Minnesota.

—The marriage between Ulyssea Grant, Jr., and Miss Flood, daughter of the California millionaire, will take place about the middle of November.

—Mrs. Millie Anderson, by a festival for the Self-Helper's Society, Paris, Texas, raised $15. She is one of the building committee, and a faithful worker in the church.

—General Hancock, raised a Baptist, is now an Episcopalian. His wife is a devoted Catholic. The General is supported for the Presidency by the papal priests and papers.

—Rev. B. J. Donnell, who was in charge at Franklin last year, and located at his own request, has become the pastor of Pine Ridge circuit, A. M. E. Church. His post-office address is Natchez, Miss.

—George Ripley, LL.D., philosopher, scholar, reformer, and literary critic, for some time literary editor of the New York Tribune, died July 4th. His funeral took place at the Church of the Messiah. The pall bearers were President Barnard of Columbia College, President Youmans, George William Curtis, J. W. Harper, Jr., Rev. Dr. H. M. Field, Prof. Hairne, Bernard Roecker, Edmund C. Stedman and Whitelaw Reid. Rev. Robert Collyer read the funeral service and pronounced the oration. Representatives of the leading newspapers were present, and prominent literary men.

—He was only a poor street-crossing sweeper. But he was missed from his place before Mr. Gladstone's door, and the Premier called to see what was the matter. The sweeper was telling it to his minister afterwards, and said: "Yes, sir, he just got right down on his knees and prayed for me!" Mr. Gladstone is an eloquent orator. But it will be a long time before he can put as much eloquence in his words, as he embodied in that simple act of obedience to the Spirit of the Master!—The Covenant.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TEXAS.

C. King, Seguin: "My protracted meeting has just closed; 2 converts, 9 on probation. Elder Richardson was with us."

E. T. Johnson, Marshall: "On the 4th Sunday in June Children's Day was observed. About 400 people were present, and we had a fine time. Since that we have gained 20 pupils in Sunday-school."

M. H. Robinson, Flatonia: "We have bargained for a lot in Schulenberg, and paid on it $200. Shall put up a church as soon as we can. Rev. T. Wadkins is in charge here, and closed a meeting with four converts."

W. H. Moseby, Lavernia: "My camp-meeting begun July 9th, at Stockdale. The prospect is fair for good crops, and my people want to do much for the church. Basket meeting closed with 16 converts and 28 on probation."

B. F. Williams, Oak Hill: "The camp meeting will open August 5, under the management of D. Gage and myself. I hope all ministerial brethren within reach will come and help us. We have got the foundation of our church laid, 25x30, and are going ahead. God has abundantly blessed us."

Says a Paris letter: "Our church is in a prosperous condition. Revs. G. W. Gill and F. Moore are liked by the people. The church is worth $700; will take $270 to complete it, and owes but $20. Have just closed a 6 month's term of school, with 66 pupils, at Blossom Prairie. The citizens are pleased with the progress of their children."

John Jackson, Marion circuit: "Quarterly conference was held at Mt. Carmel, Elder Molloy presiding. We had a grand time. I have added to the church this year 3 by letter, 25 on probation and 5 converts. I am doing all I can to build a new church; have got the lumber, and the largest part on the ground. We are going to work on it as soon as the crops are laid by."

Peter Thompson, Hawkins: "I have one church on Union circuit, with about 40 members, and a Sunday-school of 53 pupils. The church house is very large, 36x44x12, with 16 feet pitch roof, all complete even to door and window shutters. We gave a fourth of July dinner on the 3d to the Sunday-school children, which was a pleasure to them. At the dinner we had many white friends who enjoyed themselves with the luxuries. The Sunday-school is progressing finely. We have had only one quarterly conference held on this work. We expect Elder Ripetoe here to hold the next quarter August 28 29. We will open a regular day school here on the 12th of this month."

MISSISSIPPI.

John Gaston, Okolona: "My camp meeting will commence August 12."

C. P. Head, Edward's circuit: "The second quarterly conference was held in Asbury Chapel, near Bolton. Elder D. A. Williams was with us. It was his first visit, and he preached with great acceptability. Accessions for the second quarter 47. Pray that the Lord may bless us with a still greater number."

L. J. Terrell, Aberdeen: "At Mt. Zion we had a glorious time; baptized 5 adults and 13 children. The Lord's supper was administered by Rev. G. Dobson to 72. We received into full fellowship 2 at this place. I held a protracted meeting a few weeks ago which resulted in 4 converts. We ask the prayers of the brethren."

J. B. Smith, Pass Christian: "The stewards and superintendent of the Sunday-school gave an exhibition which realized for the church $24.05. On Sunday, July 4, we had a lovely Union meeting. Elder Raffles, Bro. Garson and others were with us. We closed the meeting leaving $34 85 for the benefit of the church, after paying all debts and pastor's salary for July."

J. P. Jordan, Enterprise: "Presiding elder J. W. Dunn was with us June 19 20. The Lord's supper was administered to 68 communicants. His two sermons will be long remembered. His collection was $12.50. Our pastor, Rev. A. J. Allen, is doing good work. Our Sunday-school is not doing very well this year, because we have not had the school requisites."

F. Golden, Deasonville: "The people here are poor, but of a willing mind. With some one to lead they will follow. There are two preaching places on this work, but no house of worship fit for the purpose; this is our next work as soon as we can get a proper deed. The buildings we use are dilapidated and ready to tumble down. We must build. The Sunday-school observed the centennial, directed by superintendent James Allen. Collection $1.95."

W. H. Ogburn, Enterprise: "July 4th, in the afternoon, the Baptist Sunday-school came over to unite with our school, and we all sang together. Mr. E. L. Howze, the superintendent of the Baptist school, was called upon to say something in regard to the unity, after which Prof. Brown lectured briefly to the assembly. The meeting was opened with singing by both schools, and prayer by Rev. H. Washington, of the Baptist church. Our school is progressing finely."

LOUISIANA.

Frank Harvey, Coushatta: "The elder held our first quarterly conference and preached three sermons. Before the meeting closed we had 18 converts. Sabbath-school is attended by 65 pupils."

Rev. A. Hilton, Booneville: "On the 13th of June I dedicated the new church, built since conference on a piece of deeded land 6½ miles below Cheneyville, Rapides parish. A large number of people attended. Dedication sermon was preached by Rev. S. H. Cooper, from the M. E. Church, South; after which four of the Sunday-school pupils read a Psalm. Revs. W. Brooks, of Washington, and H. Wallace, of Holmesville were present. A collection amounting to $69 25 was taken up. We had a joyful time and we hope God will send His love down in copious showers upon each and every one, and hold us up with His hand, and cause sinners to flock to the temple as the doves did in Noah's day."

Rev. M. Dyer announces a grand railroad excursion from New Iberia to New Orleans and return, for the benefit of the M. E. Church at New Iberia, La., on Saturday, August 7, 1880, and returning Monday, August 9, under the auspices of the following committee of arrangements: Nicholas Giles, Chairman; Wm. Vidato, A. White, Isaac Thompson, Cassius Julius, Mr. Sutton, Mr. King, Aaron Harris, Ben Kelly, Jeff Obey, Fred Tolds, W. Storks, S. Gordon, Rev. M. Dyer and Rev. R. L. Beal, superintendents. Tickets for the round trip, $3.50; children under 13 years, $1.75. Trains will leave New Iberia Saturday morning at 7 o'clock; returning, leaves New Orleans Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

ARKANSAS.

A. R. Clardy, Centre Point: "I am living hard indeed. Have organized a new church, and have five points to preach at. I have received $50 during the year. A great many oppose me because I belong to the M. E. Church. A two day's meeting resulted in 5 converts and 7 accessions. I have also received 5 in full connection and 35 on probation. Pray for me."

Since the General Conference, one of the preachers of the Arkansas Conference, Rev. Jas. Lokey, has received a notice that he can not preach any more in the church house owned by the church at Viney Grove, Ark. This notice was according to the action of the quarterly conference of the M. E. Church, South. Special mention is made of the fact that all the brethren voting voted for the motion. Bro. Lokey's only offense was that he is a good and popular man among the people, and was building up the Methodist Episcopal Church. This was mentioned to a brother of the Church South, and to the great suprise of our minister (for the Southern brother believes in fraternity, and would like to see the two Churches come to-gether); he said: "I approve it!"—Atlanta Advocate.

TENNESSEE.

H. W. Key, Murfreesboro: "Our quarterly meeting was held on the 10th and 11th inst. Elder B. B. Manson was on time, and held a very satisfactory conference on the night of the 10th, and preached 3 very acceptable sermons—1 on Saturday and 2 on Sunday. The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered to 200 persons Sunday evening, and 4 joined the church."

R. Anderson, Brentwood: "Our centennial was one of the grandest our little folks ever witnessed. We had an address from Bro. Smith, a young man from Central Tennessee College. It was enjoyed by all. The Mt. Lebanon Baptist school took part with us on Sunday, July 11th, at Ebenezer church. We had a glorious time. Four were baptized and received into the church. Pray for us."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The population of Morgan City, La., says the Free Press, is 2018. It claims there are 2000 more in the immediate vicinity.

An earthquake at the Island of St. George, one of the Azores group, resulted in the formation of another island, 600 yards distant and about 18,000 square yards in extent.

The Chief gives the population of Donaldsonville, La.: Number of whites, 1129; number of colored persons, 1451; number of Chinese, 3; total, 2583. Its population in 1870 was 1573. This is a most encouraging showing and places Donaldsonville in the front rank of the growing towns of Louisiana and the South.

The Pall Mall Gazette says South Africa is threatened with another native war in consequence of the unjustifiable disarmament of the Basutos, which measure is attributable to Sir Bartle Frere's influence. A way should be found to appeal the question from the Cape Parliament to the Queen; but all steps will be useless which do not include Sir Bartle Frere's recall, as he has evidently failed in his special task, South African confederation. There can be no good reason why he should be left to extend the limits of an aceldama.

Is it Legalized Robbery?

BY DR. J. W. HARMON.

Legislative license enactments, passed under the exploded theory of obtaining revenue from the liquor traffic, have been persistently carried forward, although antagonized by the most convincing statistics of their downright deception and gross absurdity. And we can only account for the perplexing paradox in our legislation on the ground that our legislators are stimulated by a depraved appetite, the greed of gain, or the most erroneous conceptions of the rights of society, or the ignoring of the inevitable results of the traffic.

They have legalized public robbery, in obtaining money under false pretences, by licensing the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages for purposes of revenues, with which they essay to carry on the State government.

They have sanctioned by law, and for a stipulated sum, the liquor traffic on Sunday, that robs hundreds of laborers and their innocent families of their hard-earned wages, keeping them on the ragged edge of poverty and discontent, destroying the peace of families, and in hundreds of cases sundering the holiest family ties known to social life.

Constitutional law which is declared and designed to protect a man in his "life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness," is turned into an engine of destruction and public robbery, and throwing a shield over the traffic authorizes it to do its cruel and inhuman work in originating crime and bloodshed.

Representatives and Senators, Mayors and Aldermen, judges and and police commissioners, for a stipulated sum, legalize, under the forms of law, this public robbery of our citizens, this fountain head of crime and taxation, and then, when petitions signed by thousands asking for redress and protection are sent up to the legal authorities they are struck down by heartless demagogues and political parasites, and their petitions treated with contempt or the mere mockery of sham legislation; on the ground, "that our party cannot afford to loose votes in protecting the people and the commonwealth, from the damaging results of the liquor traffic. We hold office and the success of our party far higher than we do the interests of the citizens or the prosperity of the State. We cannot afford to endanger our own election by honest legislation."

And then to cap the climax of their injustice and moral cowardice, and to hide the true meaning of their betrayal of the true interests of the State, and to deceive their constituents, cry out with digusting cant, varnished with a veneering of thin hypocrisy and thick fanaticism. "Men must not be restricted in their liberties and ligitimate business; we must not trammel commerce and close up the channels of trade;" and with such flimsey utterances, begotten of ignorance, self interest or malice, or possibly all three, perpetuate the traffic on Sundays, accumulating the heaviest restrictions and the heaviest taxes that oppress the industries and prosperity of the commonwealth.

And moral men, and right minded men, and religious men, under the dictation of political parties, are content to send up just such men to perpetuate the wrong.

The authorities do not consider it a crime to license the sale of liquors on Sunday—a system that strikes down freedom and liberty itself; a system the inevitable result of which is the fruitful source of drunkenness, immorality and [illegible]s of every degree. And just because there is no law against drunkenness when divorced from actual crime, yet they do not hesitate to license that which inevitably produces both, and then attempt to escape their own wrong doing by lustily crying out we do not sanction the crimes committed, though they set a-going the inciting cause that originated the crime and the bloodshed.

Because when the entrapped criminal is arraigned before these constituted authorities, how changed their speech, how keen the reproof. "Your habits of intemperance," says the judge who actually issued the license, "have lead you into the commission of crime, to drink you owe the crime of murder committed on your wife, and you must pay the penalty with your life."

Now draw the strange contrast; the authorities said to this man, "you may drink in the licensed saloon or store, we fix no limits to your indulgence, we consent to it as eminently proper and beneficial to the State, because we have licensed these places to sell whisky, and we consider it a legitimate business and for purposes of revenue." Hence the victim drank by the authority of the State; did it publicly; that liquor inflamed his passions, and murder was the result. And now the judge with judicial mockery and solemn gravity, says to the State's victim: "Drinking is a crime, it has aggravated your offense, it has caused you to commit murder and you must die to appease the offended majesty of law!!!"

What said the victim in answer to the judge, why sentence of death should not be pronounced. "My countrymen permit a trade to be carried on in their midst with a full knowledge that such as I will inevitably be snared and ruined. I am a sinner and have been sinned against. Before God I am not as guilty as the State which demands my punishment."

And such are the bloody pictures hung up almost every day to the public gaze; and yet, our legislators refuse to abate the evils on Sunday by a State law, and one would well nigh come to the conclusion, that the legislators who [illegible] and perpetuate such a [illegible] wrong against the State, [illegible] be hung up with their victims.

[illegible] is to be hoped that the Hon. [illegible] Blair's bill in Congress, may be passed, abolishing the manufacture and sale of liquors after [illegible], [illegible] under government [illegible], for medicinal, mechanical, manufacturing and art purposes.

Holly Grove Circuit.

Rosemeath, Yazoo Co., July 7, 1880.

Dear Editor—Elder Bradford arrived here on the 3d inst., and held the quarterly conference. We had a good time. The pastor had received some in the church and expelled two, had raised $47.45 at Holly Grove for seats, and $46.80 at Wesley Chapel for the purchase of a bell, $10 for the presiding elder and $77.25 for the support of the pastor. Texas Correspondence.

Mr. Editor—Just returned from Galveston on yesterday's train. Stopped off in Houston Thursday night in time to enjoy one of the loveliest love feast's we have attended in many a day, at Rev. Paul Douglass' church. Since my trip I feel somewhat nerved up and better prepared to write than when I arrived home from Corpus Christi the 18th of last month. With Corpus Christi we finished our second round on the district. Here we have a small society and no church property. However, Bro. Henry Christmas is doing all he can with his little faithful band to raise means to purchase. If this had been done years ago when the people were better prepared to help themselves, everything would bear a different aspect to what it really does at present. We give our testimony that Corpus Christi has been sadly neglected in former days. Besides, a great deal of missionary money has been expended there, to but little purpose. We certainly will have to expend more, and the Church Extension will have to come in and help, or Corpus Christi will have to be left off. The pastor and his people find it slow going without a church house of their own. All other denominations have churches and the masses follow them, though the pulpits have lost their power to a great extent. Our people have managed to raise $32.75 to help purchase a lot, and say they will continue to work until the work is finished. We could but encourage them to continue to do so.

Corpus Christi is 93 or 94 miles from Goliad and nearly the same distance from Indianola. This may help to account for the non-visits of presiding elders and other ministers who love to help each other. Bro. C. Mays, at Goliad, is doing a good work, and will have many sheaves this conference year. Bro. D. Harper is going forward with the good work at Cuero and Mission Valley. His people love him. He has paid for a church lot, but had not yet got the deed to it. The company from whom we made the purchase had to consult the parties at San Antonio before they could write the deed according to our own style of warranty deed blanks. The land seems to have been purchased by an emigrant company, and they have their own forms and deed blanks. We instructed him what best to do in the matter. At Mt. Vernon Bro. L. Morris is doing a grand work amidst financial embarrassment and adverse circumstances. His people appreciate him for his moral worth and usefulness. Bro. R. Deaux, at Belmont, has nearly completed his church edifice, and his work is in a striving condition.

All through this sparsely settled country, the crops look promising and the tiller of the soil is looking and feeling proud. The colored people are purchasing land at a rate not known before. Through the territory just past, could accommodate 700,000 people and not be too closely jammed. Reaching as it does from the Perdernales, far beyond the sweet waters of the Nueces, on to the Rio Grande. All nationalities are well represented; many of the colored people speak different languages, Spanish, French, German and English.

We accept of the action of the General Conference in not electing one of my number to the Episcopacy. We believe the session was a grand one. We trust however, that the Church will not get so grand as to forget her every interest and labor of love amongst the nations of the earth to mete out justice even to her humblest communicant. We believe time will prove my people to be among the most loyal and most thorough Protestant people in the known world. And God, our Father, who has fought our battles and achieved our victories will not forsake us now amidst the storm of persecution levied against us, mainly because of our complexion and poverty.

Those Satan-inspired, fire-scented writers who are trying to make capital out of the action of the General Conference in not electing a colored bishop, and eulogizing the 229 who out-voted the 139, would eulogize the devil if there was not any Methodist Episcopal Church at all. The Brenham Sentinel asks: "What claim has the negro on the diocese?" Why didn't that thunder bolt go a little further, and ask what claim has the negro on the [illegible] and the promises of [illegible]. We admit that he who ruleth [illegible] has greatly blessed the [illegible] element and elevated [illegible] positions among [illegible] they must not ap[illegible] by oppressing [illegible], or they will [illegible] their rescue [illegible] throne. [illegible] dition of their fellow men, may be sustained by heaven, and those who are the enemies of mankind may know that God has blessed that "nation whose God is the Lord."

We are watching the work carried on by sister Hartzell and her able co-workers, praying God that their efforts may be crowned with abundant success. We are unable to express our warm thoughts and profound gratitude to her and to her God for the work thus being done. God be praised, every foot of earth's broad domain belongeth to Him who made it, and must be possessed for Emanuel and humanity.

We start next Thursday, the 8th, on our second round.

Mack Henson.

Austin, Texas, July 3, 1880.

Letter from Lavernia.

Lavernia, Texas, June 25, 1880.

Dear Editor—General W. H. Moseby with his army pitched a protracted meeting at what is known as the Docedo Colony, on the 17th inst., which is still impending, and opened fire on the host of Satan. He succeeded in capturing 14 souls for the Lord, and many more are at the altar seeking salvation. His fame has gone out through the country, and our meeting has been largely attended by the whites. Rev. Dibrell, of the M. E. Church, South, preached one sermon for us. Preaching is conducted in the open air. We expect to move on to Stevenson colony on the 30th. We are financially oppressed, but never stop for that. Church houses are needed on this circuit badly. Local exhorters and preachers are giving Bro. Moseby able assistance. Though we cannot boast of our Sunday-schools there is one at each station, except one. At one point we have a church under way, which will be very comfortable when completed. We are glad to see that the late General Conference did so wisely in electing the bishops, and hope the day will come when our brethren will look more at a man's heart and culture than at the color of his face. Pray for us. Johnny T. Gibbons.

Navasota District Conference.

The district conference of the Navasota district, Texas conference, met at Bryan June 23. The district was well represented by a good number being present to discharge the duties entrusted to them by the church. Reports showed it to be a year of marked prosperity. Five hundred and seventy have been added to the church this year up to the present time, church property bought and some building done. The laymen were interested in their part of the work. Education was urged upon the attention of the people, especially the advantages of Wiley University, located at Marshall, Texas. It is a training school for teachers and preachers. The students from that school are making their influence felt for good in different parts of the State. In the literary exercises the questions were discussed with ability, energy and profit to all.

Golden Text.—"I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth."—13.

Topic.—The Covenant not to Destroy.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Intermediate.—The covenant with Noah that there should be no more flood inevitably creates a desire to enquire into the flood itself. The earth was corrupt. There were a good many Cains upon the earth. It was brought to destroy man, and because of him, everything that had breath. Noah and his family were saved because of the righteousness of Noah. Pairs of beasts, and of fowls, and of everything that creepeth. Estimating the number of living species at 10,000, and this seems to be a mighty and formidable array to take into the ark. But there is good reason for thinking that with the spread of the living creatures over the face of the earth, the number of species, on account of different climatic conditions, has been increased.

The Ark was 300 cubits broad, and was 30 cubits high. If the cubit was 18 inches, that would give its dimensions as 450 feet long, 75 wide, 45 high. How long was the ark in process of construction? It is inferred from chap. 6: 3, that the time was one hundred and twenty years. The people then living were warned of what was coming long before it actually came, and had ample time for repentance. Up to the very time when Noah entered the ark "they were eating and drinking, and marrying and giving in marriage."

Noah kept such a strict journal of the events that happened while he was within the ark that they quite successfully can be tabulated as follows: Entered the ark, seven days before the flood; flood began [illegible] year of Noah's life, 2nd mo. [illegible]; duration of rain, 40 days and 40 nights; waters prevailed, 150 days; ark rested, 7th mo. 17th day; mountain tops appeared, 10th mo. 1st day; sent forth dove and raven (40 days after), 11th mo. 10th day; sent forth dove second time (7 days after), 11th mo. 17th day; sent forth dove third time (did not return), 11th mo. 24th day; face of ground dry—601st year of Noah's life, 1st mo. 1st day; went forth from the ark, 2nd mo. 27th day; total time in the ark, 1 year, 10 days.

Was the flood universal? Geology shows that every continent has been under water. It indicates that there have been several subsidences and upheavals—submergences and uprisings. By a sinking of the land, the waters of the sea rushed over the surface of the earth. Noah, after coming out of the ark, offered burnt offerings upon an altar, "of every clean beast and of every clean fowl." 8: 20. As God blessed Adam and Eve, so he blessed Noah and his sons, saying, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth." Through Noah the covenant was made with all subsequent generations. There were two specifications in the covenant. "Neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood." "Neither shall there be any more a flood to destroy the earth." As the sign that he no more would ruin the world with water, God sprung a bridge of beauty over a devastated earth. It was placed just where danger seemed to threaten. For years after the flood every dark cloud naturally would cause apprehension, and every cloud-burst would occasion terror. The tendency would be for the descendants of Noah to provide themselves with arks in anticipation of another overflow. They would need a sign to remind them of God's promise to the contrary—his smile on the threatening cloud. This sign was placed in the heavens in order that men might feel sure that he does not forget. It was to awaken their faith—not to arouse his memory. Its regular appearing is a symbol of God's constancy, and of the fact that he loves mercy rather than judgment.

A fool once more.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my folly proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such folly pays."—H. W., Detroit, Mich.

Dear Bro. Meek, Ed. "The Central Methodist," Catlettsburg, Ky.

I see in the last "Central" that you want a remedy for Sick Headache. If you will use a remedy that you advertise in your paper every week, I am sure you will be greatly benefitted thereby, and I believe cured. I have been a sufferer from Sick Headache, I can say almost from infancy, and have tried every remedy I could get, and never found anything to do me any good until I used Simmons Liver Regulator. It has been nearly three years since I first used it, and I have not had Sick Headache since, and I have never used but two packages and a half of the Regulator. I had a sister last Spring that had from one to two spells of Sick Headache every week. I sent her half of a package, and she says she has not had it since. I feel for any one that suffers with that terrible disease, and I hope you will give it a trial.

NEW BOOKS.

Rev. Dr. Charles S. Robinson, the author of "Songs for the Sanctuary," rendered a valuable service to the churches when he added to his later work, "Spiritual Songs for the Church and Choir," a most excellent edition called "Spiritual Songs for Social Worship;" and now a continuation of the series is to be issued, "Spiritual Songs for the Sunday-school," by the same accomplished author, who has been assisted in the work by Mr. W. F. Sherwin, the well-known musical conductor, composer and general Sunday-school worker. The book will be published by Scribner & Co.

Other Fools and their Doings; or Life among the Freedmen. Twelve mo, 234 pages; paper cover, 50 cents; bound in cloth, 75 cents. J. S. Ogilvie & Co., Publishers, 29 Rose street, New York.

A neatly-printed and bound volume, with the above title, comes to our table, and, as the present seems to be a time when every one is more or less interested in the South and everything concerning its welfare, and from the fact of that remarkable book, "A Fool's Errand," showing one side of Southern life, we would advise our readers who may wish to know still more of real life in that section of our country to read "Other Fools." It is bright and sparkling, and is written with great earnestness by one who, although the name is withheld, gives facts and incidents in which they were participants, and those who may desire to know the true history of the "Hamburg massacre," which caused so great a sensation and excitement, cannot do better than to read it in this volume. The illustrations in the work are very striking, and well calculated to interest and impress the mind of every reader. We believe it is destined to follow in the wake of its immediate predecessor, "The Fool's Errand," and have an immense sale.

Nerve Power.

Few people suffer so much nervous exhaustion as newspaper editors. The wear and tear of getting out a good paper tell fearfully, and readers seldom know how much vital force a single item may have cost the one who wrote it. Editors have often been driven to drink in order to stimulate their exhausted faculties, but of late are using Warner's Safe Nervine instead. This valuable preparation acts as a soothing power, quieting the nerves and producing sleep with all the refreshment that it brings.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Boston Musical Herald for July has an illustrated biographical sketch of Carl Maria Von Weber, interesting editorial notes, pieces of music and musical criticisms. Price 15 cts.; $1.50 per year.

—Harper's Magazine for August is a bright summer number. From "the laverock's song" amid the fields of Ayr, which Longfellow seems to hear as he writes of Burns, in the opening poem, we are taken by Phillip O. Sullivan to the pastoral nooks about Newport; and in his beautiful idyl we hear the "pipes of Arcady." Then in Rebecca Harding Davis's "By-paths in the Mountains," we catch a more robust strain from the farms of Pennsylvania and the heights of the North Carolina Black Range. Mr. Conway, with another and older song, lures us across the seas, and in the midst of the beauties of the Touraine—the garden of France—recounts the legends associated with St. Martin. Mr. Charles E Chase contributes an illustrated article on "The Cruising Canoe and its Outfit." Emily Huntington Miller's beautiful "Boat-Song" is graceful. Henry James, Jr., contributes the second part of his novel, "Washington Square;" and Blackmore's "Mary Anere" is concluded. In the Editor's Easy Chair Mr. Wilkie Collin's article on International Copyright is discussed. Among the other topics treated are Nominating Conventions, Madame D'Arblay's Diary, the Passion Play at Oberammergan, Weather Talk, and Henry James, Jr. The Drawer is unusually interesting.

Messrs. Moore & Wilson, publishers of that story paper, The Cricket on the Hearth, offer to send their paper free for six months to anybody who will write for it. See advertisement, "A Charming Story Paper Free for Six Months."

Cut this out and Save it.

If those persons laboring under disease proceeding from vitiated humors in the blood; causing Ulcers, White Swellings, Coxalgia or Hip Joint Disease, and the class of diseases termed Scrofulous, proceeding from hereditary taints, where the bones are destroyed, defying the usual treatment of physicians, will procure Swaim's Panacea, they will find a remedy which has saved thousands of lives; and thoroughly tested by the late professors Chapman, Dewees and Gibson of the old University of Pennsylvania; besides hundreds of medical men eminent in their profession, continues to be a "forlorn hope" to sufferers worthy of its fifty years' reputation.

Swaim's Panacea is imitated and a preparation sold for it by druggists with a name somewhat similar. Purchasers therefore must be careful and see they get that containing the recommendations of the distinguished professors alluded to. It is seldom advertised in our public papers.

Swaim's Panacea is prepared only at Swaim's Laboratory, 113 South Seventh Street, below Chestnut, Philadelphia.

W. S. Butler, P. E.

Columbus District, West Texas, Conference.

The Conference will be held at Gonzales, commencing Tuesday night, August 24, and continuing over the Sabbath. Rev. Larkin Carper will preach the opening sermon Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The work of a Sunday-school Convention and a Preachers' Theological Institute will be blended with the District Conference. As a preparation for the Theological Institute the preachers are all requested to review Wakefield's Theology, from page 408 to page 491, and write a short essay on some one of the subjects therein treated. We have invited Bro. Norris, of Victoria, to be present and assist in this department of the District Conference. We are very much indebted to Rev. R. H. Harbert, of Columbus, for his valuable help last year. We expect he will be present. All the traveling preachers of the district, the local preachers, exhorters, Sunday-school superintendents and district stewards are requested to be present.

Hayward and T. G. Montgomery; "The Work of the Last General Conference," Rev. Z. T. Gayden; discussion, "How can we induce our people to often read the Bible," Revs. Hill and Lacy; essay, "What is the Best Way to Prepare a Sermon?" Rev. A. Martin; "What Qualifications are Needed for the Ministry?" Rev. Wm. Smith; "How shall we Make the Prayer Meetings more Successful?" Revs. Kershaw and Primus; "What are the Duties of an Exhorter?" Revs. Rylander and M. Smith; "What are the Duties of a Local Preacher?" Rev. A. Jackson; Closing Sermon, Rev. Wm. Smith.

We hope Dr. Hartzell can be with us.

J. Gould, P. E.

To the Preachers of the West Texas Conference.

Dear Brethren—The presiding elders desire to call your attention to the benevolent collections for the present conference year. The amount you are expected to raise has been apportioned to you by the presiding elders, and in most cases entered in the Recording Steward's book. The time to raise these collections is while the money is stirring among the people. The Lord has favored us with good crops, and the amount apportioned for all the church collections can easily be raised if the right plan for raising the money is adopted. We recommend that each of the preachers keep a list of the names of all, whether members or not, who contribute fifty cents missionary money, so their names can be printed in the minutes. It is a good plan to appoint some active young ladies as collectors, and require them to put down in a book kept for that purpose, the name of every person that gives even five cents for the benevolent collections. There will probably be a large number of names of persons who contribute fifty cents. Each one of these persons will want a copy of the minutes. The names of all the local preachers is to be printed in the minutes next year, so of course every local preacher will want a copy of the minutes. There will be important tables of facts and figures concerning our own conference and the whole church, in the minutes for another year, which will interest every member of our Church. We therefore request each pastor to ascertain how many of his people will buy a copy of the minutes, and report at Conference so the publishing committee will know how many to have printed.

PREVENT

Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are n cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.

Always Fresh! Always Ready!

One of the advantages that Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient—being a dry white powder—has over many natural mineral waters, is the fact that it never becomes vapid or stale. It is, therefore, the most admirable preparation not only for travelers on land and sea, but for all who need a bright, fresh, sparkling alterative and corrective, and it is always ready.

Young Folks' Corner.

"WHERE ARE YOU GOING, YOUNG MAN."

Where are you going so fast, young man!
Where are you going so fast,
With the cup in your hand, a flush on your brow?
Though pleasure and mirth may accompany you now,
It tells of sorrow to come by and by;
It tells of a pang that is sealed with a sigh;
It tells of a shame at last, young man,
A withering shame that will last.

Where are you going so fast, young man?
Where are you going so fast?
The flash of that wine there is only a bait,
A curse lies beneath you that you'll find when too late;
A serpent sleeps down in the depths of that cup;
A monster is there that will swallow you up;
A sorrow you'll find at last, young man—
In wine there is sorrow at last.

There's a reckoning day to come, young man;
A reckoning day to come;
A life yet to live, and a death yet to die,
A sad, parting tear, and a parting sigh,
A journey to take, and a famishing heart,
A sharp pang to feel from Death's chilling dart,
A curse, if you drink that rum, young man
The bitterest curse in that rum.

Trust a Boy.

Somewhat more than fifty years ago, I was appointed a midshipman in the navy and ordered to New York. I was only fourteen years old, and, being of delicate make and small stature, did not look more than eleven. My previous life had been spent in the country, and I knew nothing of the ways or business proceedings. [illegible]-day was the thirtieth of the month, but I wanted some money on the twentieth, and, passing through Wall street, I went into a broker's office and said, "You lend money here, do you not?" "Yes," the broker replied. "I want to borrow twenty dollars for ten days." I did not then understand the quizzical manner with which the broker looked at me for a few moments, before replying, "You shall have it, and I won't charge you interest for it, either. What's your name?" He gave me the money and I signed a receipt; and, I need not add, the twenty dollars were promptly returned at the expiration of the ten days. I am sorry that I have forgotten the name of the broker. I mentioned the incident many years afterwards to a gentleman who said it was the most extraordinary story he ever heard of a Wall street broker.

[illegible] other case happened in Washington, about fifteen years [illegible] I was standing in the porch of Willard's Hotel, when a little [illegible] very bright honest face, accosted me with, "Please sir, lend me twenty-five cents to set me up in business. I want to buy some [illegible] to sell again on the [illegible]." I replied, "My boy, I [illegible] got twenty-five cents, but [illegible] fifty cents, and when you [illegible] return it you will find me [illegible] I am stopping at the [illegible]." I never expected to see [illegible] the money again, and considered it a donation; but, in the [illegible], as I was walking up and down the entrance hall, smoking a [illegible] was pulled by a [illegible], and I turned and [illegible] the youngster who had applied [illegible] a loan in the morning. [illegible] bright, honest face [illegible] me thus: "I have brought you back your fifty cents, [illegible] and I am ever so [illegible] to you. I have made a [illegible] clear profit."—[illegible] Chicago Appeal.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my sister, Edna Millsapt, who was carried to Louisiana in 1845 by John Millsapt. She had two children, a boy and a girl. Please address me at Paulding, Jasper Co., Miss. SPENCER JONES.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for a friend, Mary Caradine. She left West Point, Miss., in 1868 and came to Texas. She had three children, Chesterfield, the baby, Nancy and Jamima. My name is Joseph Bonapart Chandler, but am called Boney for short. Please address me at Fulton, Texas.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for Mrs. Maria Henry, at the request of her brother, H. L. Williams, who died June 28. He left her May 6, 1867, and joined the regular army, in which he served three years—till May 6, 1870. That was in Loundsboro, Ala. He leaves a wife and two children. Please address me at Galveston, Texas.
WILEY SMITH.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my people, whom I left in Houston, Texas. Father's name was Clam Watson; mother's, Eliza Watson; sister's, Malinda Watson; brother's, Elijah Isaiah. We belonged to Duncan Linton, of Houston, Texas. Please address me at Weimar, Texas, in care of Rev. John T. Hill.
WILLIAM WATSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my relatives, Martha Hunt, John Hunt, Sr.; John Hunt, Jr., and Sarah Hunt. We all lived in Lexington, Ky. I was brought to Texas during the war by Robert Metcalf, and lived in Brenham, Texas. Any information of them will be gladly received by addressing me at Richmond, Texas, in care of Rev. A. C. Culbreath.
LUCY HUNT.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my sister, cousin, aunt and uncle. Sister's name was Lizzie Vanhuss, and was carried off during the war by Mick Vanhuss and his wife. Aunt's name was Clara Eastland; uncle's, Henry Eastland and cousin's, Balam Buckner. The last I heard of cousin Balam he was at Millican's Bend. Mother's name is Matilda Eastland, and Balam's mother's Emily Harper. Address me at Forest, Scott Co., Miss.
WILLY WOODS.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my mother, supposed to be living in New Orleans, La. She was the wife of Frank Chauvin, and owned by Prof. Ortis, of St. Louis. She was sold from her husband and taken to New Orleans. I am told that she has a friend, Mrs. Nancy Jones, a member of the Methodist Church, living there. I am the only daughter, but have two brothers, Frank and James Chauvin. Address me at 1109 Washington avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
MISS MARY CHAUVIN.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my folks. I left mother in Aberdeen, Miss., when I was quite a boy. Father's name was Bob White, commonly called Free Bob. He died the first year of the war and left a girl, Jane White, my sister, with mother. Bob White, my brother, belonged to Bob Ellis, who lived about nine miles from Columbus, Miss., and was a blacksmith. Another brother, Ed. White, was in Jackson, Miss., the last I heard of him. A sister, Betty Posqually, left Columbus and went to Mobile. Her former name was Betsy Weaver. Please address me at Jacksonport. Ark. JAMES W. WHITE.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my three children. Mollida Barnett, the first one, left me about 40 years ago, was bought by speculators in Charlotte, N. C., and carried to Columbus, Ala. Mary Slaughter was carried from Canton to New Orleans. She belonged to Lewis Slaughter, who sold her in New Orleans, where he kept a tavern. Daughter Ellen used to belong to Bill Smith, and he sold her to William Buckles who carried her to Texas. When she left me, about [illegible] years ago, she had one [illegible]. They both went from Marion [illegible] Miss. When Mollie was sold [illegible] by the name of Mollissie [illegible] Address me at Canton, [illegible] of W. B. Hicks. A Story by Telegraph.

On the night of July 9th, about midnight, Thomas D. Dejarnette entered a house of ill-repute at Danville, Va., and inquired for Mollie Dejarnette, an inmate thereof. She appeared, recognized him as her brother, and at his request went with him to a private room. A few minutes afterward repeated pistol shots were heard from the room. The police were called in and found the door fastened. They broke it down, and discovered the girl lying on the floor, weltering in blood, her brother standing by her, pistol in hand. He immediately confessed having shot her, and averred he had done it to wipe out the disgrace of his family by his sister's conduct. He surrendered himself to the officers, and has been committed to jail. He declares his willingness to accept the penalty of the law.

Medical examination showed that the girl was shot in five places, two wounds at least being necessarily fatal, and that she cannot survive. She protests that her brother was right in taking her life, and begs that he be not punished. On their separation after the tragedy the brother and sister embraced with mutual forgiveness and tears of grief. The girl is only seventeen years old, and went wrong but a few months since. She is remarkably intelligent and fine looking. Her brother is about twenty, and is railroad agent and telegraph operator at Brown's Summit, N. C. Her mother is the widow of Dr. James Dejarnette, and lives in Caswell county, N. C., near Danville, Honored and Blessed.

When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies, the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.

LEMONS,
A Wonderful Medicine!

A RECENT DISCOVERY BY A PROMINENT SOUTHERN PHYSICIAN.

A PLEASANT LEMON DRINK.

REGULATES THE LIVER, BOWELS, STOMACH AND KIDNEYS.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR ALL CATHARTIC AND LIVER PILLS.

An interview with a number of St. Louis' most prominent citizens as to the merits of this New Medicine, a few whose names appear below. They have been using Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir personally and in their families for twelve or eighteen months. They pronounce it a most wonderful Medicine, and recommend it to the PUBLIC as the only Pleasant, Thoroughly Reliable and Economical remedy they have ever used for the diseases for which it recommended:

Judge Alex.—— Davis, Fourth and Chestnut streets.
Judge John P. Hudgens, 102 N. Fourth street.
Hon. John L. Martin, office opposite Four Courts.
T. P. Grastey, Law office, 1107 Clark avenue.
Capt. J. A. K. Stotts, of the St. Louis Beef Canning Company.
J. T. Morris, Real Estate Office, Sixth and Chestnut streets.
Dr. L. C. Mutz, 1413 N. 9th street.

Lemon Elixir cures all Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Indigestion, Bilious, Malarial, Remittent or Intermittent Fevers, Sallow Complexion, Pimples or Blotches on the skin, Impure Blood, Foul Stomach, Pain in the Back, Kidney Disease, Loss of Appetite, Weakness or Debility, Chills, Colds, and all other diseases caused by a torpid or diseased liver; nine-tenths of all diseases of the South and West are caused by the failure of the liver to do its duty. Show me a sick man or woman and I will show you a torpid or diseased liver. It is an established fact that the fresh juice of lemons, when combined with other liver tonics, produce the most desirable result upon the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, such is Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c.

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

Dr. Harter:—Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefits his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved.

MAMMOTH CAVE.
Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention. If Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:
"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,
—AND—
Rules of Evidence:
With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
—BY—
HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,
—AND—
WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.
8 vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.

IT MAY NOT BE.

It may not be our lot to wield
The sickle in the ripened field;
Nor ours to hear, on Summer eves,
The reaper's song among the sheaves.

Yet where our duty's task is wrought
In unison with God's great thought,
The near and future blend in one,
And whatever is willed is done.

And ours the grateful service whence
Comes, day by day, the recompense;
The hope, the trust, the purpose stayed,
The fountain, and the noonday shade.

And were this life the utmost span,
The only end and aim of man,
Better the toil of fields like these
Than waiting dreams and slothful ease.

But life, though falling like our grain,
Like that, revives and springs again;
And early called, how blest are they
Who wait in Heaven their harvest day!

[illegible] of Assailing the Errors of the Church of Rome.

BY REV. GEO. R. LYNCH.

[illegible] against Babylon [illegible] the bow shoot at [illegible] arrows, for she hath sinned [illegible] great sin of an- [illegible] with her [illegible] of silver and gold [illegible] with fantasies [illegible] and in the pas- [illegible] Now if we turn to [illegible] the Church of Rome, [illegible] there is no characteris- [illegible] apparent than her idolatry. [illegible] not worship Baal, and [illegible] and Jupiter, and Juno, [illegible] gods of the heathen, [illegible] least covered or removed [illegible] in the christened Pan- [illegible] of Peter, and Paul, and [illegible] may make meta- [illegible] between ven- [illegible] but the fact is [illegible] before these [illegible] of gold and silver papists [illegible] themselves, and offer to [illegible] to the being which [illegible] worship and [illegible] Thus the [illegible] is broken, and [illegible] the Church of [illegible] quently, her iden- [illegible] is mani- [illegible] least.

[illegible] ancient Baby- [illegible] built with [illegible] 4:9, was her [illegible] of the [illegible] is her idola- [illegible] attempt to [illegible] with hell— [illegible] of the [illegible] famous— [illegible] God [illegible] wrote [illegible] an- [illegible] of popery.

[illegible] church has sin- [illegible] functions [illegible] has trenched [illegible] of the Lord [illegible] He [illegible] unknown tongue; and all praise and prayer to be offered through idols of silver and gold, made like to corruptible man, and by these most unholy requirements has the character of the Most High in mysticism and in falsehood; and the God of our Savior is to her votiims an unknown God, and the Father of Jesus an unknown father. The Church of Rome has, by her division of sin into mortal and venial, encouraged and fostered the idea that the Almighty is not that infinite holy being which the Scriptures represent him to be, and that there cannot have been so urgent a need for the vindication of this great attribute; and, therefore, that there is not in the atonement all that intense love, and unbending justice, and spotless sanctity which Protestants magnify and make mention of. She has, in addition to this, communicated, as much as canons [illegible] communicate, some of the glo- [illegible] attributes of Jehovah to a mortal and sinful man. She has [illegible] the names of deity to the [illegible] of Rome, and the greatest [illegible] infallibility has she be- [illegible] alternately on councils and [illegible] This, surely, is blasphemy [illegible] most explicit description; [illegible] is a process in direct [illegible] to that which the gospel [illegible] Man humbled and God [illegible] all prevading ti- [illegible] God lowered [illegible] in his stead, is [illegible] of popery.

[illegible] church has sin- [illegible] functions [illegible] has trenched [illegible] of the Lord [illegible] He [illegible] be cast into the burning fiery furnace." Now this is just the very character of papery; she makes a corruptible wafer of her God; she elevates the host, and whosoever will not fall down and worship the idol which Rome has set, for him there is the blazing fagot or the cell of the barbarous inquisition.

Babylon was long the prison house of the people of God. For seventy years was Jerusalem seen on the tablets of memory only, and the tears of Zion's children were shed on the waters of Babel, and their harps hung on the weeping willows. And in like manner for centuries did the fathers mourn amid the polluted waters of modern Rome, and even now are there few in the midst of her to whom we address the echo of Jehovah's voice. Come out of her, my people.

1. She has sinned against the institutions of God. Under this head we would comprehend the Word of God, which he instituted as a light to our feet and a lamp to our path. This blessed book God wrote, not with ink, but with the blood of His Son, the best and brightest boon he had to bestow; and this book popery has locked up in a tongue unknown to the mass of the people, or allowed it to be read only by priestly license. For, says the counsel of Trent, "if Holy Bibles are distributed without discrimination in the vulgar tongue, more evil than good will arise; nay, the regular clergy may not read the Bible without permission of their prelates!" We do not think that this apostacy has herein been guilty of the sin against the Holy Ghost; and we are borne out in this awful charge by the fact that to Babylon no overture of peace, no promise of mercy is sent in Scriptures, but threatenings and destinies of blackness and wrath for ever and ever. Adam defaced and marred the page of the book of creation which showed forth the glory, and the majesty, and the goodness of the Almighty, but popery has mangled and marred the pages of inspiration which do contain the brightness and the glory of Jesus. Adam sinned against a creation God, but popery has sinned against a revelation God. From pilgrims and voyagers to eternity she has filched their chart, their compass and their polar star, and left them to thick darkness and dangerous reefs and ultimate wreck. From soldiers, necessarily so, she has stolen their sword, their shield, their breast-plate and their helmet, and left them utterly defenceless.

2. The Roman Catholic Church has sinned against the character of God. The Scriptures declare God to be a spirit, and that they who worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. This popery has totally overturned. She commands all worship to him to be presented on the terra-incognita of an unknown tongue; and all praise and prayer to be offered through idols of silver and gold, made like to corruptible man, and by these most unholy requirements has the character of the Most High in mysticism and in falsehood; and the God of our Savior is to her votiims an unknown God, and the Father of Jesus an unknown father. The Church of Rome has, by her division of sin into mortal and venial, encouraged and fostered the idea that the Almighty is not that infinite holy being which the Scriptures represent him to be, and that there cannot have been so urgent a need for the vindication of this great attribute; and, therefore, that there is not in the atonement all that intense love, and unbending justice, and spotless sanctity which Protestants magnify and make mention of. She has, in addition to this, communicated, as much as canons [illegible] communicate, some of the glo- [illegible] attributes of Jehovah to a mortal and sinful man. She has [illegible] the names of deity to the [illegible] of Rome, and the greatest [illegible] infallibility has she be- [illegible] alternately on councils and [illegible] This, surely, is blasphemy [illegible] most explicit description; [illegible] is a process in direct [illegible] to that which the gospel [illegible] Man humbled and God [illegible] all prevading ti- [illegible] God lowered [illegible] in his stead, is [illegible] of popery.

[illegible] church has sin- [illegible] functions [illegible] has trenched [illegible] of the Lord [illegible] He [illegible] stead. She has invaded also the prophetic office of Christ. He inspired the oracles of truth, and commanded their universal perusal, and presented Himself, their author, as their sure interpreter. But the Church of Rome has withheld the whole Bible from countries where her tyranny is at its maximum, and locked them up in other countries in a tongue unknown to the mass of the people; and in a few countries, where Protestant truth is powerful, she has permitted a restricted perusal or circulated a Bible enveloped in heresy and in perversion of its truth to the destruction of men; and instead of allowing men, by diligent prayer and perusal, to judge for themselves whether these things be so or not, she has commanded them upon the pain of death, and under the sanction of an oath, to receive and believe the interpretations of councils and popes, among which there are more contradictions than among all other sects of Christendom. She has also sinned against the priestly office of Christ. She declares that the mass is a true propitiation for the sins of the living and the dead. She declares that the merits of others are such as enable them not only to deserve the grace of justification, but also to increase it; and she asserts that the intercession of saints is extremely important, and their prayers vastly meritorious.

Popery finds a sphere for every native propensity of man and with all it pledges a sure reward in eternity. It gives full scope to every depraved desire, and, nevertheless, holds forth unbinding promises of glory. It shows how men may live as devils and die as angels. It is the religion which man wishes, but not the religion which man needs. It is the religion of earth, surrounded with the drapery and colored with the tints of real Christianity. It is the coin of Cæsar, stamped with the superscription of Jesus. It is the form of godliness, but the power of wickedness. It is Satan as an angel of light. Paganism is Satan going about as a roaring lion, but popery is Satan creeping in as a cunning serpent. Popery is the voice of Jabob, but the hand of Esau.

The Letters of Acceptance.

Gen. Garfield forwarded to Senator Hoar of Massachusetts the following letter of acceptance of the nomination tendered him by the Republican National Convention:

MENTOR, O., July 10, 1880.

DEAR SIR—On the evening of the 8th of June, last I had the honor to receive from you, in the presence of the committee of which you were chairman, the official announcement that the Republican National Convention at Chicago had that day nominated me as their candidate for President of the United States.

I accept the nomination with gratitude for the confidence it implies, and with a deep sense of the responsibilities it imposes.

I cordially indorse the principles set forth in the platform adopted by the Convention. On nearly all the subjects of which it treats my opinions are on record among the published proceedings of Congress. I venture, however, to mention some of the principal topics which are likely to become subjects of discussion.

Without reviewing the controversies which have been settled during the last 20 years, and with no purpose or wish to revive the passions of the late war, it should be said that while the Republicans fully recognize and will strenuously defend all the rights retained by the people, and all the rights reserved to the States, they reject the pernicious doctrine of State supremacy, which so long crippled the functions of the National Government, and at one time brought the Union very near to destruction. They insist that the United States is a nation with ample powers of self-preservation, that its constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are the supreme law of the land, that the right of the nation to determine the method by which its own legislature shall be created cannot be surrendered without abdicating one of the fundamental powers of the government, that the national laws relating to the election of representatives in Congress shall neither be violated nor evaded, that every elector shall be permitted freely and without intimidation to cast his lawful vote at such election and [illegible] to honestly canvassed, and that [illegible] of the vote shall not be destroyed by the fraudulent vote of any other person.

The best thoughts and energies of our people should be directed to those great questions of national well-being in which all have a common interest. Such efforts will soonest restore to perfect peace those who were lately in arms against each other, for justice and good will will outlast passion. But it is certain that the wounds of the war cannot be completely healed, and the spirit of brotherhood cannot fully pervade the whole country until every citizen, rich or poor, white or black, is secure in the free and equal enjoyment of every civil and political right guaranteed by the constitution and the laws. Wherever the enjoyment of these rights is not assured, discontent will prevail, immigration will cease, and the social and industrial forces will continue to be disturbed by the migration of laborers and the consequent diminution of prosperity. The national government should exercise all its constitutional authority to put an end to these evils, for all the people and all the States are members of one body, and no member can suffer without injury to all.

The most serious evils which now afflict the South arise from the fact that there is not such freedom and toleration of political opinion and action that the minority party can exercise an effective and wholesome restraint upon the party in power. Without such restraint party rule becomes tyrannical and corrupt. The prosperity which is made possible in the South by its great advantages of soil and climate will never be realized until every voter can freely and safely support any party he pleases.

Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular education, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained. Its interests are intrusted to the States and to the voluntary action of the people. Whatever help the nation can justly afford should be generously given to aid the States in supporting common schools. But it would be unjust to our people and dangerous to our institutions to apply any portion of the revenues of the nation or of the States to the support of sectarian schools. The separation of the church and the State in everything relating to taxation should be absolute.

On the subject of national finances my views have been so frequently and fully expressed that little is needed in the way of additional statement. The public debt is now so well secured, and the rate of annual interest has been so reduced by refunding, that rigid economy in expenditures and the faithful application of our surplus revenues to the payment of the principal of the debt, will gradually but certainly free the people from its burdens and close with honor the financial chapter of the war. At the same time the government can provide for all its ordinary expenditures and discharge its sacred obligations to the soldier of the Union and to the widows and orphans of those who fell in its defense.

The resumption of specie payments, which the Republican party so courageously and successfully accomplished, has removed from the field of controversy many questions that long and seriously disturbed the credit of the government and the business of the country. Our paper currency is now as national as the flag, and resumption has not only made it everywhere equal to coin, but has brought into use our store of gold and silver. The circulating medium is more abundant than ever before, and we need only to maintain the equality of all our dollars to insure to labor and capital a measure of value, from the use of which no one can suffer loss. The great prosperity which the country is now enjoying should not be endangered by any violent changes or doubtful financial experiments.

In reference to our customs laws a policy should be pursued which will bring revenue to the treasury and will enable the labor and capital employed in our great industries to compete fairly in our own markets with the labor and capital of foreign producers. We legislate for the people of the United States, not for the whole world, and it is our glory that the American laborer is more intelligent and better paid than his foreign competitor. Our country cannot be independent unless its people, with their abundant natural resources, possess the requisite skill at any time to clothe, arm and equip themselves for war, and in time of peace to produce all the necessary implements of labor. It was the manifest intention of the founders of the government to provide for the common defense, not by standing armies alone, but by raising among the people a greater army of artisans, whose intelligence and skill should powerfully contribute to the safety and glory of the nation.

Fortunately for the interests of commerce there is no longer any formidable opposition to appropriations for the improvement of our harbors and great navigable rivers, provided that the expenditures for that purpose are strictly limited to works of national importance. The Mississippi river, with its great tributaries, is of such vital importance to so many millions of people that the safety of its navigation requires exceptional consideration. In order to secure to the nation the control of all its waters President Jefferson negotiated the purchase of a vast territory, extending from the gulf of Mexico to the Pacific ocean. The wisdom of Congress should be invoked to devise some plan by which that great river shall cease to be a terror to those who dwell upon its banks, and by which its shipping may safely carry the industrial products of 25,000,000 of people. The interests of agriculture, which is the basis of all our material prosperity, and in which seven-twelfths of our population are engaged, as well as the interests of manufacturers and commerce, demand that the facilities for cheap transportation shall be increased by the use of all our great water courses.

The material interest of this country, the traditions of its settlement, and the sentiments of our people, have led the government to offer the widest hospitality to immigrants who seek our shores for new and happier homes, willing to share the burdens as well as the benefits of our society, and intending that their posterity shall become an undistinguishable part of our population. The recent movement of the Chinese to our Pacific coast partakes but little of the qualities of such an immigration, either in its purposes or its result. It is too much like an importation to be welcomed without restriction, too much like an invasion to be looked upon without solicitude. We cannot consent to allow any form of servile labor to be introduced among us under the guise of immigration. Recognizing the gravity of this subject the present administration, supported by Congress, has sent to China a commission of distinguished citizens for the purpose of securing such a modification of the existing treaty as will prevent the evils likely to arise from the present situation. It is confidently believed that these diplomatic negotiations will be successful without the loss of commercial intercourse between the two powers, which promises a great increase of reciprocal trade and the enlargement of our markets. Should these efforts fail, it will be the duty of Congress to mitigate the evils already felt, and prevent their increase by such restrictions as, without violence or injustice, will place upon a sure foundation the peace of our communities and the freedom and dignity of labor.

The appointment of citizens to the various executive and judicial offices of the government is perhaps the most difficult of all the duties which the constitution has imposed upon the executive. The constitution wisely demands that Congress shall co-operate with the executive departments. In placing the civil service on a better basis, experience has proved that, with our frequent changes of administration, no system of reform can be made effective and permanent without the aid of legislation. Appointments to the military and naval service are so regulated by law and custom as to leave but little ground of complaint. It may not be wise to make similar regulations by law for the civil service, but, without invading the authority or necessary discretion of the Executive, Congress should devise a method that will determine the tenure of office and greatly reduce the uncertainty which makes that service so unsatisfactory. Without depriving any officer of his rights as a citizen, the government should require him to discharge all his official duties with intelligence, efficiency and faithfulness. To select wisely from our vast population those who are best fitted for the many offices to be filled requires an acquaintance far beyond the range of any one man. The Executive should, therefore, seek and receive the information and assistance of those whose knowledge of the communities in which the duties are to be performed best qualifies them to aid in making the wisest choice.

The doctrines announced by the Chicago convention are not the temporary devices of a party to attract votes and carry an election. They are deliberate convictions, resulting from a careful study of the spirit of our institutions, the events of our history, and the best impulses of our people. In my judgment these principles should control the legislation and administration of the government. In any event they will guide my conduct until experience points out a better way.

If elected, it will be my purpose to enforce strict obedience to the constitution and the laws, and to promote, as best I may, the interest and honor of the whole country, relying for support upon the wisdom of Congress, the intelligence and patriotism of the people, and the favor of God.

With great respect I am

Very truly yours,

J. A. GARFIELD.

To the Hon. George F. Hoar, Chairman of Committee.

Gen. Arthur, the Republican candidate for Vice President, has written a letter to Senator Hoar, accepting the nomination. In it he says: "The authority of the National Government to preserve from fraud the elections at which its own officers are chosen, is the chief point on which the two parties are plainly and intensely opposed. The acts of Congress for ten years have, in New York and elsewhere, done much to outrun the violence and wrong to which the ballot and count have been again and again subjected—sometimes despoiling great cities, sometimes shifting the voice of a whole State, often seating not only in Congress, but on the bench and in legislatures, a number of men never chosen by the people. The Democratic party, since gaining possession of the two houses of Congress, has made these just laws the object of bitter, ceaseless assault, and, despite all resistance, has hedged them with restrictions cunningly contrived to baffle and paralyze them. The Republican party has strongly approved the stern refusal of its representatives to suffer the overthrow of the statutes, believed to be salutary and just. It has always insisted, and now insists, that the government of the United States of America is empowered, and is in duty bound, to effectively protect the elections denoted by the constitution as national. It is a suggestive and startling fact that the increased power derived from the enfranchisement of a race now denied its share in governing the country, wielded by those who lately sought the overthrow of the government, is now the sole reliance to defeat the party which represented the sovereignty and nationality of the American people in the greatest crisis of our history. Republicans cherish none of the resentment which may have animated them during the actual conflict of arms.

"They long for full and real reconciliation between the sections which were needlessly and lamentably at strife. They sincerely offer the hand of good will, but they ask in return a pledge of good faith. They deeply feel that the party whose career is so illustrious in the great and patriotic achievement will not fulfill its destiny until peace and prosperity are established in all the land, nor until liberty of thought, conscience, action and equality of opportunity shall be not merely cold formalities of the statutes, but living birthrights, which the humble may confidently claim and the powerful dare not deny."

He indorses the civil service resolution and resumption policy; refers to the questions of education, tariff, internal improvements and improvements of water courses, and in conclusion says: "There is danger in intrusting the control of the whole law making power of the government to a party which has in almost every Southern State repudiated obligations, quite as sacred as those to which the faith of the nation now stands pledged."

The population of Utah is 144,000, of whom 32,000 are non-Mormons. The Gentiles have increased 200 per cent since the last census.

The Sunday Law.

The Sunday law is being strongly advocated in all the Southern States. It is now rigidly enforced in Kentucky, and the Courier-Journal speaks as follows of its agency in closing liquor saloons on Sunday:

The retail liquor dealer represents a business of debauchery; a business which nurses and instigates crime; a business which is inimical to the welfare of society; and a business which bears heavily on the pockets of taxpayers. No one can deny that such is the nature of the business which insists upon a discrimination in its favor, embodying the addition of a day more in which to inflict physical and moral injury upon men. On some election days all the liquor saloons are required to be closed. Why? Because there are large numbers of men who are not at work on those days, and who will ply themselves with liquor until they have no longer control over their wills. Then they are prepared to commit crime. For the same reason the liquor saloons should be hermetically sealed Sunday. There are fewer men at work on Sunday than on any other day, and if several hundred are open for "business," they are likely to do business with a vengeance in their peculiar and detrimental way. Liquor selling is a very peculiar and a confessedly dangerous business, and it should be dealt with in a very peculiar way—just like gunpowder, for instance, which is carefully stored and locked up at isolated points for reason of public safety. It has come to be the rule that the bloodiest crimes of the week are committed on Sunday, and almost every one of them has its origin in Sunday drinking with resultant quarreling and violence, either in saloons or near them. There is certainly abundant reason why the amended Sunday law should be enforced.

Christian Humility.

"There was a strife among them which should be accounted the greatest." This "strife" was not confined to that early period. Our age is laden with decorations, certificates, and double-class honors; there is an earnest thronging toward the chief seats. It may be well for us to study the teachings of Jesus upon this subject; to consider the principle which regulates authority and position in His Church. He said, "Except ye be converted"—take an opposite course—"ye cannot so much as enter into the kingdom of heaven, much less have any position in it." We thus learn that the conquest of self is the indispensable condition, not only of authority in the Church, but of actual entrance into it. In this, as in all else, Christ is the example. "He made Himself of no reputation;" "He humbled Himself;" He washed the disciples' feet. The true Christian is that man in whom the dominion of self is broken; so long as the fraction is held to be greater than the whole, the heart is at a great distance from Jesus. This principle has important applications in all the relations of life. The man who works only for himself may be a theologian, but he is not a Christian; he is not working on the line which terminates in the cross; the spirit of self-crucifixion is not in him. Christ will excuse ignorance and pity weakness, but he cannot endure vanity. "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart."—Parker.

Heathenism in Christendom.

The New York Advocate says: "An Episcopal Church in New Jersey awhile ago—not by any means an example of all the churches in that excellent denomination—believing that the bread and wine of the Lord's Supper are the literal body and blood of Christ, and therefore of God also, issued directions to its communicants that in observing the Supper they were not to let a crumb of it fall to the floor, or lodge any of it on their moustaches, or use their handkerchiefs afterwards wiping their lips, because as the Deity was in every particle of them, it would be God himself they were dropping on the floor, lodging on their moustaches, and wiping away from their mouths; and then, doubtless, that same church, after issuing these directions, took up a collection to spread abroad the Gospel among the heathen, and convert them from the soul destroying superstition that their images of wood and stone are veritable gods."

General Garfield is a statesman of the highest rank; General Hancock is a soldier, with no experience in political affairs. The one would be master of the office to which he is nominated, and would dictate his own policy with such skill as he has ever shown; the other might develop sufficient genius to do this, but everything leads to the inference that he would be dependent largely upon his advisers.—Boston Watchman.

Senator Thurman, Jere Black and others of the great leaders in the Democratic party speak of Gen. Garfield as an honest, upright man. Such endorsements should satisfy the leading party organs that their attempts to malign the General will pass for only what they are worth and no more. The truth is that no more honest and upright man has received a presidential nomination from the Republican or any other party since the days of Washington, than Garfield.—Fort Wayne Gazette.

At five o'clock on the morning of the 21st, a caisson surrounding a deep well leading to the entrance of the Hudson river tunnel, in the course of construction, at the foot of Fifteenth street, in Jersey City, caved in, carrying with it an immense quantity of earth. Twenty-one men were buried. Seven were soon after taken out alive. Fourteen remain underneath. The water from the river flowed in rapidly, and steam fire engines were set to work, if possible, to save those who might still be alive from drowning.

With great research and labor Sharon Turner has prepared the following statement of the progress of Christianity. At the close of each century the number (about) of believers is given: First, 500,000; second, 2,000,000; third, 5,000,000; fourth, 10,000,000; fifth, 15,000,000; sixth, 20,000,000; seventh, 24,000,000; eighth, 30,000,000; ninth, 40,000,000; tenth, 50,000,000; eleventh, 70,000,000; twelfth, 75,000,000; thirteenth, 80,000,000; fourteenth, 90,000,000; fifteenth, 100,000,000; sixteenth, 125,000,000; seventeenth, 155,000,000; eighteenth, 200,000,000. During the present century it is estimated that the Church has doubled its communicants.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

JOSEPH C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1880.

A Few Plain Words to Our Preachers.

As publishers of the SOUTHWESTERN we must say a few plain words to the preachers who act as agents for the paper. Our financial year ended June 30, and at that time we have made up from the books a statement of all receipts and expenditures for the previous twelve months. We also have a complete table made of all bills due us, so by comparing year with year we can know just what each preacher does for the paper. Some preachers, no matter where they are stationed, send good cash lists of subscribers. Other preachers, no matter how good their appointments, never do anything. Others are always running in debt and hardly ever pay, or if they do, want half their bill thrown off. Where the preachers are poor and have taken large lists for the paper and have lost by the death, removal or dishonesty of subscribers we always are ready to make due allowance. There are also agents who collect money and keep it, and when their attention is called to it, FORGET that they ever had it. There are not many of this class, but there are some in every conference.

Now, brethren, our books classify the agents of the SOUTHWESTERN into several classes.

1. There are the GOOD AGENTS. Every year those of this class have lists of subscribers and get the pay for them and send the money to us promptly. No matter how poor the appointment they always do well. AND THESE MEN WE SEE BY THE CONFERENCE MINUTES GENERALLY ARE WELL SUPPORTED. People support the preachers who labor for their good and every member knows that the man who circulates the SOUTHWESTERN is doing good.

2. There are the GOOD FOR NOTHING AGENTS. No matter how good the appointment or how large the list was at that place the year previous, this class never does anything for the paper. It is sometimes hard to collect a dollar a year from them to pay for their own paper.

3. There are agents who get LARGE LISTS BUT ARE POOR PAY. Many of these seem to think that when the names are sent to the office their work is done, and toward the end of the year, write or say at Conference, "I did not collect the money and cannot pay it." We are persuaded that a good many of this class are careless and do not try to collect. As a rule people who want the paper and subscribe for it will pay for it, if only a little at a time. But if an agent sees that a subscriber does not intend paying then he should at once write us and have his name stricken from the list.

There are other classes we might name but these are the principal ones. Brother, to which of these classes do you belong? We are doing all we can to put a good paper in your hands to help you save and bless your people. We give you your own paper for $1 a year, and give you a commission on every subscriber you send us the money for. The General Conference made a yearly appropriation to help support the paper. And will you not take hold at once and work as never before for the paper? If you have done well heretofore, do better; if you have done nothing remember your vows at conference and "pay thy vows." If you have unsettled accounts will you not at once send the money, at least in part. Do not hold money until conference. WE NEED IT NOW, to pay bills.

We are not scolding but just talking plain business, and now give fair warning that those preachers who fail to send what they owe us, or to write and explain why they do not will have their papers stopped.

Faith in God.

The soul that rests its faith in God has a perfect and satisfying solution to all questions, relating to the origin and preservation of things, material and spiritual. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." In that single sentence the whole question of creation is solved. When the beginning was is of no importance. What was the exact modus operandi in creation, whether each thing was created separately, or whether by a single volition of the Divine will all were created at once, or whether by a series of evolutions through ages one species succeeded another, is of small import. So of many other questions relating to creation. Outside of this question all others are of no moment. Admitted that "GOD created the heavens and the earth," and the soul rests firmly and joyfully in the truth of a great First Cause, who made the heavens above us, and the earth beneath and around us, the air we breathe, our bodies, our souls, and created every relation whether between atom and atom, between thought and thought, or between star and star. When the soul lays hold of this fundamental truth it has rest and inspiration.

The faith that rests in God does not stop with the belief in his existence and creative power, but accepts also the revelation He has made of himself to man. There are many questions which relate to this revelation, which we must study, as for example its possibility—its probability; the antecedent conditions in man to receive it, the manner of giving it, and the many questions relating to the authority and preservation of the record. These questions are all necessary and give the broadest possible play to human ingenuity and knowledge. But faith in God, while it does not neglect these questions, steps to the front and grasps the revelation itself, and bids the soul feast upon and rejoice in its truths.

Who can recount the ineffable rest and joy of soul, that have come to the heart of humanity from the sacred pages of the Bible? How they warn and alarm the sinner; how they comfort and encourage the penitent; how their teachings adorn old age, and direct the footsteps of youth; how their words come as from the very heart of God and distil divine sympathy into the soul of the bereaved; how its promises have strengthened martyrs in every age, given hope to the despondent in every condition, sustained the broken-hearted widows as they have followed their loved ones to the tomb, and cast a halo of glory over death and the grave!

Faith in God means also faith in His over-ruling providence, whereby the soul finds a solution of all difficulties growing out of the imperfect administration of justice in this life. Herein lies the whole question of evil—its origin, nature, effects and actual or possible results. Reason can give no satisfactory solution for the existence of evil, or its consequences upon men's bodies and minds, and upon society and the world. The only solution is that God permits it and all its fearful consequences on the earth, so that in some way greater glory may come to him and to man. How this is to be no human wisdom can tell. We may theorize upon the basis of man's free moral agency; we may admit the fact of the atonement, by which the soul is saved from the effects of sin; but in the end, no matter what way we travel, we come to the insoluble problem—why is evil? Only faith in God can answer. Faith says God lives, and is infinite in power, in sympathy and duration, therefore, in some way, in His good time we shall understand these things. Who has not, over and over again in his experience, come to understand this? Afflictions have come, and our hearts have been smitten with anguish. We could give no reason why we should be the victim; the more we studied the matter, the greater was our perplexity. With tearful eyes we looked toward the heavens, and every star seemed to have been blotted out. We went to God in prayer, and broken and crushed in spirit, we cried for wisdom—and the answer came.

Bishop Merrill and "Colored" Methodists.

Our readers well remember our reference to a statement in the Western Methodist which made Bishop Merrill say he was in favor of all colored Methodists being in [illegible] church, and of our expression [illegible], that the Bishop had [illegible] misunderstood. The editor [illegible] Western Methodist wrote to [illegible] Merrill and asked him what [illegible]. In his reply the Bishop [illegible] ... that, if all [illegible] organiza[illegible] better than in their present divided state. You suggested that I would want them all in our church. I said yes, but that I would not insist on that, if they wanted to be alone. This, you will observe, does not amount to an expression in favor of putting our own Methodist people out of our church and into another. I made no statement as to what I would prefer under existing facts. I believe it would be well for all Methodists, black, white, red, and brown, to be in one church; but it would not be fair to quote me as favoring an effort to consolidate all organizations, under existing conditions. I have an ideal picture of the best, but at the same time, I see such formidable difficulties in the way of its attainment that immediate efforts for its realization would appear preposterous. My heart beats in sympathy with all efforts to benefit colored Methodists, and until something better appears practicable, I am in favor of working our present methods with increasing zeal and persistence."

These statements of the Bishop are entirely in harmony with our understanding of what he said at the time. The editor of the Western Methodist in common with many other good men, in this Southern region, have a theory that all Methodists should be divided on the color line and one part be united in one great big "Colored" Methodist Church. It is not strange then that they catch at every straw, in word or act, which seems to favor that view. But such a theory will never be carried out. The Methodist Episcopal Church South has acted on that theory, but other churches will not follow its example. Besides, "Colored" Methodist Churches have their rights and preferences which would have to be consulted. And it strikes us that it does not come with very good grace from our Southern Methodist brethren, to give advice so freely touching the autonomy of other churches. Any talk of interfering with the present separate existence of that church is resisted with great vigor. Even the question of "fraternity" with the Methodist Episcopal Church is always carefully hedged about with protestations that organic union with that body is neither desirable nor possible. Bishop Merrill's advice is good. Work "present methods with increasing zeal and persistence."

The Letters of Generals Garfield and Arthur.

We publish General Garfield's letter of acceptance in full, and also an abstract of General Arthur's letter. We will publish General Hancock's letter when it appears.

General Garfield accepts cordially the platform adopted by the Republican Convention in Chicago which nominated him for the Presidency. He also emphasizes several important points; such as popular educations, the national finance, the public revenue, internal improvements, the doctrine of State supremacy, the Chinese question, and civil service. He repudiates the "pernicious" doctrine of State sovereignty, as does also General Arthur. Of the South General Garfield says:

> The most serious evils which now afflict the South arise from the fact that there is not such freedom and toleration of political opinion and action that the minority party can exercise an effective and wholesome restraint upon the party in power. Without such restraint party rule becomes tyrannical and corrupt. The prosperity which is made possible in the South by its great advantages of soil and climate will never be realized until every voter can freely and safely support any party he pleases.

Chrisman Hall.

Says the Atlanta Advocate: "Chrisman Hall is nearly completed. It will be ready for occupancy by the first of August. Soon after that date preparations for the next school year will be commenced, and the building will be furnished and occupied in ample time to receive the crowds of students who are expected to fill its halls. It is an elegant, commodious and double structure. The cost when furnished will be $30,000, and it is a splendid edifice for that amount of money. The whole Church may well be proud of it. But few ministers North or South in active service at this time enjoyed in their early days such opportunities for education as will be furnished here next year. Twenty years ago there were but few college buildings in America equal the Chrisman Hall. We doubt whether there is one in the State of Georgia now to compare with this, except Shorter College, at Rome. It ought to be, and we believe will be, filled with students at once."

An Emancipation Celebration.

A celebration, to commemorate the emancipation of 800,000 slaves in the British West Indies, will take place at the Fair Grounds on Monday, August 2d, 1880, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m., and continuing throughout the day and evening.

An important epoch in connection with the colored race in America was the general emancipation of slaves in the West Indian Islands, from 1834 to 1838. It was incentive to the freedom of the African race in the United States and the precursor of emancipation throughout the world. This should be a gala day, not only of the colored people, but of all the lovers of freedom, and all friends of human progress, of every class and condition.

Invitations are extended to every colored organization in the State, whether religious, patriotic, benevolent, or social. Parties interested, in other States, are cordially invited to participate. Correspondence relative thereto should be held through the Corresponding Secretary of the General Committee, C. I. Dowden, Headquarters, St. James Chapel Hall, 35 Roman St., New Orleans, La.

Progress in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Arkansas, has a Public High School for colored pupils. Of the late closing exercises a daily, of that city, says:

> The galleries were set apart for the whites and were densely crowded, almost to suffocation, by the very best citizens of the city, both ladies and gentlemen; and we are sure that, being untrammeled and unbiased by the prejudices to color, they looked with pride and delight upon the superb evidences of education as manifested by the graduates of this institution of learning on the occasion.
> We hardly feel able to frame our sentences to give adequate expression to the impressions made upon our mind by the unusual spectacle.
> But there is one fact more patent to us than ever before, after patiently listening to the declamations and essays of these graduated pupils, as representatives of the race of Afric's sunny clime, whose lot has been cast among us, that the minds of those people are highly susceptible of intellect, culture, and training, which will not only redound to their moral and religious welfare, but be eventually a blessing to all civilization. Surely, "peace hath its victories no less renowned than war!"

The Chicago Post Office handled, during the year just ended, 4,250 tons of mail matter. Of this the letters weighed 264 tons; the postal cards, 33 tons; the circulars, 187 tons, and second class matter, newspapers, etc., 3,766 tons. Over 30,000,000 of letter and 10,500,000 postal cards were mailed. The letters and postals delivered by carriers numbered nearly 36,000,000. This office gives a net cash income to the government of $800,000 a year, and its receipts and disbursements amount annually to more than $10,000,000. Mr. Palmer is Post Master.

The Zulus will figure in history as victims of a British version of the Monroe doctrine. "Manifest Destiny" compelled their subjection. And now, the Briton who every morning says: "Let us go out and kill something," already is at home in his new hunting-ground—the bush of Zululand. This jungly, flower-bespread, lion-haunted wilderness has been the scene of many startling adventures, but of none more strange and interesting that that which befell a small Scottish lassie some years ago, and which is described and illustrated in the August St. Nicholas.

Rev. L. P. Cushman, Presiding Elder of the Houston district, Texas, writes July 20, speaking of the SOUTHWESTERN and says: "Those who take the paper like it much. Some can not read it, but their children can. Its influence in the homes of our people is just blessed. It speaks the truth in love. God bless the editor and God give his benediction to each copy and go with each one as it visits the homes of our people."

After Mordecai the Jew came to the throne of power, under King Ahasuerus, it is said, "Many of the people of the land became Jews;" that is, they changed their religion so as to be on the popular side in the kingdom. Everybody will say that was a weak and foolish thing to do. But how many thousands do the same thing to-day? Thousands of people, for business or pleasure, deny their religion in this day.

At noon last Sunday Dr. Tanner commenced the twenty-seventh day of his attempt to fast forty days. He was reported in good spirit and seemed quite strong. He had only taken five ounces of cold water for the previous twelve hours. He not only looks thinner, but has grown shorter. His apparent success is rather a psychological and physiological wonder, and of little or no practical value to mankind.

Mrs. Ellen E. Dickinson contributes to the Midsummer Scribner an account—including affidavits, a statement from Thurlow Weed, etc.—of the origin of the Mormon Bible, which, it is claimed, was written, in the form of a novel, by her great-uncle, Rev. Solomon Spalding. It is said this MS., with a few slight changes, was appropriated by Joseph Smith and his associates.

The Great Jackson Route keeps ahead in the railroad war now going on in cutting rates from New Orleans, northward and return. The latest rates are as follows:

Louisville and return	$19 50
Cincinnati and return	19 50
Indianapolis and return	20 00
Nashville and return	20 00
Chattanooga and return	20 00

These tickets are good until March 31st, 1881.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Miss Coffin has returned to her post as assistant in the editorial work of the Methodist Advocate.

—The Methodist Advocate in republishing from the SOUTHWESTERN the letter of Rev. H. Cordozo, written from Cincinnati, June 30, forgot to give the proper credit.

—Rev. A. J. Witherspoon, chaplain of the Presbyterian Seamen's Bethel in this city, has received the degree of D D. from Erskine College, at Due West, S. C.

—United States Consul, Hon. S. B. Packard, at Liverpool, England, gave a grand dinner July 4th to the leading American residents and ship captains of that city. The Mayor was present, with the principal officers of the city government.

—Judge Tourgee, author of "A Fool's Errand," has received the degree of LL.D. from Rochester University. The Judge says he himself was the fool of whom he writes. The world would be much better if there were many more such fools.

—Miss Minnie Brakeman, daughter of Rev. N. L. Brakeman, of Northwest Indiana, and a musical graduate of Cincinnati Wesleyan College, has been tendered the principalship of the musical department of the Wesleyan University, Athens, Tenn.

—W. S. Kernan, whose pen made the Okolona States a conspicuous rebel newspaper for a season, was cowhided recently by Col. A. V. Harper, the proprietor, and the partnership dissolved. Mr. Kernan is now a paid correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

—The Philadelphia Methodist says: "During the vacation of Rev. Dr. Tiffany, the pulpit of Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church is to be supplied by William Ingraham Haven, son of the lamented Bishop Haven. Rev. W. I. Haven is a graduate of Wesleyan University."

—The fasting of Dr. Tanner, now going on in New York, recalls the case of Reuben Kelsey, of Albany, New York, who, under the delusion that he must not eat until God gave him an appetite, lived fifty-three days without food. He drank water daily. On the fifty-third day he died.

—We are shocked to learn by a private letter of the death of Rev. W. H. Miese, Pastor of Pearl Street Methodist Episcopal Church in Cincinnati. He was sick but two days with something like the cholera morbus. His wife was East at the time adding to the sadness of the event. He died last Wednesday.

—Aaron Taylor, teacher of Piney Chapel school, writes from Plantersville, Texas, that his forty pupils have passed an examination of a very satisfactory kind. The closing exercises, consisting of speeches and songs, were well attended by the public. He thinks some of his pupils will soon be ready for the University at Marshall.

—The Board of Supervisors of the Louisiana University and A. and M. College met at Baton Rouge on the 2nd inst., and decided upon a thorough reorganization of the institution. All the chairs were declared vacant and the following officers were elected: President of the Faculty, Col. Samuel H. Lockett; Secretary of the Board, W. H. Goodale; Treasurer, B. F. H. Skolfield.

—The Donaldsonville Chief alluding to the removal of Col. James Lewis from the Naval office, and his support to Gen. Grant, says: "If a crusade is to be opened against the Republican leaders who had the manhood to stand up for the people without regard to the behests of the office holders, the semblance of a Republican organization may as well be abandoned, for it will be nothing but a hollow mockery and fraud."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

LOUISIANA.

The second quarterly love feast at Mt. Zion, New Orleans, Pastor King reports was largely attended and was a most enjoyable occasion. One member was received.

The second quarterly love feast at Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, Rev. Emperor Williams pastor, was attended by a large audience and many testified of the love of God shed abroad in their hearts.

A. Hilton, Cheneyville: "Held the second quarterly meeting on 10-11 inst. Baptized 7 children and 1 adult; 4 backsliders reclaimed; 118 persons partook of the Lord's supper. Paid the pastor $43 50, and had a good time."

E. P. Royal, New Orleans: "On the night of July 10, a vocal and instrumental concert was given by the LaHarpe Sunday-school, to raise money to purchase an organ. After the performance the many guests were invited to a repast in Lutheran Hall. We hope Mr. R. C. Barrow will revive us again with another and a similar concert."

Simpson Chapel, New Orleans, Rev. Henry Green, pastor: "The second quarterly meeting was held July 16. During the quarter $274 85 had been collected. The Sunday-school, under the superintendency of Hon. J. Page, is in a flourishing condition. Three had been excluded from the church, and two received by letter, and four on probation. A debt of $900 incumbers the society, but pastor and people are full of courage."

N. D. Bosh, Simpson Chapel, New Orleans: "Our basket-meeting held Sunday before last was a grand success. The meeting was conducted under the leadership of Bro. Wm. McCay, one of our energetic stewards. It was opened about 11 o'clock by Bro. Morgan Fairfield, one of our gifted local preachers. Bro. Morgan indicated that he was fully master of his position. He was followed by several brethren who kept the church full of the true old Methodist fire until about five o'clock, when all marched over to the Cadiz street hall and participated in a fine lunch prepared by our generous sisters. The affair closed at night with a fine and most entertaining discourse from our amiable presiding elder, Dr. Hartzell, who looked as cheerful as though he was ready to enter the field anew. Father Green, our kind-hearted pastor, seemed, among others, to be exceedingly happy."

TENNESSEE.

G Baber, Galway: "My work is in a good condition. My elder could not be present on the third round, because his family were all down in bed. Two of his family died. But we raised his money just the same as if he had been there. My people are growing stronger spiritually."

H. W. Key, Murfreesboro: "I made an appeal through the SOUTHWESTERN to the members of the Tennessee Conference for aid in completing our much needed brick church, only the following named brethren of said conference have responded: Rev. John Seay, $25; Rev. J. Braden, $5. Brethren please read and do likewise. Remember the work is the Lord's and we are His."

A. Burdette, Clifton: "Our quarterly meeting was held April 10-11, by Rev. W. S. Butler. He preached well, and we gave him a collection of $23. We will pay our bishop this month. Benevolent collections are good. We are going to build two churches, one at Waynesboro, and one at Clifton. Will have all the lumber on hand this week. Presiding elder W. S. Butler has asked the Church Extension society to aid us. I hope he will send the money in time. We ask all of our people to assist us, and to send the money to Dr. Braden, at Nashville, or to me at Waynesboro."

Cleveland, Tennessee, is a beautiful town in a productive and prosperous section of country. Our church was organized there soon after the war, and in 1871 a neat and commodious house of worship was built at a cost of about $4,000, the Board of Church Extension donating $100 and loaning $900 for the purpose. The house was dedicated by Bishop Merrill at the session of the Holston Conference in that place, with a debt of $600 besides the $900 due the Loan Fund. The floating debt was paid as soon as could have been expected, but it was not practicable to meet the loan for some years. Interest had accumulated till the amount was formidable, but during the past few months $200 have been paid, and, having begun a good work, the pastor, Rev. J. S. Hill, believed that it was possible to settle the entire amount, and since the last session of the conference he has been devoting time and effort to this end, and is likely to make a complete success.—Methodist Advocate.

TEXAS.

Geo. W. Norris, Marshall: "We have just closed a protracted meeting. The result is 1 convert and 12 accessions. Bro. W. L. Molloy was with us, and preached some excellent sermons."

Mack Henson, San Antonio: "From the failure of crops last year we will not hold a district conference on San Antonio district this year. We therefore advise the pastors in each charge to have camp meetings, and protracted meetings, etc. Success to our church in its every department. Intend to urge the collections of the Bishop's claims with increased amounts."

G. R. Smith, Alleyton: "Bro. E. E. Cooper, our preacher in charge held a protracted meeting, commencing on the 3d and ending on the 10th; had a glorious time. It seemed that God was indeed present, and the meeting was something comparative to a fire in a cane brake. Sixteen converts came before the church to relate their experience; 30 joined on probation, and three were baptized. Our hearty thanks are extended to the citizens of Alleyton for their courtesies to our visiting brethren. Some were accommodated by members of the Missionary Baptist church. May God bless them. Bros. L. Carper and J. Carnes gave us great aid."

MISSISSIPPI.

W. McDonald, Starkville: "My protracted meeting is in session. 3 backsliders reclaimed and 3 conversions. Rev. D. McLachlan held my second quarter on the 10th. We had a glorious time."

J. C. Skinner, New Midway: "Our presiding elder, L. Bradford, was with us on the 10th and 11th. We had a glorious time of it. Administered the Lord's supper to 57. Collection, $9 85. This was our Elder's second visit."

L. Echolls, Waynesboro circuit: "I preached a missionary sermon at Mt. Levy church, Sunday June 27, to the Sunday-school. The bible class numbers 26, the A B C class 30, or a total of 56. I find the school in a prosperous condition, and well advanced. Heretofore they have not been instructed to give collections for missionary purposes. I collected $2. They expressed themselves willing to give that amount monthly. In my evening services I was assisted by Bro. H. Davenport."

The Late General Conference and the Colored Bishop Question.

The following is a letter from Prof. J. B. Wilkins, of Oxford, Miss., to J. W. Shumpert, of Grenada, delegate to the late General Conference at Cincinnati:

I have noticed with a good deal of interest your untiring efforts in behalf of your race in the attempt to secure a colored bishop. I have noticed with regret the constant defeat which has met your efforts. And I have prayed that you might be successful and the thousands of colored members who long for a representative on the Episcopal board might be satisfied in seeing a member of our race placed there. But no, the hope is not well founded for we see opposition to the negro even in this as plainly as in any other of the acts of partiality committed by those who ought to be, and say they are our best friends. This, I claim, is religious proscription.

It is probably urged that there are none competent, intellectually. But that argument is too small to pit against a D.D. or even an A. M. or B. D. from one of her own schools or universities (so-called). For if, upon the conferring of degrees, the school signifies nothing, most assuredly the pretense of educating the scholars there is a greater sin than the failure to elect a bishop.

It is probably urged that we should not desire a bishop because we are black, and are told very often that the M. E. Church knows no man by color or nationality.

This is very good talk, but the logic is, judging their action by their words, for this is the way they argue this point, if nationality has anything to do with the bishop question the Germans ought to be claiming one.

You see the feebleness of this argument is that the Germans ought to claim one, but they do not. Therefore the negro who should claim one also on the same grounds must not because the Germans do not: as much as to say, the chances for a negro bishop in the M. E. Church are based upon whatever grounds the Germans have, and at the same time they say, "no race—no nationality." But note you the scheming herein. When we wish a bishop we are told of the Germans not having one of their race; and when the Germans want one they are told of the negroes not having one of their race, and thus the sinning turns against each nationality in the same manner and the result is the same on both sides.

Now, within a few years the M. E. Church has collected for Shaw University about $25,000 or $30,000. This amount has been expended, no doubt, for educational purposes, and yet not one, though he be a D.D., has education enough to preside at an annual conference, and sit in counsel with many of "the wise men" on the welfare of this great Church. This is preposterous, and I claim as you did, that the future prosperity of the church among the colored people demanded the election of a bishop of African descent.

Allow me, dear brother Shumpert, to compliment you on your efforts to secure this important advancement of our representative men in the ecclesiastical department, and I hope your failure to succeed this time will not deter you from making more bold and daring steps in the future; for, dear brother, it is my honest belief that you should have one, and you believe it; so God, no doubt, has intended you for the instrument to work it up. Your words are galling, and your efforts will be more availing as the people of our race become more intelligent.

There is no ground in the world for the M. E. Church to refuse the election of a bishop of color, except that of prejudice, and I defy any of those who oppose it to give me in writing the reason why they do not favor it. * * * * * * * *

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Always Fresh! Always Ready!

One of the advantages that TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT—being a dry white powder—has over many natural mineral waters, is the fact that it never becomes vapid or stale. It is, therefore, the most admirable preparation not only for travelers on land and sea, but for all who need a bright, fresh, sparkling alterative and corrective, and it is always ready.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully,

JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.

Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly,

R. CAULKINS, M. D.

Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporal relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Freedman under Persecution.

BY DANIEL WISE, D. D.

No reflective white man can look on the condition of his colored brethren without mingled feelings of joy and sympathy. He is glad because the national will has transformed them from "chattels personal" into men. He is grieved because, though free, they are still sufferers. They still have to carry more or less of ignorance and servile vices as the burdensome entails of their previous condition. They have also to suffer from the scorn, the indignities and the political persecutions heaped upon them by that large portion of Southern society which is banded together by a purpose that, though free in the eyes of the law, the colored race shall not exercise the rights of free men. These things, with what they imply, are heavy trials, calling for the sympathy, the prayers and the assistance of every Christian philanthropist.

There is, however, a bright side to the case of the freedman. His condition, though desperate in some instances, is not hopeless. Compared with what it was before the proclamation of Lincoln broke his chains, it is like the beginning of a bountiful harvest after a long period of famine. Then he was lying prostrate with the slave holder's iron heel upon his breast. Now he is on his feet, master of himself, and in possession of many of the means of self improvement. Though still greatly wronged, he is no longer crushed. The walls of his old prison house are broken down and the highways of culture and progress are more or less open to him. Surely there is reason for rejoicing in this marvellous change for the better in his relations to society!

But he still has to suffer? Yes, and it is quite likely that his wrongs will not be entirely redressed until after the present generation of his oppressors has passed into eternity. Slave holding vices have eaten like rust into the heart of the Southern white men, and will probably adhere to them while life lasts. It will require years of freedom and a new generation of white men reared in free society to beget the virtues of toleration and respect for the rights of others which characterize free communities. Hence, as we have said, the wrongs of the freedmen, though they will be gradually mitigated, will not wholly cease for years to come.

But even with this in prospect the freedman need not despair. There is a discipline in suffering manfully endured, which develops strength and beauty in the character of him who suffers. In point of fact there is no other way to develop strength, either in the individual or in a race, but by subjecting it to hardship. It required forty years of hardship in the wilderness to fit the emancipated Israelites to become the conquerors of the Philistines of Palestine. The American people would never have been what they are but for the toils and hardships involved in making this vast continent fit to be the seat of civilized communities. All history demonstrates the practical truth that the endurance of hardship is the condition of highly developed character. This law does not justify persecutors, but it suggests to the sufferers the fact that even their [illegible] have compensations [illegible] oppressors destroy themselves by their own vile deeds, their victims may, if they suffer in the spirit of Christ, gain elements of character which will in the end raise them above their adversaries.

The lesson of this truth for the freedman is patience. He may fret, despair, grow reckless, dissipated, unprincipled, ambitious of what he foolishly calls "preferment" in church and State, and neglectful of his personal improvement; or he may bravely bear the ills from which at present he can not escape, practice Christian virtues, cultivate his mind, be humble yet self respectful, and thus rise to a high standard of manhood. If the former course be his choice, his race will long continue to be despised; if he adopt the latter, the period of his hardships will be shortened. God and good men will contend for him. Public opinion will speak for him. His adversaries will be made ashamed, and his lot in the land will more speedily be the same as that of his white brethren. When Jesus foretold the persecutions which were to befall his disciples, he said to them: "In patience possess ye your souls." Were he to speak from Heaven to persecuted freedmen, would he not repeat this divine counsel?

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

What Becomes of Our Graduates.

BY DR. J. W. HARMON.

What a vast difference between the outset and the outcome of the lives of thousands of young men in this country, growing out of the unregarded fact, perhaps, that there is a strong propensity to vice in every man's nature, which, if not counteracted and held in abeyance by the strict principles of inculcated virtue, or eradicated by firm religious principles and faith, may eventually launch out into debauched morals and depraved consciences.

But, since nothing can happen without an adequate cause, we have been led to inquire what becomes of the mighty host of young graduates, annually sent out from the colleges and universities, who fail to measure themselves up to the standard of their advantages and splendid opportunities offered in these days of opulent educational advantages? How many brilliant young men, gifted and nobly endowed, who, having laid the foundations for their future usefulness and honor, by a polished education, have ventured out upon the theatre of active life with high hopes of success, with vigorous intellects and unstained morals, hidding fair to rise to posts of eminence and fame, and yet have utterly failed, as the years have rolled on, to be mentioned in the roll of honor or called upon to occupy commanding and influential positions in the world. Alas, how few of this great number ever meet the expectation of their friends, and engrave their names among the great, the wise and the good, an honor to the race and the pride of their country. What is the cause of such sad failures among the thousands of our graduates?

What has caused the fatal shipwreck of superior advantages, brilliant hopes and fond anticipations? Philosophize as you will about this matter, there is one cause that stands in sharp outline, and should challenge the attention of all thoughtful men, and that is the acquired habit of social drinking, ending at last, in thousands of cases, in the confirmed habit of intemperance and blasted reputations. The usage of social drinking, endorsed by the example of men high in authority in State and church, is the fatal rock on which thousands of brilliant young men are wrecked. By stealthy degrees, and all unconscious of the change, they come at last to be dull and strangely clouded in their intellects, mean, degraded and skeptical in their discourse, and sordid and vulgar in their practices. We say, by degrees these young men of noble promise lost their keen sense of honor in the wine-cup of degradation; by degrees they flagged in their plans and purposes; by degrees they remitted in their labor of industry, study and research; and then loathing the details of business and patient toil, gave themselves up to the calls of sensual delights and lascivious pleasures. Having thus blunted the sensibilities of their once noble natures, they let slip those generous principles and lofty aspirations that once inspired them; they let slip those Christian principles, the only sheet-anchor of safety in the vigor of youthful manhood, and were shorn of all moral power and virtue. The great thoughts that once gave spur and incentive to their actions, and the inspiring desire to accomplish noble deeds not being cherished, they suppose all to be drowned in the cup of an inglorious intoxication.

And now, with smirched characters, and reputations dishonored, they engage themselves more in midnight debauchery than in the highest achievements of intellect or patriotic endeavor. It would seem, indeed, as if the height of their ambition is to be good judges of liquor, discourse on its age, bead and aroma, and then complete their shame in orgies with painted cyprians "whose ways lead to death and whose steps take hold on hell."

Perhaps with an insane infatuation, and smarting with impecuniousness they seek the card table to procure the means for further debauchery, and shuffle for infamy at the very gate of perdition itself.

Oh, let the tocsin of alarm be sounded all along the lines of the Christian workers, save the graduates of our colleges and universities! We write with feeling on this subject, because out of the large class who emerged with the writer from the college halls and from under the teachings of a noted President, all fill the dishonored grave of drunkenness save two.

Three, the Sacred Number.

A friend hands us the following, gleaned from various sources. It will be read with interest:

When the world was created, says an old writer, we find land, water and sky; sun, moon and stars. In every thing divine there is a first, a middle and a last. The Divine Trinity. The past, present and future represent the infinite circle of existence—creation, redemption and regeneration. Love, wisdom and use. Will, understanding and action. The human mind is distinguished into three regions, from the highest of which man regards God; from the second or middle, the world; and from the third or lowest, himself. Man is capable of thinking analytically, rationally and spiritually. There are three conditions for man—the earth, heaven and hades. In the Brahminical faith the three fold powers of Brahma are expressed in Brahma, the creator; Vishnu, the preserver, and Siva, the destroyer of life. There were three patriarchs—Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Abraham entertained three angels. Jehovah called Samuel three times, and Samuel ran three times to Eli, and Eli understood him the third time. Isaiah, the prophet, was commanded to go naked and barefoot three years. David said to Jonathan that he would hide himself in the field three days, and Jonathan afterwards shot three arrows at the stone, and David, lastly, bowed himself three times before Jonathan. Elijah prostrated himself three times on the widow's son. Elijah commanded to pour water on the burnt offering three times. Jonah was in the whale's belly three days and three nights. Daniel was thrown into a den with three lions for praying three times a day. Shadrack, Meshack and Abednego were secure from the flames of the furnace. Job had three friends. Those famous dreams of the baker and butler were to come to pass in three days. Sampson deceived Delilah three times before she discovered the source of his strength. St. Paul speaks of faith, hope and charity three times. The ten commandments were delivered on the third day. Peter denied his Savior thrice. Jesus said three times unto Peter, "Lovest thou me?" Jesus said, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up again." Jesus prayed three times in the garden of Gethsemane. Our Savior passed three days in the tomb, and rose on the third day. In mythology there were three graces—Cerberus, with his three heads; Neptune, holding his three-toothed staff; the oracle of Delphi, cherished with veneration, and the nine Muses sprang from the three. The three Fates—Fate, Inexorable Fate, under the form of three old women, Clotho, Lachesis and Autropos, one holding the distaff while another spun the thread of human life, and Antropos closed the earthly career of each by cutting with her scissors the mortal thread. Nature has three kingdoms—animal, vegetable and mineral. Three elements—air, fire and water. Morning, noon and night. We have fish, flesh and fowl; male, female and offspring. Trees grow their leaves in three. There is a three-leaved clover. Every ninth wave is a grand swell. The majority of mankind die at thirty-three. There is the three fold form of art—painting, sculpture and literature. From the number three arise 6, 12, 24, 72, 144, 1440, 000, which numbers also have the same signification as the number three has, because they arise from this simple number by multiplication. There are three things which follow each other in order—End, Cause, and Effect, and it is well known in the learned world that the end is nothing unless it regards the efficient cause; and that the end together with this cause are nothing, unless they produce the effect. Geometry teaches that nothing can be complete, or perfect, except it be a trine, for a geometrical line is nothing, unless it becomes an area, and an area is nothing unless it becomes a body. Witness the power of the wedge. It is common for three to be a lucky number. The world is governed by three things—Wisdom, Authority, and Appearances. Wisdom is for thoughtful people, authority for rough people, and appearances for the great mass of superficial people who can look only at the outside.

Letter from Kansas.

NORTH TOPEKA, June 11, 1880.

FRANK J. KERR—The other day in opening some packages we came on a coat marked with your name. I laid it aside until some nice little boy could be found to whom the coat could be given. To-day a little boy named Lewis Lee came in to get some clothing. His mother died a few weeks ago, and although he is only nine years old he helps his father by taking care of the youngest children.

He is a very good boy, and you should have seen how happy he looked when we gave him the clothing. I do not know what these poor people would have done had it not been for the kind friends in the East, who have sent supplies for their use. There are so many of them in Kansas that it is hard for all to find work.

These little colored boys and girls are very anxious to learn; sometimes I think they learn faster than white children, but I suppose the reason is they have not had the advantages before, and now that they do have them, they are eager to improve by it. I hope you will continue to be interested in those poor children. A few days ago several ragged little boys came to me and said: "Miss Lizzie we want you to give us some clothes. We is goin' to speak the last day of school, and we wants to be kinder fixed up." I asked them if it would help them to speak their piece? "Yes, marm, a heap," was the reply; and I expect it did.—Lizzie Officer, in Salem (O.) Republican.

A Chinese Temple Turned into a "Jesus Chapel!"

A large Chinese heathen temple has lately been turned into a Christian place of worship in the north of China. At a place called Shih-chia-tang the missionaries, Stanley and Smith, looked at the gulley where, at the dead of night, the gods were hustled in. The summer rains had caused a bit of a large god to crumble off. The men call it "divine mud!" as the missionaries took up a handful of the moistened clay, and threw it down, saying, "Dust to dust, mud to mud!"

The temple looks very pleasant in its changed character. The two large bells now call the people to worship the living God, instead of calling the idol, as they supposed, from his feasts and slumbers. In the front temple quaint pictures of flying spirits and genii, painted on the walls, still remain. The larger temple makes a very neat mission chapel, with its whitened walls and scarlet painted posts and beams. The wooden incense-table has been cut down into a preaching-table, and the benches are made from the platform which supported the larger idols. On the temple front hangs a large tablet, with "Jesus Chapel" in beautiful Chinese characters, replacing the old Taoist sign.

This temple now stands a distinct witness to the truth that God is a Spirit, and from time to time his glorious gospel is proclaimed in it. The villagers and wayside travelers have as yet much of the truth to learn.

The total population of Minnesota is 780,072.

Gen. Burrow's brigade at Candahar was annihilated by Ayoob Khan's forces.

Joe's steam mill, at Hungerford, Mich., was destroyed by fire on the 27th. Loss, $75,000.

A hail storm in the the vicinity of Steven's Point, Wis., covered the ground to the depth of several inches with hailstones of great size. Over 100 farms were cleared entirely of hay and grain.

At Middletown, Conn., while the officers of the Savings Bank were at dinner, three or four men entered the building, engaged the clerks in business at the counter while accomplices entered the vault and carried off $85,000 in cash, $20,000 in government bonds, and $40,000 in South Carolina bonds.

Mr. Dixon, brother of the man murdered by Barksdale in Yazoo, Miss., last year, recently visited his native place, and while there expressed the opinion and the hope that Garfield would be elected. He was at once notified that men will not be tolerated in that place who express such sentiments. The Yazoo Herald notified Mr. Dixon editorially that such opinions were not wanted there. The Herald is very enthusiastic for Gen. Hancock.—Boston Journal.

Capt. Williams, of the brigantine Sarah Carney, of Hilifax, N. S., from Turk's Island, reports that shortly before he sailed a Cuban insurgent general, with forty followers, were landed at Turk's Island by the mail steamer from Hayti, bound to New York. They had escaped from Cuba to Hayti in a small vessel, and were closely pursued by a Spanish man-of-war. While at that place their money and property were confiscated, and they were ordered by the Haytian authorities to leave. The Cubans then got aboard the mail steamer and were landed at Turk's Island. Shortly after their landing there a Spanish war vessel arrived and demanded the surrender of the Cubans, which the Governor of Turk's Island refused.

A Constantinople dispatch says: The extraordinary Cabinet council to-day, Tuesday, completed the reply to the collective note of the powers. In the evening the Sultan's irade was issued approving the text of the reply. The Minister of Foreign Affairs then signed it, and it was handed to the ambassadors the same evening. The reply, which is vigorously worded, is substantially the same as the previous version, which was given as follows: "It points out that article 24 of the treaty of Berlin merely expressed a wish for and authorized the powers to offer mediation, not arbitration. It declares that the decision of the recent conference gives Greece more territory than protocol 13 of the treaty of Berlin indicated, and that the proposed cession includes positions which it is impossible for Turkey to surrender."

Brig. Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood, who accompanied the ex-Empress Engenie to Zululand, has sent to the papers a description of the death of the Prince Imperial, collected from independent narratives of eighteen of the Zulus who participated in the attack on the Prince's party. These narratives show that the attacking party numbered forty, twelve of whom followed the Prince, eight of them being immediately concerned in his death. The Zulus, having surrounded the Prince's party, fired and rushed on them as they were mounting. The Prince, not having succeeded in mounting, ran alongside his horse until it broke away. The Prince followed the horse in the donga until being closely pressed by his pursuers, he turned upon them, in the words of the Zulus, "like a lion at bay." Being struck by an assegai inside the left shoulder, he rushed at the nearest opponent, who fled. Another Zulu then fired at the Prince when only ten yards from him. The Prince fired his pistol and faced his rapidly increasing foes, until menaced from his right and rear, and struck by another assegai, he regained the level on which he had first stood in the donga, where he was speedily surrounded. He seized an assegai, which had been thrown at him. In struggling with his terrified horse his sword had fallen from its scabbard, and with this assegai he defended himself against seven or eight [illegible] who state that they did not leave close on him until [illegible] exhausted on his hips.

Cabinet Councils.

The secret unspoken thoughts, the latent hidded affections, the invisible desires, and the determining will, these attributes and powers of the mind in executive session, constitute the cabinet councils of the soul, and make men's characters what they really are, independent of the outward polish of their demeanor, and separate from the formal professions of their lips.

For it must be confessed, that men may soar to heaven with angels in theory and professions, and actually consort with devils in secret thoughts, desires, and in the practices of their souls. What is there to hinder the deception and successfully mask the hypocrisy, when men know that their conscious inner life—the secret mental life of the soul—lies beyond the reach of moral inspection by all human observers; that they can cherish the most corrupt humors in the transactions and play of their thoughts, indulge in the vilest whispers of fancy, and turn loose the reigns of the most vicious imaginations, and revel without let or hindrance in these conscious cabinet councils of the soul, and laugh to scorn all external spectators. Because they know there is no such thing as prying into these councils, they lie outside and beyond the boundaries of the world's observation and Christian judgment. This security may possibly account for that large class in Christendom, who pass for good, moral, almost Christian men, in the estimation of friends and the judgment of acquaintances; and yet, who never put forth the first effort to meet the positive commands of God or to exercise faith in Christ; while in the conscious cabinet councils of their unregenerate souls, they detest the duties of Christianity, and despise the restraints and restrictions with which religious associations have fettered them, revelling in the secret impurity of their corrupt thoughts.

Due credit of real character, therefore, is safe from censure and a just condemnation, because however impure, it cannot be discerned beneath the impenetrable mask that hides their inner life of ungodliness; so that the most wicked imaginings may be indulged and cherished by them, even in the crowded assemblies where God is worshipped and praised.

And herein lies the extraordinary influences of a positive Christianity upon the common sense and common honor of mankind in general, that you can scarcely find a man, who loves his secret sins to such an extent as to make a public confession of these cabinet councils in the face of the world, and though the dread of public infamy or the desire to compass human glory, may keep them back from the commission of open-handed debauchery and villiany, yet so far as virtuous or religious principles are entertained in the executive session of the soul, they acknowledge no God but public opinion, recognize no conscience to prompt and check but the fear of public shame, and recognize no duty but their own pleasure, convenience or profit. And so we conclude that the natural, irreligious man, however polished by scholarship or refined by social life, unaided by religion, has no stronger motive to enforce and carry out the principles of virtue [illegible] what men choose to call [illegible]; and that when this becomes emasculated and enfeebled, then [illegible] the man governed solely by [illegible] desire of gain, and notoriety, [illegible] case of Ingersoll. For no [illegible], be he infidel or atheist, [illegible] with a high sense of [illegible] recognizing the necessity [illegible] restraint upon the com[illegible], ever thought it [illegible] his public discourse [illegible] irreverently of God or [illegible] make sport of religion. [illegible] of the argument is [illegible], that where virtu[illegible] their birth and [illegible] mere principle of [illegible] they are wholly [illegible] to the end and [illegible] should be di[illegible] real end is either [illegible], human glory [illegible], when it should [illegible] glory of God and [illegible]; whereas the [illegible] use of the show [illegible] of religion as a [illegible] public favor or a [illegible] by which to [illegible] power.

[illegible] the argu[illegible] desires, [illegible] coun[illegible]

sity, and from the very nature and constitution of man, can only be made pure and right and good by the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit; and then comes consecration and sanctification as the full ripe fruitage of the cabinet councils of the regenerated soul; and these conscious intuitions of the state of the mind and heart can no more be doubted or rejected, than we can doubt the existence of a tangible world without us. *

Methodist Quarterly Review.

The Methodist Quarterly Review for July fully maintains the high standard of this excellent and scholarly publication. Rev. J. M. Reid gives an extended and appreciated review of Bishop Wiley's recent work on China and Japan: Prof. Bowne, of Boston University, discusses the Ethics of Evolution: Rev. E. B. Otheman, A. M., gives a second article on The French Reformed Church: Wesley C. Sawyer gives an article on Friedrich Heinrich Jacobi: Prof. Bennett, of Syracuse University, reviews Alzog's Church History: and Prof. J. M. Marshall reviews Harper's Latin Dictionary. The editorial department is, as usual, rich in information and scholarly discussion.

In this number Dr. Whedon discusses at length the views of Dr. Curry on the Freedom of the Will, as now permanently given to the world in his recent books. There have been some in the church who thought Dr. Curry leaned toward Calvinism more than his creed as an Americam Methodist would justify. After reading Dr. Whedon's criticism we think many will conclude that Dr. Curry has not been misjudged. We will look for Dr. Curry's reply with interest.

Women's Home Missionary Society.

We publish this week the Constitution and By-laws of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The organizers of the movement, in the Western state the following as some of the reasons leading to the organization:

The great need of such a movement as this society contemplates has for years been recognized by many of the most earnest and philanthropic workers in the Church of Christ. It presents a broad and inviting field of usefulness, to the culture of which the women of our land are welcomed.

In the South the success of the educational and missionary work of the Church is greatly retarded by the lack of co-operating home influences. The degradation resulting from ignorance, heathen traditions and the teachings of slavery; the lamentable absence of ideas of morality, and of the knowledge of the order, propriety and economies that go to make a home, are great embarrassments in the way of elevating the colored race, and hundreds of thousands of the "poor whites" are in but little better condition, as far as intelligence and morality are concerned.

Only Christian women can enter these saddened and degraded homes and plant there the seeds of morality and right living, and this work seems providentially laid upon the women of the North at this time.

The several meetings which have been held in connection with the preparation and adoption of the Constitution, and the election of officers to inaugurate the work, have been largely attended by the representative women of Cincinnati and vicinity, and the cordial interest manifested, and the support given in the steps thus far taken by so many of the most earnest minds of the Church, indicate the fact that the sufferings of the neglected ones in our own land are understood, and their claims upon the sympathy and help of their more fortunate sisters are recognized.

We have at sundry times referred to the necessity and importance of this work, and trust that the Church throughout the North will take hold vigorously of this movement. There ought to be within the next twelve months one thousand Christian women put into our churches throughout the Southern States. No more important missionary field is opened to the Church on the globe.

Misrepresentation.

Hon. B. F. Jonas, U. S. Senator from Louisiana, in a speech at Providence, Rhode Island, said, as per the Journal report:

The elections in the South are as peaceful and calm as on a Sunday in New England. Every man, no matter of what color or race, has as free a right to deposit his vote as you have here in Rhode Island.

After reading that we conclude that, if it could have in any way assisted the election of Gen. Hancock, in the opinion of Senator Jonas, he would have told the Providence people there were no White liners in Mississippi, rifle clubs in South Carolina, alligators in Louisiana bayous; or that the killing of H. M. Dixon, in Yazoo City, was only a floating dream in disordered Radical minds. Intelligent men, without reference to party lines, know the value of Mr. Jonas' attempt at misrepresentation.

An Urgent Appeal.

At the last session of the West Texas Conference Rev. J. W. Robinson was appointed financial agent of the Conference Seminary, located at Austin. Two thousand dollars are yet needed, and Bro. The Jonesboro Outrage.

A dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., June 29, says: "Last night a party of fifteen disguised men went to the home of Joe Thompson, colored, twenty miles from Atlanta, and dragged him out, beat him and his wife fearfully, fatally shot his son and killed his daughter. There is great indignation throughout the county, and the citizens' meeting at Jonesboro denounced the killing and offered five hundred dollars reward for the murderers. Four arrests have been made. Thompson says he recognized as the leader of the gang John Gray, whom he had recently prosecuted and convicted for assault and battery."

Dispatches of the 31st say: "There is great excitement in Jonesboro over the outrage on Joe Thompson, colored, who was beaten and whose daughter was killed by masked men Wednesday night. Seven arrests have been made and hundreds of negroes are in town laboring under great excitement. The Governor has ordered the militia to go down from Atlanta, as it is feared the negroes will try to lynch the prisoners. The jail is well guarded."

Gov. Colquitt went to Jonesboro last night, with the Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, to prevent any attempt on the part of friends to rescue the prisoners, who were imprisoned on the charge of the murder of Millie Thompson, colored, beating her father and mother, and fatally wounding her brother.

"Jonesboro was in a great state of excitement over the affair all of yesterday. Sheriff Archer met with resistance in attempting to arrest some parties charged with the crime. Seven prisoners were brought to Atlanta by the Gate City Guard, and put in jail here for safe keeping; others will probably be arrested. Sam Cook, one of the prisoners, has turned State's evidence and implicated all of the others, but subsequently retracted and said he was frightened into the confession. There is an uncompromising demand for a full investigation, and if the guilty parties are found, Georgia will have a wholesale hanging."

A Good Word.

Rev. B. C. Hammond, now of Wisconsin, but formerly connected with our work in Texas, in writing to the Northwestern, has this good word to say of our papers in the South:

Our local church and educational interests in that section of our country cannot spare the Methodist Advocate, with its brave, true, earnest words for Christ and His poor Like words of praise are richly merited by the SOUTHWESTERN ADVOCATE. It is found steadily meeting the assaults of the enemies of our church at home, causing the church to be known and respected because of its influence and power, and securing friends both at home and abroad, and in a hundred different ways helping onward our cause in the Crescent City. No wonder that our brethren in each of these fields feel deeply that Methodism—the Methodism of our fathers—cannot spare this arm of strength. God bless the Methodist and SOUTHWESTERN Advocates and their brave and competent editors, and speed them in their work! May they each become more and more powerful in the pulling down of evil and the establishment of gospel equality and purity in the Central South of the great Southwest!

In the American Missionary for August we find the following:

During the sitting of the Virginia Republican Convention at Staunton, the members were as free from molestation as they would have been at Worcester, Mass., and the hotels were open for their entertainment, white and black alike. For three days colored men took their meals in common with white men and women in the public dining rooms of houses kept by life-long Democrats. One day, at the principal hotel, a black man was seen dining with representatives of some of the oldest families in the State; other colored men sat at different tables around the room; while a large number of staunch Democrats, men and women, went on with their meals as if the scene was not an unusual one. Whether this is due to a change of sentiment, or to policy induced by fear of the re-adjusters, may be open to doubt, but the fact is significant. No less so is the fact that not a single colored man had a seat in the Convention at Cincinnati.

A Good School Teacher Wanted.

Rev. A. R. Norris, of Victoria, Texas, writes that they want in his church a good school teacher. A large school is ready. One who can teach music is preferred. A competent teacher can get $60 per month. Write to him.

R. Hayes, Coffadeliah: "My work is still growing. On July 4th five were received in full connection. At quarterly conference Rev. O. Gillespie preached for us. Elder's collection $3 35."

Peter Kirkland, French Camp: "Our first quarterly conference was held July 19 20. Our Elder was in his place, and Rev. H. L. Kennedy, of Winona, acted as secretary. Elder Johnson dedicated our new church, 26x30, named Mt. Maria. Elder's collection $12. In the evening Bro. Kennedy administered the Lord's supper. We are having good times all over the circuit."

N. Cannon, Moss Point: "At Summerville M. E. Church, July 11, I received seven in the church, two in full and five on probation, and four conversions. Four adults baptized. July 18 I completed my second quarterly conference meeting. Sixty-seven communed with us, and I received four in the church, two in full connection and two on probation; one child baptized. Elder's collection $13."

S. Blackwell, Mayersville: "Our church is in debt. The members are discontented. A public school was taught in the church for three months, and the teacher gave us permission to hold service and Sabbath-school. The Sabbath-school numbers 50. We started a protracted meeting and were meeting with success, when the doors were nailed up. We ask the mother church to buy it for us. Bro. Simon Thomas has been laboring very hard on the circuit, and preaches in four churches."

TENNESSEE.

S. T. Hickerson, Cumberland Furnace: "Elder C. Pickett held our third quarterly conference July 17-18; collection $28. There were 85 communicants. One received in the church. Monday evening we had a love feast and breaking of bread; the spirit of the Lord was manifested and we had a glorious time. We are still on the increase. Many members were prompt in paying their quarterage."

LOUISIANA.

Geo. Lacy, Jackson: "A Sunday-school celebration was held July 17. Bro. Shattuck, the superintendent, called the children to order at 10 a. m., questioned them in the catechism, and with his assistant teachers, formed them in line two by two, and with banner hoisted, marched down to the pic nic grounds, where refreshments were plentifully served. At sundown they left the ground to prepare for the night's exercises. At 7 p. m., with bright faces, the children began to speak their pieces. Preston Sanders delivered an address, and was followed by Messrs. Perry and Steele, of Jackson, and Robinson of Clinton, and Bro. Shattuck. Mr Albert Stanley made the house ring with songs of Zion. We ask the united prayers of co laborers in the Sunday-school work."

GEORGIA.

The Dalton District Sunday-school Institute was a pleasant and profitable occasion. Bro. Ford and Dr. Merrill reached the church on Wednesday night, there meeting the presiding elder, Rev. T. H. Triplett, the pastor, Rev. S. P. Brokaw, and several preachers from other circuits. Rev. T. G. Chase preached. The institute opened on Thursday morning and continued over Sunday, those named, together with Revs. R. H. Robb and H. Boyd taking part in the exercises. The congregations were good, especially on Saturday and Sunday. Brother Ford did excellent service, and it is due to Dr. Merrill to say that his sermon on the Sabbath was both eloquent and able. Deep spiritual interest prevailed. Several persons arose for [illegible]

the honor of their masters than the masters themselves are. Hitherto Abram and Lot had lived very comfortably together. The pastures of Egypt had been large enough to accommodate them without causing them to come into conflict. But here the grazing districts were smaller. And here was a good basis for a quarrel between the masters. Lot's subsequent action indicates that he would have been ready to have taken up the matter. All depended upon how Abram should act. Abram shows his self-control. His acts and his words both exhibit a noble, kindly nature. They were brethren, not only after the flesh, but in the higher sense of having become sons of the Most High. For them to have had dissensions before the heathen would have been to have brought reproach upon their religion. He might have reminded his nephew that the Lord had called him, and had promised him the land, and that he was there only by reason of his kindness. A small-souled man would have done so. "Lot chose him all the plain of the Jordan. He clutched at the opportunity to secure the fairest portion of the land for himself. He might have divided the country by an east and west line, which would have given to each a fair share of the pasturage. But he chose him "all of the plain of the Jordan!" Selfishness could not have gone much farther. Many an Eden-like spot upon this earth has been turned into a hell by the character of those who have lived there. Lot discovered that he had made a great mistake when he had to suffer with the Sodomites, on the invasion of the kings, and when, at last, stripped of all of his property, he had to flee from the destruction that came upon the city. In the end his selfishness did not profit him but was the cause of his ruin. Abram had the approbation of his own conscience, and sweet intercourse with God, who had bidden Abram to look "northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward." It was to be his and descendants' forever. It was not so much the extent of the country, as it was the uses to which it was to be put, that made it valuable. The promise to Abram was accompanied by the permission to arise and walk through the land, and thus virtually to take possession of it, as well as to feast his eyes upon his future inheritance. This he did, finally taking up his residence near Hebron, and, under the oak of Mamre, built there another altar. The great secret of Abram's prosperity is that he lived so much within the shadow of the altar.

Glencoe, La., July 29, 1880.

Bro. N. Harris was born in 1817 in South Carolina. I saw James K. Wilson to-day, who owned him a long time during slavery, and he told me that old man Ned had been the best negro that he ever knew; the best hand to work and had the best character of any negro that he ever saw. He said that he had been a member of the M. E. Church ever since he knew him, at least 30 years; that he was about 63 years old, and that he had never known a truer man to his profession. He stood first among both white and colored. I have been here over two years and I know that he has been a perfect friend to the cause of Christ and his church: he has been a lay preacher for 10 or 12 years: he never gave the church the least trouble, but was always ready to pull forward. He worked until death. On the first Sunday in this month he preached at an old house near his own cottage. Once or twice a month he had to have his meetings at home. On the first Sunday in this month, in the morning and at night, he sang and prayed. The following morning at the dawn of day he breathed his last. He is gone. The last song he sung was, "When I can read my title clear to mansions in the skies." He died at his post, a perfect hero. He leaves a wife and a host of friends to mourn his loss. The church has lost a great friend in this community. JOHN H. COOK.

SISTER HARVEY.

An address delivered at St. Mary's Chapel, Kosciusko, Miss., by Mrs. Clara C. Duncan, of Jackson, Miss.

DEAR BRETHREN AND SISTERS—I consider myself fortunate in being permitted to assemble here to-day, and with you offer up my little meed of love and appreciation of this well beloved sister who, leaving us to mourn, has gone to her eternal rest.

Let us go back a little way and look over the foot prints of this sister, called of God to occupy this high place on Zion's walls, and lift up her woman's voice to warn sinners of their danger.

The [illegible] of the feet, now resting in the silent city, were made in North Carolina. There, at the knee of her mother, was planted the seed in the young tender heart, that in the fulness of time was to bear such excellent fruit. Her mother was one of those humble ones, who receive the word of God as a child, trusting implicitly in the precious promises, and leading an exemplary Christian life. She taught her little girl that there was nothing in this world to live for, that freedom was only to be attained in the world beyond, and all a slave could do was to live in such a way as to please God: so that, by and by, He would take them to Himself and make them free indeed. Oh! if she only could have looked through the veil that hid the future, and seen the hastening feet of Him she loved, and the beautiful face full of divine compassion and unspeakable love, and heard these words, "Although I tarried long, and your cup of bitterness is full, yet I am coming to break asunder your galling chains, and you and your children shall be forever free." I say, if she could have seen what we see to-day, freedom in all the lands, the bitter tears that were shed over the child torn from her tender, loving embrace to be brought to this State, would have been drops of joy instead. But like Jacob, who mourned for his son Joseph, sold by his own brothers and carried into Egypt, she refused to be comforted, but even as Joseph was sent by the Lord into a strange land that he might be prepared for the great work laid out by God's own hand for him to do; so was little Mary sent here that she might be ready when called for the great work. For some time there was a battle field in little Mary's breast, unseen by mortal eye, and there two opposing forces met and fought, one to destroy the good seed sown by a praying mother and watered by her tears. The other striving to protect them that they might take deep root, and thus the battle raged, until the right triumphed, and Mary, at an early age was found among the sisters at Jesus' feet. From that moment she felt that she was called to a great work, saw that the fields were white to the harvest, and the reapers were so few—so many to be told of the love of Jesus, of a hell to be shunned, and a heaven to be gained—and while she stood idle many precious souls were being lost. She knew that God had chosen her for his watchman, yet it was not popular for a woman to preach—and to let a woman go in the pulpit and speak to the people like a minister, was not to be thought of for a moment—and so she hesitated, only speaking a word here and there, but diligently [illegible] the Bible, praying the [illegible] that she might be shown her [illegible] and be so endowed [illegible] the Lord that she [illegible] performing [illegible] she started [illegible] little encouragement but still she trusted on the Lord and persevered year after year, until at last she was rewarded for her untiring zeal in the cause by obtaining a license. She preached in Jackson once. I had heard much about her and was very anxious to hear a woman of my own race preach. The church was filled with curious people, but when we saw a gentle, unassuming lady rise with folded hands and a face made beautiful by its sublime earnestness, and a sweet voice say, "Let us pray," with one accord we fell on our knees and when we arose there were few, if any dry eyes, and the blessed words uttered with all the pathos of a woman's soul, sank deep into many hearts and will be gathered by and by, and her freed spirit gazing over the battlements of the great Celestial City, on the gathering harvest of her weary, toilsome sowing, will be satisfied beholding the golden gain. I feel that it was a great honor, that I was permitted to take her dear hand in mine and receive a sisterly greeting, and how comforting to know that her love and faith remained pure and steadfast, and the message sent found her busy about her Master's work. She was ready clothed in the whole armor, and smiling gladly followed where he led into the cold dark river. Dear sisters, let us never forget her teachings, to do whatever we can to build up our race, however little it may be, so that of us it may be said, "she hath done what she could." Thus did our sister, and although she has gone to her eternal rest beside the Jasper sea, she will ever live in the hearts of the people.

Ella Farman, Editor. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending July 24th and 31st contain; The Slavonic Menace to Europe, Quarterly; A Few Weeks upon the Continent, Contemporary; Atheism and Repentance, a Familiar Colloquy, by W. H. Mallock, Nineteenth Century; Fishing and Fishing Literature, Blackwood; Victor Hugo, Temple Bar; Sterne, Cornhill; Scientific Results of the Howgate Expedition, 1877 78, Sir John Lubbock on the Habits of Ants, and Sign Language among the American Indians, Nature; Heresy in Science, Pall Mall Gazette; The Nature of an Oath, Spectator; and the usual amount of poetry. A new volume began with July 1st. For fifty-two numbers the subscription price is $8. Littell & Co., Boston, Publishers.

—About [illegible] years ago Mr. John L. Stephens published two works on Central America and Southern Mexico. So eager was the public to obtain information in regard to numerous ruins of ancient cities which he describes, that though each of the works comprised two expensive volumes, ten editions of the first work were sold within three months, and the success of the second was quite as remarkable. Other travelers, American and European, have visited the ruins and have written deeply interesting volumes in regard to their immense architectural monuments, their elaborate decorations, their singular uninterpreted bas-reliefs and hieroglyphic tablets, but as yet no light has been thrown upon the origin of the people who built these cities. All the knowledge we can ever expect to obtain of the history of these people must be drawn from the ruins. Recently a well-equipped expedition has been despatched to Central America, charged with the work of systematically searching for everything that may tend to place within the domain of history the facts connected with a people whose career must have been one of the most interesting in the general development of the world's civilization. A full account of the explorations of the party comprising the expedition is to be published in the North American Review, with illustrations of the most important objects discovered. The August number contains an article introductory to the series, entitled "Ruined Cities of Central America." Other articles in the same number of the Review are "The Law of Newspaper Libel," by John Proffatt; "The Census Laws," by Charles F. Johnson; "Nullity of the Emancipation Edict," by Richard H. Dana; "Principles of Taxation," by Prof. Simon Newcomb; "Prince Bismarck as a Friend of America and as a Statesman," by Moritz Busch; and "Recent Literature," by Charles T. Congdon.

A Suggestion to Summer Tourists.

A change of climate is at all times more or less dangerous. There are elements in a new atmosphere which are injurious, especially when the system is exhausted by care and overwork, and which should be guarded against. After careful observation we have come to the conclusion that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is the best preventive for atmospheric evils and that it will restore health and vigor sooner than any remedy which has ever been discovered.

Prof. James A. Sewell, A. M. M. D.

OF MEDICAL FACULTY LAVAL UNIVERSITY, QUEBEC, states: "I have found Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator particularly useful in advanced stages of Consumption, Weakness, Dyspepsia, and all Nervous Afflictions. In pregnant women it has been retained while every other article of food was rejected. I can recommend it as convenient, palatable, and easy of digestion. I. L. Lyons, druggist, agent, New Orleans.

Cut this out and Save it.

If those persons laboring under disease proceeding from vitiated humors in the blood; causing Ulcers, White Swellings, Coxalgia or Hip Joint Disease, and the class of diseases termed Scrofulous, proceeding from hereditary taints, where the bones are destroyed, defying the usual treatment of physicians, will procure SWAIM'S PANACEA, they will find a remedy which has saved thousands of lives; and thoroughly tested by the late professors Chapman, Dewees and Gibson of the old University of Pennsylvania; besides hundreds of medical men eminent in their profession, continues to be a "forlorn hope" to sufferers worthy of its fifty years' reputation.

SWAIM'S PANACEA is imitated and a preparation sold for it by druggists with a name somewhat similar. Purchasers therefore must be careful and see they get that containing the recommendations of the distinguished professors alluded to. It is seldom advertised in our public papers.

SWAIM'S PANACEA is prepared only at Swaim's Laboratory, 113 South Seventh Street, below Chestnut, Philadelphia.

Descriptive pamphlets mailed gratis on application.

The New Louisiana Remedy is winning golden opinions from many who have tested its merits in the treatment of coughs, colds, etc. We recently examined some fourteen pages of signatures vouching for its effectiveness. Read advertisement elsewhere, and remember that this home medicine is well known, and finds sale throughout the country.

Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffener is the only invention that will make old boots straight as new.

PREVENT
Yellow Fever
It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventive. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventive and sure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

Bishop Wiley.

The Bishop has had ample opportunity for a careful study of Peking, Shanghai, Foochow, and other interior and coast cities of China, and to study the habits and religions of the people. Later he enjoyed equal facilities for an examination into the character and ways of the Japanese. His intercourse with the native Christians (for Methodism has established a strong foothold in both empires), brought him into close contact with classes with whom ordinary travelers have little to do. He tells the facts he observed in a pleasant and natural way, generally leaving the reader to make his own inferences. Hence, the narrative will be hardly less entertaining to those in search of secular than to those looking for religious information. A cheerful spirit pervades the volume.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN who may send us $2.50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 CENTS for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. O. C. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday school workers of Great Brittain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by O. O. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

standing the promise made by a missionary of the same Church, have selected the headquarters of the Church of England Mission as the principal point of attack. They have attended the services at the court, and in a very marked manner have shown their disrespect by keeping their seats while all the court knelt. On being asked by Mtesa whether they did not worship our Lord, they replied, with much vehemence and gesture, that they had no connection with Protestant "lies," and they denounced the missionaries as "liars." King Mtesa exclaimed in bewilderment, "What am I to believe? Who is right? First I was a heathen, then a Mahommedan, then a Christian; now some more white men come and tell me these English are liars. Perhaps, if I follow these new men, other white men will come and tell me these men, also, are liars." The English missionaries reply to all accusations of falsehood by invariably appealing to the Bible. They inform Mtesa that he can exercise his own judgment by an appeal to those portions of the Bible which have been rendered into the Waganda language, and point to other passages which can be translated for him at the time.

Both Great and Small.

A great and learned atheist once met a plain countryman going to church. He asked him:

"Where are you going?"

"To church, sir," was the reply.

"What to do there?"

"To worship God."

"Pray, whether is your God a great or little God?"

"He is both, sir."

"How can it be both?"

"He is so great, sir, that the heaven of heavens cannot contain him, and so little that he can dwell in my poor heart."

The atheists declared that this simple answer of the countryman had more effect upon his mind than all the volumes the learned doctors had written upon the subject.

No good preaching.

No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit well, doctor a patient, or write a good article when he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be so easily and cheaply removed by a little Hop Bitters. LEMONS,
A Wonderful Medicine!

A RECENT DISCOVERY BY A PROMINENT SOUTHERN PHYSICIAN.

A PLEASANT LEMON DRINK.

REGULATES THE LIVER, BOWELS, STOMACH AND KIDNEYS.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR ALL CATHARTIC AND LIVER PILLS.

An interview with a number of St. Louis' most prominent citizens as to the merits of this New Medicine, a few whose names appear below. They have been using Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir personally and in their families for twelve or eighteen months. They pronounce it a most wonderful Medicine, and recommend it to the PUBLIC as the only Pleasant, Thoroughly Reliable and Economical remedy they have ever used for the diseases for which it recommended:

Judge Alex. —— Davis, Fourth and Chestnut streets.

Judge John P. Hudgens, 103 N. Fourth street.

Hon. John I. Martin, office opposite Four Courts.

T. P. Grastoy, Law office, 1107 Clark avenue.

Capt. J. A. K. Stotts, of the St. Louis Beef Canning Company.

J. T. Morris, Real Estate Office, Sixth and Chestnut streets.

Dr. L. O. Mintz, 1413 N. 9th street.

Lemon Elixir cures all Biliousness, Constipation, Headache, Indigestion, Bilious, Malarial, Remittent or Intermittent Fevers, Sallow Complexion, Pimples or Blotches on the skin, Impure Blood, Foul Stomach, Pain in the Back, Kidney Disease, Loss of Appetite, Weakness or Debility, Chills, Colds, and all other diseases caused by a torpid or diseased liver; nine-tenths of all diseases of the South and West are caused by the failure of the liver to do its duty. Show me a sick man or woman and I will show you a torpid or diseased liver. It is an established fact that the fresh juice of lemons, when combined with other liver tonics, produce the most desirable result upon the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, such is Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir.

Fifty cents for one-half pint bottle.

A Preparation of IRON and CALISAYA BARK, in combination with the Phosphates.

Endorsed by the Medical Profession, and recommended by them for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c.

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

Dr. Harter:—Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefits his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved.

Bible Concordance.

A Concordance. A Greek and Hebrew Lexicon. A Scriptural Gazetteer. 30,000 various New Testament Readings, 311,000 References—118,000 beyond Cruden.

THIS is perhaps the most important work in religious literature which the present century has produced. Being designed for the simplest reader of the English Bible, though greatly helpful to scholars of the most profound learning, it is, of course, important that its cost shall be brought within reach of those of most limited means. The reception already given to our prospectus assures us that the superlative merits of the work are appreciated by students of the Word of God, and that we may confidently anticipate an extremely large sale. We have therefore decided to make the price, until further notice, lower than any work of equal magnitude and value which has ever before been published.

Price, Complete, $1.50 and upwards, in various styles. Full particulars sent free on request.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence relied and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.—Author's Preface.

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containing about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely:

Record of Pastors.
Record of Classes.
Record of Official Members.
Alphabetical Record of Full Members.
Record of Probationers.
Record of Baptisms.
Record of Marriages.

We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

TRUST.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A picture memory brings to me;
I look across the years and see
Myself beside my mother's knee.

I feel her gentle hand restrain
My selfish moods, and know again
A child's blind sense of wrong and pain.

But wiser now, a man gray grown,
My childhood's needs are better known,
My mother's chastening love I own.

Gray grown, but in our Father's sight
A child still groping for the light
To read His works and ways aright.

I bow myself beneath His hand;
That pain itself for good was planned
I trust, but cannot understand.

I fondly dream it needs must be
That, as my mother dealt with me,
So with His children dealeth He.

I wait, and trust the end will prove
That here and there, below, above,
The chastening heals, the pain is love!

is giving him favor with the people.

At Oyster Creek. Bro. Kelley is much loved by his people, and is doing a good work. Every interest of the church, so far as he understands them, feels the inspiration of his earnestness and devotion. We are looking for a new church at Oyster Creek.

Bro. Childs, at Columbia, is enjoying the new parsonage, and the people appear to be enjoying him. Over forty have been received on probation since conference.

Rev. Joseph Smith is having a good year on the Chances Prairie work. The people give him a hearty welcome, and he appears to be continually growing in favor with them. We spent nearly a week with Bro. Smith and his people, preaching at Chances Prairie, Linville and Jordan's. Linville is the home of the Boons. Here lives Father Boon and eight sons. One is a local preacher, three are exhorters, two are stewards and one is the Sunday-school superintendent. Whatever work the church gives them to do is well done. Whatever promise they make they will fulfill. To day Father Boon counts quite a numerous progeny. He has thirty-four grand-children. At Linville the Methodist itinerant is always sure of a cordial greeting.

A Caney, in Matagorda county, Bro. Thomas has labored under great difficulties, but light begins to dawn. He has secured a site for a church and is now actively engaged upon it, and will soon have it ready for dedication. Then under his own vine and fig tree he will be able to preach Christ's gospel.

Our people are coming to realize more and more that little or nothing can be done without churches, and at this time, at various points on the district, they are making vigorous efforts in this direction. Some ten are in process of erection, and more are to follow. Within the bounds of the Houston district there are a number of points where we need churches. Then we need a very peculiar kind of a preacher. 1st, He must know God in the pardon of his sins. 2d, He must be able to read the Bible, Methodist Hymn Book and Discipline intelligently. 3d, He must be able to do his own writing and to keep his own church records. 4th, He must be a man who, when he makes an appointment will fulfill it. 5th, He must be a man who pays his debts. 6th, He must be a man who is not constitutionally tired or lazy. 7th, He must be willing to give himself to the work of the Lord, as our Book of Discipline directs. With any and all such I shall be pleased to enter into correspondence. The fields are now ready for the harvest, and he that worketh shall receive wages.

Kansas Correspondence.

MR. EDITOR—Kansas lies between thirty-seven and forty North latitude and ninety-four and one hundred and two West longitude, and is about two hundred and six miles wide and four hundred and twelve miles long; containing about [illegible] square miles. There are no mountains, few hills, and but little timber in Kansas. There is plenty of rock for all practical purposes in the eastern part of the State, and but little above the [illegible] west of the middle. There is plenty of water in nearly all parts of the State. Running on the surface in the eastern portion, and not far below in the greater portion of the West. Geologically, the north-eastern portion of the [illegible] is the highest, but geographically it is the lowest. is usually supplied with plenty of rain, and ordinarily has good crops, and a fair supply of fruit. In this western part of the State the good crop is the exception and a failure the rule. Fruit of all kinds is scarce here, and always will be, without a great climatical change. This western part of the State is a good grazing country, if you do not get the stock too thick. The mowing season, because of the dry weather, is short and it takes a great deal of land to pasture a few cattle during the dry, and in the winter season. Our wheat crop has failed here for the past two years, and our corn is short this year; and will require several good showers yet, to make even a fair crop.

Many who came here to farm have returned to the eastern part of the State, and more will. When a good crop is raised, this Santa Fee railroad gets all the profit there is in it, to carry it to market, while stock raisers can drive their stock if they wish. This is not the country for poor people unless they will be content to be simple "cow boys," and lay out on the plains like the Indians.

Many of our Methodist people have moved away from this part of the State and our charges are struggling in many places to exist at all. In the eastern part of the State one church is doing well, and gaining rapidly, both in members and wealth. But I will write you more about our religions and social condition in our next.

D. P. MITCHELL.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Words from Bishop Gilbert Haven's Writings.

On temperence—Great will be the happiness of the nation when no village shall be cursed with a grog-shop, when every city shall be as free from this vice as the rivers of Eden, when our youth shall be untainted with the appetite, and our men shall not err through strong drink. May that hour soon break upon the waiting realm and national prohibition of all that can intoxicate deliver our land from its last and heaviest burden.

An estimate of the negroes' character.—But last Sabbath I had the pleasure of introducing a brother minister—a fugitive slave—to the table where I was a guest; and though many others surrounded that table, none surpassed or equaled him in giving animation to the hour. Among the many who honor my house and table with their presence, none have more refinement, originality of thought and language, rich and playful natures, and none give more elevation to the society, in piety or in talents, than some of these despised men and women. You lose some of the best opportunities to enliven and improve your social life by refusing these kindred spirits an equal place at your board. If you could have the humor of an Irving, the wit of Holmes, or the refinement of an Everett to adorn your table, you would find that you were exalted by their presence.

A call to duty.—Christian man, Christian woman, ask for the straightest path of duty and follow it, whatever sacrifice it may require of pride, of former opinions, of friendship, of kindred, of reputation, of life itself.

The light is not given as a luxury nor for idle saunterings, but for labor.

Causes of the Exodus in North Carolina.

Rev. W. L. Hunter, of Hillsboro, N. C., gives in the Christian Recorder his view of the causes of the exodus of colored people from that State. He does not agree with Senator Voorhees and others who have sought to show that the exodus has been caused by railroad agents acting under direction of Indiana politicians. Mr. Hunter says:

"The cause of our people leaving this part of the State was, first, for a living. The average wages in North Carolina for men is from eight to ten dollars per month, and they have to take half of that up in trade. The man will tell you that he has no money and will give you an order to some white man's store, and in three hours after you leave he comes along and pays for what you purchase. He has his family to take care of and educate his children off this eight or ten dollars, and is compelled to take half of it in trade. And you need not leave one man and go to another, for it is understood from the [illegible] this is done to keep us from ever being able to buy lands, and thus they hope to be able to keep us on theirs to work for them and their children, and should you ever become able to make them an offer they will charge you from $10 to 12 per acre for land that would not produce five bushels of corn to the acre. The women get from three to four, five and six dollars per month and find their own rooms. Should they accidentally break an old plate while in their service, they charge them from 50 to 75 cents for it. This they take out of her four or five dollars.

As for colored juries, there is not in Orange county, nor never has been; but ah! there is no use in trying to write—it would take an angel's pen to do it.

I had a minister's certificate given to me by the Superintendent of the Railroad. When I go to buy a ticket he marks on that ticket second-class—as much as to say all negroes are second-class. A white minister purchased one at the same time and they marked it first-class; and if I go into the first-class car they make me pay extra. This was done last week. But half can't be told."

The Cost of Rum.

RUM VERSUS EDUCATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

Education—Schools in the United States, 141,629; teachers, 221,042; pupils, 7,229,938; annual expense of education, $95,402,726.

Rum—Retail liquor sellers in United States, 167,600; cost of liquors in the States and Territories in 1878, $715,575,000.

Recapitulation—Rum, $715,575,000; Education, $75,402,726; rum over education, $620,172,374.

RUM VERSUS RELIGION IN THE UNITED STATES.

Religion—Clergy in the United States, 83,637; church members, 11,458,534; Sunday-schools, 78,045; teachers, 853,100; Sunday-school, 6,504,054; total contributed for support of religion, $48,636,495.

Rum—Retail liquor sellers in the United States, 166,000; men and women in the United States who drink liquors, 18,000,000; number per annum killed by rum, 65,000; rum retailed in 1878 in the United States, $715,575,000; total contribution for the support of religion, $48,636,495; rum over religion, $667,938,505.

COST TO EACH PERSON IN THE UNITED STATES.

Religion—Annual contribution, $1.11; education—annual contribution, $2.02; rum—annual contribution, $17.

RUM VERSUS NECESSITIES OF LIFE.

Value of fruits and grains wasted per year in the manufacture of liquors, $65,000,000; total investment in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors in the United States, $2,000,000,000; total crop—wheat, rye, oats, corn, barley, buckwheat, and potatoes in the United States in 1877, $1,111,020,575; rum interest over all, $880,179,425.

The liquor traffic imposes a tax of thirty-three per cent. on the people. The saloons outnumber all other kinds of business houses of any one class in the country. We pay about one eighth as much for education as for rum; twice as much for intemperance as for the support of the government, and fifteen times as much to the dram-shop as to the church. We waste over seven hundred million dollars a year for the debasement of the intellect and the destruction of the body, and pay with reluctance less than one hundred million for education and culture; then we throw over fifteen times as much into the seething caldron of rum as we contribute annually to the cause of religion. Are not these startling statements? Do you comprehend the enormity of this national vice? With these facts before us, is it strange that our measure of misery is full? This vast waste would provide a school house thoroughly appointed, for every fifty of our youth, and set teachers in the midst of them of the highest possible culture. Aside from the lamentable havoc and waste caused by the use of rum, we are compelled to support courts and prisons, and an army of official benefactors in the name of charity that would be almost wholly unnecessary, were the people taught to shun rum as their greatest enemy. Then would we have work instead of charity, plenty instead of starvation, clean and sightly garments instead of rags, wholesome houses instead of hovels, and health instead of beggary and distress.—Exchange.

General Hancock's Letter of Acceptance.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, NEW YORK CITY, July 29, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 13, 1880, apprising me formally of my nomination to the office of president of the United States by the National Democratic Convention, lately held in Cincinnati.

I accept the nomination with greatful appreciation of the confidence reposed in me. The principles enunciated in the convention are those I have cherished in the past, and shall endeavor to maintain in the future. The thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States, embodying the result of the war for the Union, are inviolable. If called to the presidency, I should deem it my duty to resist with all my power any attempt to impair or evade the full force and effect of the constitution, which, in every article, section and amendment, is the supreme law of the land. The constitution forms the basis of the government of the United States. The powers granted by it to the legislative, elective and judicial departments, define and limit the authority of the general government. The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, belong to the States respectively, or to the people. The general and State governments, each acting in its own sphere, without trenching on the lawful jurisdiction of the other, constitute the Union.

This Union, comprising the general government, with general powers, and State governments, with State powers, for purposes local to States, is a polity the foundation of which was laid in the profoundest wisdom. This is the Union our fathers made, and which has been so respected abroad and so beneficent at home. Tried by blood and fire, it stands to day a model form of free popular government; a popular system which, rightly administered, has been, and will continue to be, the admiration of the world.

May we not say, nearly in the words of Washington, that the unity of government which constitutes us one people is justly dear to us. It is the main pillar in the edifice of our real independence, the support of our peace, safety and prosperity, and of that liberty we so highly prize and intend, at every hazard, to preserve. But no form of government, however carefully devised; no principles, however sound, will protect the rights of the people unless the administration is faithful and efficient. It is a vital principle in our system that neither fraud nor force must be allowed to subvert the rights of the people.

When fraud, violence or incompetence controls, the noblest constitutions and wisest laws are useless. The bayonet is not a fit instrument for collecting the votes of free men. It is only by a full vote, free ballot and fair count, that the people can rule in fact, as required by the theory of our government. Take this foundation away and the whole structure falls. Public office is a trust, not a county bounty bestowed upon the holder.

No incompetent or dishonest person should ever be entrusted with it, or if appointed, they should be ejected. The basis of substantial practical civil service reform must first be established by the people in filling the executive offices. If they fix a high standard of qualifications for office and sternly reject the corrupt and incompetent, the result will be decisive in governing the action of the servants whom they entrust with the appointing power. The war of the Union was successfully closed more than fifteen years ago. All classes of our people must share alike the blessings of the Union, and are equally concerned in its perpetuity and in the proper administration of public affairs. We are in a state of profound peace. Henceforth let it be our purpose to cultivate sentiments of friendship and no animosity against our fellow-citizens. Our material interests, varied and progressive, demand our constant and united efforts. A sedulous and scrupulous care of public credit, together with wise and economical management of our governmental expenditures, should be maintained in order that labor may be lightly burdened, and that all persons may be protected in their rights to the fruits of their own industry.

The time has come to enjoy the substantial benefits of reconciliation. As one people, we have common interests; let us encourage the harmony and generous rivalry among our own industries, which will revive our languishing merchant marine, extend our commerce with foreign countries, assist our merchants, manufacturers and producers to develop our vast natural resources and increase the prosperity and happiness of our people.

If elected, I shall, with divine favor, labor with what ability I possess to discharge my duties with fidelity, according to my convictions, and shall take care to protect and defend the Union, and to see that the laws be faithfully and equally executed in all parts of the country alike. I will assume the responsibility, fully sensible of the fact, that to administer rightly the functions of government, is to discharge the most sacred duty that can devolve upon an American citizen.

I am, very respectfully,

WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

To Hon. Jno. W. Stevenson, president of the convention; Hon. Jno P. Stockton, chairman, and others of the committee of the National Democratic Convention.

Incendiarism in Arkansas.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, in pursuing its work in Arkansas, following the example of the Church elsewhere, determined some years ago to establish an educational institution under the patronage of the Conference. The Church was feeble, and it was evident that such an enterprise could only be carried through by energy and self-denial. Harrison, the county seat of Boone, one of the northern range of counties, was selected, and in due time the Arkansas Conference Seminary was organized. But when the building was approaching completion, and the long-cherished hopes of our brethren were seemingly about to be realized, they were suddenly dashed to the ground in an hour through its destruction by fire. We believe there has never been a doubt that it was the work of an incendiary, actuated by the spirit which looks upon the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South as an intruder, and expresses its dislike in this semi-barbarian way.

At first it seemed a fatal blow, but when the trustees of the Academy had somewhat recovered from the shock, they determined to make another effort, and began to build again. In their poverty, and hoping for better times, they provided a temporary building, placing it beside the church, intending to use the audience room on week days for school purposes. Our brethren have not been without fears that the heat of a political campaign would put them again in peril. And now we have the intelligence that on Tuesday night, July 20, the new building was fired and destroyed, involving the church, a good brick building, in its ruin. There can scarcely be a doubt that it was, as before, the work of an incendiary. Nearly everybody living in the vicinity of the buildings were at a temperance meeting being held at the Court House, and advantage seems to have been taken of their absence. The loss is not total, for there was some insurance on both buildings, but not enough, we presume, to replace them. It is not pleasant to relate such incidents of our work in the South. We do not write in a bitter spirit, and we do not desire to provoke continued and more bitter opposition. But we have the common rights of American citizens and the courage to maintain them. We cannot be driven out of Arkansas or any other Southern State. And the better class of Southern men owe it to themselves to speak out boldly in regard to such occurrences.—Central Christian Advocate.

The Red Oak Moonshiners.

From the official report of Collector Clark we give some of the facts in the Red Oak troubles. The correspondent of the Inter-Ocean has published an account of the affair, from which we gather the following items: An old man named Eason, about seventy years of age, was suspected of having informed the United States authorities of the location of illicit distilleries, and was called to his door in the night and shot dead. Henry Cantrell, colored, was suspected of having acted as guide for revenue officers, and was dragged from his house at night, tied to a tree, and his body riddled with bullets. A man by the name of Clayton was attacked in his house by the moonshiners, who avowed their purpose to kill him, but he seized an axe, and as the door was broken in knocked down two of his assailants and made his escape in the confusion that followed. Clark, the Collector, sent a man to that place to ascertain the location of distilleries. He was not heard from afterward but his remains were found buried in the public road, with his head entirely severed from his body. Repeated but unsuccessful attacks have been made upon United States officers in this community, and also upon those who were supposed to be in sympathy with them or who were under suspicion of giving information to the government. The testimony is unequivocal and positive that the officers were fired upon and wounded by the moonshiners before the fire was returned when Jones was killed, and the gun in his hands when he fell had just been discharged.

Notwithstanding all these facts the Campbelite church was opened for the meeting of citizens to express indignation toward the United States authorities for enforcing the law, and so far as we can judge, the members, ministers and papers of that denomination sustain the moonshiners and condemn the Government. We have yet to hear or see the first syllable of disapprobation of the illicit distillers by that Church. Well may the correspondent of the Inter-Ocean say that this is a fight of press, politicians and moonshiners with powder and ball against the administration. How long shall these things continue? How long will the people slumber upon the brink of a volcano? The long forbearance of the Government will end after awhile. These things have been going on for years within twelve miles of Atlanta, and the moonshiners, their sympathizers and the Bourbon press are becoming more and more bitter and defiant.—Atlanta Advocate.

How Dr. Livingstone Died.

The Children's Record of Scotland, has the following touching and tender account of Livingstone's last hours: "During the last days of April, 1873, he was very ill. He had plaintively said to his men, 'Build me a hut to die in. I am going home.' In that hut at Ilala, on the night of the 30th of April, in great pain and weakness, he had been tenderly laid upon the couch by his faithful followers. About four in the morning, a negro who was watching beside him called out to "Susi," who, with five more of his men, hastened into the hut. A candle, stuck by its own wax on the top of a box, gave light enough to see that Dr. Livingstone was not in the bed, but kneeling, by the side of it, his body stretched forward, and his head buried in his hands upon the pillow. For a minute they watched him. He did not stir. There was no sign of breathing. Then one of them, Matthew, went softly to him, and laid his hands upon his cheek. Life had been gone some time. The body was almost cold. Dr. Livingstone was dead. On his knees at the throne of grace, that noble spirit had ended his pilgrimage, and 'entered in through the gates into the city. His poor shrivelled body, preserved in salt, was carried to the coast, a distance of more than a thousand miles, by his humble but affectionate body-guard of black men, every one of whom was a liberated slave. 'A grander and more touching memorial,' as was well said at the time, 'than any tomb that can be raised to his honor in Westminster Abbey.'"

A minister was soliciting aid to foreign missions, and applied to a gentleman who refused him with the reply, "I don't believe in foreign missions. I want what I give to benefit my neighbors." "Well," replied he, "whom do you regard as your neighbors?" "Why, those around me." "Do you mean those whose land joins yours?" inquired the minister. "Yes." "Well," said the minister, "how much land do you own?" "About five hundred acres." "How far down do you own?" "I never thought of that, but I suppose I own half way through." "Exactly," said the minister, "I suppose you do, and I want this money for the New Zealanders, the men whose land joins yours on the bottom."

Humility is a grace that adorns and beautifies every other grace; without it the most splendid natural and acquired acquisitions lose their charm.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

JOSEPH C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1880.

Majestic Faith.

What a world of meaning lies wrapt up in the word faith, and what amazing results have been accomplished and chronicled in the world's history by its persistent and heroic exercise. What innumerable volumes have been written and sermons preached, to explain its various applications, because it is absolutely necessary to the accomplishment of all great and good undertakings, especially when the full fruitage of faith must appear in the future. Hence, the actors on the wide theatre of human existence may pass away but the great thoughts, the great works, and the great results of faith remain, shedding their light across the bosom of a dark and guilty world, like so many beacon lights guiding the weary traveler to a haven of rest.

The faith and the utterances of ages past, as they were allied to goodness, truth and God, have outlasted the battle-throbs of the minds and hearts that gave them birth, and thus the garnered thoughts, truths, and doctrines of the past, intensified by ten thousand experiences, are left as a cherished heritage to us, to be reproduced in the present, and then roll on with increased power to the accomplishment of the world's final redemption.

Humble and alone, the great author of all truth, the living embodiment of the Father's image, the personification of the Father's love, passed through the city of Jerusalem and the land of Judea, scattering his healing benedictions with[illegible] number, and none of all that living multitude that thronged her streets, save the tender hearted Martha, invited Him to the hospitality and comforts of an earthly home. Humble and alone, rejected by the great, the rich, and the multitude, he taught a band of fishermen, upwards of eighteen centuries ago, the truths of a Holy Faith, that was to gild with eternal ef[illegible]nce the mountain ranges of [illegible] of all future ages, as the [illegible]light then gilded the Temple's [illegible] of Jerusalem, and the moun[illegible] ranges of Judea—taught a [illegible] faith that was to change [illegible] thoughts, habits, and [illegible] of mankind. Through the Heart of Louisiana.

Under marching orders from Bishop Harris we left New Orleans, Saturday, July 31, for a tour through central Louisiana. The work assigned by him is to look after the churches in the La Teche District, the presiding elder of which being disabled physically for labor in this climate, had been transferred. This trip will enable us to help the pastors in advocating the interests of the SOUTHWESTERN as well as give us news of new parts, to us, of our work in this State.

The ride on Morgan's Louisiana and Texas railroad from Algiers—the starting place opposite New Orleans—to Morgan City, eighty miles, is more pleasant at this season of the year than at any other. The foliage of trees and grasses and weeds is so luxuriantly grown, as to hide swamps, and make beautiful to the eye even the vast marshes through which the road runs. The miserable huts and shanties are sometimes made to look really cozy, by the overspreading vines, which cover fences and buildings, and by the thrifty patches of okra, or corn, or cotton, or cane, which nestle close to the buildings as if afraid of the swamps beyond. The gifts of nature make these humble homes have a look of comfort which, alas, they rarely possess.

But not all this eighty miles are swamp and marsh. The grading of the road has redeemed many an acre. Mr. S. H. McCrea, now one of the principal grain dealers of Chicago, once told us how, when a young man, he helped survey and build a portion of this eighty miles of road; and how the men had to wade and swim through mud and water at first, and then to plod in mud for weary weeks and months, from the first survey to the driving of the rail spikes. He would see quite a contrast now. The road has been gradually raised until the bed is solid and above danger of overflow. Fifteen miles of the road bed was raised from three to sixty inches a few years ago, and not a trip of a single train was lost during the progress of the work. A terrible overflow from a crevasse in the Mississippi was flooding miles of the road at the time. Engines were constructed with fire boxes high enough to go through three feet of water. As the water subsided the work of lifting up the ties and stamping dirt under them went on. Shovelful by shovelful, tie by tie, for hours and days and months the work went on, until the necessary height was reached. We passed over the road at that time, when in places the train ran in two feet of water. Yet business was not interrupted. The lazy alligators were aroused every day several times by the roar of the trains bearing to and fro the freight of life and worldly goods. Ah! if the Church of Christ would plan with such deliberateness and heroic purpose, and unyielding persistency for the elevation and salvation of the masses of Louisiana. What marvel of success would crown her efforts!

But as we said, these eighty miles are not all through swamp. For twenty miles the road runs near the right bank of the grand old Mississippi, which sweeps on to the gulf the swifter because of the levees on each side which confine her waters. And this mighty washing tide is more of an inland sea swiftly moving on, than it is a river. Its width here is nearly a mile, and its depth from fifty to a hundred feet. It is this vastness of volume and velocity of current which makes "the crevasse" a thing to be so much dreaded. Once the levee gives way—and no matter how small the rivulet which at first starts over or through the [illegible]bankment, there is danger of this—and in a few hours or days a [illegible] like that of a great mountain [illegible], swift and irresistible, pours over the plantations, inundating the fields and ruining the buildings, and drowning or driving away the [illegible]. Just above the city the road passes through two or three ruined plantations, for this year at [illegible] caused by the water of a fifty [illegible] a few months ago [illegible] the State $50,000 to [illegible]. Three men were sucked in [illegible] away through the fields [illegible] death by the outrushing [illegible] while the work was being [illegible] cent States; you see also the stately steamships and more beautiful sailing vessels, slowly steaming or being towed down stream towards the gulf, and which passing through the jetties, carry grain and cotton, and cotton seed oil, etc., to every part of the world. Next to the winding wagon road which follows the levee embankment, are the plantations, large and small; some of them have an arpent front (one fifth less than an acre), and are owned by small land holders, occasionally colored. These are the beginnings of "homes," often but little else than a cabin with an excuse of a fence around them and a yard full of pigs, chickens and children. But even these are good to look upon, for a man and his family once planted on an acre of ground of his own, will grow in every way. Some of these small places are beauties of taste and comfort. But in the twenty miles of which we speak the land is almost wholly occupied in large plantations, with fine sugar houses and comfortable and sometimes elegant plantation homes, with the clusters of "negro quarters," as they are yet called, located at respectful distance toward the fields. The places are all measured by so many arpents deep on the river front and so many arpents deep toward the swamp, which, with interminable cypress forests and marshes, begin from half a mile to three miles along all bayous and rivers in southern Louisiana. Their chief products are alligators and wood. The latter is valuable and can always be utilized for fire wood, railroad ties, lumber and pieux. These last are what people away from this frenchy region call pickets. The cane fields are now grown high with their sugar producing crop, and look rich and glorious, often extending miles through several plantations. The ditches—there are no fences—which separate cuts and fields and plantations, are hidden away from sight by the heavy clusters of leaves that hang from every stalk. Some of the plantations are wholly, and others in part, given to rice culture. The fields in which this crop grows can be easily flooded when necessary from the river by making flues through the levee—a work, by the way, which has to be carefully and strongly done. Just now the rice is full grown, and the fields look their handsomest. The grain has a richer and more golden hue than wheat or oats or rye, and as the breeze waves the masses of stalks in the morning sun light, the sight is beautiful to look upon.

Riding in the cars and looking first on the bosom of the great river with its burden of life and commerce, catching glances of the great Crescent City on the other side; and now letting the eye rest a moment on the houses and barns and "quarters" and sugar houses, all made more beautiful to look upon by distance, and then letting the vision feast on the vast fields of cane and rice, through which the train is rushing, and finally sweep out over marsh and darkly colored tops of the cypress forests toward the Gulf beyond, and you have an expanse of scenery delightful to behold this July morning.

These twenty miles past we have only swamps and marshes on all sides except where we cross bayons which flow lazily southward to the Gulf. We cross Bayou Des Allemands, Bayou La Fourche, Bayou Bœuf, and others. Each of these begin in the Mississippi river and make their way by many windings, to the lagoons and lakes which open into the Gulf. They were formerly mouths of the river before its present bed held so much of its water, and are yet outlets for the flood tides which sometimes swell the river after heavy rains in the North and West. Along each side of these lazy water courses, as a rule, are arable lands, which must be protected from overflow by diking out the waters of the swamps in the rear, and by leveeing out the waters of the bayous in front. This latter work the State is supposed to do, through its Louisiana Levee Company. Along Bayou La Fourche are many fine plantations on both sides, and in the fifty miles from the railroad crossing to the Mississippi are several villages, the largest of which is Thibodeaux. Along the Bayou Bœuf are many fine plantations three of which are worked and partly owned by ex-Congressman Darrall.

The train reaches Morgan City at 12 m. It was here, five years ago, we were carried from the boat with an attack of the cholera morbus to the house of a friend and expected to die. It was June 1, our birthday. If it had been God's will it would have been a good day to die. But we are glad such was not His will. There is too much of satisfaction in working for the Master on earth, and loving and being loved in this world, by those whose lives are part of our own, not to wish to live.

This town is a thriving place of a few hundred people. Its importance up to this time lies in the fact that it is the point of departure for steamships to the Texas and Mexican gulf coasts. From here from one to three of Morgan's splendid steamers daily depart. They go down the Bay some fifteen miles to deep water. Five miles of the way Morgan dredged at his own expense. It cost him $250,000 to complete the channel. It is two hundred and forty miles by ship to Galveston. Dear Bishop Haven came this route home from Mexico, and also from Texas, in 1878 from attending the conference of that State. The Catholics, Southern Methodists, and Presbyterians have churches here. We have a small church of which Bro. Evans is pastor. The African Methodists and Baptists have churches also. The Free Press and Morgan City Review are published here. From this point boats take their departure for the Teche country up the bayou of that name. Leaving the Bay they go first into the Atchafayalaya river, and then into the Teche, which, for many miles, winds through what Father Felician, the faithful adviser of Evangeline the Acadian maid who came hither seeking her lover, very properly called "the Eden of Louisiana." Of that country we will say more, for our pathway lies through it.

But hereafter Morgan City's chief importance will be in the fact that it will be the first important point on the great highway now being thrown up for railroad travel and traffic from New Orleans to Texas. But twenty days more are needed, it is said, to complete this great enterprise, which only Bourbon stupidity—that worst of all plagues which effects New Orleans—has prevented being accomplished long ago. Memphis, St. Louis, and Louisville have profited by New Orleans folly, and have gained a tremendous grip on the trade of Texas. It remains to be seen how much of that trade can be recaptured for the Crescent City. From New Orleans to Houston, Texas, is 350 miles. One hundred and sixty-four miles, from New Orleans to Vermillionville, owned by the Morgan interest is complete and is now running daily trains. One hundred miles from Houston to Orange, Texas, on the Sabine river, which, at that point, divides the Pelican and Lone Star States, is running and is known as the Houston and New Orleans Road. The intervening link of eighty or ninety miles is nearly completed, and is known as the Louisiana and Western Road, which is the legal name under which some New York capitalists are expending their money. These three corporations have entered into a tri-partite agreement to run this trunk line together for twenty-five years. We understand it is to be called the New York and Texas Trunk line. Passengers will leave New Orleans at 12 m. in a palace car and at 7 a. m., next morning, land in Houston, Texas. These railroad capitalists are all Northern gentlemen. No matter, we want railroads and commerce in this region of God's heritage, and as a citizen of Louisiana thoroughly acclimated by the cholera morbus and yellow fever, this editor welcomes them and would be glad to welcome many more like them.

This morning's ride was rendered the more interesting by a conversation of two hours with a cultivated Christian Southern lady to whom we were introduced by a prominent New Orleans merchant on taking the train. She is an Episcopalian. Her sister is the wife of a talented young minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, who lately graduated with honor under Dr. now Bishop Hurst of our Drew Theological Seminary. This lady has an intelligent enthusiasm about missionary work in foreign lands and at home. After discussing the state of missions in China, Japan, Mexico, and elsewhere, not forgetting to take in the "Eastern question," in its relations to Christian civilization in the East, we discussed at length the missionary work before the Church in Louisiana. 50,000 white adults in Louisiana cannot read or write! The superstitions of Catholicism, permeate every avenue of activity and thought in the State! Of the 350,000 colored people in the State how vast the proportion yet who need the gospel and the civilization it brings! How little of real Christianity there is in many of the so-called "churches" which "independent" preachers build up on plantations throughout the State! How little of real home life in the many thousands of cabins which are on the plantations of the State! How little the churches are really doing! These and kindred topics were discussed, until she left the train on her plantation home. Her last remark was: "Oh, that all the churches would forget their differences and with mighty faith and effort lay hold in the name of God to save these masses." To which we and all true Christians respond, amen. And that time is coming. The mighty currents of prejudice and antagonisms, born of political strife, social revolutions and two hundred and fifty years of slavery, will yet give place to the on sweeping tide of Christian unity and love, which will redeem and save not only Louisiana but this whole nation and world. God hasten the day.

A Remarkable Document.

By the courtesy of Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, Secretary of State, we have received a document, remarkable because of the signatures attached to it, as well as its contents. It is a report on the question of invoking the aid of Congress for the "education of the colored population of the Southern States," submitted by Hon. Alex. H. H. Stuart, Chief Justice M. R. Waite and Hon. Wm. M. Evarts, at a meeting of the trustees of the Peabody education fund, in Washington, D. C., Feb. 19, 1880. It was written primarily by Mr. Stuart, of Virginia, and revised by Messrs. Waite and Evarts.

The paper begins with the statement of the fundamental principle of every republican government, that all power is vested in and derived from the people; there are two distinct governments within the United States, the familiar States' rights view of it; extracts are made from Washington's farewell address, and the writings of John Adams and Thomas Jefferson on the importance of education as a safeguard to free institutions; it charges the introduction of African slaves to the British government; admits that our forefathers compromised with the institution of slavery as they found it, trusting to time to cure the evil. Neither the words slave or slavery, therefore, can be found in the Constitution.

Five millions of souls, says the report, have been elevated from the degradation of slavery to the high position of citizenship. The General Agent (Dr. Sears) has ascertained that "a large portion of them are, confessedly, unqualified for a judicious exercise of this power." The great influence of this ignorant vote upon the South and the whole country is outlined. The committe does not intend to recommend that Congress shall assume control over the whole subject of education in the United States, but, in its opinion, "the colored race constitute an exceptional class of our population by virtue of the generations it has been held in bondage; and it cannot, therefore, be a matter of surprise that they should be, as they unquestionably are, generally incompetent to form intelligent opinions on political questions, or to exercise with discretion the elective franchise. The protecting care of the master has been withdrawn, and the negroes are now brought into competition with the whites." Of the Southern States it says:

> These States have not been insensible of the mischief to be apprehended from the presence of so large a class of ignorant voters, and they have manifested the most praiseworthy disposition to aid, as far as their means would allow, in their education.

It will be seen that Mr. Stuart has written in the spirit of an ex-slave-holder, and with a view to make out the best showing for the reactionary Southern States. We are surprised that the statement above quoted escaped revision by Messrs. Waite and Evarts, because it is completely at variance with the record. The whites of the South, who in several States by use of rifle clubs, tissue ballots, murder and intimidation, have been allowed to usurp control of the government—methods not calculated to inspire voters with a high notion of our political institutions—have signalized their ascendancy by reducing the school systems, established by negro votes, to mere shadows. The same policy has driven out school teachers, shot not a few of them to death, and a very large portion of the people refuse to believe that any education whatever will benefit the negro.

The committee alleges the impoverishment of the Southern States, and says that most of them which have attempted a liberal system of free common schools have done so at the expense of their creditors. Relief from this source is considered impractical, and the only hope remains from an appeal to the liberality and justice of Congress. The committee has considered a number of precedents, and belives that Congress has the constitutional power to contribute and not to control, the education of the citizens of the States. The General Agent reported two millions of children in the Southern States without the means of instruction, of these more than one-half are colored, and they are alluded to as "a horde of young barbarians" who might "grow up to prey upon the peace of society."

The committee reached a true basis when it narrated the purpose of the great philanthropist, with which the spirit of its report is at variance, in the matter of class distinction, in soliciting an educational bounty:

> George Peabody, the enlightened and beneficent founder of the trust which bears his honored name, was a native of Massachusetts, but for many years a resident of London, where he accumulated a large fortune. With characteristic sagacity, he was among the first to foresee the evils which would be entailed on the Southern States by the ravages of the war, and the consequent inability of the people of those States to extend to the rising generation the blessings of education. Discarding every feeling of a sectional character and acting with a magnanimity almost without a parallel in history, he dedicated several millions of dollars of his private fortune "to be held by trustees (named by himself) and their successors, and the income thereof used and applied, in their discretion for the promotion and encouragement of intellectual, moral, and industrial education among the young of the more destitute portions of the Southern and Southwestern States of our Union, his purpose being that the benefits intended should be distributed among the entire population, and without other distinction than their needs and the opportunities of usefulness to them."

During the discussion, before adoption of the report, Col. Lyman, of Massachusetts, took occasion to say that he doubted the propriety of any action by Congress—

> The illiterate negroes might be divided into two classes,—the one composed of adults, who were too old to be educated; the other of children. Only the second class was, as a whole, susceptible of education. The parents of these children were not paupers, but citizens who performed their part in cultivating the great crops of the South. It was a duty of the Southern States to educate these children, just as it was their duty to provide for legislature, executive and judiciary. The questioned assumed, therefore, this simple form: Why should the South ask help to give elementary education, any more than to support the ordinary instruments of State government? He thought that the need in these States was not a bounty from the general government, but a belief in the necessity of public primary education.

Col. Lyman was right. There exists no reason whatever for a special educational bounty to a little more than one-half of the illiterate children of the South, in contradistinction to the other half or the whites. The white children are equally the victims of the institution of slavery, which demanded the suppression of the means of education during its existence; just as its dying soul now denies the freedom of speech, of the press, and of political action, cripples the school system, and visits social ostracism upon those who were untainted by its corrupt and degrading influences. What is wanted is not a national bounty to be controlled by States, whose practice has shown them to be unfriendly or neglectful of popular education, but a national system of education; or an amendment to the constitution making the establishment of public schools, for a definite period, quite as mandatory as the duty of contributing revenue in peace, or a quota of troops in time of war. The Peabody report looks to the organization of a raid upon the national treasury, and it will, if approved, reflect little credit upon either the philanthropy or patriotism of the South.

We are Surprised!

The Methodist Advocate, of Aug. 4, in reply to our suggestion that it forgot to give suitable credit for an article published from our columns, says:

> The article referred to was published in these columns by special request of the author, with the understanding on our part that it was written as much for the Methodist Advocate as for the SOUTHWESTERN, and it was desired to appear in both papers because of the matter of which it treated. In itself, the above item is but a trifle, but taken in connection with the extraordinary attack upon this paper at the General Conference, and the manifest disposition to punish its editor for his support of our work among the whites of the South, and for his advocacy of the election of a colored bishop with a special view to the necessities of that people, it may be significant.

The explanation of the omission to give credit is entirely satisfactory, but the remainder of the above remarks puzzles us not a little. What our request for justice in the matter of using our original articles has to do with the opinion of any of the brethren in the last General Conference, concerning the Methodist Advocate, or its editor, is beyond our power to even guess. The "extraordinary attack" upon the Methodist Advocate was lead by prominent men residing in the North, who believed that twelve years of effort had not given that paper as much financial strength as it ought to have, and that one paper published in New Orleans could supply the demand in the whole South. We had no sympathy whatever with these sentiments, neither did the delegates from the territory of the SOUTHWESTERN. Selfishness would have led to a different course; and, it might be well for our Atlanta brother to remember, that had it not been for the vigorous words and actions of delegates from the South, outside of his patronizing territory, the result of that "extraordinary attack" would have been in all probability the suspension of the Methodist Advocate. The paper owes its existence to day to a united South, in the last General Conference. It does not seem to us therefore to be in very good taste to imagine anything "significant" from this or any one section in the South in our simple suggestion, that this paper should have credit for its original articles.

But we are told that there was a "manifest disposition to punish its present editor for his support of our work among the whites of the South, and for his advocacy of the election of a colored bishop with a special view to the necessities of that people." It cannot be possible that the editor of the Methodist Advocate wrote this in earnest. If so, he certainly must have had the blues. Of any such "disposition" in reference to him or any other member of that body, because of their views on any question before the Conference, we do not believe there existed a particle. Our Atlanta contemporary occasionally boasts of its special championship of the work among the whites in the South. A better way we think is to champion every interest of the church among all classes ourselves, and then give all others credit for doing the same. In the main this is the course of our Atlanta paper, for which we give it great credit; but occasionally this special championship boast comes out.

But what has all this to do with giving the SOUTHWESTERN credit for its original articles? That so simple and just a request on our part should call forth such statements from our good editor at Atlanta really surprises us.

A Church Manual.

"The Manual of the Methodist Episcopal Church" will make its first appearance in the early part of October. Designed to give the latest and most important information concerning the various benevolent societies and publishing interests of our Church, the Manual will have a special department for each, as follows: The Missionary Society, the Sunday-school Union, the Tract Society, the Board of Church Extension, the Freedmen's Aid Society, the Board of Education and the Book Concern. The material for these different departments will be furnished by their official representatives. There will also be a department for the consideration of the general subject of Church benevolence, with the presentation of such facts as may come to hand.

The Manual will be just the thing to furnish the pastors what they went in presenting these several causes before their congregations. The people want to know what the Church is doing, and how and why its work is carried on. The Manual will tell all about it. Carefully preserved and bound, it will soon become a rich repository of facts and incidents that will enter into the current history of Methodism.

It will be issued quarterly, and the first volume will consist of five numbers—the number for October, 1880, and four following in January, April, July and October, 1881. Each number will contain at least forty-eight octavo pages, and more if found necessary. It will be edited by the Rev. J. M. Freeman, D.D., and published by Phillips & Hunt, at 805 Broadway, New York, and by Walden & Stowe, Cincinnati, O.

By order of the General Conference it will be sent to all our preachers free, in consideration of their services as agents of the different causes represented. Each presiding elder and pastor is earnestly desired to secure as many additional subscriptions as possible, especially among our official members, all of whom ought to have the information the Manual will contain.

Price, 50c. a year, postage included, the first year comprising five numbers, as noted above. Address, giving post-office, county and State of each subscriber, Phillips & Hunt, 805 Broadway, New York; or Walden & Stowe, Cincinnati, O.

Our Church Property Burned in Harrison, Ark.

Last week we chronicled the burning of our church and parsonage at Jacksonville, Florida, and also made note from the Associated Press dispatches of the burning by an incendiary of our seminary and church in Harrison, Arkansas.

Fuller particulars of the last calamity are at hand. The Arkansas Conference Seminary was set on fire Tuesday night, July 27, between nine and ten o'clock. The inmates and those residing in the immediate vicinity were absent attending a temperance meeting. The flames spread to the church and both buildings were destroyed. Our friends there are fully convinced that the incendiarism was the result of a rebel element in that region opposed to Union people, and especially to the Methodist Episcopal Church. The murder of Todd for preaching to colored people was excused and finally denied by the governor of Arkansas, and now comes this work of the torch. Will the proper authorities help find and punish the guilty parties, or will they help hide and screen them?

Says a letter from Texas: "We send you a copy of the first edition of the Home Messenger, published in Houston, Texas, by Hearn Methodist Episcopal Church, South. We desire to make our little paper interesting and profitable and to that end would like the help of your valuable journal. Will you please exchange with us." Certainly. The Messenger is a neat quarto, semi-monthly paper. It is edited by Rev. S. H. Werlein, well known in this city, and its subscription price is 50 cents per annum. It is mainly devoted to local news of the church.

The General Conference Committee of Entertainment has made its final report. All bills have been paid. The amount contributed by the churches of Cincinnati, Covington, Newport and vicinities was $2,235.50. The Book Concern paid out $4,241.60 on expenses of delegates not covered by collections from the churches. The final report is signed by E. Sargent, president, and D. J. Starr, secretary.

The late Delaware Conference met at Dover, Del., was a pleasant session. Bishop Bowman presided, Dr. and Mrs. Rust were present and addressed the Conference. The presiding elders for the coming year are Rev. J. W. Webb, Rev. J. D. Elbert, Rev. J. H. Holland.

The song published on our fourth page to-day, entitled "The Meanest Thing of All," may be purchased of H. C. Harris, New York. An edition of 100,000 will be issued. It is an incisive temperance song that should be heard all over the country.

The Young Men's Christian Association Bulletin for August, says its editor, J. M. Pagaud, Jr., is on a tour for his health; and invites ladies and gentlemen to unite with "The Social Reading Circle."

The New Orleans Auxiliary Sanitary Association have issued a valuable pamphlet, which should be read by every tenant and landlord. It urges reform in the privy system of the city.

We have received the catalogue of the Ohio Wesleyan University, with compliments of President Payne, from Delaware, O.

The Journal of the General Conference will be out in October. So says Dr. Woodruff, the secretary and editor.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—O. H. Shute, cashier of the New Orleans National Bank, has returned to his duties after a holiday abroad.

—Rev. Dr. Fitzgerald has been elected office secretary of the Mission Rooms at New York. This is a good selection for an important work

—The Rev. Dr. A. C. George and Gen. Clinton B. Fisk have been appointed on the Executive Committee, American section, to prepare the programme for the Ecumenial Conference to meet in London, August, 1881.

—The New York Advocate's London correspondent, writes that Bishop and Mrs. Merrill arrived in London Saturday July 17. They worshipped in City Road Chapel July 18, made a call at Paternoster Row July 19, and being late for reaching his first Conference in Germany, the Bishop was obliged to leave London for Paris by the night mail Monday, July 19, the evening before the opening of the English Conference, which was a disappointment as much to the Bishop at it will be to the Conference, but one day more in London might have prevented the Bishop being present at the opening of his own Conference in Germany, which he desired to avoid.

—A student of Alcorn University, Rodney, Miss., in a letter to us, after speaking of "the generous body of trustees," pays his respects to President H. R. Revels, of that institution: "Not a youth comes to this university and goes away without some attachment to the doctor, and his family is one that cannot be excelled—may his future be much more brighter and prosperous than his past. The school, during the past session was in a most delightful condition, it wanted no attention, and made fine progress in everything. By his fervent and earnest prayers he has withstood many storms but he shall receive just reward when the harvest time comes."

—The Valparaiso (Ind.) Vidette of July 15 says: "Considerable excitement was caused in our city last Sunday afternoon by the sudden and dangerous illness of the Rev. N. L. Brakeman, our Methodist pastor, who, as he was starting to attend Sabbath-school service at 2 P. M., was powerfully overcome by the heat and rendered speechless, and thought to be dying. The prostration was attended by serious, but not fatal, paralysis of the entire left side. Vigorous treatment by his physicians, Drs. Leitherman and Newland, brought about favorable symptoms, and he is now recovering, though still, in a measure, helpless. The Church and congregation over which he presides have raised a liberal purse of money for him, sufficient to meet all the expenses of treatment for a number of weeks."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

I. Mosely, West Point: "A protracted meeting resulted in 14 conversions, 12 baptized."

L. P. Brown, Shubuta: "At quarterly conference, July 27-28, our beloved presiding elder was with us and preached a fine sermon. The sacrament was administered to 63. Elder's collection, $5 35."

J. P. Freeman, Rosemeath: "I am glad to say that I have purchased a fine bell for our church, known as Wesley Chapel; also we have built upon the front part of the church a belfry worth $20; Prof. J. M. Dixson did it for $12. We now have a finished church. Our bell cost us $54, delivered. Rev. J. B. Griffin is doing all he can for the upbuilding of his people."

B. L. Crump, Greenwood: "A general examination of Sunday-school pupils took place on the 1st. Several prizes were distributed to the most proficient. William Batchelor and Bragg Avant received illustrated engravings of the Lord's prayer. Other prizes were given to Miss Ella McCain and Wesley Dunn, Jr. A centennial collection of $3.65 was taken up. I expect to open my protracted meeting at Jane's Chapel, next Sunday night, 15 miles east of this place. Pray for us."

Wm. Hale, Tiobee: "I am proud to note that we have erected and completed our church at this place, and chose Saturday, July 31st, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. We prepared a dinner for the occasion, and invited Rev. Z. P. Price to assist our pastor, Rev. I. Moseley, in an address for the occasion. Rev. Price introduced worship by singing, and the 1st Samuel, 2d chapter, and 8th verse was chosen as a text, viz: 'God raises up the poor.' He was followed by Rev. I. Moseley, who made some very forcible remarks, and I must say we witnessed a glorious time."

TEXAS.

S. Smith, Mayafield: "A good parsonage has been built. Had 18 converts in a protracted meeting, and 6 backsliders reclaimed."

A. Galbreath, Richmond: "Camp meeting continues, and sinners are turning to God. Sunday, Aug. 1, 10 were added to the church."

L. Calloway, Lovelady: "On Trinity circuit 15 members have been added since March. Will do all we can for the causes of the Church."

W. B. Pullam, Houston: "Held [illegible] quarterly conferences on my [illegible]. The work is growing. [illegible] conference will convene at [illegible] Hill, October 7th, and [illegible] on the 10th."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The Fort Worth Daily Democrat advertises for 1000 men to pick cotton and corn, and says about that number could find employment in every county in the State.

The National Temperance Advocate expects electoral tickets to be placed in the field in twenty States for Gen. Neal Dow and Prof. A. H. Thompson, the Prohibition nominees.

Austin District Conference.

The district conference of the Austin district, West Texas conference, met at Georgetown, July 22, 1880, Presiding Elder S. Gates presiding. On motion, P. M. Carmichael was elected secretary and A. Brown was chosen assistant secretary. On motion the following committees were appointed: On examination of local preachers, candidates for admission into the traveling connection—J. W. Robinson, D. Mucker and E. Cogswell; to receive reports—G. Norman, J. Smith and M. Lott; on public worship—the presiding elder and pastor in charge at this place. The bar of the conference was then fixed, and also the hour, 9 a. m., to begin and the hour, 12 m., to adjourn.

The second day Elder Gates was in the chair. Prayer by Geo. Sawyers. At roll call 23 responded. The day was given to receiving and hearing reports. At the close the elder asked some disciplinary questions, after which the president ordered the brethren to meet in the cabinet at 4 p. m.

The third day was given to passing the characters and renewing the licenses of the local preachers and exhorters. The characters were passed, but some lost their licenses. The next district conference will be held on the Cunningham circuit. On Monday morning the appointments of local preachers were read, and conference adjourned sine die.

Letter from Donaldsonville.

DONALDSONVILLE, LA., July 30, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—The Blue Bucket, Jr., Fire Company of this place gave a grand dramatic entertainment at their hall, on Thursday night, the 29th inst. Music was furnished by the Crescent Brass Band of this place. Guitar played by D. W. Brown, Esq., of New Orleans, and piano by Miss Marcelin Landry, of Donaldsonville. Each in their order acquitted themselves in a manner creditable to themselves as well as to their able instructors, Messrs. A. Bernard, John Martin, P. S. Carmouche and others. Misses O. Claiborne, G. Claiborne and S. Ocey played their parts upon the stage to the great satisfaction of the packed house. The singing by the choir was exquisite, especially that of Miss Louise Conway, who made a very grand display of her vocal talent.

With a view of raising funds for the construction of a new M. E. church on the lands donated by Mr. Benajah Gibson, in Donaldsonville, the same young ladies and gentlemen, and others, will give another like entertainment at Green Hall, in St. James, Saturday, August 28.

Very respectfully,

A. T. GRIGSBY.

We gave a little supper at the church July 23d, which was a grand success. We were all dressed in red, pink and white aprons. Our society commenced by marching up and down the aisles singing "I love Jesus." We made $20 60 for the church and society. Our pastor, Rev. S. A. Cowan, is well pleased with us, and is using his influence to establish our society on a firm basis. Mrs. Laura Chilton allows us to use her sewing machine and helps us in our work.

ELIZA CHILTON, Pres.

Oxford, Miss., Aug. 4, 1880.

Mrs. Harper at Holly Springs.

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., July 18, 1880.

Mrs. E. W. Harper, of Philadelphia, Pa., made us a visit a short time since, and delivered three valuable lectures in Asbury Chapel. She is a talented and fluent speaker, and is deeply interested in the education and moral elevation of her people. Her discourses on "character" were listened to by large and interested audiences, who were much pleased. Her address to the ladies was especially good. She took for the subject of her remarks the 10th verse of the 31st chapter of Proverbs, and in a clear and forcible way showed them how they ought to live and train their children. Would that our people might conform their lives to the valuable advice they so gladly listened to from her.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

August 15, 1880.—ABRAHAM AND MELCHIZEDEK.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 14: 12-24.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Jesus, made a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek."—Heb. 6: 20.

TOPIC.—The Type-Priest of the True Covenant.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Preliminary.—The fertile plain of the Jordan, which excited the cupidity of Lot, was a temptation, with its flourishing cities, to any monarch strong enough to conquer it. The history of the taking and pillaging of the five cities near the Dead Sea, is given for the purpose of showing how unwise was the choice of Lot, and how punished he was for his selfishness. The conquerors "took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah and all their victuals, and went their way."

Lot actually "dwelt" in a city, the inhabitants of which were "sinners before the Lord exceedingly." He dwelt there, though his righteous soul was vexed every day "with the filthy conversation of the wicked," and with their unlawful deeds. He was lured in by his desire for the acquisition of property, for the companionship that a city affords. Lot was taken captive, with the prospect before him of spending his life in slavery beyond the river Euphrates, in a region more remote than that from which he came. Taking himself, of course, they took his goods. His goods were the cause of the strife between his herdsmen and the herdsmen of Abram; they brought about the separation between himself and his kinsman. Though he was guilty and ungrateful, still to Abram he was the son of his brother. He forgot all his own sense of injury in that fact. In his distress Lot turned for sympathy, if not for succor, toward the man he had wronged. Abram was prompt in his action. Indisposed as he might have been to assert his own rights with Lot, his kinsman, still it was not from any lack of courage or of strength. Though he would have no contest with him, he was willing enough to fight for him. It was a brave act to set forth in pursuit of a large and victorious army with a force so small. For with the addition of the men furnished by Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre, Abram hardly could have had more than a thousand, all told. He made the darkness his ally. The foe was not expecting an onset. They thought that they had left behind no enemy who could follow. They were taken by surprise, and, in the night, their terror multiplied the number of the assailing forces. They were routed completely, and Abram pursued the flying foe even to the vicinity of Damascus. He secured all of the property that had been taken away from the cities, together with the store of food which the invaders had carried away. Lot owed to his uncle a double debt of gratitude for what he then did for him.

Abram, from being a mere keeper of flocks, had come to be regarded as a conqueror. He had placed the whole plain of the Jordan under peculiar obligations to him. The king of Sodom was the first to render honor to the returning victor. "Melchisedek—brought forth bread and wine." Melchidezek officiated as priest rather than as host. He pronounced a benediction upon Abram as a servant of God, and upon God as the one who gave to Abram his victory. Abram gave to Melchidezek one tenth of all that he had taken from the enemy. He tells the king that he has [illegible] most high God that he will accept of nothing from him. Whatever may have been the usages relative to property recovered in such cases, Abram considered that morally, at least, he had no right to it, and that to take it would have been to have received it as a gift. And that he had determined not to do. From Melchizedek he was willing, nay eager, to receive a blessing, for he was the "King of Righteousness," but from the wicked king of Sodom he would take absolutely nothing.

Be wise and happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

MARRIAGES.

At Aberdeen, Miss., on June 26, at the bride's residence, Mr. Edmond Spencer to Miss Emma Oliver; on July 17, Mr. Turner Morgan to Miss Rachael Bibb, Rev. P. Blue officiating.

DR. PAYNE, in his lecture upon the Foe and Grace, says that Dyspepsia is a great Foe to Grace. It darkens the sky and breaks the hopes of many Christians. They think the trouble is in their hearts, when it is in their stomachs. Thus the stomach influences the feelings to such a degree that it should be more carefully looked after, and regulated with the never failing Simmons Liver Regulator, the constant use of which will so improve the feelings as to make the heart happy and the spirits light. It is a well-known fact that food, ill digested, but imperfectly nourishes the system, as it is only partially assimilated by the blood. Sufferers with Dyspepsia, whose circulation is impoverished and nerves weakened, experience a rapid and decided improvement in their physical and mental condition by the use of Simmons Liver Regulator. Try it, and you will be astonished at the good results.

DEATHS.

Sister Elizabeth Monroe was born in 1831, in East Feliciana, La., and died July 16th, 1880. She confessed to have received the Savior in 1872, and joined the Mt. Carmel church, of which she was a faithful member to the day of her death. She leaves a husband, eight children, and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

Z. T. GAYDEN, Pastor.

Clinton, La.

Brother Emanuel Toby was the founder of the Mt. Vernon church, in the city of Houston. He was assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school, and has been ever since we had a Sunday-school. He has been a pillar of the church so long that he has left us in great sorrow. He had been preaching in Houston 41 years, and on the 10th of August he would have been 74 years of age. He preached in Macon, Miss., two years and nine months. He died July 29.

The Summer Solstice.

One great reason why hot weather is so debilitating lies in the fact that the body is exhausted by the labors of the year. Indeed, it is natural that this should be so. In order, therefore, to resist this tendency to exhaustion it only becomes necessary to re-invigorate the body which can readily be done by one or two bottles of Warner's Safe Tonic. This remedy is being extensively used by physicians for this purpose and is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world.

New Books.

We announce all books received from publishers as soon as they come to hand. We will give notices or reviews of each one, after examination, as we think their merits justify.

BOOK NOTICES.

ORATIONS OF DEMOSTHENES. Translated by Thomas Leland. Vol. II. No. 34 Standard Series. Price, 20 cents.

FRONDES AGRESTES; OR, READINGS IN MODERN PAINTERS.—By Ruskin. Chosen at the pleasure of a lady friend of the author and revised by himself. No. 35 Standard Series. Price, 15 cents.

These selections include the finest things said by Mr. Ruskin on the sky, streams and sea, mountains, stones, plants and flowers, education, the moralities, the principles of art, and the power and office of the imagination. It is a good book for summer reading, especially in the mountains. Mr. Ruskin's notes, commenting on his own writings, are quaint and instructive.

JOAN OF ARC. By Lamartine. No. 36 Standard Series. Price, 10 cents.

This book, as are all of Lamartine's books, is exceedingly interesting. All the above are published by I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—Ludden & Bates, Savannah, Ga., have issued the Hancock and [illegible] March, a campaign piece of music. Price, 40 cts.

—The American Journal of Microscopy (P. O. Box 2852, New York) says there will be two meetings of microscopists this year, one at Boston, and the other at Detroit.

—The American Agriculturist for August has a little on every topic [illegible] to a "Lubber Grasshopper." Orange Judd & Co., New York. Price, $1 50 per year.

—The Library Magazine for August has a paper On the Sources of German Discontent, Migration of Popular Stories, The French Clergy and the Present Republic, The Austrian Power, etc. Price 10 cts. American Book Exchange, Tribune Building, New York.

—The Nineteenth Century for July has The Future of Liberalism, Atheism and Repentance, Modern French Art, A Stranger in America, Story Telling, The Commercial Treaty between France and England, Bleeding to Death, etc. Geo. D. Munro, Publisher, New York.

—Good Company, Number Eleven, opens with Notes of Travel by Charles Dudley Warner, at the end of which he throws the charm of his style about the immense Chicago stock-yards. The prevailing Southern diet and the obstacles to improved methods in cooking is given by Mrs. Helen Campbell. E. S. Gilbert's "Midsummer" is pat to the season and entertaining. Seasonable, too, is Dora Read Goodale's poem "A Summer Night Storm," and "Sunshine." Octave Thanet has the "Romance of a Medicine Bottle," and there is a full allowance of stories and shorter sketches.

—The International Review for August (New York: A. S. Barnes & Co.) has papers on the Caucus in England; Masson's Life of Milton; The Game Food of America; Two Anti-Slavery Leaders; The Undiscovered Country; Italian Popular Poetry; The Nominations; National Ethics and Contemporary Literature. Among the contributors are Horace White, Thomas W. Higginson, Brooks Adams, Henry Cabot Lodge and Rowland Connor. The International is a compendium of the freshest current thought. Terms, $5 per year.

Cut this out and Save it.

If those persons laboring under disease proceeding from vitiated humors in the blood; causing Ulcers, White Swellings, Coxalgia or Hip Joint Disease, and the class of diseases termed Scrofulous, proceeding from hereditary taints, where the bones are destroyed, defying the usual treatment of physicians, will procure SWAIM'S PANACEA, they will find a remedy which has saved thousands of lives; and thoroughly tested by the late professors Chapman, Dewees and Gibson of the old University of Pennsylvania; besides hundreds of medical men eminent in their profession, continues to be a "forlorn hope" to sufferers worthy of its fifty years' reputation.

SWAIM'S PANACEA is imitated and a preparation sold for it by druggists with a name somewhat similar. Purchasers therefore must be careful and see they get that containing the recommendations of the distinguished professors alluded to. It is seldom advertised in our public papers.

SWAIM'S PANACEA is prepared only at Swaim's Laboratory, 113 South Seventh Street, below Chestnut, Philadelphia.

OF MEDICAL FACULTY LAVAL UNIVERSITY, QUEBEC, states: "I have found Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator particularly useful in advanced stages of Consumption, Weakness, Dyspepsia, and all Nervous Affections. In pregnant women it has been retained while every other article of food was rejected. I can recommend it as convenient, palatable, and easy of digestion. I. L. Lyons, druggist, agent, New Orleans.

The New Louisiana Remedy is winning golden opinions from many who have tested its merits in the treatment of coughs, colds, etc. We recently examined some fourteen pages of signatures vouching for its effectiveness. Read advertisement elsewhere, and remember that this home medicine is well known, and finds sale throughout the country.

Our readers who suffer from Deafness should read the advertisement of "HOPE FOR THE DEAF," which appears in another column.

The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the

Louisville and Great Southern Railway,

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

Young's Analytical Bible Concordance.

A Concordance. A Greek and Hebrew Lexicon. A Scriptural Gazetteer. 30,000 various New Testament Readings. 311,000 References—118,000 beyond Cruden.

This is perhaps the most important work in religious literature which the present century has produced. Being designed for the simplest reader of the English Bible, though greatly helpful to scholars of the most profound learning, it is, of course, important that its cost shall be brought within reach of those of most limited means. The reception already given to our prospectus assures us that the superlative merits of the work are appreciated by students of the Word of God, and that we may confidently anticipate an extremely large sale. We have therefore decided to make the price, until further notice, lower than any work of equal magnitude and value which has ever before been published.

Price, Complete, $1.50 and upwards, in various styles. Full particulars sent free on request.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"It fills a place which no other work in the English language even aspires to fill."—The Evangelist, January, 1880.

"Bible students of all classes will find it saves them much labor."—Illustrated Missionary News, November, 1879.

"Any intelligent student of the Scriptures may use it with great advantage without the slightest acquaintance with either Hebrew or Greek."—The Lay Preacher, January, 1880.

"No minister's library should be without a copy."—London Weekly Review, December 13th, 1879.

"This is the best concordance we know."—Belfast Witness, December 19th, 1879.

"There is no other to be compared with it."—The Methodist, November 29th, 1879.

"To ministers it will be simply invaluable."—The Primitive Methodist, October 30th, 1879.

"Inestimable in its worth."—The Baptist Magazine, November, 1879.

Tobacco:

Its Physical, Mental, Moral and Social Effects.

Rev. B. W. Chase, A. M.

Second Edition. Cloth, square 18 mo. 80 pp. .... 40c.

This book treats upon one of the greatest evils of the day. As a stepping-stone to intemperance its evil is apparent. Those interested to rid the country of intemperance should circulate this book by the thousand. The subject is treated in a calm and dispassionate manner, and the sensationalism so frequently found in such works are avoided.

China and Japan.

Bishop Wiley.

60 Illustrations, 12mo., cloth, 548 pp. .. $1 50

The Bishop has had ample opportunity for a careful study of Peking, Shanghai, Foochow, and other interior and coast cities of China, and to study the habits and religions of the people. Later he enjoyed equal facilities for an examination into the character and ways of the Japanese. His intercourse with the native Christians (for Methodism has established a strong foothold in both empires), brought him into close contact with classes with whom ordinary travelers have little to do. He tells the facts he observed in a pleasant and natural way, generally leaving the reader to make his own inferences. Hence, the narrative will be hardly less entertaining to those in search of secular than to those looking for religious information. A cheerful spirit pervades the volume.

Blancard's PILLS

City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodine of Iron. The Iodine purifies, the Iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists. no 19

*THE MEANEST THING OF ALL.

The writer of this song recently saw a father compel his son a boy of about six years of age to drink a glass of liquor. The child begged his parent not to make him drink it. The father insisted, in a very few minutes the poor boy was stupidly drunk. The writer in utter indignation penned the following lines, considering that nothing could be meaner:

It's mean to pluck the tender shoot
That's been nurtured but an hour;
God meant it should bear up the fruit
Or hold the bud and flower.
It is mean to covet a neighbor's gain—
True riches is contentment.
It is mean to laugh or jest at pain
Or cultivate resentment.

It's mean to pass a poor friend by
When his seedy garb we note:
Why give pain to the honest heart
That's under a ragged coat.
It is mean to circulate reports
To wound a neighbor's fame,
To take every man's best estate—
A pure and spotless name.

It's mean to strike a man that's down,
It's mean to kiss and tell,
It's mean to put the cover on
To keep truth in the well.
It is mean to lie, it's mean to steal,
But meaner far, I think,
Than all mean things I ever knew,
To ask a boy to drink.

Good and Bad.

One day little Robert's father saw him playing with some boys who were rude and unmannerly. He had observed for some time a change for the worse in his son, and now he knew the cause. He was very sorry, but he said nothing to Robert at the time.

In the evening he brought from the garden six rosy-cheeked apples, put them on a plate, and presented them to Robert.

He was much pleased at his father's kindness, and thanked him.

"You must lay them aside for a few days, that they may become mellow," said the father; and Robert cheerfully placed the plate with the apples in his mother's store-room.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my mother, Isabella Hickerson. I left her in Coffee county, Tenn., at the head waters of Duck river. She belonged to William Hickerson. Please address me at Lovelady, Texas, in care of James Rollins.

LORKLIN HICKERSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother, Albert Cooper, who left here two years before the war and went to Texas with a Mr. Cooper. We belonged to Wann Johnson. We had one sister, Eliza Johnson. Mother's name was Mary Cooper. Address me at Hickory Station, Newton Co., Miss.

FRINK JOHNSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire father and mother. Mother's name was Judia Gibson. She belonged to Steve Gibson. Geo. Ashford swapped her to Gibson. Father's name was Center Gibson. I left them with Steve Gibson, in Fairfield district, South Carolina, about twenty years ago. Please address me at New Prospect, Choctaw Co, Miss.

JERRY ASHFORD.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my brother and step-father. Mother's name is Maria Bradford; father's, Thomas Bradford, and sisters', Harriet and Charity Bradford. I left them in Pickens county, Ala. We all belonged to James Bradford. My last owner was John S. Gill. When I left there my name was Mary Gill. Please address me, in care of Rev. J. K. Loggins, at Galveston, Texas.

MARY COOK.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brothers Richard and Daniel, whom I left in Red River county about 1862. Richard belonged to Levi Childs and Daniel to Joe Cade. When I left them I had two children, Mittie and Jemima. I did not know what names brothers went by at that time. We came from Georgia together, with Joe Cade, to Red River, Texas, where Cade sold Daniel, myself and two children. My husband's name was Tom Jenkins, and I went by the name of Harriet Jenkins. I was afterwards sold to the Dupree, of Grimes county, Texas. Write to me, or to Sally Dupre, at Plantersville, Grimes Co., Texas, in care of Jesse G. Dupre.

HARRIET DUPRE.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire my people, Mike, Calliope, Susan and Jane. The last I saw of them was near Grand Gulf, Mississippi, about 1840. They went to New Orleans to their owner, Richard Harris. I left my youngest sister and eight aunts, Susan Bryant, Mary, Charlotte, Margaret, Betty, Lizzie, Peggie and Agnes Humphrey, with Capt. Geo. Humphrey, five miles south of Grand Gulf; also four uncles, Willaber, Abner, Samuel and Samps Johnson. My husband left me at Ellis Bridge's place, in Madison parish, Louisiana, about 1863. Jacob and Gracy Moore are his parents; his sisters are Ellen, Eliza, Priscella and Frances; his sons, Jacob, Bob and David. I went by the name of Maria Moore. Please address me at Plantersville, Grimes Co., Texas.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Dyspepsia's tortured victim,
Why cross the ocean tide,
To drink the Seltzer water
By Nature's fount supplied?
When at your bedside, science
Presents the self-same draught,
Ebullient as the Seltzer
From Nature's fountain quaffed.
In TARRANT'S COOL APERIENT,
You drink each healing thing
That God, the Great Physician,
Has cast into the Springs!

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Major-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. C. C. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday school workers of Great Britain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully,
JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.
Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly,
R. CAULKINS, M. D.
Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporary relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to-day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others.

the same as all public lands. As the question of right to settlement is enlisting the attention of prominent parties of St. Louis, it will probably be soon tested before the courts. But woe to the unwary settler. The tomahawk will be dug up and the scalping knife unearthed for the native has sworn extermination. And lo, the poor Indian. He will be driven from his home, to find only barren fields and rocky shores. The great tide of civilization sweeping onward has already gathered around him. He must yield to the inevitable, for the irresistible Yankee is on his trail.

But now we have been hurried on to the border line of "The Nation," and before us lie the broad prairies of Kansas, dotted with farm houses, grazing herds, growing towns and fields of luxuriant growth. The entire eastern part of Kansas is not a failure this year, but a grand success. The acreage of corn far exceeds that of any previous year, and the prospects for an abundant harvest were never better. Drowth, and chinch bugs and grasshoppers are a myth as far as the results are concerned. A good harvest this year is the salvation of all new-comers. It virtually settles the vexed question of the wisdom of the exodus thus far to Kansas. All who have come are safe and will succeed. I became interested in making inquiries of them in different parts of the States. In one representative town in the interior where six or eight months ago fifty families were sent totally destitute, depending for the time upon the charity of the town for food and clothing, I found that these same families have already earned for themselves a good living, a little lot of ground and each has built a small but comfortable house. The little new plank and frame houses in "Africa," and the well kept gardens are evidences of the notable industry and perseverance of the colored man. Let the same unwearied work and patient endurance be exercised by them in any of the "free" States that they put forth in their present condition, and success for them is certain. Here it is an equal race, and pluck and industry alone wins. Here the day's work means highest rates and cash payments, and fair dealing and no truckling with dishonest tradesmen. Many of the people have secured farms in different parts of the State and are doing well. I find them welcomed thus far [illegible] industry and thrift they have shown. "There is room and good homes for them yet in Kansas," said one of our ministers here to me, "if they come to work and endure."

By the way, I learn that Rev. [illegible] Lynch is doing a grand work in the State, and is eminently fitted to be the leader. He is calling loudly for young men from the South to come over and help him. He must have educated young men. None other than men from the schools will satisfy him. If not these, he will wait patiently, doing the work himself. He says that he will let the churches go without preaching, only as he himself may be able to visit them, rather than [illegible] an unfitted man to warp them. [illegible] to start right, if very slowly. This must be the policy of our Church everywhere in time. [illegible] of energy and intellect [illegible] prepare themselves for the work or fail. There are thousands [illegible] in the church and but few teachers. [illegible] truth and duty, [illegible] should aspire to the mastery. Masters are needed to conquer [illegible] lead on to higher experience [illegible] and victorious [illegible]. Our schools of the South should be crowded with [illegible] who are to lead the hosts [illegible] complete triumph.

Gray's Peak, the "Dome of the Continent;" while at the foot of my little mountain, and away down its gorge eastward, winding around the hills, its waters sparkling in the sunlight in their leap over the rocks, runs the little Clear Creek, that in the ages past, assisted by fire and earthquake, has formed its wonderful cañons out of the massive granite. The views from these mountains are of a sublimity beyond conception. God's hand has been here, kindling the fires, lifting the rocks from their beds and piling the mountains one upon another. I can do no other than bow in reverence and submission to his Almighty power.

An Educated Ministry.

It has been said that the cat loves fish, but will not swim nor dive to catch them. So some people like gold, but will not try to get it; others like bread, but will not work for it, and not a few would like to read and write intelligently, but they are too lazy to learn. As a rule men must labor for all they have, and nothing is worth possessing or offering to others that costs nothing. May the Lord "preserve the Church" from "skulls that cannot teach and will not learn." Selah.

All over the Houston district our best people are calling for preachers that can read the Bible, our hymns and Discipline intelligently, and that can do their own writing, and men who cannot do this must prepare to take back seats. The great questions that the minister is called to discuss are the most stupendous that can agitate the human soul. God the Father, God the Son, God the Holy Spirit—how these three are one and yet separate and distinct; how they stand related one to the other, and how man stands related to each. Sin, salvation, death, judgment, eternity; what is the true way from earth to heaven, and what are some of the divine lights that illuminate the way—these are some of the great and unspeakable questions submitted to the minister for his salvation, and he who will not learn them cannot teach them. "Selah."

"Brother Cushman, do you think that is hurtful for me, a preacher of the gospel, to smoke and chew tobacco?" My brother, that depends very much upon your moral condition. Buzzards, I am told, eat carrion and thrive upon it, but it would kill some animals if they were to do the same. Just so some preachers can chew and smoke tobacco and receive no hurt from it, but it would kill others. My pity is for the man who is in such a moral state that the use of tobacco does not hurt him. It is the pure in spirit who feel the contact with wrong. This longing after, this hankering for the devil's weed, is a fearful sign of relapse. Brother, I will not speak in parables; I tell you plainly that this going to tobacco for pleasure and comfort is not much of a recommendation for the religion of Jesus Christ.

Letter from Devall's Bluff, Ark.

DEAR SIR—I desire to say a few words about our young men, especially those desiring to become ministers of the gospel. I see the great need of education among all classes, and especially among the colored people. We want intelligent ministers to come among us, and hope that our young men will consider the matter well, and increase their desire for an education. Whatever a man comes to in this life depends upon his own work and perseverance. If the young man wants to get to the position of meritorious men he must work to that end. We are too often hasty to be called great and mighty men; and if we continue to be hasty to attain these ends before we are competent, it will be unfortunate and repented of in old age. Now is the time for young men to cling to their books day and night. The country is calling for intelligent men to lead the ignorant and to lay plans to promote the welfare of the people.

The M. E. Church is an instrument inspired from on high, among the people; for it is the only church that is working for the welfare of the colored people, as well as the poor whites. It is doing good work all over the globe, and I can see the effects of it here and learn of the good it is doing elsewhere. I hope that our young men will come [illegible] for it is working for the welfare of all. I can not find the reason why every colored person does not unite with the M. E. Church. This church was instrumental in their emancipation, and labored hard to gain their equalities as citizens. I believe that every colored man should unite himself to this Church.

Letter from Wharton.

WHARTON, Texas, July 29, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—My school began the first of March and continued for four months. It contained about fifty students, some very young. For examination we were blessed with a beautiful day, and it was conducted in the presence of some of the leading citizens of Wharton, parents and friends. The examination was acknowledged by those present to be excellent. On Wednesday at 10 a. m., the pupils met at the school-house for singing and to get ready to march out to a fair ground, prepared for a pic nic. At 12 o'clock the procession having on uniform, and singing melodiously, with flag in front, marched out to the pleasant grove on the river's bank. The sound of the dinner bell echoed, and at the tap of the drum the scholars were called together and formed into line two abreast—girls standing and boys marching around and facing the girls. Here they stood for about ten minutes and enlivened the guests with a cheerful hymn. We received blessing by elder Jas. Tisdale, and then enjoyed a nice time around the table with plenty to eat. After noon preparations were made for speakers. A song was sung by the choir and prayer was offered by elder Jas. Tisdale. Elder Greggs addressed the audience on "The Advancement of Education." A. Jackson was the next speaker. All passed off satisfactorily, and the speakers were cheered. At 9 p. m. there was a beautiful exhibition. We had a large number of hearers, and addressed them with about forty choice pieces. It was crowned by a speech by Bro. A. F. Kinison, of Columbus.

The Work Before Us.

DEAR EDITOR—I have been trying for some time to bear with the folly of my friends (or rather the professed friends of Jesus), in keeping up this talk about color, but my patience is nearly exhausted and I sometimes have a feeling of disgust as I read and think how "Jesus is wounded in the house of his friends," and the work of doing good is hindered by our consenting to sin and sowing discord. So I thought I would write to you to relieve my mind.

It seems to me that if we have a work to do, we ought to get at it and not stop to reason with the enemy about races. Having begun work among the oppressed (no matter what caused it) let us pursue the even tenor of our way until every obstacle is removed and the way opened for the gathering in of all people and climes and tongues.

Dony Block, the worthy mother of Ebenezer Society, says, "I wish they would stop this talk and work to save all."

I hope the time will never come when the M. E. Church will have separate organizations to save the people from either illiteracy or sin. What others say will not amount to much if we continue to labor together as in God's sight.

MRS. T. HOWELLS.

Whitman, Texas, July 26, 1880.

From The Churchman: "A rich planter in one of the Gulf States, at the instance of Bishop Elliot, built a church for his servants. When the Bishop saw it, he said: 'It is more like a stable than a church.' 'O,' said the planter, 'it is good enough for niggers.' The Bishop turned upon him with a look that pierced him through, and replied, 'We do not built churches for niggers; we build them for the glory of God.' After the planter had recovered his breath, he ventured to ask, 'What shall we name the church?' The indignation of the Bishop was too great to be appeased in a moment, and he said, 'Name it? I don't know unless we call it the Church of the Holy Manger.'"

For every man to "vote for whom he pleases" is just what all men ought to do; is what only truly independent men will do, and is what the Ring-crats and their sub whip-crackers in South Carolina strive to prevent.—Christian Neighbor.

Comparison Between Two Methodist Conferences which Occupy the Same Ground.

BY A MINISTER OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

[The following letter from the New York Advocate will be read with interest. Such comparisons can be made in every Southern State, and the showing will in most cases be very creditable to the work among the colored people, and equally so the work among the white people, inaugurated by our Church since the war:—ED.]

The Minutes of the sixty-sixth session of the Tennessee Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Journal of the twelfth annual session of the Tennessee Conference, African Methodist Episcopal Church, are before me.

Comparisons are said to be odious. To me the comparison of the two pamphlets has been surprising. To your readers some of the facts and figures which are published may be both instructive and astonishing. The two Conferences cover the same territory—Middle or Central Tennessee. Our Conference has been denominated by Bishop M'Tyiere, "The Jerusalem Conference, the mother of us all." The Publishing House and Vanderbilt University are located in our midst. The venerable Bishop Paine and Dr. M'Ferrin were both reared among us, and were never members of any other Conference. The palm and banner we have boasted for years. Our membership, reported October, 1878, was 45,254. Membership of African Methodist Episcopal Church, same date 7,764; 946 of whom were on probation. Increase of our membership last year, 403; African Methodist Episcopal Church, 1,640, including probationers. Their financial tables show collections for all Church purposes for the year to be $28,799.48, or over $3.70 per member. Our 45,254 members contributed for all Church purposes, $98,331.91, or more than $2.17 per member. Of the amount reported by us $52,985.09 was for the salaries of the preachers; the African Methodist Episcopal Church $10,924.61 for the support of the ministry. A little over $32,000 was raised by us for churches and parsonages; they paid a little more than $16,000 for similar objects. We have a parsonage for every six preachers; they have only one for every seven. The average salary paid our preachers on stations was about $600; theirs, $547. Average salaries of our preachers on circuits, $227; theirs, $247. The preachers in charge of domestic missions in our Conference received on an average less than $100 each, the members whom they served giving an average of 25 cents each; nearly half the members of the African Conference were in charge of missions, and were paid about $120 each on an average, their members and probationers paying their pastors more than $1 per member. $3,000 expended by the Africans, and $2,500 by the Southern Methodists, in Middle Tennessee last year, each to furnish the poor among their own color with the gospel.

The churches, parsonages, and other Church property our Conference has accumulated in sixty-six years we estimate at the value of $635,408, or about $14 per member; similar property acquired by the African Conference in twelve years, $98,490.45, or about $12 per member. Headquarters of both Conferences at Nashville, the State capital, where we report eight churches, five parsonages, property worth $120,000, members nearly three thousand (2,960); African Methodists, 1,747 members, six churches, two parsonages—property estimated at $64,920. Only two of their six churches paid their pastors as much as $1,000 salary; while four of our eight Nashville churches paid their pastors from $1,000 to $3,0[illegible] each.

The Southern Methodist Conference reports nearly twenty per cent. fewer Sunday-schools than church buildings, and not forty-five per cent. of the number of members enrolled as Sunday-school scholars; while the African Conference reports nearly twenty per cent. more schools than church buildings, and over fifty per cent. of scholars to membership in the Church. We report an average of a church house for every eighty-seven members, they one for every eighty-eight.

"And what shall I say more, for the time would fail me to tell," and your space to publish the instructive points of comparison between the reports of the "Minutes" and the "Journal." The former was gotten up in excellent style by two superior men of our Conference, a minister and a layman, who did their work well. The latter is larger and fuller than the former. I am astonished at what has been accomplished by the African Methodist Church among us in so short a time. Our leading county paper of last week told us of the Commencement exercises of the female schools under the auspices of our Church and the African Methodist Church in the chief town of our county. The matriculations of the latter largely exceeded the former, yet our school is popular and prospering, and we outnumber the blacks two to one in population, and our Church their Church three to one in the county. No matter what complaints we make of the African race in the South, in educational and church enterprises they are struggling nobly, and their success is remarkable. The end is not yet. It is well for us, better for them.

Gen. Garfield on the Black Soldiers.

At the great Republican gathering on Fifth avenue, New York city, on the 6th inst. to welcome Gen. Garfield, candidate for President, he spoke these manly words to the "Boys in Blue" before him:

"While a man of us is left to shake hands together, we'll stand by the great truths of the war! [Cheers—Voices, 'Good! good!'] And gentlemen, comrades, some of these truths have settled so deep into our hearts that we can never forget them. One of them I wish to mention—the grand, elevating spirit of the war itself. We gathered the boys from the farms, from the shops, from the homes and places of the Republic, and they were unknown to fame. But they went out into this war and were entered on the roster of immortal heroes. [Applause.] They went into it and came out of it in the spirit of those soldiers who were with Henry at Agincourt, where he said, 'who this day sheds his blood with me shall gentle his condition!' And it did gentle the condition and the heart of every worthy soldier who fought in it. And another we'll remember, and remember it forever. We'll remember our allies who fought with us. When we began the great struggle we looked over behind the army of white rebels and saw four millions of black people, trained to toiling and working for our enemies, and we found that the hearts of these four millions were God-stirred, inspired by the God of Liberty, and were all our friends. [Applause.] We have seen white men betray the flag and fight to kill the Union, but in all that long and dreary war you never saw a traitor under a black skin. [Cheers] Our prisoners escaping from the horrors of starvation and prison, hunting for the North by the gleam of the north star, never feared to enter a black man's cabin and ask for bread. [Applause.] In all that period of terror and distress no Union soldier was ever betrayed by any black man anywhere, and so long as we live we'll stand by these black allies of ours. [Great cheering.] We'll stand by them until the equal sunlight of liberty, fixed in the eternal firmament of our Constitution shall shine with equal ray upon every man, black or white, in the Union. [Prolonged cheers]

"And now, fellow-citizens and fellow soldiers, in this there is no bitterness; in this there is all the beneficence of eternal justice, and by this we will stand forever." [Cheers]

Gen. Garfield's Record.

Many of our readers have a greater or less interest in politics, and probably at least one-half of them belong to the Republican party. As political Republicans, therefore, they would undoubtedly like to see an epitome of the record of their Presidential candidate, which is as follows:

At fourteen he was at work at a carpenter's bench.

At sixteen he was a boatman on the Ohio canal.

At eighteen he was studying in the Chester, Ohio, Seminary.

At twenty-one he was teaching in one of Ohio's common schools, pushing forward with his own studies at the same time.

At twenty-three he entered Williams College.

At twenty-six he graduated from Williams with the highest honors of his class.

At twenty-seven he was a tutor at Hiram College, Ohio.

At twenty-eight he was principal of Hiram College.

At twenty-nine he was a member of the Ohio Senate—the youngest member of that body.

At thirty he was Colonel of the Forty-second Ohio regiment.

At thirty-one he was placed in command of a brigade, routed the rebels under Humphrey Marshall, helped Gen. Buell in his fight at Pittsburgh Landing, played a prominent part in the siege of Corinth and in the important movements along the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

At thirty-two he was appointed chief of staff of the Army of the Cumberland, participated in the campaigns in Middle Tennessee and in the notable battle of Chickamauga, and was promoted to the rank of Major General.

At thirty-three he was in Congress, the successor of Joshua R. Giddings.

At forty-eight, having been continuously in Congress since he was thirty-three, he was elected to the United States Senate.

At forty-nine he was nominated for the Presidency of the United States.

A Patriarch's Letter.

The following is an extract from a letter written by David Ayers to Dr. McFerrin, of Nashville, Tenn., and published in the Advocate of that city:

There is engraved on the case of my watch "D. Ayers, born August 10, 1793." From this you can tell my present age. I have often been requested to write a history of my life, but as I have been of so little use in the world, I think the less I say about myself the better.

I united with the Church in old John Street when the first representative General Conference was in session. Of course I heard Bishop Asbury and all the old preachers. I believe all the members of John Street who were living when I united with the Church are dead. All of my dear father's family are dead. All of my school-mates are dead. I am alone in the world, and am of no present use in the world. I am so deaf I cannot hear any preaching. I am very feeble, and cannot expect to live much longer, but how long I cannot tell. God may have some work for me to do yet. I have more friends in heaven than I have on earth, and I do expect to get to heaven myself. I do enjoy the religion of Jesus Christ. I love our Church, and am always happy to be with our people. I do not hear the singing, but when I get to heaven I shall not be deaf. I shall be able to sing then, and I expect to shout also. Then I shall see my dear Savior who died for me; and I hope to meet you and all our Bishops there. My dear wife has been gone to heaven more than two years.

Yours truly, D. AYERS.

Galveston, Texas, June 5, 1880.

Bishop Foss, one of the newly-elected Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church preached a sermon recently, in which he told the remarkable fact "that during the late war one hundred and four young men enlisted. They were all members of the First Methodist Church of New Haven, Conn., and comprised almost the entire youthful male membership of the Church. Deep solicitude was felt regarding them throughout the Church and the community. They were the subjects of constant and earnest prayer. They passed through many battles and numberless other perils of war, yet every one of them returned home in safety. Infidels would say that this was the mere result of chance, but no thoughtful person would."

Dr. Duff said in 1829, as he was just leaving for India: "There was a time when I had no care or concern for the heathen. That was when I had no care or concern for my own soul. When, by the grace of God I was lead to care for my own soul, then it was I began to care for the heathen abroad. In my closet, on my bended knees, I then said to God, 'O Lord, Thou knowest that silver and gold to give this cause I have none. What I have, I give to thee. I offer thee myself. Wilt thou accept the gift?'"

The Confucian idea is that the end of life is attained when each man has his own house and lives in it, and all the world is at peace.

The United States grand jury in Judge Blatchford's court, New York, made a presentment in the Seawanhaka disaster. They believe the accident due to the criminal carelessness and negligence of certain government officials and the officers and owners of the vessel. Attached were indictments against Austin Jayne and Andrew Craft, inspectors of life boats, etc; against John K. Matthews and Alex. Caldwell, inspectors of boilers and machinery; against Charles B. Smith, captain, and Edgar Weeks, engineer of the Seawanhaka, and against Benj. C. Kirk, S. L. M. Barlow, Stephen Tabor, James Udall, Edward Morgan, Silas Mott and Stephen V. Townsend, directors and owners of the Seawanhaka. The offense charged against these parties is manslaughter. Assistant District Attorney Friers moved that bench warrants be issued on the several indictments presented, to which his honor gave consent. He also moved that certified copies of the presentment be forwarded to the President of the United States, the heads of the Senate and House of Representatives, the Attorney General and others.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1880.

From the Bureau of Education, Interior Department, Washington, D. C., we have received circular No. 2, 1880, a valuable educational document.

The office of the Central Methodist (church South) at Catlettsburg, Ky., stood on the line of a new railroad, and it had to be moved off. If a wave of genuine fraternity should strike that neighborhood we believe our editorial brother would have to make another move away from his ancient landmarks.

At a district conference in Georgia this resolution was passed, "Resolved, that the preachers in charge of stations and circuits within the limits of this district conference be requested to discountenance, as far as possible, the use of any other Sunday-school literature than that prepared and published under the sanction of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South." The Richmond Advocate comments: "It was right to pass and practice it."

Since returning from General Conference we have preached from two to four times each week. We leave to-day (Aug. 13) to complete our tour through central Louisiana, and will meet our churches as follows: Sunday, Aug. 15, Opelousas in morning and Washington at night; Tuesday, Aug. 17, Cheneyville circuit; Aug. 18, Cheneyville; Aug. 19, Bayou Roberts; Aug. 22, Alexandria and Pineville; Aug. 25, [illegible]; Aug. 27, Cypre Mort. To reach these points we have two hundred and fifty miles of staging; in addition to four hundred miles of travel by rail.

Owing to crowded space we were compelled to defer a notice of the celebration of emancipation in the West Indies on the 2d inst., at the fair grounds this city. Several thousand people were present, and an artillery salute was fired. Rev. [illegible] presided. Mrs. Anna [illegible] delivered an original poem. Rev. H. C. C. Astwood was the orator of the day. The address of [illegible] Officer Dumont was an able presentation, by a thoughtful and educated man, of the condition and possibilities of his race. [illegible] Vance, J. H. Burch, and J. Through the Heart of Louisiana.

II.

We arrived at Morgan City at noon, Saturday, July 31. This town with its 2000 inhabitants, is on Berwick's Bay, which here is about one third of a mile wide and from twenty to seventy feet deep. Here the Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad crosses, and soon through trains will be running from New Orleans to Houston. To cross this bay quickly and safely, with heavy trains is a question of great practical significance. The survey for a bridge has been made and it will cost $150,000. At present the mail and baggage cars are crossed on a ferry boat. An hour before our arrival the boat accidentally struck the pier as was not intended and three cars were tumbled into the Bay. A large and powerful boat is being built in New Orleans for this place similar to the one now used to cross trains from New Orleans to Algiers. On that a whole train of passenger and sleeping coaches can with safety be taken across.

Opposite Morgan City the little town of Berwick is growing up and may become a place of some importance. Here we have no church but need one. From Berwick the railroad runs through a great cypress swamp for some miles, and for a new road is in an excellent condition. On the train we met Mr. Gray, editor of the Free Press of Morgan City; Rev. Dr. Atkinson of the Presbyterian Church, who has in charge the missions of that Church on the Teche; Dr. C. B. Darrall, ex-Congressman, whose large plantations near Morgan City yield a large income; Col. James, the lessee of the Louisiana penitentiary convicts; and Hon. C. Clinton, proprietor of the New Orleans Times. So the world wags on, representatives of all professions meet at every turn. As we were waiting for the cars to start a couple of well dressed and intelligent colored women started to go into the rear car, it being the only passenger coach except the smoking car. The brakesman pointed to the smoking car, but they refused to go. The representative of the road said he would ask for orders and so telegraphed across the Bay, and the reply came to the effect that no colored persons could ride in rear car unless they were servants accompanying their employees or they were nurses with white children in their arms. Talk about caste in India! Here it is at our door!

Six miles brings us to Pattersonville, a small town where we have a small beginning of a church. Two o'clock we reached Centreville, our first stopping place. Rev. B. Anderson, our pastor, met us at the train and we found a comfortable house at Bro. Osborne's, the story of whose life has many points of interest. Among other things he invented a horse shoe which required no nails driven through the hoof rim. But another stole his idea and made a fortune from it. Quarterly Conference met in the evening, and on Sunday morning we addressed the Sunday-school and at 11 o'clock preached to a good sized and attentive audience. This church has a pastor to itself for the first time this year and, all things considered, is doing well. The building has not all been paid for, but the brethren are determined to pay the last dollar this year, and then complete it inside. All the other churches in town were blown down in the late terrible storm, but ours stood.

The afternoon and evening of the day were spent in Franklin, five miles farther up the Bayou. This is a town of nearly 2,000 people, with some very good residences and stores. It is the Parish seat. Nearly all the denominations have churches here. It is said fully one-[illegible] of the property is owned by [illegible] people. Our people have as good a church property as any in the city. It fronts on the main [illegible] and extends through the [illegible]. The church is a substantial [illegible] building, high ceiling, with [illegible] rear end and both [illegible] rear lot is a parson[age] [illegible] blown down by the [illegible] re-built. We gave [illegible] at 3 p. m., and ad[ministered] [illegible] communion to 98, [illegible] at night. The pas[tor] [illegible] J. W. Hudson, is respect[ed] [illegible] people, and we saw many [illegible] of substantial growth. [illegible] conference every [illegible] form and speci[illegible] leader had a written re[port] [illegible] condition of his class. [illegible] been injured by [illegible] with the [illegible] successors. This is [illegible] Conference [illegible] handle with[illegible] men who, [illegible] unable to [illegible] still to [illegible] were [illegible]

Monday morning we drove five miles further on to La Teche where is located our Orphans' Home plantation. Here two days were given to plotting and surveying that plantation with the Parish Surveyor. Of this place and the plans of the Board of Control we will speak again. Madam J. S. Roberts, who for several years was matron of the Home, still lives on the place, is postmistress, and gave us a hearty welcome.

Tuesday night we met the quarterly conference of the La Teche church. Rev. Addison Moore is pastor and the church is made up of a small membership, not many Methodists living in the neighborhood. The building is good and paid for. There are in this church a few enterprising young men who ought to be a power for good in the neighborhood. May they be pious and earnest for the Master. The pastor has received $180 from the church since Conference and $20 from the Missionary Society.

Wednesday, Aug. 4, we went by rail to New Iberia, twenty miles. We made our home at Serrett's Hotel, a good hotel after you get to it. But the way to it is worth mentioning. The whole establishment consists of a splendidly furnished saloon standing on the main street; next a fine billiard hall; next a livery stable, and last the hotel proper. You do not have to go through these, but must pass all to go to and from your lodgings. 1st, Rum; 2d, Billiards; 3d, Horses, and 4th, Lodging and board. Queer order! If we had our way we would reverse the order, and let rum and billiards go, where young men and old would not be tempted by either. At night we met the official brethren of our Church. This church was blown down by the hurricane last fall. The brethren have rebuilt it, but it is not finished, and there is a debt on it of about $300. This will be paid at once, and upon this condition the Board of Church Extension will give $200 to complete the plain but substantial structure. Rev. M. Dyer is in charge. Our church here ought to be much stronger. We do not know where the blame rests but the fact is evident. Our Congregational friends have built up a fairly good society out of people who belong to us. That is a good church but Methodists belong at home, and as a rule will not leave home if they are properly cared for. The Southern Methodists have a good church here. Bro. Clay, an English brother, married to a Southern lady, is the pastor. He is popular. Most other churches are represented in the town, the Catholics leading all. The place has nearly 3,000 inhabitants. One thing surprised us—there is not a book store in town—unless the few shelves filled mostly with school books, in Dr. Lee's drug store, can be called one. This fact speaks volumes; this is not a reading people.

Thursday morning Rev. Allen Luster, our pastor, at St. Martinsville, nine miles distant up the Bayou, came for us in his buggy. We started at 1 p. m., the forenoon having been spent at the lodging and board end of our hotel making "copy" for the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN. On the edge of town our brother pointed out a pleasant home surrounded by trees and evidences of comfort. He said it was owned by a colored woman, who now lives in it, and who, since her freedom, has raised and supported a family of children, taken care of a bedridden husband for twelve years, and paid for the home. Brave soul, she will have a cozy corner in heaven. A prominent physician in a neighboring village told us of another case of real heroism, and showed us the house where the woman now lives. Before the war she was bought and lived with by her owner, as his mistress. Several children were born. He became a paralytic and for twenty-four years besides supporting the children and raising them respectably, she supported and cared for him until he died, and now lives in her own house—all this with her own brains and hands. Within three miles of St. Martinsville we passed the magnificent plantation of Bro. Pettibone, of New York. $25,000 are being expended in new machinery this year. The present crop consists of four hundred and fifty acres of cane.

This is our first visit to St. Martinsville. We remembered Longfellow's description of the place and its surroundings, put into the mouth of Father Felician, Evangeline's guardian:

> "On the banks of the Teche, are the towns of St. Maur and St. Martins.
> Beautiful is the land with its prairies and forests and fruit trees;
> Under the feet a garden of flowers and the bluest of heavens
> Bending above, and resting its dome on the walls of the forest.
> They who dwell there have named it the Eden of Louisiana."

We were anxious to see the spot where in fancy we had often stood and sympathized with poor Evangeline, whose betrothed lover Gabriel, she hunted in vain. As the story goes it is a hundred and thirty years or more since her boat floated on the smooth surface of this bayou. Yesterday I talked with a descendant of the original Acadian stock, whose grandmother came all the way from Canada in a pirogue (small skiff). Perhaps she was one of Evangeline's companions! So as soon as we arrived, without waiting for dinner, we went down to the Bayou and stood on its banks. We stood

> "Near the bank of the river, o'er shadowed by oaks, from whose branches
> Garlands of Spanish moss and mystic mistletoe flaunted,
> Such as the Druids cut down with golden hatchets at Gale-tide."

Here, too, "the mocking bird, wildest of singers," sang for us in the quiet eventide. Just above some maidens, perhaps Acadians, were crossing the Bayou, standing erect in their little boats and striking first one side and then the other, the glassy surface of the water. Above were the "bluest of heavens." The flowers and grasses were luxuriant, and in the distance were the remnants of great forests and stretching far away to the West were the magnificent prairies, rich beyond estimate in the fertility of their soil. Yes, God did make this fair country an "Eden," but how has man failed to do his part. How poor a town for such a country; how unprogressive a people for such skies, and what insignificant products for such a soil! This fair land has been cursed with two twin evils allied in spirit and alike in many of their effects—slavery and Roman Catholicism. What an "Eden" this land would be to-day had neither of these foes to human liberty and progress never touched this soil!

Perverted Wealth.

The idea seems to be gaining ground in this country that the accumulation of gold and silver, or their representatives in bonds, stocks and tangible estates confers honor upon the possessors and is the foundation of happiness.

The great secret that most men keep locked up in their hearts, and which stimulates their endeavors, is the idea that if they can secure wealth, "I will better my position and be a happier man in the world."

The majority of mankind forget, or perhaps overlook the fact, that God has given to them a mind of such vast capacities that it can take in and swallow down ten thousand such worlds as this with all its treasures, honors and fame, and then starve to death upon such food.

And beside, it is not the possession of great wealth that renders the possessor worthy of respect and honor, but rather the application, and the manner of its use.

It is not the exhibition of splendid riches, fashionable and costly apparel, which entitles a man to position and honor, for with all this there may be selfishness of purpose, sordidness of character, and the most intense covetousness, sinking and degrading the whole character.

If the man of wealth, swelling with earthly pride, shows us his costly furniture, the luxuriousness of his table, and the opulence that abounds on every hand, he may but remind us of our own impecunious condition for which we may not thank him, nor be impressed with his generosity or goodness of heart.

But if, on the other hand, he shows us pictures from the pencil of native genius, if he can point us to a gifted young man who has been brought out from obscurity and poverty, giving to the world and to his country deeds of noble service, if he can point us to an institution for the education of youth endowed by his wealth, if he can show us the corner stone of some charitable institution or the building of a sanctuary for God and humanity, then we can honor the man and rejoice in the wise and timely application of his wealth; because he has made it subservient to the accomplishment of good and God-like alms that will tell for God and goodness upon the world of mankind. His monument and honors are chiseled on the tablets of human minds and hearts.

There are no jealousies and heart-burnings haunting the footsteps of such a man who so wisely distributes his wealth ministering gladness to human hearts. We respect, we honor, we crown such men with our love and affection. The world is made the better by having such men to write their noble deeds upon its open page, that the passer by may read the inscriptions and gather fresh courage. But the man who lives to speculate and to hoard his wealth, clutching with an avaricious hand, and sometimes by doubtful means; shaving here and scalping yonder, without regard to the necessities or distress of others; and by an intense covetousness seeks to add to his stores of wealth—leaving no record of his usefulness; of good actually done; of hearts made glad, and homes made to rejoice, but has caused it to minister chiefly to earthly desires, perverted appetite and sensual pleasures, we have no love, no respect, no honors to confer upon such men.

Men of wealth who have done nothing for the advancement of science, morals, or religion—and who have closed their ears to the calls of struggling humanity as well as the calls of charity—ofttimes witness the suffering child of genius given up in despair, and at last die in poverty, for the want of a little timely aid from their hoarded treasures. Such men will go down—

> "To the vile dust from whence they sprung, > Unwept, unhonored and unsung."

Wonderful infatuation, for they brought nothing into this world and it is very certain they will take nothing out.

That Chattanooga Convention.

There is now in session a convention at Chattanooga, Tenn., composed of representatives of the educational work within the bounds of the Holston, Georgia, Alabama, Central Tennessee, Virginia, and Central Southern Conferences. The work assigned is: 1. Consultation. 2. To consider the action of the General Conference and the propriety of forming an educational society, in the interest of the white work of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the South. 3. To unify and systemize our church educational work.

The call is signed by J. F. Spence, E. Q. Fuller, J. E. Bryant, L. B. Caldwell, J. H. Ketron, Wm. Rule, M. R. M. Burke, Ralph Pierce, J. M. Carter, D. A. Bolton, T. H. Coldwell, W. A. Wright, S. P. Fowler, F. C. Beaman.

We shall await the result of the consultation of the brethren at this convention with considerable interest. Consultations over and discussions of the educational work of the Church in any region are often of vital importance. But the propriety of organizing an educational society, in the interest of the white work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South, is to us very doubtful. We are inclined to state it stronger, but will wait, hoping that the convention will not conclude such a step ought to be taken.

The following letter from Hon. Thomas H. Coldwell, in the Methodist Advocate of Aug. 11, expresses our views. He says:

> In your paper of July 28, there is a call signed by several gentlemen for a convention to be held at Chattanooga, Aug. 18. My name is signed to the call. This was done without my consent or knowledge. While I am willing and anxious to do anything reasonable for the education of the whites of our Church in the South, I do not approve of this convention, and feel sure that this movement will result in no good to the cause, but the very opposite of good. The General Conference at Cincinnati started in the right direction on the subject of education in the South, and I am willing to wait patiently and hopefully upon the action of the brethren to whom the Conference committed our interests. Knowing these men, and especially Dr. Rust, I feel that our aim should be to aid them, and not to divide our forces, but to give them time and opportunity by our aid to do for our white work those things it stands in so much need of, and which so many of the committee desire should be done speedily. I am profoundly convinced that it is our best policy to strengthen and sustain the present plans of our Church, and not to attempt to divide our strength by inaugurating new and unauthorized agencies.
> THOMAS H. COLDWELL.

The action of the General Conference referred to was directing the Freedmen's Aid Society to give aid to the schools organized among the white people of the South when it could be done without interfering with the educational work among the colored people. This action was taken in good faith, and what is now needed is to have all interested in education in the South to help rouse the Church to the importance of this work among all classes, and to give more largely of her means, so that instead of Dr. Rust having $75,000, he may have $100.000 a year. This would insure from $15,000 to $25,000 for the schools named. We say again we shall await the conclusion of that convention with much interest.

That Arkansas Outrage.

The more we learn of the burning of our school and church property at Harrison, Boone county, Arkansas, the more is our righteous indignation aroused. It seems that this is the second time the institution has been burned. In 1876 the brethren of the Arkansas Conference determined to establish an institution of learning, and did so. In 1878 9 a building was begun and nearly completed, but when nearly done the torch of the incendiary was applied to it, and it was burned down. The loss was $9000, a large sum to be lost by those directly interested in the enterprise.

But determined not to be discouraged, after a season a new and cheaper building was erected, being a two story frame worth $2000. It was placed beside our brick church in that place so as to use the audience room for a chapel. The church building cost $1600. The school building was furnished with latest improved school desks and apparatus. On the night of July 20, as we have before published, when the inmates and those residing in the vicinity were away at a temperance meeting, again the torch of the incendiary was applied, and this time both school building and church were burned. The loss is $4500, but, fortunately, there is insurance amounting to $3100.

There is but one explanation to this outrageous business. The same spirit which hung Bewley in Texas, and which in a thousand ways has manifested its wickedness against the ministers and work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South during the past twenty-five years, yet lingers to curse Boone county, Arkansas. Since the last burning the aiders and abettors of that spirit have said: "It won't do to let the Northern Methodist Church and their school go on. We are better off without them." Last winter Prof. Longcoy received threatening letters, stating that if certain things were done he would be put out of the way.

But the men who planted the Arkansas Conference Seminary do not propose to be driven away. Already $1000 in addition to the insurance money has been pledged, and rebuilding will begin at once. We hope the Board of Church Extension will make a liberal donation toward helping to rebuild the church, and Dr. Rust cannot appropriate $1000 to a better purpose than to help that much to rebuild the school house.

Rev. and Prof. I. M. Longcoy, the heroic principal of the school, has gone to New York to ask aid in rebuilding. We bespeak for him a hearty welcome and generous aid everywhere.

The Two Methodisms in St. Louis.

The St. Louis correspondent of the New York Advocate gives the following suggestive figures concerning the Methodist Episcopal Church and Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in St. Louis:

> The statistics of Methodism in this city for the last twenty years are an interesting study. It will be remembered by the reader that the two main branches of our Episcopal Methodism have stood side by side on this ground during this double decade, and until the Cape May meeting, in a hostile attitude toward each other. I therefore give the statistics of both Churches as gathered from the published Minutes of each:

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH, 1860.

Charges	9
Members	1,263

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 1860.

Charges	7
Members	653

Probationers are included in the above estimates. German and colored Methodists are included in the statistics of our Church, and colored members are included in the statistics of the Church South.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH, 1880.

Charges	6
Members	1,275
Value of church property	$300,000
Paid for missions	1,262
Paid on salaries	8,878

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 1880.

Charges	12
Members	2,818
Value of church property	$152,650
Paid for missions	1,811
Paid on salaries	11,940

It will be seen from the above that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has gained 12 members in twenty years, while our Church has gained 1,665 in the aggregate. This increase has been as follows: The English-speaking Methodists have advanced from 3 charges to 7, and from 209 members to 1,196; the Germans from 3 charges to 4, and from 364 members to 662; the colored people from no church to 1, and from 80 members to 460.

It will also be observed that our Southern brethren surpass us in none of the foregoing items, excepting the valuation of church property, while they fall behind in all the others. Why have they not met with greater prosperity in the midst of a friendly population, and on what was slave territory until the war of the rebellion? I leave this question for those better informed than the writer to answer.

Georgia and Mississippi Outrages.

Rev. Dr. Haygood, of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate (Church South), Macon, Ga., honors his manhood and his calling by condemning the crimes which have become notorious within the past few weeks. We shall hope to hear of the conviction of the guilty parties, and that the time has come when an exceptional jury will bring in the verdict. The country only holds the South responsible for her failures to punish crime, and the evidence of a genuine conviction and incarceration will go far to keep down the "bloody shirt" banners; otherwise they will wave in every decent hamlet and town in the country, and prove to be an irrepressible element of the Presidential campaign:

> The outrages in Clayton county, Ga., and in one of the Mississippi counties, are as barbarious as the human mind can conceive of. We are glad to see that in both communities vigorous measures have been taken to punish the criminals. The Southern press is, so far as we have seen, absolutely unanimous in condemning all these savage crimes. As to the Clayton county cases, all has been done that can be done up to this time. The accused persons, ten of them we are told, are in jail. And they are soon to be tried before Judge George Hillyer—who knows how to do his duty. These crimes are to be punished, not to help forward the South in the present presidential canvass, but to purge the South of crime. It is a great duty to God and men we plead for—not an answer to those who make "bloody-shirt" banners out of the slander of a whole people. The South, as such, will not be responsible for such crimes until she shows that she lacks that sense of justice which punishes criminals "without respect to color, or previous condition of servitude."

Twice Dead Churches.

Says the Religious Telescope, Dayton, Ohio: "When a church loses its conscience on any subject it is not likely to exhibit much conscientiousness on any other point. The Southern churches had seared consciences on the sin of slavery, and were never known to do otherwise than uphold it as a divine institution. We have beheld these churches as silent or approving spectators of the outrages of the Ku-Klux and White League. Still again we see them as indifferent witnesses of the murders and robberies of the "moonshiners" of the South who have been violating the United States revenue laws, and then killing the officers sent to carry them into effect."

A Chautauqua Quarterly.

The Whole World will contain the lectures delivered at Chautauqua during the annual sessions of the Institute; papers, geographical, ethnographical, etc., condensed reports from the leading missionary societies of the world, carefully prepared statistics, missionary Bible readings, missionary concert services for the use of Sabbath-schools, missionary catechisms, outlines of the best missionary addresses delivered during the past century, maps, pictures, plans for local missionary institutes with courses of reading and study for young people.

The prospectus of this quarterly will contain an abridged statement of the proceedings of the C. F. M. I. for 1880. The management of The Whole World will be committed to Rev. T. L. Food, assisted by an editorial corpse of correspondents representing the several denominations. M. Bailey, Publisher, Jamestown, New York.

We have received from the Principal, Miss E. A. Carleton, A. M., circulars calling attention to the Carleton Institute, at Farmington, Mo. The institution is for both sexes, and presents a good opportunity to acquire an education at moderate rates, in a healthy locality, midway between the extremes of heat and cold in the South and North. Dr. Fry, editor of the Central Christian Advocate, commends the school. For particulars write to Miss Carleton.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Mrs. VanCott has broken down in health from over work in her evangelistic labors.

—Rev. H. Skews, of the Austin Conference has gone to Utah, by order of his physician, for his health. His lungs are affected. His wife is at Farmington, Mo.

—Prof. T. W. Lincoln, who taught in Wiley University last year, is spending his summer in Colorado. His letter this week will be read with interest. He will give our readers other letters, descriptive of his travels and what he sees.

—We regret to learn of the continued illness of Rev. Dr. Bristor, of this city. He is at his home in Baltimore, and has been compelled to give up his engagement to preach in Philadelphia during the summer. At last accounts he was better.

—J. H. Burch has been circulating a petition for the appointment of Cadet Whitaker to a second lieutenancy in the U. S. Army. It would be a fitting rebuke to the rule of caste at West Point if the President should favor the petitioners.

—Rev. Bro. Fisher, of Georgetown, Colorado, has been appointed Presiding Elder in place of Dr. B. F. Crary, who was elected editor of the California Advocate. Rev. J. Wilson, late of Montreal, Canada, supplies the vacated pulpit till conference, and expects to be transferred to Colorado.

—The venerable and much-loved Bishop Scott, we regret to learn, while attending the Rehoboth camp meeting was stricken with paralysis on one side. He was at once removed to his home near Odessa, from which he will hardly ever go forth again till he is borne hence to his last resting place. May God preserve his servant in peace till the hour of his release comes, and then give him, as we believe he will, a distinguished entrance into the abode of the blessed.—Philadelphia Methodist, Aug. 8th.

—The Fort Worth, Texas, Democrat of July 30, says of the late professor of the theological department of New Orleans University: "The friends and members of St. Paul's M. E. Church, after prayer and lecture service on Wednesday evening, took possession of the parsonage and gave their new pastor, Rev. A. A. Johnson, quite a surprise in the way of a donation of a large number of useful articles and a nice little purse of money. The party was impromptu, and enjoyed very much by all present. The pastor returns his thanks for this token of love and esteem."

—Says the New York Independent: "Frances E. Burnett, née Hodgson, author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's" and "Louisiana," is described as a sweet, fascinating woman and a most delightful companion. She speaks of her books, of her stories, in a frank way that is very refreshing. She enjoys her popularity, she laughs over the things that are said to her, she doesn't seem to have a bit of jealousy or envy in her nature, and is a large-hearted, large-natured, lovable woman, in every way entirely unconventional and original. She has large brown eyes, fair complexion, rich auburn-brown hair, and finely-cut features. In her beautiful hands one cannot see the slightest trace of pen-and-ink labors."

—A special dispatch to the Cleveland Leader from Meadville, Pa., July 31, says: "The reception tendered the Rev. Dr. L. H. Bugbee, President of Allegheny College, and his estimable and accomplished wife this evening, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, was largely attended by our leading citizens, and was most successful in every respect. The gifts were numerous and valuable. Under the faithful and vigorous management of Dr. Bugbee, Allegheny College has assumed a high place among the educational institutions of this country, and the best wishes and efforts of thousands all over the land are now enlisted in its behalf. The future of Allegheny is bright with promise, and that this is so is largely due to the intelligent and untiring zeal of its worthy President."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

D. Moore, Columbus: "Elder McLachlan held our second quarter; 41 communed at the sacrament table. Sunday-schools seem to be doing well."

J. M. Nevils, Kosciusko: "Our second quarterly conference for the circuit was held July 17-18. Elder J. G. Johnson in the chair. The pastor reported 3 Sunday-schools, and 150 pupils; received in full membership 4. Collection $31.45; subscriptions $30; elder $10."

A friend, Oxford: "Our pastor, Rev. S. A. Cowan, is laboring vigorously in repairing our Church, and says he intends to make it second to none. We raised $50 yesterday. In two weeks we have collected $100. The whole church is wide awake and the work will soon be accomplished."

TEXAS.

Charles Fontaine, Anderson: "The Sunday-school is in good condition. On Centennial day $4 was raised for the Union."

Chas. Hart, West Point: "Have just closed a meeting at Wiley chapel, which resulted in 8 conversions. Our church there has been very weak, but is gaining ground. A meeting at West Point, in progress is getting along finely. We have very well managed Sunday-schools on the work."

P. Douglass, Houston: "The new Trinity church is being erected on Travis street. We are doing all we can to have the building ready for the annual conference to be held here next December. The first piece of timber was handled on the ground June 22d; the carpenters began July 20. The people keep the work going on. Superintendent Frank Vance got up a subscription and raised, July 11, $8, and on the 18th, $10, and they will do more. On third Sunday the trustees collected $110 from the congregation. The church is in good spirit."

LOUISIANA.

G. Washington, Terrebonne: "A basket meeting was given to build a parsonage. The sisters raised a good sum. I moved into the new building July 21.

G. B. Lynch, Hahnville, St. James M. E. Church: "Rev. Stephen Duncan spent Sabbath, July 25, with us and preached at night to a crowded house."

J. J. Ford, Holmesville: "Centennial day was duly observed by the Sunday-school. The Lord has blessed us with prosperity this year. Church repairs to amount of $150 have been made this year. The field is large and we need more laborers. I rejoice in the spreading glory of the church of my choice."

TENNESSEE.

At Memphis District conference, July 21 to 24, after the reading of the educational report, elder J. W. Register raised within a few minates $105 for Hollow Rock Seminary. The condition of Sunday-schools was reported as improving.

ARKANSAS.

W. R. Duncan, Louisville: "I am happy to say we will have our church ready for dedication by the third quarter."

A. E. Carr, Little River circuit: "This is a new work, with many difficulties. I have a hard time. It is a wicked place. I held two meetings without a single conversion. Have raised but $8.

A Little Rock letter speaks of the church, under the pastoral care of Rev. J. G. Thompson: "The members and friends of Wesley Chapel, Little Rock Conference, took up the last collection on last Sunday, to make the final payment on a lot bought since the annual conference, to build a new church on, and on Tuesday night about 10 o'clock, they gave the pastor a perfect hail storm, as it is called, at his residence. Entering at the front door, passing out at the back and each leaving a parcel of grocery or provisions sufficient to supply his larder for two or three weeks."

so, who has any right to dictate to her? Now, as a good mother is often vexed with idle talk and foolish questions of her child, so the General Conference has been vexed with the subject of the election of a colored bishop, and as Bro. Gregory thinks I have slept four years too long, I think that all great and wise men would say that he had waked up eight years too soon.

Bro. Gregory must learn that race or color has nothing to do with the appointment of bishops, and I would have rather slept four more years than to have vexed the great mother of our Church with such a foolish question. Why was Stephen chosen deacon? Was it because he was a white man or because he was black? It was simply because he was full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom. Now, sir, here is the key that unlocks the storehouse of honor and promotion. The centurion, in the sixth verse of the seventh chapter of St. Luke, shows a man how he generally feels before and after promotion in these words: "Lord, trouble not thyself for I am not worthy that thou should'st come under my roof." Jeremiah had the same feeling when he was promoted. On this point our Savior says: "He that would be chief among you, let him be the servant of all."

Again, Bro. Gregory says, "let us work up instead of downward." I agree with him there. Well now, the next thing is to know how to work up. Now I will tell you what the Bible says on the subject: "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted, and he that exalteth himself shall be abased." And again: "Humble yourself in the sight of the Lord and he will lift you up." But is a man showing humility when he is asking to be made a bishop? No man ought to want to be made a bishop unless the General Conferences desires it.

Now, my friends, we must and ought to give a reason for wanting a colored bishop. You can give no reason, for you know no reason. You say, let us go upward, that is, go up into office; and office, I fear, will ruin one-half of our colored ministers. But once again, Bro. Gregory also says that it is the universal sentiment of the West Texas Conference to have a bishop of our race, which is not exactly as he thinks, as J. W. R[illegible]'s letter to the ADVOCATE fully shows. He does not believe that the Lord will only bless the administration of the black man. Peter teaches that in every nation "he that feareth God and worketh righteousness is accepted with him." Though any one would suppose that the desire of the West Texas Conference to that effect is almost universal, because anyone that will vote himself into ignorance, as the colored ministers of the West Texas Conference did, wants a colored bishop. Now, brethren, I said ignorance. Did you not separate yourselves from those who were able to teach you? Yes; and the very characters who brought you up out of a horrid pit, as it were. Now, sir, I ask the world if that was not ignorance. Bro. Gregory says, "let us go up," but if that is going up let me stay down, and let me sleep four more years.

"Observer's" letters should be read by all colored ministers, for in them is a looking glass in which a majority of colored ministers can see themselves as they are. I hope "Observer" will continue.

earth and be ye saved." Whosoever will let him take of the water of life freely." "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved," etc. Such Scripture gives us sufficient authority for offering salvation to every man and woman as a free gift of and from God.

There are other churches older than our church, and they boast about it, but when we count numbers, spiritual and financial power, we have reason to rejoice over all others because we exceed them in each of these respects. Although our origin only dates back 150 years, we have no reason to complain, for God has wonderfully blessed us and multiplied our numbers. Let us not be weary in well doing, but continue to pray God to keep us faithful to our calling, and that more laborers may be sent forth in the vineyard of our Lord.

Enclosed I send two new subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. I find it an invaluable help in my work in this section. May God bless the SOUTHWESTERN and its able editor.

A State Convention.

GALVESTON, Texas, July 17, 1880.

The State Convention of the Union Guiding Star Association convened in the city of Galveston on the 14th of July, at 12 o'clock, the Grand President, V. B. Davis, in the chair.

H. W. Christian, of Columbus, moved that C. W. Holden, of Galveston be elected secretary, which motion prevailed.

W. R. Graves, of Houston, moved that a committee of three be appointed on credentials, consisting of W. R. Graves, F. F. Conway and A. B. Jordan. The committee reported ten branches in the State of Texas, and 1266 members. The report being favorable, was adopted, after which the grand officers of the U. G. S. A. were elected for the ensuing year.

The following are the officers: V. B. Davis, Grand President; A. J. Johnson, Grand Vice President; J. W. Wilson, Grand Secretary; F. F. Conway, G. T.; J. A. Isaac, G. R.; D. H. Handly, G. R.

The thanks of the delegates were extended to the members of the U. G. S. A. of Galveston for their kind treatment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

August 22, 1880.—THE COVENANT WITH ABRAHAM.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 15: 1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness."—Rom. 4: 3.

TOPIC.—The Covenant with Faith.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Prefatory.—Our lesson shows the way in which the faith of Abram became firmly based in the Lord—a fixed, immovable principle. It was because of the faith that here he received that he was enabled unhesitatingly to offer up Isaac. Abram had overcome Chedorlaomer and his hosts, and very likely may have stood in fear of a vengeful re-invasion of the country. The Lord could protect him, either in battle, or, as apparently he did, by keeping them from desiring even to again enter into the country. Abram had been looking forward to what God had promised to give.

He was not satisfied in God alone. He desired the tangible reward that had been promised to him. His thoughts were running upon posterity. He longed to have in his arms a child of his own. God gave to Abram the starry heavens as a sign of a coming heir, for one day he was to have an heir that should lead the world to the starry heavens!

To Abram's new faith nothing now was impossible. The land was not his as yet, but with an absolute trust in God, that fact made no difference in his feelings. "A deep sleep fell upon Abram." The deep sleep that fell upon him was of the kind that fell upon Adam, and it was sent in order that God might the more intimately commune with him. When Abram was in this trance-like condition, the conditions, or rather the items, of the covenant were made known to him. "Thy seed shall be a stranger in a strange land." The greatness that had been promised to him suddenly took the distance of a long perspective into the future. Instead of a happy and flourishing immediate posterity, he saw a vision of burdened and groaning bondmen, and of cruel task-masters. "That nation—will I judge." There was a limit placed to the time of bondage—a limit that God did not forget. Then he judged that nation by the ten plagues, and brought out his people, as to Abram he said he would, "with great substance." "They shall come hither again." That was to be in the fourth generation. Isaac, Levi, Amram, and Eleazar may represent the four ages. "For the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full." God will not take away the possessions of any nation, even to give them to his own people, until they completely have forfeited all claims to further forbearance. After the sun goes down, and when it is dark, Abram beholds a smoking furnace and a flame of fire pass between the pieces, probably consuming them. They were the indications that God was there, and that he entered into a solemn covenant to perform all of the agreements that he just had specified.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen and other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust it daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

The drunkard is a burden to himself as well as his friends, and both he and his friends will give much to be able to see reform and sobriety induced. But since intoxication becomes a disease it requires a remedy of no unusual activity to reach the difficulty. Those who have taken Simmons Liver Regulator declare that it sets the liver in action and invigorates the system in such a way as to destroy the craving for strong drinks, and soon the desire for liquor is entirely dissipated. While shaky, nervous and distressed, resort to Simmons Liver Regulator, as a Tonic, to arouse the torpid liver to action, to regulate the bowels and remove the feeling of general depression and with it the craving for liquor.

DEATHS.

Sister Roberson died July 5th. Sister Classey died May 11th. My little boy died July 6, 1880.

W. R. R. DUNCAN.

Louisville, Ark.

Sister Lily Holiness died May 18th, aged 65 years. Sister Christiana died May 25, aged 33 years. Both were faithful members.

D. MOORE.

Columbus, Miss.

Sister Ellen Frank departed this life July 12. She had been a member over 11 years and her testimony was good. A husband and children mourn her loss.

P. HARRIS.

Crystal Springs, Miss.

On the night of Aug. 7th, Sister Maria Whitfield departed this life. She was a faithful member of the M. E. Church for years. She left a husband and children to mourn her loss.

L. J. TERRILL.

Aberdeen, Miss., Aug. 15, 1880.

Rev. J. N. Thomas, pastor of State Line church, Miss., died on the evening of the 5th inst., from a sudden stroke of paralysis. He leaves a wife and four children. He was beloved by his congregation and the citizens generally. The funeral was conducted by Rev. M. Adams and myself.

THE CHILDREN OF THE BIBLE. By Miss Fanny Armstrong. Nashville: Southern Methodist Publishing House.

This book gives sketches of the leading characters mentioned in the Bible, in language and style suited to children. The author, with a desire to aid in her Master's work, has sent out the volume hoping the stories told will be the means of doing great good. Children will appreciate it and it could well be placed in their hands. A glossary of five pages is a feature of the book.

An Editor's Escape.

OFFICE OF THE "INDUSTRIAL ERA," ALBIA, IOWA, MAY 26, 1880.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I take pleasure in making the following statement: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporary relief; Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me and after taking it the pain and distress left me and I am to-day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the Medicines needed and can cheerfully commend them to others.

G. W. STAMM.

I hereby certify that I have been a practising Physician for twenty-seven years and for many cronic cases in my practice do recommend Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. It was upon my advice that G. W. Stamm, the editor, obtained this valuable remedy.

GOING UP.

Up and up the baby goes,
Up to papa's shoulder;
[illegible] the things to papa's nose,
[illegible] bolder.
[illegible] the things her arms and crows!
Do you think the darling knows
[illegible] the arms that hold her?

Up and up the baby goes,
Taller, wiser, older;
As the calyx holds the rose,
Childhood's [illegible];
By-and-by they shall enclose
[illegible] the woman and the rose;
Then, O Father! hold her!

On the heights of womanhood,
[illegible] Heavenly Father;
[illegible] what is good,
[illegible] be carried rather [illegible] folly's multitude
[illegible] wood
Where the shadows gather.

Up and up the baby goes
[illegible]
[illegible] work,
Hands of helping ever;
[illegible] when life shall close,
Like a white [illegible] rose

That Spun New Umbrella.

If all the flustered grandpas and grandmas knew how much they contribute to the humor of common life and the keen enjoyment of children by the fun they innocently make while hunting for their spectacles, while they are all the time perched on their heads, they would often be quite reconciled to such mistakes. A victim of the same description was a good old lady who had just finished her shopping in one of the Boston dry goods stores.

"There!" she cried, in an excited voice, "I should like to know what's become of that ambrill! I sot it up agin the counter when I come in, and afore I could turn round it's gone—and it [illegible] four and six for't."

"What kind of an umbrella was it [illegible]?" asked the polite clerk [illegible].

"[illegible]," was the response, "[illegible] handle on't and [illegible]."

"Like the one in your hand, [illegible], for instance?"

"[illegible] alive!" she exclaimed. [illegible] have thought she [illegible] than her own [illegible] with its [illegible] up like a drug- [illegible] and [illegible]. She never [illegible] in all her days, as [illegible] when she got [illegible].

No!

[illegible] and ringing, with an [illegible] could not fail to [illegible].

[illegible] hear such a [illegible] remarked one gentleman [illegible] of the village [illegible].

[illegible] one hears it [illegible] as emphatically. [illegible] an orphan, [illegible] about two [illegible] walks in every morning [illegible] lunch, and waits [illegible] works enough, [illegible] and does [illegible] his uncle's [illegible] knows just [illegible]. "I should [illegible] to be [illegible] never had [illegible] you wish [illegible].

[illegible] them, and he may call [illegible] use for the [illegible].

This short interview afforded the stenographer opportunity to observe Ned Dunlap closely. The next day a call was made at his uncle's, and although years elapsed before he knew what a friend he had gained that day, his fortune was assured. After he had grown to manhood and accepted a lucrative position, which was not of his seeking, he asked why it had been offered him.

"Because I knew you could say 'no' if occasion required," answered his employer. "'No' was the first word I heard you speak, and you spoke it with a will. More people, old and young, are ruined for want of using that word than from any other cause. They don't wish to do wrong, but they hesitate and parley until the tempter has them fast. The boy or girl who is not afraid to say 'no' is reasonably certain of making an honorable man or woman."

"Yes" is a sweet and often a loving word.

"No" is a strong, brave word, which has signaled the defeat of many a scheme for the ruin of some fair young life.—Temperance Banner.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading R. R. Official, Chicago, Ills.

PREVENT
Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

Robert Raikes
Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.
Standard Memorial Portrait.
Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.
This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. G. O. Goss, 37 Varick street, New York. Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Britain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.
Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.
Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.
Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.
All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.
Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by G. O. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commanding it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

Young's Analytical
Bible Concordance.
A Concordance, A Greek and Hebrew Lexicon, A Scriptural Gazetteer, 30,000 various New Testament Readings, 311,000 References—118,000 beyond Cruden.
THIS is perhaps the most important work in religious literature which the present century has produced. Being designed for the simplest reader of the English Bible, though greatly helpful to scholars of the most profound learning, it is, of course, important that its cost shall be brought within reach of those of most limited means. The reception already given to our prospectus assures us that the superlative merits of the work are appreciated by students of the Word of God, and that we may confidently anticipate an extremely large sale. We have therefore decided to make the price, until further notice, lower than any work of equal magnitude and value which has ever before been published.
Price, Complete, $1.50 and upwards, in various styles. Full particulars sent free on request.

Travelers Should Not Forget
The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the
Louisville and Great Southern Railway,
THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.
THROUGH PASSENGERS.
The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.
THROUGH TICKETS
By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.
THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting
MAMMOTH CAVE.
Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.
Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:
"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."
A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,
—AND—
Rules of Evidence:
With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
—BY—
HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,
—AND—
WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.
8 vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.—Author's Preface.

small. The best class of Catholics abhor what they see going on around them, but the mass of that communion, unchecked by church discipline, float with the tide, while outside of all churches among a very large class, passion, educated and debauched by slavery, rules. To such an extent has the amalgamation of races gone forward in this and several other parishes, that a prominent physician told us that in visiting families he had often to ask whether they were "white" or "colored." Whether the races should inter-marry or not is not a question to be legislated upon. Every attempt in the direction of forbidding this only helps to perpetuate amalgamation in unholy intercourse. The demand is a law defining and punishing adultery, no matter by whom practiced. Here is a work for the pulpit and press of Louisiana. The time has passed to excuse silence. Not only must the discipline be enforced in every church, but public sentiment must be aroused to check this evil outside of the church. Two years ago a law was introduced into the Louisiana legislature to define and punish public adultery. A prominent legislator stated in debate that the law must not pass because of the large number of citizens it would [illegible] in every parish. Shame on our Pelican State, of which we are proud, that such a sentiment could be uttered without awakening a universal protest from pulpit and press!

celebrated rock salt mines, and after an early dinner we drew on the livery department of the hotel for a team and driver and soon were on the splendid prairies west of New Iberia, which stretch westward and northwestward through a great portion of the State. Only give this region more people who have intelligent enterprise, and these vast prairies will bloom with wealth and prosperity. As it is, only here and there do you see well worked places, while the great majority of attempts at farming are crude indeed. Only about one-fifth of the arable land of Louisiana State is cultivated at all, and the largest portion of that one-fifth is very poorly cultivated. Still so rich is the soil and varied its productions, that did space permit we could give many instances of splendid returns for the labor and money expended. Cotton, corn, oats, and almost every variety of vegetables grow here in great profusion. These prairies are superb for stock raising.

Along the gulf coast in this parish lie what are known as the five islands of Attakapas. They are a real geological wonder. Stationed along the coast for many miles, they rise up out of the marsh from one to two hundred feet, and were formerly covered with dense forests, and now have as marked contrasts with the surrounding marsh as have bluffs and hills far in the interior with the sea marsh along the coasts. From their summits the bays opening into the gulf are seen. One of these islands Joseph Jefferson, the actor, owns and cultivates as an orange farm. He is now building a fine new house in which to entertain his guests. The most notable of these islands is now known as Avery's Island, because owned by that family. It contains 4000 acres, only 450 of which are under cultivation. These islands are doubtless remnants of the lower part of the northern half of the American continent, which extended from the extreme north southward to Mexico. It may have been along the sides of this plateau that the Aztec civilization moved southward, driven by icebergs or ancient Indian warriors, to make its best development in Central America and Mexico—that is, if the theory that the Aztecs of Mexico formerly lived in North America be true, which we at this writing neither affirm nor deny. When that vast plateau, or at least the middle section, extending from what is now the lower end of the Rocky mountains to Central America, in some way lost its underpinning and settled into unfathomable depth, the tops of a few mountains escaped being overwhelmed, and those which have escaped until now are those islands, resting so calmly and beautifully in the midst of the marsh and sea which surround them.

Avery's Island, in addition to being the largest and highest, has beneath it an inexhaustible mine of rock salt. During the late war a man was digging a well and came upon a solid substance which proved to be solid salt. This discovery was hailed as a good Providence by the Confederacy because salt was a dear commodity, and in places could not be had at any price. All along the Gulf persons "made" salt from sea water, and through the country planters dug up the ground under their smoke houses, where for many years the dripping brine had saturated the soil, and washed and gathered the salt from it. It was not strange that the discovery of this salt mine—from which in a few weeks teams were hauling the much desired commodity through Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, and even Georgia—should have been considered Providential.

At the mines we met Mr. Hirsch who has in charge the works of the American Salt Mining Company. The company has its headquarters in New York, and has a capital of [illegible]. The shaft goes through [illegible] of soil and has now [illegible] sixty feet in solid rock [illegible] have been dug [illegible] different directions. remainder, make three grades of salt for commerce. The salt is pure, and needs only to be pulverized as above. The supply is inexhaustible. The salt mines at Wielicka, Germany, have been worked for centuries. You can go in at one shaft and out by another, thirty miles away. The mines are 800 feet deep, and in them is a village of several hundred people. In the village is a church, perfect within and without, with a dome one hundred feet high, all cut out of the rock salt. Who knows but that in a hundred years from now this mine may be inhabited by a village of workmen.

Mr. John Hayes, born in Pennsylvania, came to this island in 1790. He says the island was then covered with a dense forest. That no Indians were on it, and none could be induced to go on it. They said that a great calamity once happened to the Indians there and they never dared visit it. The only signs that the Indians ever were on the island is the baskets made of willow cane like those of the present day and nearly the size of corn sacks, and other relics found now, well preserved, lying in the soil near the surface of the salt and not far from it. Part of a mortar was found near some baskets, and pottery also. An old Indian pottery kiln was found not far off with some whole pots in it. These must have been put where found many hundreds of years ago. Here is an exceedingly interesting study for geologists and antiquarians.

We arrived at our hotel in time to sleep two hours, have a bath, get supper, and get ready to meet an appointment to preach at 8 p. m. Had a good congregation and to us a profitable service with Bro. Dyer and his congregation. Rev. R. R. Beal, our pastor at Cypremort, was present and took part in the services.

Emancipation—The Negro as a Factor of Southern Prosperity.

THE ADDRESS OF HON. A. J. DUMONT.

[The following address is re-published from the New Orleans Observer for the benefit of our readers. It was delivered at the Fair Grounds, on the 2d inst., where thousands assembled to celebrate the anniversary of emancipation in the British West Indies. It is a clear presentation of the condition of the negro in the South, by one of the race well qualified to form a mature judgment. We commend it to thoughtful, practical men of the South, interested in the commercial growth of this section. There appears to be a strong disposition to underrate the negro as a factor of present prosperity, and to deny him the motives which inspire to the higher grades of civilization. Hon. Wm. M. Burwell, editor of DeBow's Review, and Secretary of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, has given the better portion of his life to the study of commercial affairs, and is perhaps the best informed writer in the South on trade topics. He has repeatedly demonstrated the utility of colored seamen in the tropical waters. Mr. Dumont cites pungent facts on this point, which show his race to be a natural ally of our commerce. In his reference to "cruel, stinging prejudice," which has barred the way to the advancement of his race, Mr. Dumont reflected the universal sentiment and the disposition to surmount the obstacle by all worthy efforts.

Thinking many of our readers would desire to know something of the speaker we give the following biographical sketch:

Andrew J. Dumont was born November 30, 1846, in the parish of Plaquemines, La., and is a descendant on his father's side of French revolutionary stock. He was reared in the city of New Orleans, until at the age of eleven, he went to Mexico, and traveled extensively through that country from Chihuahua to Yucatan, from the Pacific to the Gulf. He resided in Mexico eleven years, became an owner of real estate and a whisky distillery. The revolutionary character of the country, and constant requests of friends at home, finally induced him to return to Louisiana, via El Paso, Texas, in 1866. In 1868 he commanded the eighth precinct, Metropolitan police, and shortly afterward was appointed recorder for the fifth district. In his judicial office he demonstrated admirable executive qualities. He was for six years a member of the State Legislature, and among the bills presented by him and passed was Act No. 8, extra session of 1875, to encourage the manufacture of cotton and woolen yarns. Until recently he was deputy collector of customs at this port, and necessarily brought into contact with ship captains of all nationalities. By his courteous demeanor, and the great advantage of speaking six different languages, he made many friends among mercantile and sea-faring men. A few weeks ago he was appointed Naval Officer, and he is now discharging the duties of that office. In 1876 Mr. Dumont succeeded Hon. S. B. Packard, as president of the Republican State committee, and he has since been successively re-elected to that position unanimously. He may be described as five feet, ten inches in height, with reddish complexion, a soldierly bearing, and as a brave and energetic man. He was educated, he says, "in the great school of experience, and so far as scholarly attainments are concerned, I am a self made man."—ED.]

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The notable events of the past are the guide-posts for the living [illegible] the coming future. [illegible] touches which have helped to make or ruin a people that cannot furnish sufficient instruction to the living by which their actions may be safely guided to the successful construction of their own fortunes.

Ever since the discovery of this continent, the colored race have been the bone of contention between right and wrong; and it is indeed a reason of profound thanks to an over ruling Providence, that through their sufferings the New World bids fair to be in practice what it has been from the beginning in theory, a refuge for the oppressed, and a safe retreat for downtrodden humanity in every part of the world. The battle for the rights of man, which is as old as the contending forces of selfishness pitted against the welfare of others in the human breast, has been fought in all ages; but to our race on this continent the chief point of interest occurred and began with the memorable struggle in the English Parliament which ended in loosening the chains of slavery from the limbs of 800,000 slaves in the British West Indies. From that historic landmark in the life of our race, when the young, accomplished Queen of the British Empire, moved by the noble impulses which characterize her sex, and under the wise counsel of Wilberforce, by one stroke of the Imperial pen gave liberty to a long oppressed people. Freedom sprang into life, grew by agitation, until it to-day sits enthroned in every government of this continent. But dear as the memory of the first of August is to our people, its significance and rich lesson would be lost to us, if we cannot see in the greater emancipation of the black man in the United States the responsibilities with which we are to-day loaded. Much has been said, both true and false, by friend and foe, of the colored people of these United States since they have entered into the enjoyment of freedom. It is not my purpose to join in this praise or detraction of the colored man, but rather to notice him as he is, in the light of his possibilities, to observe what he may be with time and his own exertions. Our failures thus far must be attributed to the disadvantages of the vile institution in which we were trained; our improvements, to do us justice, must not be judged relatively by that of our white fellow-citizens, but by the limited means which have been at our command in fifteen years of freedom.

That we have not acquitted ourselves in all instances with commendable credit, is much to be regretted; that we have often left undone, both in our private and public relations, those things which our welfare and the general interest demanded, must be conceded, for the baleful influences of our past condition cannot be expected all at once, owing to the possession of liberty, to relax their iron hold. But, as the wealth-producers of this Southland, as the trained bones and sinews whose acquaintance is with the soil and whose skill lies in handling implements of husbandry, we remain up to this day, in freedom as we were in slavery, the magic source of the South's material greatness. We have belied the prophecies of those who declared, with satisfaction to themselves and the enemies of humanity, that, in freedom, the Negro's highest ambition will be to squat down and eat pumpkins, and pass away into nothingness through sloth and indolence. The immense and annually increasing crops of the South which have brought back to the nation from the panic of 1873 the balance of trade against Europe, tell, in more forcible language to the world than our praises can sound it, that the Negro as a freeman is the Aladdin's lamp of prosperity to the country where his ancestors were transported by force. Take a survey of the Mississippi from Cairo as it bears on its bosom to this port the wealth of this magnificent valley, to be distributed to lands beyond the seas, and you must admit that the millions of fleecy bales, the hogsheads of rich sweetness and the barrels of rice are almost entirely the result of the black man's industry. If our observation pass from the land to the water, there also we find the Negro an indispensable factor to the greatness and up-building of the South.

The hundreds of steam craft plying on our Father of waters and its numerous tributaries are chiefly manned by the arms of black men. These crews by their adaptability to the climate and immunity from the ravages of that dread enemy of the white man, yellow fever, insure navigation at all seasons of the year. The low swamps, the malaria and the poisonous gases of a rich semi-tropical vegetation which has made the South in a measure a closed house to the energies of the Anglo-Saxon are no obstacle to the industry of the colored laborer and seaman. To him the fever laden atmosphere of our bayous and rivers is as harmless as the air of the higher latitudes is strengthening to the lungs of the white man. This hardy and tireless muscle of the black man which is the steady foundation of Southern prosperity, both on land and on our navigable streams, may be likewise utilized to the growth of commerce. The superior capacity of the Negro as a seaman in the tropical seas has been long an admitted fact with the mercantile marine and navy of Great Britain. No English vessel of war in West Indian or West African waters considers her equipment for duty complete until she has on board a full complement of natives. But yesterday, as it were, a trial of strength in rowing took place between the crews of the British, French, Russian and United States fleets on the coast of South America. The American boat was manned by colored boys in blue, and distanced the rest, with the Russians as second. It may be safely assumed that a race which has proved itself superior in industrial pursuits in our low lands and malarious waters can be rendered effectively superior in bringing wealth and riches from the tropical lands of the Gulf and beyond into the Southern States. What more sensible investment with better hopes of a certain return could our New Orleans Chamber of Commerce make than to encourage in every practical way the development of colored seamanship for the Gulf and South American trades? If this city is ever to reap the bonanza of wealth which lies hidden in this tropical trade, it will only be when vessels moor at our wharves which have blacks aboard as mariners.

The love of gain is cosmopolitan; it knows no color, it has no prejudice. We feel confident that the merchants of this city can not long remain indifferent to these suggestions. Our Senators and Representatives in Congress could confer no greater service, first on their constituents and then on the country at large, than to foster and encourage the use of colored men on the Southern high seas. May we not in vain hope that sooner or later we shall have the novel but natural pleasure of seeing our sea-going vessels to tropical latitudes manned by black men!

In the other relations of life, the colored man is not far from the standard that can be reasonably expected of any other race under similar circumstances. In the mechanical trades, in the schools of art and science, and in the learned professions, he is honorably represented. North or South, East or West, there is hardly a city of consequence which has not an educated colored physician or lawyer, while as masons and carpenters they are numerous in the South.

The cruel, stinging prejudice which has pinned us for years to earth is giving way before our determined efforts to rise to manhood and fill our share in the mission to make this country, in all respects, "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

The prophets who said we would waste, pine and die out under the sun of freedom are slinking away one by one into dark holes, praying that their prophesies may be forgotten. Slowly but surely, as the mist of false impressions which have been formed of us passes off, just so certainly will our worth be acknowledged and our rights granted both in word and in deed. Our own fortunes and that of the millions who are to succeed us is in our own hands. If we use wisely the advantages which nature has placed in our power in these Southern States, we will not only become great, but will further dispose our white fellow citizens to bless the First of August and its first born son, Abraham Lincoln's day of emancipation of the slaves in the United States.

A wash out at Armstrong creek, seven miles east of Knoxville, Tenn., wrecked the engine, tender, baggage and postal cars, and two passenger coaches on the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad; 1 killed, 17 wounded.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Lonoke (Ark.) Circuit.

DEAR DR. HARTZELL—As one half the conference year is now gone by I thought it time for me to report how the Lord is dealing with the people on Lonoke circuit. We have just closed a protracted meeting at Richwoods, which opened July 29th and continued ten days, and resulted in 16 conversions and 28 accessions which makes 43 I have received since conference. The following preachers were present all or part of the time, and took an earnest and active part. Presiding elder Pollard, Rev. E. Roberts, Rev. U. S. Kitchens, Rev. H. H. McAlister, a young man full of Christ, educated at Shaw University and who is now teaching school at Richwood, Rev. Berry McCain, who was the Sankey of the meeting and who, with Bro. McAlister, desires to join the Little Rock Conference at its next session. Also Revs. Wm. Reed and Todd Dillahay. From the opening service it was evident that God's spirit was abroad among the people, and a remarkable fact was the first one to come forward—a poor, lost penitent seeking salvation—was a little boy seven years old (Haven Pollard), which was followed by other children from the Sabbath-school, who were not long in finding Him who said, "Forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven," "verily a little child shall lead them," and then followed men and women of middle life, heads of families, men who had lived in sin near a half a century, falling before God, crying for mercy. We shall never know until the "great day" how many were saved, more than fifty were at the altar as mourners during the meeting. I wish some of your readers at the north could have been present at the love feast Sunday morning, and heard the singing, and the rich experiences of these colored Methodists. They would have thought the "good old days of Methodism" had returned.

We have a subscription started with over twenty dollars subscribed, to finish Lonoke church. We propose to put sash in the windows, ceil and paper it, and buy a bell, by conference. The people all over the work love the old Methodist church. I noticed a brother writing to the SOUTHWESTERN a few weeks since, stated that he met with much opposition because he worked in the old church. Surely the opposition he speaks of can not come from the colored people. I cannot see why that very fact is not a great help to him; I know it is to me. For, how can any one who loves righteousness and liberty help loving such a church, when they know what she has done and is now doing for the poor and oppressed. I make it my business to tell the people what the church is, that it is not a race church but into its communion it welcomes all alike, of what it did in the dark days of slavery to free the slave, of what it did during the struggle by sending, as Mr. Lincoln said, "more men to the front and more prayers to heaven than any other church," of what it is doing now through its schools, its great Missionary, Freedman's Aid, and Church Extension Societies. It seems strange to me that a preacher should meet with opposition among colored people because he was working in such a church, and right here I would like to ask a question that comes to me every time I read the many articles I find in the papers in reference to the election of a colored bishop in our church on account of his being colored, or when I hear preachers say that a Methodist society composed of people more or less colored will not receive a pastor or presiding elder because their complexion is a little fairer than some of theirs, the question is why such men stay in the old church? There are race churches that teach as a part of their creed that such things are right. The simple truth is that our people are misrepresented. They do not care so much what color a man's skin is as they do for the kind of a character he has; what are his qualifications, and I believe that a white postor stands as good a chance to succeed among colored people as a colored man of equal qualifications, and a far better chance than a colored man who is not as well informed as the average school boy of fourteen. It is an imposition on the people for our church, or any church, to send out men as pastors who can not read and speak correctly and who know nothing about the Methodist church, or what is is doing all over the world; who get up and whine and spit and [illegible] make the young seeker and meek. The people are longing for a better ministry. May God hasten the day when we can furnish the thousands who are perishing in this State and in every State in this sunny South, with a minister that will be free from ignorance and prejudice and whose only aim will be to spread scriptural holiness throughout the land, whose ministry will be to all who need salvation without looking at the color of his skin, the texture of his hair, or the enormity of his sins. Dear brethren, get a man thoroughly converted and he is a new creature in Christ Jesus, and he will be a brother to you even though he may be of another [illegible].

We all love the SOUTHWESTERN, and Dr. Hartzell's name is fast becoming a household word along [illegible] of Bishop Haven and Dr. Rust's [illegible] hundreds of homes in Arkansas. [illegible] have heard a number of prayers since conference, from these [illegible]ful people where the names of Drs. Rust and Hartzell were made [illegible] of, praising God for such men and praying for God's blessings to rest upon them, but I must close I [illegible] already I have written more than you will find space to publish.

Very faithfully,

L. M. LAYTON.

Sour Godliness.

Doubtless there are times in the lives of most persons when it is difficult to sustain a fine flow of spirits, even when there is no special provocation or cause for despondency.

Say what you will by way of justification or apology, but there is evidently a sense of degradation a libel put upon Christian character to witness the outbursts of fretful and discontented spirits, chafing under the necessary duties and obligations of life.

There is a very large class however, and among them many professors of Christianity, who deliberately suicide all cheerfulness, and that without any just cause. They seem to pride themselves in the austere severity of their countenances, and in a spirit of sour godliness, frown upon all innocent displays of gayety and laughter, and repress all outbursts of joyousness. As a general thing, this class of godly moralists indulge in sad and gloomy pictures of the times, always studying out the dark side of everything—closing their minds and latticing their hearts against the cheerful rays of sunny thoughts that otherwise would flow in upon them to dissipate their hard thoughts and gloomy feelings.

Instead of rising up to the works of the day with hearts overflowing with gratitude and love—fresh and rosy as the morning light—they are [illegible] full of sour godliness that [illegible] class remarked: "I never [illegible] to my wife and child[illegible] after breakfast." The Alabama Election.

The recent so-called election in the State of Alabama was merely the registering of a preconcerted scheme of fraud. Gen. Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President, in public speeches gave warning of the Democratic programme, of which he had learned from prominent citizens of the State. The address of the Republican State Committee gives a long list of the shameless deeds of commissioners, acting under a shameless law, in the presence and under the protection of State militia. Names of commissioners, polling places and the votes cast as compared with the votes returned are recited, and it is clearly demonstrated that a carnival of crime, disgraceful to the country was enacted. Ballot boxes were destroyed, emptied and refilled. Republican commissioners appointed because of their ignorance on Democratic recommendation, were denied the privilege of witnessing the count and subjected to violence in some instances. In many precincts more votes were returned by commissioners than the entire number of voters, according to the U. S. census just taken by Democratic supervisors.

For the sake of purity of elections, the peace and welfare of the country, the press of all shades of religious and political opinion should take hold of the Alabama crime, and makes its repetition an impossibility. The sentiment of Gen. Hancock that "a full vote, free ballot and a fair count" is necessary for the people to rule in fact, does not appear to control his Alabama friends, yet that result this country must demand and enforce in all the States, or prepare for a new civil war as the penalty.

Bishop Scott's Health.

The N. Y. Advocate publishes the following letter from Bishop Scott, the senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church:

The Rev. Bishop Harris:

DEAR BROTHER:—I am in fair general health, but very helpless. My left hand and forearm are not only useless, but greatly in my way—badly paralyzed in the nerves of motion, not of sensation: also, my left leg and foot are so affected that I can only shuffle along, with peril of falling. I cannot dress or undress, or take my food, without help.

The last hymn in the Hymnal is much in my mind:

> In age and feebleness extreme,
> Who shall a helpless worm redeem?
> Jesus, my only help thou art,
> Strength of my failing flesh and heart;
> O could I catch one smile from thee,
> And drop into eternity!

In all and through all I am kept in great peace, and the future is not drear and forbidding. The Lord be with you!

A Good Joke.

A Texas brother of the A. M. E. Church was so aroused by the press reports of Dr. Tanner's forty days fast that his bowels of compassion could stand it no longer, and in blessed ignorance of mistaken identity sent this letter to the editor of the Christian Recorder:

Rev. Benjamin T. Tanner, D.D., 631 Pine street, Philadelphia, Pa.

This is to inform you that you have had, and yet do have the prayers of the Austin District for your success, completion and long life thereafter. God bless you and may heaven bestow upon you its benediction in copious effusion. In behalf of the district pastors and laity I remain respectfully yours,

May. The school board met Saturday and adjourned to meet again in October. The probability is that they will open them in the fall or the first of January. This has never happened in this parish before in the last ten years. We were told in the last campaign we would have more schools and better wages in the event of the success of the Democratic party. Democratic reform we are now experiencing."

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. J. W. Hudson, of Franklin charge, will spend a few weeks with friends at Monroe.

—The Rev. Joseph Cook will sail for Germany in October for an extended stay for study.

—The post-office address of Bishop E. O. Haven will be "Book Room, 805 Broadway, New York," until further notice.

—Phineas Richards, of Columbus, La., is so well pleased with his premium book that he would not be willing to part from it for three times its cost.

—Ex-Governor Nicholls is suggested as a candidate for Mayor of New Orleans. His personal purity of character causes his name to be mentioned with approbation.

—Judge A. W. Tourgee, the author of the well-known "Fool's Errand," is finishing a new book, "Bricks without Straw," which he hopes to have off his hands by the end of August.

—The Rev. W. D. M. Trotter, D.D., an effective minister, the founder and first editor of the Central Christian Advocate, St. Louis, died of congestion, July 25, at his residence, Jacksonville, Ill.

—Mrs. Clara Roach was recommended by the Leaders and Stewards of Hamline M. E. Church, Washington, to preach, but the P. E., at the Quarterly Conference, refused to entertain the motion, and the question was appealed to the next annual conference.

—The New York Advocate heard that Bishop Simpson, after the partial recovery of Mrs. Simpson, concluded to proceed on his journey, and accompanied by one of his daughters, he has gone forward by the Pacific Mail Steamer from San Francisco to Japan. His other daughter and Mrs. Simpson remain in this country.

—Bishop Wiley rested here until Wednesday morning when he left on the steamer for Portland, Oregon, whence he will go to the Dalles and meet the Columbia River Conference, Aug. 12; then to Eugene City, where he will meet the Oregon Conference, Aug 19; then he returns to meet the Southern California Conference at Los Angeles, Sept. 2; and the California Conference, Sept. 15, at Petaluma. He gave us a very interesting account of the meeting in Utah and Montana.—California Advocate.

—Judge H. M. Spofford was taken with a congestive chill, and died at Red Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, on the 21st, after suffering a long illness. He was a native of Massachusetts, a college graduate. He taught school in Claiborne, and studied law and opened an office in Caddo parish. He served on the Supreme bench several years, and was elected by the Nicholl's Legislature to the U. S. Senate in 1876. The legal Legislature having elected Gov. Kellogg, the Senate refused to admit Judge Spofford, but the contest was reopened and pending at the time of his death. As a scholar, citizen and orator he was highly esteemed.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

H. Wyatt, Hickory: "Our protracted meeting has closed. A good many have joined."

R. McAlpin, Lawrence: "Will commence a protracted meeting on the third Sunday of August. There are four Sunday-schools on my circuit."

A. Lemon, Batesville: "I have succeeded in building a parsonage partly furnished and fenced in. The churches are doing moderately well; 27 have joined in full connection, and 11 on probation."

M. Adams, Shubuta: "We have had another glorious quarterly conference, Elder J. W. Dunn presiding. We have purchased a fine organ for church and Sunday-school; our music teacher and all are well pleased with the instrument."

H. May: "My work is progressing [illegible]; 3 accessions at Brook[illegible] this year; 9 converts and 59 [illegible]

Through a basket meeting at Summit we raised $37 to lengthen the church. Rev. A. Davis, of Jackson, and Elder S. Jackson, of A. M. E. Church, preached for us."

TEXAS.

A. Culbreath, Richmond: "Our camp meeting added 20 to the church on probation. The country is stirred up."

W. Allen, San Augustine: "A protracted meeting, just closed, resulted in 20 conversions and a general awakening; there were 40 accessions. Last Sunday we were assisted by Rev. D. McRae, of the Presbyterian church. Have completed a new church in Sabine county, and a nice parsonage on the church lot in San Augustine."

A. Adair, Lovelady: "Elder W. B. Pullam was with us July 17-18. He preached at Aimwell. Our camp meeting opens Aug. 19, seven miles north of here. The dark cloud seems to be moving gradually from our people. We ask the prayers of our Christian friends. We have a splendid teacher with us who instructs on both week days and Sabbath. She is from Concord, N. C., and a graduate of Scotia Seminary. We feel that the Lord sent her here."

LOUISIANA.

E. P. Royal, LaHarpe Street Church, New Orleans, reports his second quarterly conference held by Elder Dale. The financial condition of the church is poor. Some members were expelled for neglecting the means of grace. Sunday-school prospers under good superintendents."

J. W. Hilton, Natchitoches: "We have had two basket meetings and raised $700; have painted our church nicely and are out of debt. July 16th our Sunday-school exhibition came off, and our 150 pupils had a nice time. The elder visited us on his second round. The work is prospering."

F. S. Legardy, Shreveport: "We are doing all we can to get St. James Church out of debt. The members promise to give on the second Sunday in August $5 each, and it will all amount to $700. Bro. Morant is a worker; there have been hinderances, but he has a fine church and a large congregation. There are 138 pupils in Sunday-school. We ask the prayers of the whole church."

H. J. Wright, Alexandria: "Rev. J. F. Marshall left here yesterday morning (20th) in a buggy for Cheneyville, where he will meet the Rev. Dr. Hartzell, and return this evening to hold the second quarterly conference in Murray Street M. E. Church to-morrow at one o'clock. We anticipate a large attendance, for the Doctor Sunday, as all are anxious to see him as well as to hear him speak."

TENNESSEE.

Henry Dunlap, Mansfield: "I have had a hard time this year, but the Lord has blessed my work. I am building two churches. Sunday-schools are in good order."

Wm. Dwegan, Capleville: "Our second quarter was held by Elder Butler at St. John Chapel. It resulted in a great revival; 24 conversions; 10 reclaimed. S. B. Dauley is our efficient Sunday-school superintendent."

He was presidential elector, judge in 1844, United States Senator in 1848, and Governor of Georgia from 1853 to 1857. He was the Democratic candidate for Vice President with Douglas in 1860, and member of the secession convention in Georgia in 1861, when he opposed vigorously the policy of leaving the Union. In 1863 he was elected to the Confederate States Senate, and presided over the State constitutional convention in 1865. In 1866 he was elected United States Senator, but was not permitted to take his seat. In 1873 he was elected circuit judge of the State court, which position he held at the time of his death.

Notes from Tennessee.

The breakfast was late, or the train too early—the latter probably—so I am left in this little town of Franklin, renowned for one of the most destructive battles of the late war. It is seventeen miles south from Nashville, and is situated in the midst of a country noted for its fertility, and the loyalty of the inhabitants to the late Confederacy. The town has about 1500 inhabitants, a goodly number of churches, business houses and saloons ad libitum. The writer spoke to a good congregation of colored people last night in the M. E. Church, on the subject of physical, intellectual and religious education. Our Church has no work among the whites in this immediate neighborhood. Our standard of Methodism does not flourish on soil where the Confederacy found general and hearty support. Our pastor, Rev. Jas. Pickett is doing well bringing up collections, and enjoying peace in the church. He handed me his collection for the Freedmen's Aid Society, his full assessment of $5. Rev. E. Manson, of North Lebanon circuit, has reported his collection for the same cause, $1.50. Last Sunday at the quarterly meeting for the Lebanon circuit, while playing presiding elder for Rev. C. Pickett, the writer visited Rev. John Seay, the oldest Methodist preacher in the Tennessee Conference, if not in the State. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1820, when 26 years old, began to preach soon after. In 1821 he entered the itinerancy. With all our membership in the South, in 1844 he was taken into the Southern church, where he remained till 1867, when, on the refusal of his quarterly conference to pass his character as a local elder because he entertained such "Yankee preachers" as Rev. A. A. Gee and Rev. O. O. Knight, he withdrew from the church and was readmitted on his certificate of location into the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, from which he claims that he was taken in 1844 without his consent and against his convictions. About two weeks ago while walking in his orchard just after a rain, he slipped on the wet clay and so shocked his system that he has been compelled to keep his bed ever since. His friends will be glad to know that he is improving, and will doubtless soon be able to be out again. His religious comfort is great in his affliction, and his reference to his conversion of the 20th of August, 1820, just sixty years ago, was full of melting influence. He made during this quarterly meeting donations as follows: Quarterage, $5; Missions, $5, and to aid Rev. A. Burdette, in his church at Waynesboro, $5. At Seay Chapel one old white haired man united with the church and in Lebanon at night two young women were secured on probation. The presiding elder, Bro. Pickett, was aiding in a revival at Rockland, 13 miles north of Nashville, where the church has not had such a prospect, for a good work, for many years. Fifteen conversions have already been reported and the interest increasing. Rev. W. Lillard is pastor. Quite a number of revivals are reported in progress in different parts of the conference. The brethren are generally at work, and no doubt good reports, both of spiritual results and of collections for the benevolent enterprises of the Church, will be made. The political excitement is considerable just now. The Democratic Convention which met in Nashville a few days ago and which was very largely attended, divided on the subject of paying the State debt or repudiating it. The former were very largely in the majority and carried their own measures, which so disgusted the others that they left in a body and organized for themselves. We have now four candidates for Governor: Republican, Greenbacker, regular Democratic, and repudiationist. With such an array of aspirants for the office everybody ought to be suited, especially as their friends declare "all are most excellent, talented, honest, patriotic statesmen." Who says Tennessee will not have a first class governor after the election?

Letter from Van Buren—Aid Wanted.

VAN BUREN, Ark., July 27.

DEAR EDITOR—Please allow me space to speak of my work in this part of the country. At Van Buren and Alma we are getting along well. Centennial services were held by Van Buren Sunday-school, and $7.40 raised for the Union. The school has purchased an organ for its use, and several ladies are taking music lessons.

I have been unable to do much preaching, owing to a severe cold taken during conference which settled on my lungs. I have suffered a great deal, and still suffer from it. Usual protracted meetings have not been held, yet there has been some increase. The people are anxious to greet the presiding elder.

The Fayetteville charge was left to be supplied, and the elder asked me to visit the work as often as I could. It is in the northwest part of the State, off from railroad or water navigation, in a grain growing country. We have a society of about sixty or seventy members. Produce is taken to market with difficulty, wages are low, and our people are poor, and need a church. They are now worshipping in a school house built by the American Missionary Association. The Association wants to sell the property to our society for $450 cash; the building cost $2000. About the 16th or 17th of June a storm passed through Fayetteville, and it struck that portion of the town where the great majority of our people lived. It carried off nearly all they had, clothing included. Many were injured in person, and the people are too poor to rebuild their homes. They want a church, and the brick building offered them is a desirable one, 30x40 feet. Will any one agree to help secure a house of worship by sending a liberal donation? They are going to try. I preached there July 19, and raised $103 by subscriptions, to be paid October 1. These people are to be pitied; they have no preacher except when I am able to go. There are two other colored societies in town, but the people say there is no church like the Methodist Episcopal church for them. If any one will respond to this appeal the money will be invested right away. The Church Extension Society will help us some if we can raise a part of the money, and we shall do all we can. Address me at Van Buren, or Bro. Aaron Morrison, at Fayetteville, Ark.

To the Members of the Tennessee Conference.

The General Conference having made some changes in the form of the reports of the number of probationers and members it will be necessary for you to be thoroughly acquainted with your church records and class books in order to make the reports required by the following form No. 2.

PROBATIONERS.

Number on the roll at the last Conference..
Number removed by Certificate..........
Number removed without Certificate......
Number dropped, withdrawn, or unknown..
Number of deaths.........................
Number received into Full Connection.....
Number on the roll at the end of this year..

CONFERENCE CLAIMANTS.

Amount apportioned, $......................
Amount paid, $.............................

If there is a parsonage, indicate that fact by an asterisk placed after the amount of claim, thus: e. g., "Claim, $363 00"

You will see that the report you made last year or that of your predecessor is the basis of this year's report. Only a short time since the writer heard a brother say that his predecessor had reported over 50 more members and probationers than could be found. Some were dead, some removed, withdrawn, expelled, unknown, etc., yet he must make as large a report as his predecessor, or be set down as a failure. The church record or class-books should be rewritten every quarter and corrections made. Let every member of the conference come prepared to make out his statistics in accordance with this form.

Arkansas Notes.

No one who is acquainted with the work of the M. E. Church in the South, will question the truthfulness of the assertion that the success she has achieved has cost much hard toil and patient endurance by those who have been put in the front and in responsible positions. Probably the only plan for success has been adopted by our bishops; namely, the putting of efficient and worthy men in those places of trust, brethren who have not feared to do and dare, and who would accept of nothing less than victory in their work as a justification of the efforts of the church and the confidence reposed in them. Many of those of whom we speak have come from the North, and too many of them, we are sorry to say, have had reasons to return; but others, equally true, are of Southern birth. But whether from the icebergs or the tropics, they have had a common foe to meet—an enemy of long experience and deep laid schemes who comes by flank movements; dividing his forces and attracting from every conceivable standpoint. We fear this foe too often finds copperheads and rebel sympathizers in our own ranks. One enemy in the camp may do much more damage than many outsiders! Brethren should watch for this lurking serpent lest he coil himself with poisonous fang and painful sting in the shade of our Methodist rose bush.

We have before us, as we write, a letter the contents of which shows that while we have been building up our Zion, Satan, who was cast out, hath returned with seven other devils more malignant than himself, and hath instigated an odious rumor and serious reflections and unnecessary inquiries about the characters of not only three of my predecessors, Revs. C. L. Howell, Ed. Osburn, and Allen Akridge, the official members of this charge, but in its sweep goes even higher and makes a thrust at the character of our presiding elder, I. G. Pollard. This letter informs us that our church, St. James Chapel "is far from being finished," etc.—that Church Extension money donated to help us has been misapplied and "unaccounted for," with other implications we deem improper to publish; all of which we want to brand as malicious slanders and baseless falsehoods, and to hurl them back as such into the teeth of the person or persons with whom they originated.

What are the facts in the case: 1st. Our house is almost completed. In round numbers, what has been done first and last, has cost about $600, and our total indebtedness does not exceed $30, and the trustees estimate that less than $75 will put on the finishing touches. Furthermore we have the only growing congregation, either white or colored, and the only one in the town that can report as much as a single convert this year.

Unless I should make these statements, dear Editor, and defend the reputation, character and administration, of these brethren when I know that they have been perfectly honest and self-sacrificing, I would be untrue to God and the Church. What we need is not the absence of these brethren but more like them. But our conferences throughout the South, if they hope to succeed, must rid themselves of those who are needy, high-minded lovers of filthy lucre more than lovers of God, or the lost ones—traitors, fierce despisers of those who are good; covetous, unthankful, unholy, ever learning and never able to come to a knowledge of the truth—brotherly love. But their folly shall proceed no further. The following statement made by one of them at a conference we heard of once will expose them. Speaking of a presiding elder who happened to be a white man, and who had built up the work the year before more than any other man in the conference, he said; "If he (the elder) were out of the way why then some colored man would get the money that he gets."

Brethren we should cease to speak evil one of another. If you are not satisfied with a brother or his work go to him like a man. We have heard of men paying fines in courts of the country for slander. We heard a man say not long ago that he could raise a few hundred dollars to defend his character in the courts.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen and other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust it daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."

BOOK NOTICES.

The Data of Ethics. By Herbert Spencer. New York: J. Fitzgerald & Co. Price 15 cts.

No. 9 of the Humboldt Library. A fine essay by one of the greatest scholars of the time, given complete, at a remarkably low price. For sale at newstands.

The History of Sunday-schools. By W. A. Candler. New York: Phillips & Hunt. Price 75 cts.

A brief historical treatise, with special reference to the Sunday-schools of America. It is a 12 mo. of 149 printed pages, including historical naritive, and tables of Sunday-school statistics for the United States and Canada.

Life and Public Services of James A. Garfield. By Major J. M. Bundy. New York: A. S. Barnes & Co. Price 50 cts.

Major Bundy, an experienced journalist, has prepared a serviceable biography of the Republican candidate for President. It is illustrated with portraits of Garfield as a boy of 14; a Colonel, and as he is to-day. Many extracts are given from occasional letters and speeches. His letters to B. A. Hinsdale show with what reluctance he accepted the invitation of President Grant to visit Louisiana, and witness the progress of the count of the vote in 1876. The book is worth a reading by the opponents as well as the friends of Gen. Garfield's candidacy.

From Despair to Gladness.

Mr. Giles Carter, a well known citizen of Rochester, N. Y., has just given the following card to the public: For about two years my wife has been troubled with something and we could not imagine what; she had frequent flashes of heat, followed by severe sweats, both night and day; her back troubled her a great deal, and any exertion seemed to utterly prostrate her. She drank large quantities of water without seeming to quench her thirst in the least, and kept getting worse and worse all the time. We employed the services of a physician, but without benefit, not even learning what was the matter with her. Finally, noticing a peculiarity in her urine, I had it examined, and by boiling, reduced it to molasses, about half in quantity to the amount of water used. I at once wrote to her brother, a physician in the East, who pronounced it "Sugar" or (Saccharine) Diabetes. He said he knew of no cure for it, and that she probably could not get well; that she might live for a few years, but would get worse and worse all the time.

At this time, and when we were in despair, I saw Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure advertised, purchased a bottle and my wife has continued using it until she is now perfectly cured and as well as she has been in years. I consider Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure a blessing and boon to humanity."

Prof. James A. Sewell, A. M. M. D.

Of Medical Faculty Laval University, Quebec, states: "I have found Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator particularly useful in advanced stages of Consumption, Weakness, Dyspepsia, and all Nervous Afflictions. In pregnant women it has been retained while every other article of food was rejected. I can recommend it as convenient, palatable, and easy of digestion. I. L. Lyons, druggist, agent, New Orleans.

The New Louisiana Remedy is winning golden opinions from many who have tested its merits in the treatment of coughs, colds, etc. We recently examined some fourteen pages of signatures vouching for its effectiveness. Read advertisement elsewhere, and remember that this home medicine is well known, and finds sale throughout the country.

LEMONS
AS A MEDICINE.
THEIR WONDERFUL EFFECTS ON THE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS AND KIDNEYS.

Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir is a pleasant drink. Regulates the Liver, Stomach and Bowels in a natural, healthy way without any of the Sickening, Griping and other disagreeable effects of PILLS. In using Lemon Elixir you do not acquire a habit of constipation that requires its continued use. It positively cures Constipation and Liver Diseases, Indigestion, all Headaches, Chills, Malarial or Billious Fevers, Foul Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Pimples and Blotches of the Skin, Diseases of the Kidneys, Pain in the Back, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, Impure Blood and all other diseases caused by a Torpid or diseased Liver, Malaria, etc.

It is an established fact that the fresh Juice of Lemons, when properly combined with other vegetable, Liver Tonics and Cathartics, produces the most desirable and lasting effects upon the Liver, Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys and Nervous System. Such is Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, and such is its effects, as safe for a child as for a grown person as per directions.

To show you its great popularity at home, I refer you to the following Prominent citizens of St. Louis who use Lemon Elixir regularly, personally in their families.

Tobacco:

Its Physical, Mental, Moral and Social Effects.

Rev. B. W. Chase, A. M.

Second Edition. Cloth, square 18 mo. 80 pp. .... 40c.

This book treats upon one of the greatest evils of the day. As a stepping-stone to intemperance its evil is apparent. Those interested to rid the country of intemperance should circulate this book by the thousand. The subject is treated in a calm and dispassionate manner, and the sensationalism so frequently found in such works are avoided.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the Southwestern who may send us $2.50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 cents for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

PHILLIPS & [HUNT]

[illegible]

... day is said to be the darkest hour. When I got near enough to hear, mother was singing—

"Jesus, lover of my soul,
Let me to thy bosom fly."

Ah! that song! what mingled feelings it stirred in my heart, and how appropriate it was. Hope and shame had a struggle, but, thank God, hope prevailed just as I reached the kitchen-door, where mother was setting the table for dinner.

"Good morning, my son," she said, just as pleasantly as I had ever heard her speak in all my life. "Come in," she continued; "have a seat," setting a chair for me. "I hope you are well, my son?" That word "son," how it hurt me. I was not worthy of it.

"Very well, I thank you"—I did not venture to say "mother." "Are all well?"

"Well, I thank you, my son," and she went on chatting away just as pleasantly as if I had been a neighbor called in. I wanted to tell her my sin and shame; but did not know where or how to commence. Dinner was soon ready, and mother asked me to dine with her, with all the politeness and deference due a visitor.

When seated at the table, mother said: "Will you please say grace for us?"

That was awful. The words checked me, though I had been accustomed to asking a blessing for a year or two. I could not eat; I was too full already. Mother hoped I was well. I told her I was.

When dinner was over I said: "Mother, what work do you want me to do?"

"None at all, my son; I do not expect visitors to work for me," she answered.

"But, mother, I have come home, and I want to go to work and quit this foolishness," I said.

She replied firmly, "Well, my son, to be candid with you, if you will now take a whipping, you can stay; but if not, you can have your dinner and leave."

I jumped up and pulled off my coat and vest, and sat down with my face toward the back of the room, and my back toward mother, and said:

"Well, mother, I will take the whipping and stay at home with you. ... get your switch and give it to me."

... then mother burst into tears, ... her arms, and said, "... be, my son. Let us ..."

... O, that prayer, that ... It lingers yet like the re... song, grand with ... I then had ... a number, and was just ... boys ever get to ... Now boys, I am ... to this day; but ... mother I ... you this story.

... Caloway, of Franklin. I was sold when quite a girl. My name is Sally Caloway and mother's was Judy Caloway. Mother died when I was about five years old. I am a twin child, the boy died. I left three brothers, William, Washington and Jerry. My sister's names are Harriet and Jane. Harriet belonged to Billis Leftridge. Jane belonged to Jim Taylor, who had a son named Scalt Taylor. After James Caloway died we were divided, and I became the servant of his son, Tom Caloway. My third owner was Chatten Pollet, of the same county and State. My uncle's name was George Caloway; he died on the railroad. Aunt's name was Matilda; she belonged to Lute Tumble, but is dead. Grandmother's name was Jennie Caloway, and she was alive when I left home. Address me at Corpus Christi, Texas. MRS. SALLIE WARNER.

Cured of drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for Liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it." —From a leading R. R. Official, Chicago, Ills.

PREVENT
Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

Dr. Harter's FEVER & AGUE SPECIFIC

STANDS TO-DAY WITHOUT A RIVAL IN THE WORLD. For the cure of all kinds of Ague and Chills it has no equal; having stood the test of universal use for thirty years in the most malarial districts. It never fails to cure not merely removing for a time the symptoms, but eradicating the cause of the disease, thereby making a permanent cure. PRICE ONLY 75 CENTS.

Manufactured by The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

Rev. F. HACKEMEIER, Supt. German Protestant Orphans' Home, St. Charles Rock Road, St. Louis Co., writing April 20th, 1877, says: "Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific is a positive cure for Chills and Fever; has never failed with us."

Mr. JNO. C. WELBORN of Keysport, Ill., says: "I cured a little girl of Ague of three years' standing, with Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific, after the best physicians failed to benefit her."

Dr. YOUNGBLOOD of Little York, Mo., says: "I have used Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific in my practice, and can heartily recommend it to the public."

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.
Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple; but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations. —Author's Preface.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by H. H. WARNER & CO., Rochester, N. Y.

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully, JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.
Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case, I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly, R. CAULKINS, M. D.
Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporal relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to-day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others. G. W. STAMM,
Editor "The Industrial Era."

MY WEALTH.

I am not rich in gold or lands,
My home no splendid palace stands,
But with the labor of my hands
I earn my daily bread.
No liveried servants round me wait,
I cannot ride in pomp and state
Among the titled and the great:
A humble path I tread.

And yet a heritage I hold
I'd not exchange for all their gold,
And sounding names, and wealth untold—
Their houses and their lands.
I have a free and kingly mind
That greed of gold can never bind—
An eye that pride shall never blind
To duty's high demands.

I have a soul with love imbued
For all the human brotherhood,
Confessing ever "God is good!"
Unwavering faith in heaven;
A faithful compass by my side,
A chart that still shall be my guide,
When wildly o'er the raging tide
My bark is tempest driven.

I have a lyre that gently flings
Sweet music from its trembling strings,
And stirs the spirit's hidden springs
To kindly melody.
And friendly hands are clasped in mine,
And starry eyes upon me shine,
The while Love's dainty fingers twine
A roseate wreath for me.

If all that Heaven hath granted me,
If all these priceless treasures be
The heritage of poverty,
These treasures vast and sure—
If riches be to care allied,
If [illegible] walks by fortune's side,
If gold begetteth foolish pride,
Thank God, thank God, I'm poor!

Pliable and the Pilgrim.

BY DANIEL WISE, D.D.

Good John Bunyan, in the second chapter of his inimitable "Pilgrim's Progress," gives a graphic portrait of a character whose representatives have been found loitering near the portals of the church from the times of our Lord to the present day. He names him Pliable. Let us make Mr. Pliable the subject of a brief study.

He comes upon Bunyan's canvass when "Christian" is seen fleeing from the city of Destruction. He is in the company of one Obstinate and both are in pursuit of the Pilgrim. Their object is to persuade him to abandon his proposed journey to the "Celestial City."

When they overtake him they [illegible] and frankly declare their purpose. Christian, who is in dead earnest, not only refuses most decidedly to go back, but he begs [illegible] him on his journey for [illegible] them if they die in the [illegible] Destruction "You will sink [illegible] grave into a place [illegible] fire and brimstone," [illegible] saying, "be con[illegible] bers, and go along [illegible]

[illegible] tush! and asks [illegible] Pilgrim as one be[illegible] 'company of crazy-[illegible]' [illegible] Christian's [illegible] touched the in[illegible] Pliable, and, [illegible] with Ob[illegible] intention [illegible] Christian [illegible] like him. [illegible] book and [illegible] newly [illegible] way, [illegible] not [illegible]

He might have asked Christian about his, but just then, says Bunyan, "they drew nigh to a very miry slough that was in the midst of the plain, and they being heedless did both fall suddenly into the bog. Pliable was sorely offended at this mishap, threw away his flimsy belief in the truths which had just previously charmed his imagination, struggled out of the mire on the side next his own house, and then hurried back to his old home as fast as his legs could carry him. Christian, aided by one named Help, who just then came by, got out of the bog on the side nearest the "Wicket Gate," but he saw Pliable no more.

Pliable is, as intimated above, a typical character. He represents those superficially excited sinners who flock to our altars in times of deep religious feeling and who sneak back to their old sins and sinful associations as soon as temptation assails them, or their failure to find peace discourages them. There is no depth to their convictions, and therefore no persistent seeking. They do not go to the altar because they are conscious of being guilty, vile, helpless, utterly undeserving sinners, but because their sympathies are touched by the earnestness and emotion of others. It is not Christ the purifier whom they desire, but Christ the rewarder. They want heaven viewed simply as a place of happiness, but they do not want that freedom from impurity which is Heaven's characteristic feature. Of course such persons gain no light. They soon become mixed in the slough of confusion and discouragement, and go back to the life of sin which they have never ceased to love. Poor Pliables!

If preachers and churches desire more seekers like Pilgrim and fewer like Pliable, they must be more explicit concerning the exceeding breadth of God's commandments and the exceeding sinfulness of sin, when the spirit of conviction is abroad. It is seldom beneficial to press instant faith in Christ on half awakened seekers, for no sinner can value Christ as a Savior until he is deeply convinced that he is lost. It is not the swimmer, but the drowning man, who grasps the rope. The more profound the conviction, the firmer is the grasp of faith; therefore let ministers, especially in revivals, faithfully insist on those truths which tend to produce intense convictions. The danger of the hour is superficial Christianity.

A More Excellent Way.

BY D. W. HAYS.

I hope no one will regard the criticism I am about to offer, as indicating on my part a lack of appreciation of the merit of any person who may come within its scope. The fact that it is pointed against a custom which I have blindly followed, until quite recently, ought to remove the suspicion, if any, of its having been prompted by a sinister motive. Some time ago I set myself to the task of comprehending more fully the idea of civil and religious freedom, and, as the result, I have come into the possession of broader views respecting my relation to the State and to the Church. I confess that I share no longer the degrading feeling that I am only a despised colored man—an isolated wretch—alternately elated or depressed by the flitting gleams of a precarious destiny. A more exalted sentiment now pervades my bosom. I feel that I do not merely occupy a place in the State, like a statue in the park, but that I am a member, and integral part of the commonwealth. I feel, also, that I am not in the Church as an intruder, nor simply as a spectator, but as a co-worker with God and a member of his militant host who are striving, not only for the redemption of a race, but for the religious conquest of the whole world. It is [illegible] this ennobling view that I cut loose from my moorings; and, trusting in God, I enter upon my [illegible] with our father's Bible in [illegible], with the old flag floating [illegible] my head and with a spirit [illegible] than the billows which [illegible] my liberated bark. [illegible] whatever concerns [illegible] land, concerns me. [illegible] nor for rhetor[illegible] you are getting [illegible] what I am [illegible] and I [illegible] longer. [illegible] their discussions almost entirely to such topics as were thought to have an immediate bearing upon the weal of the race with which they happened to be classed. Questions not directly concerning them, though of universal importance, have, as a general thing, been treated with indifference. In promoting measures which they believed would advance their own claims they have shown marked zeal. I have listened to peals of eloquence which it would be difficult, if not impossible to surpass; I have read compositions which for grace and finish would not, in my opinion, suffer from a comparison with much that has entered into the permanent literature of the country. But for one defect, which more or less mar them all, they might be studied as models. They abound in an exuberance of self-reference. Nearly every sentence is made to bristle with such expressions as "our people," "our race," "our rights," "our manhood," "our self-respect," "our ability," "our independence," "our future," "our colored bishop," and many others of a similar character, all of which show an amount of self-consciousness that can but reflect somewhat discreditably upon any people. I would not be understood as holding that these terms may not at times be eminently proper, and even necessary, but it is clear to my mind that the habit of constantly ringing upon them in the familiar tone, is calculated to defeat the very end for which they are so injudiciously plied. If we want to secure the respect and attention of an intelligent audience we must study to adapt our manner and address to the requirements of a cultivated taste. While we may ask of them fair dealing and a respectful hearing, they may with equal justice demand of us a gentlemanly deportment and a speech free from indecorous rudeness. If we attempt to substitute clamor for sound argument, and indignant threats for moral suasion, we shall utterly fail to get a verdict in our favor. White folks are like colored folks—at least in one particular—they are much easier led than driven. None of them, save a few ignoramuses who ought to be confined in bedlam, dispute the susceptibility of the colored people for receiving the best culture the institutions of the land afford. Whatever may be said to the contrary, men of thought have been cured of their skepticism regarding this issue. Facts have triumphed. We have no powder to waste by keeping up fire on a demolished garrison. Our conflict is with the living, not with the dead or those whom we might treat as if dead, the modern fools—remnants of a mongrel race of incorrigibly stupid sots. I see no reason why a colored man may not now look a white man straight in the eye and talk right on without stopping to mention any of the objectional phrases to which I have called attention. Circumstances, might, perhaps, justify their use occasionally by way of explanation or defending one's self against disparaging epithets born of prejudice and aimed at color. It is only when such terms are brought out on dress parade or used as ornaments that they excite nausea. I have heard no white person complain as yet, but I am inclined to believe that some of them, our friends especially, are growing a bit tired of hearing the grating noise of such silly flaunts. They would, no doubt, rather that in approaching them, either in person or in writing, we would appear completely divested of the feeling that expresses itself in endless self-reference. They would know us, not as "we colored people," nor as "my people," but as "we" citizens and "my" brethren and sisters in the Lord. Just at this juncture let me say that from what I have observed among men, I am persuaded that the colored pleple will always, in some manner, be elbowed aside until they both feel and act as freemen; paying no attention whatever to the color of the skin with which God has clothed them. I have no sympathy for those who, when they think they have uttered a sensible remark, are anxious to advertize the fact to the world that a colored man was the author of it. Call one of these men a "negro" and he will resent it as an insult, but preface the opprobious epithet with the adjective "smart" and he will smile and go forth wearing it as a badge of honor. It is a sign of littleness to be ever talking of one's self, laudatory or otherwise.

The same truth is applicable to a race or a nation. The distinctively colored churches, as well as some of the colored members of our own Church, together with a numerous swarm of outsiders styling themselves leaders of "their" people, need to ponder this fact. Too much exclusiveness necessitates a dwarfish growth and leads to ultimate extinction. The South would have, in time, perished from its rigid sectionalism had not the late war struck down the barrier which separated it from the skill, enterprise and wealth of the North.

I have many illustrations at hand which show conclusively that immense advantages lie on the side of a cosmopolitan race or sect. The more extensive our acquaintance with the different families of white persons and the more compact our friendship, the more rapid will be our advancement and the more secure our friendship. We have friends among them, scores of whom are within the pale of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and it seems to me that one of the paramount duties of the hour is for us to seek in every hororable way to strengthen the bond by which we are drawn into such amicable relations. This can be done by the cultivation of a more liberal sentiment, by broadening our view of things, by attention to those details that go to make up character and by making ourselves in every respect entirely trustworthy. This is the more excellent way, and the only way that is likely to win. Many will not follow it, however, because they have been led to believe in the much-vaunted chimera of an absolute race independence; a thing neither possible nor desirable. We are in the minority at this time, and as the influx of population from foreign countries increases every year, swelling the number of whites to such enormous proportions, I see nothing whatever to inspire the hope of our ever being able to secure what might be termed race ascendancy. Evidently we shall need the good will and kindly aid of the whites—ku-klux, white leaguers and bull-dozers excepted—to enable us to carry on the work of education so auspiciously begun, as well as to compass our political aspirations. That there are signs of growth in the right direction must be cheerfully admitted; and I would say in conclusion that should this hastily drawn up sketch accelerate it in the least, the writer will have been rewarded.

Another word and I have done. I have sought to avoid making the impression that I favor putting a curb on free speech, or that I would counsel the sinking of any one's individuality, or recommend fawning and weak compromises as a means of securing people's regard. I condemn all these false methods. I have tried to point out the necessity of our climbing to a higher summit, where the eye has a broader sweep, where the atmosphere inspires a flame of patriotic devotion, and where the gazer, be he white or black, feels all the throbing impulses that stir the heart of the true American citizen.

Colorado Conference.

BY PROF. T. W. LINCOLN.

If the issue of the work of our new Bishops be as happy as the initiatory of Bishop Warren at this session of the Colorado Conference, the Church may well congratulate herself on the good fortune of her choice. His affability and courteous bearing at once won all hearts. While exhibiting the greatest forbearance during this his first session of trial he yet lacked none of the elements of decision in emergencies; and his kindly smiles and ready humor often turned discordant elements into harmonious action. All felt that they were dealing with the highest type of Christian manhood and of executive ability. Coming at the very first into the midst of these sturdy men of the mountains, he felt that he came with plenty of ignorance, but hoped to receive such inspiration from these grand hills and grander men as would the better fit him for his work. I have been glad, in listening and looking, to feel that he is all our own, our Southern Bishop, sent to take up the work of the lamented Haven. In Bishop Warren we shall not want for kindly sympathy. His love is large enough to reach out to the most humble, and his wisdom broad enough not to stand abashed in the presence of the wisest. He will be a tower of strength in our Southern field. The mantle of Haven has fallen upon a noble man. God bless Bishop Warren and his work!

The Colorado Conference embraces a territory of magnificent distances, including the entire State, Utes and all, the missions of New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming, and from three to nearly fifteen thousand feet in height. Our highest church as yet, however, is at Leadville, 10,247 feet above sea level, but there are accessible hights yet to be climbed, and souls there to be saved. Were nearness to the heavens the proof of devotion, this conference ought to be the most devout; and judging from the present standard of devotion, the collections, it may well lay claim to this distinction. It was a characteristic feature of the preachers' reports, that the collections far exceeded the apportionment. Father Dyer, the grand old veteran of the hills, just superannuated, and the only one of the conference, thought that this question of collections had become the test of ministerial success, instead of the old question of good done and souls saved, a question for thought in this Methodistic age.

The Conference numbers fifty-three members. The entire membership of the church in the State is five thousand; of the Sunday-school, 4,500. The average salary of the preachers, $700. Elder Merritt, of the Southern district, made a characteristic report. This district embraces a territory of 99,000 square miles. He had traveled during the year 8000 miles, chiefly by stage. The principle of philosophy, that heavy bodies move slowly, has no application in this case in that the good Doctor with his three hundred avoirdupois could go so far over the mountains and up gulches. But the fitness of a large man for a large place is seen at once, and the marvel is lost. Our good Bishop seemed continually to be impressed with the largeness of the surroundings.

The personnel of the Conference is worthy of note, made up of transfers from "the States," the Canadas, England, and Ould Ireland, thus bringing together elements which, like the flint and steel, develop energy by contact; and the very peculiar experiences among these miners and Mexicans and Utes and desperadoes have produced a hardihood and a sanctified acuteness and a holy grit not found on the plains. These grand old hills and fire tested rocks have met their counterpart in the men, both preachers and people. If the hearts of the people are flinty, still in the hardest quartz rock here, the silver and gold are found. There are no more kindly natures in the world than among these miners, underneath their rough exterior, and our brethren have learned where and how to strike for the richest ore. But it requires the hammer and drill and the dynamite to break the rock, and then the grinding and the sifting and the fire to get the gold; but a "rich strike" has been made and God is blessing his work abundantly.

In the work of education the conference manifests its characteristic energy and comprehensiveness. They have just organized and opened the "University of Denver" under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Moore, late of the Cincinnati Wesleyan Female College. Starting with only a fair building and a large faith, Dr. Moore makes the University equal in every respect to the universities of the East. While this is an experiment yet it must prove successful and be the means of keeping Methodism in the front in Colorado. An educational meeting was held on Saturday night, and three thousand dollars pledged for the new building.

On Sabbath morning the Bishop preached with great power from Gen. 1:26, on the greatness of God's thoughts and plans for us, and the largeness of a soul imbued with divine power. Dr. Moore preached in the evening and afterward the closing session of Conference convened and the "secrets of the cabinet disclosed, and the fate of certain men fixed for the year. While the appointments were being announced some one at my side whispered that no other body of men in the world would submit thus to have their destiny placed in the hands of one man. But they go without complaint to the city, the town, the mining camp and to the mission field, for "Lo! I am with you even unto the end of the world." The mountains have lifted up their heads in defiance, but they are brought low, and the valleys are exalted. These ranges are fast becoming a highway of holiness for the redeemed of the Lord to walk upon. The anthem of the angels upon the plains of Bethlehem has been caught by these rocky peaks, and in harmonic notes goes floating on from snowy crest to flowery plain; and from foot hill to foot hill gleam the signal fires of the army of our King. I think of the time when these hills shall crumble and these rocks shall melt, and when these souls refined, redeemed, shall rise above all these with songs of gladness and shouts of victory; when this eager thirst for gold shall be changed into fulness of joy at the fountain of life, and when these rocky paths shall give place to golden streets. Then no more the disappointment, the failure to "strike it rich," the foot-sore and weary tramp up the mountain, and the continual falling in hidden places among the rocks.

Important Decision.

Judge Lawrence, First Comptroller of the Treasury, has decided a question of very great importance, noticed in the dispatches some days ago. In 1878 the Treasurer of the United States sent a draft to B. P. Stacy, of Knoxville, Tenn., to pay a sum due him from the government. Stacy owed judgment. The creditor who filed the creditor's bill seized the draft by process of law. The officer brought it into court, appointed a receiver, decreed that the receiver should indorse and collect the draft, and with the proceeds pay the judgment. The receiver presented the draft, indorsed with a copy of the decree, for payment at the Treasury in February, 1879, since which time it has remained under consideration. Judge Lawrence has prepared a printed opinion of fourteen pages, in which he argues the whole subject fully, and he determines that the draft must be paid to Stacy, and not to the receiver, and made an order accordingly. This is important, in view of the fact that hundreds of thousands are sent out annually. Soldiers' pensions are paid by drafts. It has long been settled that government officers could not be garnisheed, or made parties in court, but the Tennessee court sought to evade this rule of law by intervention of a receiver. Efforts have been made by injunction and otherwise to reach the proceeds of the draft. A case is now pending in which the Supreme Court of the District of Columbus has appointed a receiver, who has filed a revocation of a power of attorney given by the original claimant, and the receiver now demands of the First Auditor certain District of Columbia bonds held by the Treasurer in trust for an original contractor for whose labor bonds were given.—Inter-Ocean.

There is quite a general agreement, however, that whatever McDonald or those of his kind may say will exert very little influence on public opinion. The simple word of such men is absolutely worthless, while any new circumstances to which they may refer, or any new corroborative evidence they may produce, will merely be thrown in with a confused mass of the same character which has been accumulating for years, and the convictions of individuals will remain, in most instances, as previously formed.—St. Louis Republican (Dem.).

One Virginian, who probably claims to have descended from the cavaliers, has been cured of his repugnance to negro jurors. He was drawn to serve upon the panel with one. He came into court and refused to do so. The judge quietly fined that Virginian two hundred and fifty dollars for contempt, and ordered his imprisonment for ten days. That cured the gentleman of his antipathy to negro jurors, and he asked to be sworn in, which being done, his sentence was remitted.

Robert Toombs is not favorably impressed by Gen. Gordon's assertion that he could not live in Washington on a Senator's salary of $6,000 a year. Toombs says that he could live on $1,500 a year, that he has boarded in Washington on $15 a week with such men as Clay and Crittenden for fellow-boarders, and that any man ought to be proud to represent Georgia in the Senate, and to win and wear so high an honor he ought to be willing to live on potatoes, if necessary.

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

JOSEPH C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 2

The publication of The Southern Missionary Herald, of Nashville, has been discontinued.

The Free Press of Morgan City, W. B. Gray, publisher, has been enlarged, and is edited with ability.

We have full proceedings of the educational convention which met at Chattanooga, Tenn., last week, but too late for this issue. Will appear next week.

Think calmly and deliberately over the candidates and platforms of political parties. Vote for the men and principles most in accord with Christian progress.

Dr. Braden, of Nashville, Tenn., writes: "We are having some success in the Tennessee Conference, especially in church building. At Murfreesboro, Waynesboro, Clifton, Friendship, Perry county, and several other places the colored people are building churches.".

Excellent facilities for registration are offered by Supervisor Cavanac at St. Patrick's Hall. With questions promptly answered by the applicant a delay of two or three minutes only is required to issue a registration paper. All citizens should register and vote.

Our people, especially throughout the Teche regions of Louisiana, will be rejoiced to learn that the La Teche Seminary, at La Teche, is to be reopened under the management of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Dr. Godman. Particulars will be published hereafter. It is expected however that the school will begin not later than November.

Thirty-four years of such impassioned and terribly effective preaching as was that of the great Evangelist, George Whitefield, could scarcely fail to inspire the pen of an essayist; and Mr. William Myall, in the International Review, for September, has given a most interesting sketch of the great preacher's manner and the secret of his power.

A Memphis, Tenn., correspondent writes of the county election: "We run one of the best of our colored men for sheriff; but the white people of Shelby county said long before the election no negro should ever hold that office in this county. So all the wrongs ever [illegible] to defeat a candidate and get an office were perpetrated. They are working to get such men in as will steal the Presidential election."

A few days ago a colored man was arrested in Winnsborough, [illegible] Parish, La., on a charge of [illegible]ing a white woman. The only evidence against him was [illegible] a foot track near where the [illegible] said to have been offered, [illegible] the same length of the accused man's foot. He was lodged in jail, and the next morning was found hanging to the limb of a tree [illegible] of town. We got this [illegible] from a prominent white [illegible] parish. Comment is unnecessary.

Through the Heart of Louisiana.

IV.

LOUISIANA SUGAR BOWL.

Before leaving New Iberia, Saturday morning, Aug. 7, we had a pleasant hour in the office of the Louisiana Sugar Bowl, of which Mr. Gilmore is editor and proprietor. He was North with his family for a summer vacation, but he is well represented by his brother-in-law, Mr. Blanks. This paper, we understand, has the largest circulation of any paper in the State outside of New Orleans. It is devoted especially to the agricultural interests of the State. It is a good paper and exerts a large influence.

A DRIVE.

We spent Saturday at Le Teche, and Sunday, Aug. 8, at Jeannerette, ten miles distant. A friend who by his own industry since coming out of bondage, has bought himself a home and has a good team and carriage, volunteered to drive us over in the morning and back in the evening. A member of the late General Conference went along. The road led up the Bayou Teche and out through the edge of what is known for miles toward and along the Gulf as Cypremort Prairie. Some portions are thickly settled and rich. In this prairie there are more small places, and consequently more people, white and colored, own their homes. We counted, during the first five miles, nearly a score of homes owned by colored people. Jeannerette lies on the bayou, and the last half of the drive was along its banks and through numbers of large plantations. Near the village Dr. Bussey, brother of our General Bussey of New Orleans, and Mr. Wills, brother-in-law to ex-Governor Kellogg, have fine places. We understand that the large planters are generally doing well and have been for several years. The talk in the newspapers about the planters being burdened to death with taxation has been chiefly for political effect. Through this whole region the chief burden of taxation falls on the laborers and poorer people in the shape of low wages and high assessments on small estates and on personal property. These large plantations are beautiful to look upon, with their immense fields and large and expensive sugar houses and refineries.

YELLOW FEVER.

On the way we passed through a neighborhood where the yellow fever did sad havoc last fall, 1879. Several families were almost annihilated. By inquiry from the principal physician of the neighborhood we learned that the sickness was genuine fever, and extended in its sad havoc for a good many miles through the prairie. There was but little of the dread disease in this neighborhood during the great epidemic of 1878. The matter of understanding and treating this malady baffles, as yet, our best physicians. How is it propagated and how best to treat it, are questions but little better solved than they were years ago. And the late appearance of the disease in the country in places noted for their healthfulness, sometimes far in the interior, as at Shreveport in 1873 and later at Memphis and elsewhere, adds to the difficulties of this yellow fever problem.

AT JEANNERETTE

While driving into the village we met Dr. Richardson, and a few moments talk renewed a mutual acquaintance casually formed seven years ago. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was on his way to Sunday-school to be held in their neat little church which Dr. Mathews, of New Orleans, dedicated a few weeks since. This place belongs to the circuit of Bro. White, who lives in Franklin. He is now passing through that saddest of all afflictions which death can bring—the loss of his wife. God pity and comfort him! As our services were held in the afternoon, we accepted the cordial invitation from Dr. R. and others and preached for them at 11 a. m. There are but few Protestants among the white people in this region. The Presbyterians have also a small society here.

OUR PEOPLE.

Our people built a church some [illegible] ago about a mile and a half [illegible] the village on the prairie. It [illegible] blown down by the great storm [illegible] been rebuilt. As the vil[illegible] in importance, and [illegible] that the railroad is [illegible] of a church [illegible] evident. A [illegible] by Rev. A. [illegible] put up, [illegible] by the [illegible] houses [illegible] every [illegible] injured. [illegible] this is [illegible]—He only [illegible] The [illegible] of certain conditions. These the brethren will meet. Estimates of expense and plans are now in hand, and it is expected the building will be finished before conference.

We preached to a good audience at the country church. The pastor, Rev. Willis Carr, has been sick for some time, but has about recovered. The membership at these two points is not large, but is active and earnest. Quite a number subscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN. Ten miles drive back in the cool of the evening returned us to LaTeche.

MISSIONARY TO THE FRENCH.

At Jeannerette Rev. W. J. Picot, the missionary among the French people of this region, is to live. He is now employed by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He is a Canadian by birth and education, and preaches in English and French. The Church has appropriated money to put up a parsonage for this missionary at Jeannerette. This is the beginning of a very important missionary work. It is by no means an easy work. These Creole Catholic French people are a most difficult class to reach. As a rule, they are completely under the control of the priests. Already Bro. Picot is threatened with persecution. We trust that this work will be pushed by our sister church. There ought to be fifty men like this one laboring among this priest ridden people in Louisiana.

AT HOME AND OFF AGAIN.

After spending several days at home, on Friday, Aug. 13, we were off again to continue our tour and work in central Louisiana. One hundred and seventy-five miles by rail to Carencro and twenty-seven miles by stage, brought us to Opelousas, the parish town of St. Landry parish. Carencro is the point eight miles above Vermilionville to which the cars now run from the latter place, on the road being constructed northward toward Opelousas, Washington, etc., on to Alexandria. In a few days the cars will run to the first named place, and they are to reach Holmesville, forty miles beyond, by Jan. 1, 1881, and during 1881 is to be completed to Alexandria, on Red river, and so on to Little Rock, Ark. This is Morgan's Louisiana and Texas railroad, which connects with the Texas route—just completed—at Vermilionville.

BREAD AND MOLASSES.

Our supper at Carencro was unique. It was an hour till stage time and we were hungry. It is a small place, with only a few scattering houses. The only church for miles around is a large Catholic church. The postmaster said he did not think there was any place in town where we could get bread and cheese, but he pointed to a little building a block away where bread could be had. It was a bakery consisting of three parts: first, a big brick oven; second, a little room where the dough was made and from which, through the mouth of the oven, opening into the room, the dough was laid far in the oven by long handled wooden ladles, to be baked. In this was a great pile of newly baked bread, and piled in order on a side table was a stack of sweet smelling ginger-bread. The proprietor stood in this room, and as we entered and asked for something to eat he was at once affable and obliging. He was a grey-haired Frenchman about fifty years old, with a good face and clean hands. The third apartment was a room entered from room number two, in which, among other things, were flour barrels, some empty and some full, a cot on which the old man slept, saddles and bridles to suit the little old Creole pony that stuck his head in at a back door, a big cat lying on the cot, a box in the middle of the floor, the only thing to be seen on which one could sit; remnants of almost everything which a New Orleans junk store could suggest, were lying in corners, piled in boxes or hung on pegs. Still the whole establishment had a clean appearance. It smelled clean at least, and the dust of flour on everything gave a look of cleanliness. We were at once interested in the old man, and do now covet very much the gift of George W. Cable—the rising star in Southern novel writing—in putting his Frenchy English on paper. The first thing was something to eat. All he had was bread and molasses, or syrup as he called it. To a hungry man with a prospect before him of riding all night in a stage, that would make a feast. So we sat down on the box and the old man tumbled an empty barrel bottom up before us with the remark, "dis me table, all me got." Then came a loaf of new bread and an old plate into which was turned from an immense demijohn nearly a pint of molasses. The bread, molasses and our appetite were all good, but in a few moments we lost interest in all three of them, and became most interested in our host. He was educated and had a history. His life had been a struggle for a living. He had lived many years in New Orleans. Had no one in the world to live with him, or to take care of or care for him. He had been a Catholic for fifty years, but had lost all faith in that church, especially the priests, and had not for years been in a church. Pointing to his oven and piles of bread, and looking around the room he said: "Dis my religion, dis my church, me find my God here." We spoke to him of Methodism and Methodist preachers, and at once his countenance changed. "Me like Methodists," said he, and then we were more sorry than ever that we could understand so little that he said.

AN OPEN DOOR.

This old French baker is a type of multitudes of French people in this whole region who are tired of the workings of Roman Catholicism. In a score of parishes in this State Protestantism has scarcely a foothold as yet among the white people. The people are ruled by a despotic priesthood, with a reign scarcely less rigorous than that we read of in the heart of Mexico. As one expressed it to us: "It is money for the priest when we are born, and when we are christened, and when we are married, and when we die, and when we are buried, and after we are dead the priest must have money to help us out of purgatory." The work might be slow and discouraging at first, but we believe it would pay richly in the near future to send Protestant missionaries to the Creole-Catholic-French population in Louisiana. France, three hundred years ago, bid fair to lead Europe in the great Reformation, and gave many examples of glorious martyrdom. But Popery swept that land, and allied with French Bourbonism has, until recently, held in check all growth in Protestantism. But a change has come, and a mighty reaction has set in in France under the Republic. If any one doubt this let him read "The White Fields of France," a book written by Horatius Bonar, D.D., in which is given an account of the great mission work now going on among the workingmen of Paris and Lyons. In the thirty-three chapels established in eight years up to 1878, thousands assemble every week to hear the precious words of hope and to receive and carry to their homes portions of the word of God. This rapidly extending work indicates that a vast portion of the French mind is ready for the simple yet glorious gospel as given by Protestant ministers and teachers. The change in France will affect French people everywhere, and this priest-ridden people at our own door will be effected and made ready for the truth as they have never been before.

DANIEL DE VINNE.

And it must not be forgotten that seed was sown in this soil sixty years ago by the heroic Daniel DeVinne, who, in 1819 21, spent two years in this region as a Methodist itinerant. The Mississippi conference then included Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana, and had in it but ten preachers. In 1819 it met at Washington, near Natchez, and Bishop George presided. All the territory west of the Mississippi was put in one presiding elder's district, and three preachers stationed under him. One of these failing, left DeVinne all the territory from Bayou Rapides to the Gulf and from the Mississippi to the Sabine. He made his headquarters with Judge Seth Lewis, at Opelousas, and with Col. Hunter, at Alexandria, and roamed and preached through his vast territory. He had come to Louisiana impressed that he had a mission to the French Catholics, and a gentleman in New Orleans furnished him with Protestant literature for that people, and he distributed it broadcast wherever he went and had many evidences that good was done. Had that work been followed up to this day the results would have glorious.

Heroes.

Whenever this word is uttered in casual conversation, most men instinctively turn their thoughts to the battle fields of blood and carnage, to find their heroes.

For here we behold the marshaled and bannered lines of the soldiery, the stragetic movements; the charge and fury of the combat; we hear the shouts of the victors; the wails of the wounded and vanquished, and then they tell us of the mighty hero who led the charging columns, and the world is lavish of its eulogies.

But there are other fields where grander victories are won, and grander heroes appear upon the theatre of life, without having their garments rolled in blood and their hands stained with red blood. The man who amid a world of conflicting elements and temptations, rules his own spirit, subdues and conquers the lusts, as well as the sufferings of the flesh, who triumphs over the pride of the eye, and the seductive flatteries and glories of this world, is a hero that God honors; a hero who presents more attractive qualities and a sublimer character to the world, than what can be acquired from any other source. We know a man who has suffered many adverse strokes of providence, and who has for years struggled with bodily agony.

When questioned as to his past and present condition, he looked up with a smile that played sweetly over the deeply curved lines of his thin white cheeks, and replied: "They say this is a hard cold world, but I cannot entertain the sentiment. To me it is a bright genial world, and I recognize the hand of God in all its dispensations and providences."

Here was a man, valiant, patient, and cheerful; fighting against adversities, contending with disease, and suffering pain of body; and yet, amid it all, recognizing God, and keeping his soul alive within him and his heart full of genial dispositions.

Herein is a marvellous secret that belongs only to the man of true faith; a wonderful secret not discerned by the mere man of the world.

What a gloomy spectacle does that man present, who having been confined within the four walls of a sick room, or who has had to encounter misfortunes over which he could have no control, coming abroad among men as corrupt in his tastes, as low in his desires and aims; as cold and morose in his feelings as ever, instead of having been refined by his sufferings, and purified as silver in the fire.

Misfortunes, temptations and the battles of a sick room afford a splendid opportunity for the display of true moral heroism. Disasters in life, and suffering in body, makes a severe test of all our philosophy, a touch-stone of our religion; and the man who triumphs over them all is a Christian hero, before whom all others pale and become insignificant.

These are the heroes who shall be crowned amid the song of angels, and the glories of an eternal world.

The Bishops

To the Ministers and Members of the Methodist Episcopal Church:

DEAR BRETHREN—By express direction of the General Conference we, your bishops, respectfully address you.

The Metropolitan, at Washington, was erected under authority of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the special accommodation of public men from all the States, who spend much of their time in Washington, and who desire to worship with us. A few members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Capital City were induced to form a Church organization for this central home of Methodism; but it was as unreasonable as impossible that they should furnish the funds to erect a house of worship for this national purpose.

The General Conference, therefore, has from time to time given the enterprise its high indorsement. Funds have been collected by authorized agents from different parts of the whole Church, until the undertaking is well advanced. Resident members have, in the mean time, paid liberally, and are ready to commence a new effort for the relief of this noble Church. Their entire available means will be devoted to paying all floating debts and thoroughly refitting the edifice, to make it worthy of its distinguished purpose. This will require, say $10,000, in addition to what they have already paid.

But the bonded debt, amounting to some $30,000, they can not pay. It is in no fair construction their debt. It belongs to the whole Church, for the accommodation of our Washington residents, for a period longer or shorter, for each and all the year.

The church edifice is superior in architecture and accommodations, but neither gaudy nor extravagant. Is is simply worthy of the Church erecting it and the national objects for which it was erected. Its cost was about $225,000, which large sum has been so nearly paid that only the small balance of $30,000, to pay its bonded debt, is required to make the enterprise completely successful.

But there is pressing demand for interest, and the bonds are maturing. Indeed, this very valuable property is in immediate peril, and, without prompt action by the whole Church, it will be lost.

In behalf of the noble church and congregation and large Sunday-school of the Metropolitan; in care for the Christian honor of the Methodist Episcopal Church; in the name of the General Conference we appeal to you, one and all. A collection, taken in every charge and society, after reading this address, with encouraging remarks by the pastor, on or before the second Sabbath in October next, with such sums as may be freely given by those of larger means, will end this prolonged struggle. This call stands alone. It is our only official attempt to move the whole Church to prompt action to save a house of worship belonging to the whole connection. It must be saved.

All remittances should be sent to the Book Agents at New York and Cincinnati on or before the 15th of October next. Let the movement be prompt, thorough, and universal, and on that day our noble Metropolitan Church will stand entirely free, a monument to the connectional power, the wise judgment, and Christian liberality of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Another Methodist Episcopal Church.

A few days since we met in Washington, La., representatives of a new movement looking to the organization of a new Methodist Episcopal Church. It has already been incorporated under the laws of Louisiana as the "Union Methodist Episcopal Church." The movement is in the nature of a secession from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The new organization has five ministers and four appointments, with fifty members—all in the northern part of Louisiana.

We met Rev. J. D. Byars, Rev. J. A. Briggs, and Rev. A. G. McKeithen, three of the ministers, who are now traveling and laboring as evangelists. Two of the brethren say they were hindered in their ministry in the M. E. Church, South, because they preached the doctrine of Christian holiness, and so located from the active ministry of that Church. These brethren state also that there is a strong influence in the Louisiana Conference of the M. E. Church, South, against the preaching of holiness as a doctrine of the Church. It is even intimated that this opposition has a representative in the bishop who now has this Conference in charge.

What this movement may amount to we know not, but think there must be some mistake as to the attitude of our Southern brethren in this State against the doctrine of holiness. All Methodist bodies the world over teach this doctrine. The approaching Conference at Shreveport next January will, no doubt, give some authoritative statement respecting this new church movement.

New Orleans University.

The New Orleans University opens Monday, Sept. 20. We are glad to announce that Prof. Failor will continue as president. His popularity and success as an administrator and teacher last year greatly endeared him to all the students and friends of the school. The buildings are to be thoroughly repaired. We expect a very large attendance. Write to Prof. I. N. Failor, 188 Race street, New Orleans, for particulars.

Since the above was in type we are gratified to be enabled to announce that two additional competent instructors have been added to the faculty. Prof. T. W. Lincoln, who for sometime has taught in Wiley University, has been selected to take charge of the Theological Department, and Miss Maria Kilgrove, of this city, has been chosen preceptress. This lady has for several years been principal of one of the largest public schools of this city and brings rare qualifications as a disciplinarian and teacher to this new work. Other teachers will be employed as needed.

The Times on the Alabama Election.

The New Orleans Times, and other Democratic papers, are demonstrating that Gen. Hancock's republican idea of a free ballot and a fair count will not be upheld by them. For instance, the Times says:

The Republican State Central Committee of Alabama has issued an address detailing numerous outrages and frauds alleged to have been committed in the State during the late election for State officers. The purpose of the address is, of course, plain. It is to be used to create the impression in the North that there is no freedom of the ballot in the South. We venture to say that it contains very little, if any, truth. The fact is, the Republican party had no ticket in the field. Republicans were expected to support the Greenback ticket. This they failed to do. It is doubtful if one-tenth of the negroes voted. Republicans felt little, if any, more interest in the Greenback ticket than they did in the Democratic ticket, and they, therefore, staid away from the polls. That is the reason why there was such an immense Democratic majority in Alabama.

The Republicans had no ticket of their own in the field, agreed to support the Greenback ticket, and did so by a very full party vote. On a fair count the difference between the two parties in Alabama is but a few thousand votes, and allowing a margin of ten per cent for disaffection of all kinds, there is no reason under the sun for the return of a Democratic majority of 60,000, or of votes exceeding the population of various wards according to the record of Democratic supervisors.

The Times claims credit for some independence. Its assumptions in this case do not agree with facts as admitted by those who boast of a victory by fraud, as asserted by Greenbackers and Republicans. It is a mistake to treat the Alabama election as a partisan affair. Purity of elections is as essential to commercial prosperity as it is to good government.

A practical refutation of the attempted defense of fraud in Alabama is this document:

To the Colored People of Montgomery County, Ala.:

Great dissatisfaction exists throughout the whole county among the colored people as to the way they were treated at the last election, where they cast as solid a Republican vote as ever before, being united, without any dissension in their ranks; claiming that they cast at least as large a vote as in 1876, where the Republican majority in this county was 3,881—while it was changed this time to a Democratic majority of nearly 2,700, obtained by the most outrageous frauds, the use of "troops at the polls" the arbitrary throwing out of four beats with large Republican majorities, etc.

We, the undersigned, a committee of a Colonization Society which has been formed to devise ways and means to assist our colored friends all over this country to leave the country if they cannot get their rights, guaranteed to them by the Constitution of this State and of the United States, call on you to assemble in mass-meeting here, in the city of Montgomery, on the fourth Saturday, the twenty-fifth day of September at 12 m., and to express in tones not to be misunderstood, your determination to insist on your rights, and if they are denied to you, to quietly leave and seek homes in a land where they will be cheerfully guaranteed to every man, irrespective of his color or political opinions.

We are satisfied, in our own mind, that the majority of the white people of this country, especially the planters, men who know that they cannot cultivate their plantation successfully without colored labor are opposed to those stupendous frauds alluded to above, and would be willing to give us our political and civil rights, but we are sorry to say that they are powerless, and have no control over the ring of unscrupulous politicians who run rough-shod over this country. A last chance is given to them and to us, and that will be the next Presidential election in November. We love Alabama, and we would like to stay and die in the land where most of us were born, and where the graves of our ancesters lie; but, after we were made free men, we love our freedom and our rights more, and are determined, in the most peaceable way, to get them respected, and to be ourselves, and our children free men for all time to come. Don't send delegates, but come one, come all, to the mass-meeting here in Montgomery city, on the twenty fifth of September, 1880.

A Curious Case.

A Washington special to the Pittsburg Dispatch says that Postmaster General Key gave a devout postmaster in North Carolina 30 days in which to reconcile his conscience with his official duties. A railroad passes through the town in which this person is postmaster. The business of the town requires that the mails shall be made up on Sunday, and put upon a train which passes through on that day. He declined to make up the mails on the Sabbath. The department ordered him to do it or vacate the office. Thereupon he wrote a letter to Mr. Key saying that he had been postmaster for 10 years, he was a member of the church, and had moral scruples about doing any work on the Sabbath. He asked that a month be given him to consider the subject, at the end of which he would either make up the mail or resign. Mr. Key granted the request. Before the 30 days elapsed Horace Maynard took Key's place in the cabinet. Mr. Maynard is a deacon in the church of the denomination of which the postmaster is a member. He is therefore qualified to settle the question.

Every girl of spirit would learn to swim, if a good chance were allowed her. Then we should hear of fewer fatal boat-upsets and bathing disasters, and no mother would fear to leap from a burning steamboat to save her little child. Let any vigorous-minded girl look into a New York Free Swimming-Bath, on "Girls' Day," as described and illustrated in the September St. Nicholas, and see two hundred restless specimens of her sex diving, playing "tag," splashing, shouting, and having, in all sorts of ways, the liveliest kind of fun, and she would at once become an enthusiast in simming.

At Last.

On Sunday evening the first train from Houston for New Orleans arrived here over the New Orleans and Texas railroad.

The following time table of passenger trains went into effect on Monday at noon:

Leave New Orleans at 12 m.
Leave Algiers at 12:25 p. m.
Arrive at Morgan City at 3:45 p. m.
Arrive at Franklin, La., at 5:24 p. m.
Arrive at Vermilionville, La., at 7:10 p. m.
Arrive at Houston, Texas, at 6 a. m.
Leave Houston, Texas, at 12 m.
Arrive at Vermilionville at 11:07 p. m.
Arrive at Franklin at 12:46 a. m.
Arrive at Morgan City at 2:15 a. m.
Arrive at Algiers at 5:35 a. m.
Arrive at New Orleans at 6 a. m.

A joint time card will be arranged between the three roads in a few days.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Bishop Andrews will remove to Washington soon.

—Bishop Simpson has not gone to Japan, but remains upon the Pacific coast.

—Bishop Doggett, of the Church, South, is sick and will be unable to meet the Colorado Conference.

—Rev. Bro. Rippetoe, presiding elder in the Central Tennessee Conference, is spending some time in Indiana.

—Bro. John T. Gibbons, of Lavernia, Texas, candidate for county assessor, will have thirteen opponents, all white.

—The Nashville Advocate notes that Dr. Austin, of New Orleans, was lately the guest of Bishop McTyeire, in that city.

—Dr. Curry, the veteran ex-editor will be appointed by the Bishops to the District made vacant by the election of Dr. John W. Beach to the presidency of the Wesleyan University, it is reported.

—William H. Allen, LL. D., president of Girard College, Philadelphia, resigned the presidency of the American Bible Society on account of his health. The board of managers elected him vice-president.

—Ex-Gov. Paul O. Hebert died in New Orleans on Sunday evening. He had been in ill health for two or three years, was stricken with paralysis twelve months ago, and later suffered from cancer of the tongue. Gov. Hebert graduated at West Point with Gens. Hancock, Sherman and Thomas; was State engineer in 1844; was in the Mexican war, and was elected Governor of Louisiana in 1852. He was first for the Union, then a brigadier general in the Confederate army to the close of the war. He was an active man, and had many warm friends.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

M. Brown, Marion Station: "My protracted meeting is still going on; 10 converts. Pray for us."

A. Handy, Canton: "A protracted meeting is going on at Evergreen, with 13 converts to date."

L. R. Brown, Ripley: "At our second quarterly the elder's collection was $20. A meeting carried on four nights resulted in forty additions."

Miles Proctor, Athens: "In July I started a meeting at Athena, and received 16 converts; at Piney Grove and Quinley we had fair meetings."

M. H. Foster, Abbeville: "We started our protracted meeting the third Sunday in July, and it prospered. We have 18 converts. Rev. S. A. Cowan, of Oxford, and Rev. J. F. Evans, of the Church South, preached for us."

TEXAS.

A. Campbell, Courtney: "Our third quarterly conference was held at Shady Grove. Elder F. C. Moore was with us."

A. Culbreath, Richmond: "My camp meeting closed on the 8-9. Elder Cushman held our third quarter. When I came here there were 60 members, now there are 168."

Turner Jackson, Whitman: "F. C. Moore, P. E., and I purchased a church lot in Chapel Hill and got a deed for it. A great many have promised to help me as soon as they can get out some cotton. I am doing all I can to build up."

V. M. Cole, Galveston: "The church is in a growing condition. On the night of July 21, 186 members were present and 106 absent. I have a great many sick members, and the church is a little embarrassed financially. We shall try to lift up all that is on our shoulders."

J. T. Gibbons, Lavernia: "Elder Gates held our third quarter July 31. There have been 40 conversions this quarter. We have been wonderfully revived on this circuit. Camp meetings will soon begin. Elder's collection, $4.25. Four brethren recommended for local license."

H. Swann, Dallas: "When I arrived as pastor of St. Paul church I found about 35 poor but faithful members; with them and the Lord to help we gained 65 more, making 100 in all. A church insured for $500 is now insured for $1100; floating debts, $200, all paid; we have a parsonage now; the debt of $250, excluding interest to Church Extension Society, we have reduced to $190, and expect to make a $50 payment soon. In Sabbath-school are from 50 to 60 pupils."

ALABAMA.

W. F. Smith, Huntsville: "Last Sunday was the day appointed to take up our Episcopal fund. We raised $7 25. Sometime ago we raised $100 on the debt of our church. We are now in the midst of a great revival. Two conversions last night, 16 mourners at the altar, and they still come. Pray for us."

TENNESSEE.

Alex. Bardett, Clifton: "We held our first church conference on Indian Creek. All the benevolent collections were called up. We had a good love feast on Sunday morning. We protracted our meeting. We had 5 converts; 5 joined the church. Had a glorious time."

G. N. Johnson, Ooltewah: "We have just closed a protracted meeting which resulted in the conversion of seven souls. Many hard hearted sinners cried for mercy. We will move to the camp ground Aug. 26 to resume our work. All of our mourners say they will go, as it is only four miles away. Bros. L. Johnson and Smith preached and prayed with us until the last. We anticipate great things for the Lord. Pray for us."

ARKANSAS.

A. R. Olardy, Centre Point: "Have closed a week's meeting on Paracliffa circuit, with 20 conversions and 22 accessions. The spirit is reaching many hearts. Pray for us here in the South."

The colored people of Lexington, Ky., held an indignation meeting to protest against the forcible ejection of Rev. J. W. Gazaway and family from the ladies' car on a Cincinnati Southern Railroad train.

In a political riot between Democrats and Greenbackers at Coffeeville, Miss., Aug. 21, R. V. Pearson, the Greenback candidate for sheriff was shot and killed. Several others on both sides were killed or injured.

A call has been issued by colored citizens of Montgomery Co., Ala., for a public meeting to protest against the manner in which the colored people of that county are denied their rights. In case these can not be secured they will emigrate.

Deputy United States Marshall S. D. Oliver, while attempting, at Andalusia, Ala., to serve a warrant for the arrest of one Penton, charged with beating and intimidating United States witnesses and destroying processes in the United States Court, was met by an armed mob of from twenty-five to fifty men, and compelled to desist.

Thibet is as impenetrable as ever. From letters of Colonel Prejevalski received in St. Petersburg it appears that, a distance of 250 versts from Hlassa, he was met by special emissaries of the Dalai Lama, telling him in courteous language that the people would not permit their entering the capital, lest they should injure or abduct their idolized high priest. Colonel Prejevalski and his twelve Russian associates retraced their steps.

Three brothers De Rances shot, stabbed and killed E. P. Mix in broad daylight in a principal street of New Orleans. The De Rances had called to see Mr. Mix with reference to an alleged improper intimacy with their sister, but failed to find him at his place of business. Mr. Mix on learning of their call and purpose, declared there was a mistake, he was innocent of the charges, and would call on them to make explanations. Accompanied by his brother he started for the residence of the De Rances, and on the way met one with whom a short conversation was had. Soon after the three brothers came out of the house together, ran down [illegible] Mr. Mix, who was unarmed and had no reason to apprehend the attack. 27th, had a pleasant conference. Preached on Sunday at 11 o'clock. Good congregation and a good time. Bro. Washington is building a parsonage here.

We held the quarterly conference at Thibodeaux 5 o'clock, Sunday 27th. Bro. Davis is "holding the fort," but complaining about the finances.

Arrived at Woodlawn on the 28th, found Bro. A. Kennedy at his post. Had a very pleasant conference, preached Tuesday night to a good congregation. Matters are running smoothly here.

Arrived at Napoleonville Wednesday 30th, held the conference and preached same night. The people here are few in number but strong in spirits. Bro. Kennedy expects soon to erect a church building at this place. Reached St. John the Baptist July 3d. found Bro. Lynch at this part of his work. Preached on Sunday, 4th, at 11 o'clock and held conference at 12 o'clock. The work here is doing well. Reached St. Charles at 5 o'clock the same day, preached at night and had a good time.

I preached at Wesley Chapel Sunday night the 11th, and held the quarterly conference Monday night the 12th. There is a great deal of complaint about the finances.

Held the conference at LaHarpe, Wednesday night the 14th. Bro. Royal complains of not getting a support here. I preached for him on Sunday night the 18th; good congregation and a nice time.

Held quarterly conference at Thompson Chapel, on the 23d. Bro. Lewis is at his post. He is gathering the people.

Held Bro. T. Kennedy's conference at 12 o'clock on the 25th, at Algiers, preached and administered the sacrament at 3 o'clock. Bro. Kennedy has made a long needed improvement here, in putting in new seats. I preached at Thompson Chapel the same night, at 7:30 o'clock.

Held the conference at Pleasant Plains Tuesday night, the 27th. Bro. Rose was at his post.

Arrived at Indian Village Saturday, the 31st, after a drive of 35 miles in company with Bro. Levi Johnson. I found very kind people here. Preached at 11 o'clock on Sunday. Talked to the Sabbath-school at 3 o'clock, and preached again at 4:30. 80 or 90 persons were present. Collection, $7.95. This collection is remarkable for the place. I am very favorably impressed with the people of this place. They have a large church building which is unfinished. They have a model church bell. It is a large piece of what was once a circular saw and is rung by striking it with a stick about 4 feet long; the bell is suspended from the bough of an oak tree. As Bro. Johnson struck it I thought within myself, O that some one would donate a bell to these poor people. The membership is 38 full members.

I was with Bro. Albert at Union Chapel. This church is in splendid condition, spiritually and financially.

The following amounts have been received for the University: From Granada, by Anna Harwood, $7.25; from Byhalia, by Wm. Payne, $4 40.

The next term will open on Thursday September 16. Everything will be in readiness for a large number of students and the indications are that many new students will be present. All who are intending to be in school during the term should endeavor to be in the first day as the lost of even one day when classes are being formed is very great. SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Sept. 5, 1880.—LOT'S ESCAPE FROM SODOM.
SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 19; 12-26.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"Remember Lot's wife."—Luke 17: 32.
TOPIC.—Mercy in Danger.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Preliminary.—The test to which the Lord proposed to submit Sodom was applied. The two angels came to that city. Lot, sitting in the gate, saw them approach, and unaware of their celestial character, with the same spirit of hospitality exhibited by his uncle, invited them to his own house. Perhaps as a test of Lot, they at first declined the invitation, saying that they would remain in the streets, which, in such a warm and dry climate, they safely could do. But Lot, fearful, perhaps, of the indignity to which they might be subjected, "pressed upon them greatly," and they became his guests.

They informed him that they were messengers of the Lord sent there to destroy the city. There was no "righteous" man within it, save Lot. For Lot's sake all that in any way belonged to him also should be spared. "Lot went out and spoke unto his sons in law." To them he seemed as one that mocked. They turned with impatience from this foolish old man, with his superstitious terrors, once more to their slumbers. The warning of words was of no avail. He lingered even after the angels had hastened his departure. And, hence, with a gentle compulsion, they took hold of his hand, and led this divided and distracted man and his family out of the city. But Lot outside of Sodom, stripped of all his property, was far better off than he would have been in the midst of it with his possessions all around him.

Three directions were given to the fugitive. The whole plain was included in the edict of destruction, and within its boundaries one was not safe. Looking back, too, the sight that the fugitives would have seen would have been so appalling that their steps would have been arrested. Their feet would have been rooted to the spot—Lot's in anguish for the loss of his possessions, his wife's, in pangs at the loss of their home, and his daughters' in agony at the thought of their perishing betrothed husbands. He was to leave the whole of that region which he so covetously had desired, and for the possession of which so conspicuously he had shown his selfishness! He feared his inability to reach the mountain before it should overtake him. Up to the time of their annihilation, their inhabitants "did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they builded." Luke 17: 28. They had no conception of the fate that was so near. Perhaps the sons in law of Lot, seeing so fair a morn, were still more confirmed in the folly that their father in law exhibited the night before. But the scene soon changed. There was a sudden gloom, such as overshadowed Herculaneum and Pompeii, and then as sudden a destruction. That morning Abraham, anxious for the fate of the cities for which he had interceded, rose early, and looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, "and lo, the smoke of the country went up as the smoke of a furnace." In a moment the cities were hidden from view, and never were seen again. Lot's wife looked back. She disobeyed the warning injunction. It can never be known whether she was paralyzed with what she beheld, or whether the storm was so close upon the fleeing fugitives that she instantly was caught within its advancing lines. The main lesson to be learned from it is, that one should obey God in the most minute particulars, and that one may be almost saved—and still lost! When Christ foretold the destruction of Jerusalem, he told his followers, when that day should come, to flee unto the mountains, not once looking back.

How are You This Spring

my old friend? asked a bright looking man, "Oh! I feel miserable, I'm billous and can't eat, and my back is so lame I can't work." "Why in the world don't you take Kidney-Wort; that's what I take when I am out of sorts, and it always keeps me in perfect tune. My doctor recommends it for all such troubles." Kidney-Wort is the great spring medicine; the sure cure for billousness and constipation. Don't fail to try it.

MARRIAGES.

At Shady Grove, Texas, July 25, by Rev. A. Campbell, Mr. Richard Spiller to Miss Sarah Fields.

On Saturday, Aug. 14, 1880, at the residence of the bride, Pass Christian, Miss., by Rev. Prince King, Mr. Samuel Lowe to Miss Lula Gaines.

At Forest, Miss., July 29, Rev. Nathan Carr to Miss Alice Ford, Rev. W. R. Walker, officiating.

In Yazoo county, July 12, 1880, Mr. Anderson Clark to Miss Margaret Brown, by Rev. J. Clemons, of Benton, Miss.

Is it possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvelous and wonderous cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

DEATHS.

Sister Mary Starks died July 26; Bro. George Williams in June; Bro. Thomas McGathan, May 7. All were faithful church members.

W. R. WALKER.

Forest, Miss.

Bro. John Butler died July 24th, 1880. He was a faithful young steward of our church, and died in the full triumph of faith, aged 29 years. He left a loving wife, two children and many relations to mourn his loss.

Bro. Lewis Bibbs died January 29th, 1880, aged 28 years. He was a faithful young local minister of our church. He left a loving wife and a great many relations.

Convent, La.

Distress after eating, the results of Indigestion, will no longer be experienced if a tablespoonful of Simmons Liver Regulator is taken after each meal, and, by persevering in the use of this remedy for a few weeks, a permanent cure will be effected. It is not unpleasant to the taste, does away with sickening medicine or pills; is a mild laxative, but does not nauseate or irritate the stomach, and, unlike any other known medicine, when its use is discontinued, the system is not left constipated or costive. It is very properly called the Regulator—it removes Bilious Secretions. Cleanses the Blood, Strengthens the Kidneys and assists Nature. It takes the place of Quinine and Bitters of all kinds; is no violent drastic medicine; is gentle and harmless, and warranted not to contain a single particle of any mineral substance, but is purely vegetable.

New Books.

We announce all books received from publishers as soon as they come to hand. We will give notices or reviews of each one, after examination as we think their merits justify.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

INGERSOLL AND INGERSOLLISM. By G. W. Hughey, A. M. St. Louis: Advocate Publishing House.

IS SATURDAY OR SUNDAY THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH? By Rev. Wm. Armstrong. New York: Phillips & Hunt.

BOOK NOTICES.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY, 1880. New York: Geo. P. Rowell & Co' Price, $5.

A book of over 1000 pages, containing lists of the newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and the Dominion of Canada, with a brief description of the towns and cities in which they are published. General advertisers and all desiring accurate statistics in regard to newspapers will find this an excellent book for reference.

THE BIBLE FOR THE YOUNG. By Rev. Geo. A. Cooke. St. Louis: J. H. Chambers & Co. Price, $3.

The precepts and narratives of the Scriptures are presented, with comments in simple language adapted to the young, and with numerous illustrations. The writings of Cobbin, Rev. Mathew Henry, and others, have been edited by Rev. Geo. Crooke, of Philadelphia. The book will greatly assist children to read understandingly the lessons of love and duty, with which the Bible abounds. The work is not intended to supersede but is to be read conjointly with the original text. In this way it may do much good, and it is worthy of a place in the family library.

A Remarkable Circumstance.

Mr. W. E. Sanford, of Holley, N. Y., became afflicted a few years since with a most terrible inflammation in the lower portion of his body. He did all that thought could suggest to remove it, even submitting to a most painful surgical operation. At last, when death was longed for and seemed near, he began (against the wishes of his friends) taking Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and is to-day a strong man and in perfect health. Any readers who may question this remarkable assertion can address him at Holley, N. Y., and ascertain for themselves.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The Contemporary Review for August (New York: Geo. Munro) has A Dishonest Nation, on Half Culture in Germany, International Morality, Herbert Spencer's Data of Ethics, The Missing Millions, Belgium, Problem of the Homeric Poems, Rent, River Water Sea Water and Rock Salt, etc.

—The Nineteenth Century for August (New York: Geo. Munro) has An Englishman's Protest, by Cardinal Manning; Peasant Proprietors; Fiction—Fair and Foul; Creed of the Early Christians, Iceland, The Future of China, Political Optimism, Our National Art Collections, The Land Owners' Panic, etc.

—The International Review for September, 1880, is given a permanent value by the articles upon "Money," by Prof. Bonamy Price, of Oxford University; "The Myth of the Virgin in Painting and Sculpture," by D. G. Hubbard; "George Whitefield," by William Myall; "Lamennais," by Auguste Langel; "Henry Timrod," by Henry Austin; "The Presidential Election," by Hon. John Jay.

—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending August 21st and 28th contain: Recent and Future Arctic Voyages, and Thomas Chatterton, Quarterly; On the Sources of German Discontent, Contemporary; A New Study of Tennyson, Cornhill; The Strange Story of Kitty Oanham, Temple Bar; Climbing Plants, Popular Science Review; Country Life in Portugal, Blackwood; Street Nuisances, Saturday Review; About Oats, Queen; Nature's Hygiene, Nature; and for fiction, "Harry Martin's Wife," "Bush Life in Queensland," and "Adam and Eve." For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four pages each the subscription price ($8) is low. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

—Andrews' Bazar for September is, if possible, better than ever. Its illustrations and explanations of the coming Fall styles are excellent. Another feature of this paper is, that perplexing questions about making over old dresses receive attention. The article on "Home Dressmaking" alone will save many times the single dollar, the subscription price of this journal. Mothers will find in this number valuable suggestions about children's garments. In "Fashion Chit-Chat" will be found many points of interest. "Nathalie Rey," by Catlin, is by far the best serial yet published in The Bazar, and will be read with deep interest by all. In a pungent editorial the subject of divorce is ably commented on. The Supplement contains announcements which show, to say the least, a spirit of journalistic enterprise on the part of the Publisher. We would advise our lady readers who are unacquainted with Andrews' Bazar, to send ten cents for the September number to W. R. Andrews, Publisher, Tribune Building, New York.

—The September number of the North American Review contains seven articles. The first, by M. Charney, on The Ruins of Central America, illustrated from photographs. An expedition under the auspices of the American and French governments, of which M. Charnay is in charge, is now operating in Central America, and the explorations are likely to create an interest more profound, and to be attended with more valuable archæological results, even than came from the researches of Champollion in Egypt. They promise a new chapter in American history that shall establish the origin of the remarkable race of which nothing but splendid ruins were left when Columbus discovered the new world. The Perpetuity of Chinese Institutions, is from the pen of S. Wells Williams, who has been a resident in China for many years, and is thoroughly conversant with the language, institutions, and social conditions which he discusses. Gen. John W. Clampitt, the surviving member of Mrs. Surratt's counsel, writes upon The Trial of Mrs. Surratt. The author believes that Mrs. Surratt was innocent of the crime for which she suffered death. The Personality of God is by W. T. Harris. R. B. Forbes gives valuable suggestions in reference to Steamboat Disasters. The Rev. Edward Everett Hale has a pen paper on Insincerity in the Pulpit, that will hardly fail to draw some protests from his fellow clergymen. The number closes with a review of several recent works on the Brain and Nerves, by Dr. George M. Beard.

Prof. James A. Sewell, A. M. M. D.

OF MEDICAL FACULTY LAVAL UNIVERSITY, QUEBEC, states: "I have found Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator particularly useful in advanced stages of Consumption, Weakness, Dyspepsia, and all Nervous Afflictions. In pregnant women it has been retained while every other article of food was rejected. I can recommend it as convenient, palatable, and easy of digestion. I. L. Lyons, druggist, agent, New Orleans.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN who may send us $2.50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 CENTS for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. The subjoined title and table of contents will show its scope. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services in which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the heart forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song. "JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 139 Tunes in full, and 238 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 125 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

CLOTH, flexible, 30 cents per copy; $3 per dozen; $24 per hundred.
BOARD (the usual style of Sunday-school Singing-books), 25 cents per copy; $2.50 per dozen; $20 per hundred.
PAPER, 20 cents per copy; $2 per dozen; $16 per hundred.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

It might have been that the sky was green,
And the grasses serenely blue;
It might have been that grapes on thorns,
And figs on thistles grew;
It might have been that rainbows before the Shower came;
It might have been that lambs were fierce,
And bears and tigers tame;
It might have been that cold would melt,
And summer heat would freeze;
It might have been that ships at sea would Sail against the breeze—
And there may be worlds unknown, dear,
Where we would find the change
From all that we have seen or heard, to Others just as strange—
But it never could be wise, dear, in haste to Act or speak;
It could never be noble to harm the poor
And weak;
It never could be kind, dear, to give a need-
Less pain;
It never could be honest, dear, to sin for
Greed of gain;
And there would not be a world, dear, while
God is true above,
Where right and wrong were governed by Any law but love.

Charlie's Chickens.

Charlie lived in a brown house on a high hill in a pretty little village.

He was a white-haired, blue-eyed little fellow, as full of business and ideas as he well could be.

His mother thought that it was healthy for little boys to play in the dirt; so any pleasant morning, if you had lived in that neighborhood, you might have seen a little shovel digging in the dirt, worked by something hidden under a very broad-brimmed straw hat.

It was in the Spring-time. Charlie's papa had been planting his garden, and Charlie had been a very troublesome little helper in the work till his papa had given him a little corner and told him that he might have that for his garden.

Charlie was very anxious to know what he should "raise" in his garden, but could not seem to decide upon any one of the many things [illegible] to him.

One morning before papa went to work he established old Brownie and Speckle, each with a family of the downiest little chickens you ever saw, in a sunny corner of the yard.

Charlie was, of course, on hand to help in settling the two families, and he asked papa a great many questions about the chickens.

"Will those little mites of chickens grow to be great big hen biddies, papa?"

"Yes."

"Just like old Speckle and Brownie?"

"Yes."

"And lay eggs, papa?"

"Yes."

"Can anybody make little chickens grow?"

"Yes," replied papa, not thinking what Charlie meant by his question.

Charlie stood for some time looking thoughtful, and then said, "Well, papa, I guess I'll raise hens in my garden. May I?"

[illegible] Charlie's surprise, papa laughed long and heartily, before he answered him, but as he didn't say "No," Charlie didn't care.

Lost Friends.

NOTE.—We receive many letters asking for information about lost friends. All such letters will be published in this column. We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. All others will please enclose fifty cents to pay for publishing the notices. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother-in-law, John R. Grimes. His mother's name was Hettie Grimes and his sisters, Mary and Rachel Grimes. Address me at Houston, Texas.

TENOLA EDWARDS.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my kin people whom I left near Hampton, Va. Mother's name was Louisa Wallis; father's, Jacob Wallis, Sr; sisters', Mary, Martha, Betsy and Hannah Wallis; brothers', Ned and Jacob Wallis, Jr. Mother's mother was named Mollie, and father's father was named Ned Johnson. Our owner's name was Tom Parker. At his death he willed us to Mrs. Beck Smith who was some kin to him. Please address me at San Felipe, Texas, in care of Prof. W. H. Jackson.

HANNAH BUTLER.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my relatives whom I left in Clarkville, Red River Co., Texas—my uncle Benjamin and aunt Phillis. They had eight children, seven daughters and one son, viz: Overton, Mary, Sallie Ann, Martha, Francis, Dianna, Clarice, and Rachel. They all belonged to Mark Cordell and I to Robert Seward. After Mr. Seward's death I was brought to Oxford, Miss., in the year 1852. Have never heard from them since. After I came to Mississippi was given to Mr. Seward's sister, whose name was Ferguson, and have ever since gone by that name. Address me at Oxford, Lafayette Co., Miss.

CAESER FERGUSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my father-in-law, Robert Kirkingdoll, whom I left in Calvert, Robertson Co., Texas, in 1876. His wife's name is Eliza. He had a deaf and dumb and one-legged boy named Johnny. He lived on Main street when I left. I got two letters from him in 1878, when Rev. A. R. Norris was pastor, and have written several letters to him during Rev. J. W. Robinson's pastorate, and Bro. R. says he heard that he lived three miles from town. His daughters Emily and Amelia would like to hear from him. Emily is my wife. Address me at San Felipe, Texas.

PROF. W. H. JACKSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to make inquiries for our friends that we have lost sight of. The last I heard from an aunt of mine was some thirteen years ago, and then I heard that she was in Noxubee Co., Miss. Her name is Lila Jeans. She used to belong to Mr. Perry Jeans, in Lawrence Co., S C; then to his widow, Mrs. Annie Jeans; and her son, Tom Jeans, brought my aunt to Mississippi some twenty-three years ago. My aunt's mother's name was Clara—she used to belong to Mr. Perry Jeans too. The names of my aunt's sisters—those that I know—were Charlotte, that is my mother; Nancy and Harriet. My aunt's husband's name was Bill Barnes. His former owner was Mr. Dick Barnes, of Lawrence Co., S. C. Address me at Pickens, Miss.

MELISSA WILSON.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my wife and children, whom I left in Claiborne Co., Miss, 17½ miles from Port Gibson. We used to belong to Dr. Foster in 1863. Me and my wife parted about seven years before the war, but we still lived on the same place. I was sent from there to Morgan's Salt Works and I stayed there five months. I was carried there by a Mr. William Cheeks. After that I came to State Line, Miss. I had 7 children, 3 dead and 4 living the last time I saw them. I will give the names of my living children—Delphia, David, Caroline and Louisa. My wife was named Eliza Foster. I am a minister of the Baptist church. If any one knows anything of them please address me at State Line, Miss.

PREVENT

Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. C. O. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Brittain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $3 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. O. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

Blancard's PILLS

City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodide of Iron. The iodine purifies, the iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists.

Travelers Should Not Forget

The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the

Louisville and Great Southern Railway,

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Offices, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave: "It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 55°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAW,

—AND—

Rules of Evidence:

With Special Reference to the Jurisprudence of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

—BY—

HON. WILLIAM J. HENRY,

—AND—

WILLIAM L. HARRIS, D.D., LL.D.

8 vo., 511 Pages.

Cloth, $3; Law Sheep, $4.50.

In the first organization of the Church the rules for its government were few and simple: but as the Church grew and multiplied, and the conditions and circumstances of its members as well as of society about them, were changed, the rules necessary for its proper relation and government became more numerous and complex, so that now it often becomes a difficult matter to determine what proceedings should be instituted in a case, and under what particular rules and regulations. This book has been written with the hope that it may assist the administration in such cases.

* * * * * * * *

In submitting these rules we have aimed to do more than afford guides to judicial investigations before the tribunals of the Church. We believe they will be found valuable for such purposes, but we have endeavored to show in addition that the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures can be vindicated and their genuineness maintained by the well recognized and established rules of evidence received and acted upon in our courts of justice and in our different governmental relations.—Author's Preface.

UNREST.

BY JOHN C. MALOTT.

Dark, [illegible] clouds are overhead,
The [illegible] is cold and bare;
The [illegible] forth a solemn dirge,
As [illegible] deep despair.

And all the brightness of the sun
Is hid from mortal view;

The Chattanooga Convention.

BY D. W. HAYS.

On the 14th inst. the writer went to Chattanooga and was the guest [illegible] Mr. Burton Moore, an enterprising [illegible] of our church. The [illegible] visit was to fill an en[illegible] of several weeks standing [illegible] annual sermon [illegible] Home Mission [illegible] Sabbath. [illegible] had been [illegible] one. [illegible] this organi[illegible] a quiet, unos[illegible] work [illegible] the edu[illegible] near at [illegible] The [illegible] improved by [illegible] of visits to [illegible], and by [illegible] stroll, noting [illegible] concerning [illegible] just a line or [illegible] At [illegible] the [illegible] I was comfort[illegible] Pine Street [illegible] rather sur[illegible] a dozen [illegible] half as [illegible] myself, [illegible] that [illegible] that the meeting may speedily, as one of the Bishops expressed the wish in his correspondence, fire the Southern heart on the subject of education. The presence of Dr. Rust, though unexpected, proved a blessing. He showed by his apt suggestions, and by his judicious counsel, which gave character and shape to the resolutions adopted, how thoroughly he had comprehended the educational problem in all its bearings upon the Southern people. The Doctor is wide awake, and I believe that if a sufficient amount of funds can be placed at his disposal during the present and each succeeding year, astonishing results will be achieved, and all the people concerned will have an occasion for rejoicing. Dr. Fuller gave expression to some practical thoughts which, if rightly applied, would prevent a foolish waste of means and energies and augment the power of the church in this country an hundredfold. Every one present seemed to pay great deference to the opinions of the above mentioned General Conference officers. As we were not among the "invited" I did not feel at liberty to take any active part in the deliberations of the body, although requested to do so. I was treated with marked courtesy and was called upon by the chairman to address the convention which I reluctantly consented to do. A ten minutes talk was the result. At its close I felt relieved though I am not certain the audience felt that they had been made wiser by the effort. I have not given the details, as they may be found elsewhere, as reported by the secretary.

Now that the General Conference has taken the white educational work in the South, under its fostering care, and a convention in its interest has been held, let a grand advance be made in the collection for the Freedmen's Aid Society, North, East, South, and West. I have heard it from the lips of several preachers that they dare not, owing to the existing prejudices, mention this important enterprise to their people along with the other benevolent collections ordered by the General Conference. I close with the statement that those professors, who allow themselves to remain under the sway of such low, mean, unreasonable prejudices and those preachers who for fear of offending them prove recreant to their vows, are both a standing dishonor to Methodism, and if we fail this year to raise the one hundred thousand dollars asked for, much of the blame will be justly charged to their account. But forgetting the things that are behind, let us go forward like a noble band of brothers, marching under the Look-up-Legion's motto:

"Look up and not down;
Look forward and not back;
Look out and not in;
Lend a hand."

Power of Christianity.

BY GEO. W. WELLS.

When the fullness of time had come Israel's cup was trembling to run over. And after years of earnest expectation of a better and [illegible] soul stirring and transforming religion; and when the absurdities of the origin of Paganism had been exposed, and when the philosophers and teachers of the times began to discredit the authority of Paganism, and when the minds of the [illegible] people were eager to throw off their superstitious thraldom; then it was that Bethlehem's [illegible] Wonderful event! [illegible] wonderful when the an[illegible] break on the ear of [illegible] Glory to God in [illegible] and on earth peace, [illegible] toward man. In evil [illegible] unseen good, so in [illegible] saddest calamity that [illegible] Calvary's brow, was [illegible] star of the world's [illegible] 's victim had as[illegible] region in a [illegible] with [illegible] the my[illegible] and the [illegible] earth, [illegible] then [illegible] to ad[illegible] world [illegible] and [illegible] the dep[illegible] nor in myths, legends, obscure liturgies, and confused traditions. The statements recorded in the New Testament concerning its rise and progress belong to the realm of actual history. They relate to persons, acts, events, and institutions. They bar out all theories which seek the origin of Christianity in natural forces, and the spirit of an age, and which make it the result of race, climate, epoch, the fusion of older elements, and the development of certain tendencies toward a new time civilization. It began in an age which violently opposed it. Against no other religion was such a battle waged." Yet amid this tempest of opposition something was propelling their magnanimous souls to expend their energy in furnishing the good of the race. Nor can the zeal of the disciples, in propagating this doctrine, be explained except by the phrase, divinely inspired men.

Before the ascension of Constantine, the first Christian emperor, Christianity suffered and bled, and its sun seemed waning in the presence of the darkness of Paganism, whose darkness its transcendent brightness was soon to dispel, by purifying both body and soul, and by elevating the aspirations of the race. But when its internal fires have been kindled neither fire, nor sword, nor the brutal scenes of the amphitheatre can extinguish.

In the multiplicity of mythologies hero worship supplanted that of Olympian divinities. And here we pause and ask how was it the religion of Rome became Christian? How was it that Jove was discrowned, the Pagan heaven emptied of its divinities, and Olympus left to the solitude of its snows? The answer is to be found in the wonderful, the irresistible Divine power of Christianity, which first turned a Pagan emperor into a Christian and reached the hearts of all the people. It was Divinity itself that was the triumph for Christianity, and established itself in the palace of the Caesars. Grecian religion was not like Christianity, the solace of misery, the wealth of the poor, the future of the dying.

Christianity gives a hope, a glorious hope of another life. It is not mythical, it is real; that alone of all the world's systems holds faithful to the promises which it gives. Christianity is more than a system of virtues and morality; though there is hardly a precept it contains, the like of which cannot be found in the ethical writings of Greece, China, India, and Persia; the faultlessness and completeness of its teaching give it a position separate, and are among the strongest internal evidences of its divine origin. It is distinguished from the ethical systems of other teachers by its positiveness. Others say, "Thou shalt not;" the author of Christianity says, "Thou shalt." They forbid and prohibit; He commands. They prescribe abstinence from evil; He a constant approach to perfection. Christianity enjoins the unresting activity of all the powers and faculties in pursuit of the highest ends of which Christianity consists; but in morality, how is it superior to philosophy, Buddhism, and reason, and what piety could we truly feel if our principal end was that of stifling all the emotions of the heart? The stoics knew almost, if not quite as much as ourselves of austere self-denials; but that which is due Christianity alone is the enthusiasm which weds it with all the affections of the soul—the power of living and sympathizing. It is the most indulgent worship which best favors the flight of our spirits toward heaven. What means the parable of the Prodigal Son, if not that true love of God is preferred even above most exact fulfillment of duty? Did not the Savior tell the Magdalene much should be pardoned for the greatness of her love? "Obedience is better than sacrifice." The Prodigal quitted his paternal roof; his brother remained beneath it; he had plunged into all the pleasures of the world; his brother had never for an instant broke the regularity of domestic life; but the wanderer returned, all tears, and his beloved father received him with rejoicing! Ah! doubtless among the mysteries of mature love, inexplicable enigma, is all that is left us of our heavenly heritage. "God is love." Is not the author of Christianity [illegible] made tangible? How numerous and glorious are the privileges of our present Christian worship [illegible] in contrast with those of former [illegible]; now we worship in ele[illegible]; then they worshipped in the mountains, deep ravines, and catacombs; now we are permitted to behold peaceful and glorious death-bed scenes, then the votaries of the doctrine of the Savior beheld the last expiring moments of innocent maidens, men and boys on the arena of the Roman amphitheatre, torn asunder by beasts for the amusement of a vulgar assembly. Now Christian temples dot the land; Christian institutions as numerous in which thousands of youths are being educated are sending forth holy influences through their disciples. Through them the adherents of Christianity are becoming deeper cultured and more austere in morals.

The pulpits of all creeds are occupied by men to a large extent profoundly cultured, men too not urged on by base ambition for the social distinction the profession naturally gives, nor for the "Fishes and Loaves," but by men who work for the love of God, for the love of purity, and for the love of humanity. Christianity is of incalculable benefit to the world, it is the source of our present civilization, and the sun of all intellectual advancement. It is the only system that contains the true secret that can direct our pilgrimage on earth.

Oh, let us cling to Christianity! Let us revere our profession! Let us trust in its promises! Love it as the last link betwixt child and parent; betwixt life and death.

From the Falls of the Ohio.

BY REV. W. H. ONGLEY.

Louisville has long been known as the metropolis of Kentucky and as situated at the Falls of the Ohio. But for its fogies, like those of its class in ante bellum times, slaveocrats as they were, it might have been one of the first-class cities of the nation. The beautiful plateau upon which to build, east, west and south, makes it one of the best and facilities for drainage, the easiest of any we know of; and its advantages for manufacturing sites is not excelled. Its position, too, to "God's country," by its railroads and water navigation, reaching to the northwest and stretching eastward, as well as straight to the north star, the lakes and Canada, makes its location central, for everything that hath life in it—and, solid as the North, it is full of animation in intelligence, moral, religious, commercial, agricultural and manufacturing interests. But as Louisville was "sold under sin"—the great sin of slavery, everything it touched retarded progress; and its baleful influence affects it still, too many of its people evidencing madness at the losses they have sustained of their property in man. The late census goes to show the difference in growth of cities north and their material wealth of thrift and enterprise; so that Cincinnati, a little over one hundred miles up the river, sneered at as a Yankee rival, despite its environment of hills and no water power, at the rate it is increasing its population and gaining power as a central point north for the south to reach, will, by another decade, double up on Louisville; unless, as is hopeful, capitalists around the Falls of the Ohio bestir themselves and attract others there to develop its water power and manufacturing interests. Louisville ought to be made one of the best commercial points to the South, and it may possibly become so, when in the not distant future the river here with two more ponderous bridges—one from New Albany and another from Jeffersonville, beside the now over-crowded railroad bridge, which is somewhat of a go-between; then, too, the great competing Cincinnati Southern may be equally met.

With the above, vast changes must take place in the social and religious status of the South—the prejudices of her people must give way before the march of progress. The Cincinnati Southern Railroad, with its cheap rates, will introduce new traffickers and sight-seers, who will bring in time new settlers, capital and enterprise, for the latter will push with its horns to development of material resources. These, as already intimated, will influence the other great iron arteries which will become immense factors in the grand leveling process going on. He, who created of one blood all people to dwell on the earth, no matter of what color, these have come to develop the great American nation and dwell unmolested, and they will Vox populi 'vox dei!' The solid South will finally learn the lesson.

In Louisville, our church is still having a struggle against "the powers that be." Starting with a loyal few, in a small way, at the close of the late war, we have had to fight for every inch of ground we now possess, against great odds; but we now have two prosperous churches, known as Trinity and Wesley; three colored churches, Jackson street, Loyd street and Coke chapels; and three flourishing German—all of the mother Methodist Episcopal Church. Still it is urged, we have no business there, there is no call for us in that city, hence "fighting without and fears within," harass and perplex, where least they should be expected. But the Lord has been on our side, and aggressive Methodism has been and will be blessed. There is a determination to live down all opposition and go on and prosper.

The churches named are pretty nearly out of debt, and aggregate in value, $125,000; so that we are evidently located to stay. May the Spirit be poured out in rich effusion upon them all, and the prejudices of the M. E. Church South, as well as the people come under its melting, regenerating influence.

Across the river, in New Albany, the "old church" is in a very flourishing condition. The holy shekinah seems to rest upon our eight organizations, which includes the German and colored M. E. churches. Hundreds, converted the past year or two, are now in the enjoyment of religion and active members of the different churches. Holiness of heart is being groaned after and professed by very many of them.

At Jeffersonville, Wall street M. E. Church, with over 400 members, under the pastorate of Rev. J. S. Tevis, is in the lead; Port Fulton, a suburb, follows; the newly-built German M. E. Church is also very prosperous, a power among the Germans, under that veteran leader, Rev. J. S. Barth; last, not least, our Wesley Chapel, colored, Dr. Bryan pastor, is more prosperous than ever before. The doctor has been holding a camp meeting in the suburbs for over two weeks, including three Sabbaths, ending with the 22d of August, with good success. He was able to raise about $300 by the means, and so clear off the debt on their church property, and overcome the prejudices existing hitherto against the people of color in this neighborhood. It was very pleasant to see the brethren and sisters of all colors and denominations sitting together in unity, and listening to the word dispensed by white and colored, the latter predominating. There was but little help from abroad. One, however, Bro. Stein, of Rising Sun (Ind.) charge, known as the "Mississippi cotton-picker," was there and lead in the singing, which was delightful. A great many witnesses for Christ on the ground gave clear and interesting testimony, and much spirituality was manifested, some souls brought into the kingdom and the Lord's name magnified. "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace and good will to man."

With all the rest, the reaction here and throughout the North, in favor of Republicanism, is perfectly wonderful: organization is complete and our country's cause, which it was believed the late war had settled, but again so disturbed in the South, has so revived the Union element as to bring out all Christians to duty, and the price of vigilance, on the part of all the good and true, is appreciated more than ever in the history of this country, making a solid North for the sustenance of our common country.

Kansas.

BY D. P. MITCHELL.

The population of Kansas, as shown by the late census, is about one million. This population is from all the States and all the nations of Europe, with a small sprinkling of Chinese. We have whites, negroes, Indians and Mongolians. The population is like the army that came to David at Adullam. The worst element of the South and the "Sharp's rifle" abolitionists of the North formed the base. Then the politician without an office, the lawyer without a client, the doctor without a practice, the preacher without a license or congregation, the merchant without money or goods, the farmer without experience or agricultural implements, herdsmen without a hoof of stock, married men without wives, and married women without husbands, young men who had broken their marital engagements, and young women who had loved too well but unwisely. Add to all these the swarms of helpless freedmen that were shipped in here during the war, and you have the base of the population of Kansas. The Indians, except a few half breeds, are nearly all moved to the territory, and hence make a small factor in society of Kansas. Now with all this mass there were some genuine men and women; men of brains and character, women of virtue and education, lawyers of honor and ability, ministers of fidelity and experience, doctors that were not quacks, and business men of some means and that were honest, with many industrious, virtuous young men and women who know how to plow and do housework, but who were crowded out of the thickly settled portions of the East came to Kansas. Fortunately, the first legislature compiled a school law from the best portions of Massachusetts and Ohio educational statutes and made a better law than either. I think the best of all the States. The result is, we have the largest school fund, the best school houses, and the best class of teachers, of any of the new States, and this old reckless element that reigned here twelve or fifteen years ago, is sinking out of sight, while the educated, the true, and the good, are controlling and regulating both the Church and State. But I must close; your readers do not like long letters. I will speak of the churches in my next.

An Explanation.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 10, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—A letter from Bro. J. W. Robinson, in your issue of the 5th inst., represents me as an obstacle to education in Austin. In support of this most uncharitable charge, he cites my failure to circulate a notice for his collection in aid of Bro. Richardson's school at a time when I was blinded by inflamed eyes.

I will simply state that on two previous occasions I had given out such a notice to my congregation, but each time rainy weather prevented a collection. At the time Bro. Robinson refers to, his notice came too late, and besides it conflicted with another collection which had been arranged for. Had his request been received a week sooner, a notice would have been given which would have ensured a fair collection.

I am sure our people will do all they can for the aforesaid school, but it must be remembered that there are now established in Austin a number of very competent colored teachers who have flourishing schools. Some of these teachers are members of my own church, and it would ill become me (and might injure my usefulness) to attempt the tearing down of the schools, which their hard labor has built up, to make way for others. A friendly and healthful competition would be far better. Bro. Richardson's school can and must take its chances with the others, and we will do the best we can for all in their noble work.

In conclusion, I would remind my young Bro. Robinson that the importance of his calling should keep his zeal from outrunning his discretion.

Good Hope Public School.

DEAR EDITOR—On the 26th and 27th inst. I attended the examination exercises of Mrs. Margaret Clark's school at Good Hope church in Carroll county, Miss., eleven miles from Vaiden.

Those present as spectators were agreeably surprised at the proficiency of many of the pupils. It was evident that they had studied well and not without profit. The excellent spelling and proficiency in arithmetic, grammar, and philosophy exhibited by many of the pupils elicited commendation.

Among the many visitors in attendance of both white and colored, women and men alike, was the high sheriff of the county, W. Hamilton, Esq. Although a Democrat he has the entire confidence of all the people of his county regardless of race or political opinions. Mr. Hamilton delivered a very able address to the children and patrons of the school. In his beautiful remarks the sheriff paid the highest compliments to Mrs. Clark, as a lady and one of the best educators in the county.

Mrs. Clark is a Southern white lady, and is a regular graduate from the Mississippi Female College at Hernando. For 22 years she has been teaching and takes a great delight in her profession. At the close of the civil war, when Mr. Lincoln had issued the proclamation emancipating the slaves of this country, she felt that it was her religious duty to do what she could in educating them, and ever since she has been engaged in teaching colored schools. Notwithstanding, she has had great inducements to teach other schools but she prefers to teach the colored children because she thinks they need it most. In every community she and her husband, Mr. E. Clark, her assistant, have taught. We are informed that they have won the highest praise and admiration of all the people, as faithful and successful teachers. Long may they live to instruct the youth of our country.

On account of illness of the presiding elder of the Greenwood district, Bro. L. Bradford, we attended the third quarterly meeting for New Midway and Good Hope circuit. Rev. J. C. Skinner, the honored and faithful pastor, as well as his official brethren, had their reports in good shape; quite a number took communion, and the spirit of the Lord was felt in the congregation.

Public Schools in North Carolina.

In North Carolina nearly all efforts made to establish graded schools have failed. An act of the Legislature of 1879, appropriating $40,000 for public schools, was left unsigned and failed through legal technicalities. The same Legislature laid hold of a part of the school fund, derived from certain taxes and pledged for over fifty years to that object, and applied it to other purposes. Another blow was given when the General Assembly in 1880 reduced the tax on liquors from five to two and a half per cent, and extended the tax on books, and many home products and pursuits. When the Democratic Superintendent of Public Education was guilty of a gross defalcation, the matter was passed over as a slight financial irregularity. A Republican would have been charged with theft.

Ecumenical Conference.

The following named persons have been appointed on the General Executive Committee to make detailed arrangements for a Methodist Ecumenical Conference:

M. E. Church—The Rev. Bishop M. Simpson, D.D., LL.D.; the Rev. A. C. George, D.D.; Gen. Clinton B. Fisk. M. E. Church, South—The Rev. Bishop H. N. M'Tyeire, D.D; the Rev. T. O. Value of a Potato.

Prof. Tyndall illustrated the value of a single potato in the world. If all but one were destroyed, that one would contain in itself the possibility of again stocking the world with an invaluable article of food. If one potato would produce, when planted, only a crop of ten potatoes, in ten years the total product of this one potato would be equal to ten thousand millions, which would be sufficient to stock the whole world with seed. The real value of that single potato, then, would be better that the city of London or New York should be totally destroyed than that tuber should be lost to the world.

Our Baptist brethren say: "Our work as a society for the next ten years, and perhaps much longer, will be in the new West, beyond the Mississippi and the Missouri rivers, and reaching all the way to the Pacific slope. Think of the city of Leadville, 10,000 feet above sea level, in two year's time having a population of 30,000! So other towns have had an almost equally wonderful growth. Now it is to these young cities that we must send ministers of brains, piety and grit."

OPELOUSAS.

We arrived at Opelousas at midnight and half a night's sleep prepared us for Saturday's work. This is an old town. In 1765 about 650 Acadians arrived in New Orleans and were sent to form settlements in Attakapas and Opelousas, under the command of Andry. It is the parish town and St. Landry parish is an immense region, having 1,350,000 acres in it, about evenly divided between prairie and wood land. Here is a good court house and jail. Out of the latter more than twenty-five colored men were taken at one time in the memorable "riot" of 1868 and shot to death. It is admitted that 300 colored men were killed during that bloody week, some of them while at work in the field and some on the public highway. The day of Judgment alone will reveal all the crimes of those horrible days. A prominent citizen gave us a minute inside history of the tragedy, but this is not the place to repeat it. Let us pray that such scenes may never again disgrace this or any other State. Opelousas has several churches and a fair number of business houses. The railroad soon to reach it will help revive business. Nearly all the buildings look old here as in all these inland towns. They need paint. Many are tumbling into decay.

A QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

Our pastor, Rev. Washington Brooks, came after us in a buggy from Washington, six miles distant. The quarterly conference of the circuit, which includes Opelousas, Washington and Waxia, met at 3 p. m. at Washington. This conference was composed of thirty-seven men who had come, some of them, forty miles, to meet the presiding elder. This is a specimen of many of our quarterly conferences in the South. In these conferences, under the head of "Complaints," often come up the most perplexing matters to settle. In this particular case fully an hour was spent on the query, "Are there any complaints?" Often, with no specific "charges" made, the presiding officer is brought face to face with difficult questions to adjust. Some local preacher, exhorter, or trustee, or steward thinks he has been badly treated, or some of them are complained of as not doing their duty. Then the president must, if possible, see who is to blame and administer rebuke where needed. Generally short lectures on the duties of the various officers help out of the difficulty, for often well meaning brethren err by not knowing the law. And how unfortunate it is that the more ignorant a man is generally the more difficult it is to teach him. In one case a brother ended the matter by saying, "Elder, its no use tryin' to settle this case. Its like the collo the boy had, 'its going to get worse and worse.'" That was his way of putting a truth which all administrators of discipline must learn well—that time is an essential factor in solving all kinds of difficulties.

A GOOD WORK.

These thirty-seven men represent a splendid work. Every one of them except the secretary, was born and reared in slavery. Some are bent with years. All gave evidence that they are men of toil. Their tongues are not fluent with [illegible] of the books, but [illegible] from their eyes, and beam[illegible] faces are souls full of [illegible] and faith, and longings [illegible]. They know what [illegible] God is in their hearts, [illegible] to be helped up into [illegible] of wisdom, intellec[illegible] spiritual. And these [illegible], but specimens of [illegible] over this South[illegible] whole Church [illegible]

THE SECRETARY.

The secretary of the quarterly conference was a white man, young in years but with a history. He was left an orphan in New Orleans and after struggling with poverty he came to the country, and found friends among the colored people. By diligent study he came to be a fair English scholar, and is a good penman. He was converted and joined the Church among his friends; he became at once an earnest worker for the Master. He sings well and the people believe in him. He is Sunday-school Superintendent and secretary for the church, and teaches a day school in the church building. He is a quiet inoffensive young man, hoping after awhile to prosecute his education. Last year the former pastor thought to organize a branch church some distance from Washington in a neighborhood where we had a few members, and after several visits appointed a day for the organization. The secretary went along to record the work. But the organization did not take place. False reports had been circulated as to the nature of the organization. What seems to be a self constituted organization of the neighborhood, composed of white men, concluded to investigate the matter. The preacher and his brethren from Washington were summoned to answer as to their work. Among the circulators of false reports were some Baptist colored people who did not want a Methodist church in that region. Our preacher was found to be unarmed by the "keepers of the peace" who examined him, and his parchment showed who he was. There was still doubt what to do with him, and a dispute arose during which he slipped away and was driven hastily out of danger. The secretary did not fair so well. He was at a house near by, and as evening come on was called out by four men who assured him that he would not be hurt. They took him some distance, where the "keepers of the peace" were in waiting. He was divested of his outer garments and laid on the ground, and ten colored men were compelled to hit him ten lashes apiece. Before the whipping he was asked why he belonged to a "nigger church." He told them the story of his conversion. After the whipping he was told to go and join a "white church." One colored man refused to strike him and said: "For God I won't hit dat young man. He's a Christian. He's got religion." After the whipping he [illegible] by the old of friends. [illegible] in the "land of the free and the home of the brave." If it be [illegible] in no doubt true, that [illegible] people of the commu[illegible] this, the reply is [illegible] whatever [illegible] to justice, [illegible] indignation [illegible] heard. The [illegible] bought and paid for. This point will need a preacher to itself next year, and the brethren are completing the new parsonage for him whom the Bishop may appoint. With their two acres of land, giving room for cemetery, good church, and parsonage, this society is ready for rapid growth. Our colored people are forced as rapidly as possible to get cemeteries of their own. Often they are forbidden to bury in the public cemeteries, and sometimes when they do they are subjected to annoyances. We lately saw an example of the latter. A brother minister had buried his oldest child in the public cemetery, and had put tomb stones at head and foot of the grave and surrounded it with rows of arba vita, and planted over it evergreens and flowers. It was his eldest born, and with loving hands, and for him a lavish purse, he showed at once his grief and his love. Some one saturated the shrubbery with kerosene and then set fire to it. Only the stones and the charred limbs of the larger shrubs now remain.

Besides these two good properties at Opelousas and Washington, land has been bought and a plain church erected at Waxia some fifteen miles from Washington. In all these churches are good Sunday-schools. In the cupola on each of the three are good sounding bells. The young people are learning the latest and best music. And how these people sing! They never lack the "spirit" if they do not always have the "understanding." The pastor of this circuit is a man of spirit and enterprise. He brings things to pass. He begs and builds for the church. He loves his church and believes in it, and wants his people to have every good thing. He does not meddle with things outside of his calling. Of course he is respected by all classes of people. He pays his own debts and the debts of the church. Where such a preacher leads the people the community will respect the church and help it.

There was still doubt what to do with him, and a dispute arose during which he slipped away and was driven hastily out of danger. The secretary did not fair so well. He was at a house near by, and as evening come on was called out by four men who assured him that he would not be hurt. They took him some distance, where the "keepers of the peace" were in waiting. He was divested of his outer garments and laid on the ground, and ten colored men were compelled to hit him ten lashes apiece. Before the whipping he was asked why he belonged to a "nigger church." He told them the story of his conversion. After the whipping he was told to go and join a "white church." One colored man refused to strike him and said: "For God I won't hit dat young man. He's a Christian. He's got religion." After the whipping he [illegible] by the old of friends. [illegible] in the "land of the free and the home of the brave." If it be [illegible] in no doubt true, that [illegible] people of the commu[illegible] this, the reply is [illegible] whatever [illegible] to justice, [illegible] indignation [illegible] heard. The [illegible] morning at Washington we addressed the Sunday school at nine, preached to a large congregation at eleven, and administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. At three o'clock we lectured to the people, seeking as far as possible to instruct them in matters of practical Christianity in their home and business as well as church life. In the evening we drove six miles to Opelousas and preached, returning and getting to rest at midnight. During the day forty-three subscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN. It is easy to work where the people are hungry for the truth and receive it gladly.

AN EXODUS SCAMP.

It was to be expected that the facts respecting the Exodus would be seized upon by designing men to impose on the colored people. We have learned of a few such cases. The worst case we have heard of has occurred at Washington. A white citizen of that place, after first deceiving the former pastor so as to use him, made the people believe that if they would give him $10 apiece they would be taken to Kansas. We saw some of his receipts. It is said that between two and three hundred gave him the amount. The people sold their homes and property for trifles. It was a most shameless piece of robbery. The man cannot now be found. God will reward him.

Opinions on the Colored Bishop Question.

The Pacific Christian Advocate (M. E. Church, South,) alluding to Dr. Curry's plea for one or more colored bishops, and his belief that a number of white conferences would not object to a colored bishop as their presiding officer, and the opinion that the demand for a colored bishop will not stay postponed, says:

> The agitated question seems premature and inexpedient, but it "means business." The M. E. Church, South, long ago elected several colored bishops and consecrated them for the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America. The M. E. Church would act wisely, we think, if she would set apart her colored people as race instincts and inclinations would prompt, and elect and ordain bishops for them. Left to their own preferences the negro would take this course, and they can only be held loyal to the "Old Church" by large subsidies of money and emolument.

Did it ever occur to the Advocate that if the negroes had been "left to their own preferences," they would to-day be in Africa? The M. E. Church, South, for the entire period of its existence has upheld the men who removed the negro from a land of barbarism, and has stoutly insisted that his forcible detention here as a co-worker in industrial matters, was a divine institution. It seems even now prepared to give him spiritual comfort, but apart from its communion. Is is not natural that a brother repulsed from one altar should seek another? So it has been. The colored membership of the M. E Church have followed their own preferences into the house of friends, wherein such vallant men as Dr. Curry will advocate the law of Christian brotherhood in their behalf. None are to be set apart; but all are to be co-workers. "Large subsidies of money and emolument" indeed! What is the occasion of that unbeharitable reflection on the sincerity of profession and motives of a colored membership of 200,000 in the M. E. Church? The better judgment of the Pacific Advocate should cause it to retract and apologize for this totally unwarranted expression. The 200,000 negroes in the M. E. Church are not on the auction block, or led by self-elected guardians. They enjoy freedom and Christian fellowship.

Opening of the New Orleans University.

The fall term of the New Orleans University will open on Monday, Sept. 20, 1880. A full number of able and competent instructors has been secured, and the prospects for a successful school year have never been better in the history of the University. The building will be put in good repair, and rooms for students will be well fitted up, so that those coming from a distance will find a pleasant home in the University buildings. Connected with the University is a boarding department in which students can obtain good, healthful boarding at the lowest possible rates. We desire to open with a full attendance. New classes are formed only at the opening of the term, and it is very necessary for rapid advancement that students should join classes when formed; otherwise, students, coming in late, find great difficulty in keeping up with their classes, become embarrassed, and their whole work is a burden with little progress. We call upon all old students and friends of the University to make every possible effort in securing the attendance of a large number of new students. If you know of any young persons who possess ability and aptitude for learning, go and see them at once: a word of encouragement may induce them to come in and thus you will be the means of doing great good.

We would remind all our ministers that our educational work is a most important part of our Church work, and earnestly implore them to bring the subject of education before their congregations, appealing to the young people to seek an education—to develop the powers of mind and soul that they may become perfect men and women as God designed them to be.

Young man, young woman, if you expect to fill positions in life of trust, if you desire that the world shall be better for your having lived in it, if you hope to prove an honor to yourself, a credit to society, a blessing to toiling, suffering humanity, you must educate.

Come to our school in New Orleans, and we will use every effort to fit and prepare you for the great work to which you are so earnestly called. Do not neglect your education, but see to it at once—now—and depend upon it, in the end your life will not prove a failure but a grand and glorious success.

ISAAC N. FAILOR, Pres.

Born of Poor But Honest Parents.

In looking over the biography of some good man or eminent preacher, how often are we greeted with the sentence that heads this article.

Does this mean that poverty is so closely allied to dishonesty that the parents being especially exempt from dishonesty, that this fact entitled their offspring to be embalmed in biography, independent of the seeming disgrace attached to poverty?

Any author who introduces the subject of his biography, and especially a religious one, with such a reference is devoid of refined taste and violates common politeness.

For every man of common sense, and manhood of feeling, ought to know that there is as much if not more dishonesty among the so-called upper classes, than in the middle classes of society. Such nonsense might pass current if the reading of books was confined to the rich, but when the middle classes form the greater part of our readers it is an insult cast in their faces.

We spurn all such miserable insinuations about poverty and honesty; for the Lord of Lords, and the King of Kings has dignified poverty, made it honorable, and rendered it sacred by becoming poor for us, that we might be made eternally rich.

Exodus of Labor.

Here is an interview as published in the New Orleans Times:

> Mr. John A. Sigur returned yesterday from his trip through Kansas, where he had gone in the interests of Dr. Brickell and Messrs. R. Milliken and O. Hopkins, to induce some of the colored people who went to Kansas during the exodus fever to return to this State. The three planters mentioned above awoke to the fact, a short time since, that they would be in great want of laborers to take off the large crops growing on their plantations.
> Mr. Sigur was authorized to contract with such laborers as he might secure, on the following terms: Seventy-five cents per day, and fifty cents extra for night watches of six hours each; besides these terms, the laborers would be provided with houses and fuel free of cost. Desiring to learn what success had attended Mr. Sigur's efforts, a Times reporter called on him and found him disposed to talk freely.
> "How many exodusters returned with you?"
> "Not a single one. I traveled all over Kansas and did my very best towards inducing them to accede to my proposals, but my task was a thankless one. There are numbers of them there, living lives of glorious ease, which they evidently enjoy too thoroughly to think of abandoning."
> "Do they get well paid for the work they are doing?"
> "Work? They are the most idle and thriftless set I ever saw. They don't do a lick of work. They are well taken care of by relief societies organized all over the State, and are happy and contented. A lady by the name of Comstock is the manager of these societies, and gets contributions from England and other places. A negro named Brown, who hails from Mississippi, assists her in the enterprise. As there are nearly twelve thousand negroes supported by these societies the funds collected must be somewhat large."
> "How were you received along your route?"
> "I was looked on very suspiciously. A negro man went from here with me for the purpose of assisting me in inducing the laborers to return; he wore a pair of yellow pants, which at last became such an object of attention and remark that he finally got out of them. As our advent to a place was telegraphed beforehand, the yellow pants were 'spotted' before they appeared on the platform of the car. There were certainly interested parties who kept advised of my movements, and who warned others to look out for my coming."
> "What did those you conversed with you have to say of their situation?"
>
> "Oh, they were very well satisfied, and said they would never return to their old homes. I met one negro who used to work for Mr. Duncan Kanner, who told me that she was mighty well pleased with Kansas and intended to live there always."
> "Has the exodus died out yet?"
> "No, indeed; negroes are arriving in the State every day from all parts of the South, and I suppose the influx will continue for some time to come."
> "How about the native farm laborers in Kansas?"
> "A number of them are white, and by the way, I was besieged by applicants of this sort who are anxious to come South. They told me that they had been working on farms all their lives, and were perfectly willing to come with me and work a month for nothing, provided, employment was guaranteed them at the end of that time. I was not authorized to accept their proposals, but took their names in the event of their services being required.
> "As the sun is much hotter in Kansas than it is here, I see no reason why their labor should not be every bit as valuable as negro labor. On my way home I noticed extensive fields of cotton ready to be picked, but the laborers were painfully scarce. I was told that a great deal of cotton would be left in the field to rot."
> Mr. Sigur has been a planter for a number of years and understands the nature of the negro thoroughly, and is firm in his belief that the exodusters in Kansas have gone there to stay. He thinks, however, that they are being used for political purposes and will fare very badly after the coming national election. He gives a most glowing account of the people of Kansas, of their thrift activity and industry, and says that cities appear to be springing up like enchantment. In Kansas City there are 1200 buildings going up.

The following points are noticeable, viz:

1. The exodus has produced a scarcity of labor in this section.
2. Extra inducements in the way of wages could not bring back a single negro from Kansas.
3. Negroes in Kansas are contented and prospering.
4. Kansas is paid a glowing tribute for thrift and industry, and cities are springing up "like enchantment."
5. It is clear that the anti-exodus press have grossly misrepresented the facts of the case and thereby prevented measures to stop the exodus. The negroes are not starving or dying out, but are contented with their new homes.

Fair treatment, free speech, a free ballot and a fair count, are the only methods by which the exodus can be stopped. The negroes are in earnest, and the country is in hearty accord with their determination. The negro is welcomed by the North, to assist in her unexampled prosperity.

The crops are being gathered. Now is the time to pay your pastor's salary, and to pay for your church paper.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Rev. J. M. Thoburn, D.D, is expecting to return to India in the month of October.

—The Rev. Joseph Cook was paid $600 for three lectures at the Chautauqua meeting.

—The Richmond Advocate reports the condition of Bishop Doggett as hopeful. He is recovering from severe illness.

—Rev. S. Duncan, of Clinton street church, Carrollton, has returned from a month's vacation spent among his friends in St. Mary parish.

—Rev. S. T. Clanton, who graduated at the New Orleans University in 1878, has gone to Chicago to spend three years completing his theological course.

—Bishop Matthew Simpson preached last Sabbath, in Central M. E. Church, San Francisco, to an audience estimated at 1500—the full capacity of the house when crowded—seats and standing room occupied. He is to remain here some time yet. His sermons have been spiritual and eloquent, as only truth can be eloquent when delivered by a golden mouth.—Pacific Methodist.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TEXAS.

A. M. Gregory, Calvert: "Protracted meeting closed July 29, with 39 additions. Our Sunday-school is improving. The Kansas fever is still in our midst."

A. Lockhart, Pilot Point: "The old M. E. Church is alive in this portion of the State, though not two years old. Many who were its enemies have become friends. We have just closed a meeting, which was continued 12 days and resulted in 16 conversions. Elder Swann, from Dallas, was with us, preached several interesting sermons, and held our quarterly conference. None of our supporters are land owners, yet we have on hand $29 to build a church. The white citizens propose to help us."

MISSISSIPPI.

C. W. Ivy, Scooba; "I have just closed my protracted meeting of 20 days at this place with 3 converts, 62 on probation, one by letter from the Presbyterian church, one backslider reclaimed, 2 adults baptized. Love feast Sunday night. Time would not permit all to express their love for the Church, for about 25 Baptists told how they loved Jesus and Methodists."

TENNESSEE.

Rev. J. P. Gregg, Springfield circuit: "At New Bethel held a meeting, eleven professed conversion, seven united with the church, baptized six last Sunday. At Springfield the people are hoping to finish ceiling the church by conference and want to get a bell. The work hopeful."

Letter from Kosciusko.

MR. EDITOR—Our second quarterly conference for the Kosciusko circuit was held July 17-18, Elder J. G. Johnson in the chair, and the members all present, A. Frazie, secretary. The pastor reported three Sunday-schools within the charge which are in good condition, with 150 pupils. He had preached to the children and catechised them twice; received in full membership, 4; on probation, 1; by letter, 2. The school had raised $5. The sisters had bought a stove for the pastor. Sister Martha Harvey gave the church a table, and sister Lizzie Doty a Bible. The work is in a living condition. In memory of Jesus' mother and sister Mary Ann Harvey, the building here, which we are trying to pay for, was named St. Mary's Chapel. Sister Harvey was known as a licensed preacher in the M. E Church. On Sunday, the 18th of July, at 2 p. m., the memorial service of sister M. A. Harvey were held. About 2000 voices joined in singing hymn 971. Rev. I. Warren led in prayer. Elder J. G. Johnson gave a sketch of sister Harvey's life. Rev. Moore, of Jackson; Rev. Heslup, of Durant, and Mrs. Cora C. Duncan, of Jackson, addressed us. Rev. Mr. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, spoke with a gift. Rev. Mr. Alexander, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who had known sister Harvey for several years, said she was beloved and was a Bible reader and teacher. We then took up a collection of $30 and subscriptions of $30 for the benefit of the church. At 8:30 p. m. we administered the Lord's supper to about 80 communicants. Monday evening we had an old fashioned love feast and breaking of bread. The spirit of the Lord was manifested, and we had a glorious time. Brethren, pray for us. J. M. N.

Letter from Meridian.

MERIDIAN, MISS., Aug. 17.

MR. EDITOR—There was a college in progress of erection, as you will remember, at this place. The people claim its foundation was the Shaw University, and it got into their minds they were to be given here what we have at Holly Springs. With confidence they went to work and laid a big foundation, bearing the inscription of Shaw University. They fondly dreamed that for every dollar furnished by them the Freedmen's Aid Society would furnish two. Dr. Rust stopped over from the conference at Macon, visited the ground, found a little frame building standing by the side of the big foundation. This is called the Meridian Academy. It is just a hull, rudely constructed, with no ceiling, 20 feet wide, two stories high, standing on the proudest eminence Meridian affords. Here the school taught by Mrs. M. V. Keever assembled. I witnessed their suffering, was appealed to to cell their building, and heard them ask Dr. Rust when he would finish the college. The Doctor informed them it was a matter over which he had no control, and that if the M. E. Church had assumed any such responsibility he had not learned of the fact. This produced a general shock, and the people have not got over it yet. In annual conference they were assured the matter would be looked after in June following by the trustees of Shaw University. June passed, no call was made upon the trustees. These disappointments created distrust. The so-called academy was so wrecked by the storm in the early part of July that it is useless for anything. The school will now be taught in the M. E. Church. I am urged by patrons to make these facts known, and to inquire of Dr. Rust whether he can assist them in rebuilding the academy. It ought to be done if possible. G. BROOKS.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Sept. 12, 1880.—TRIAL OF ABRAHAM'S FAITH.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 22: 1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Now I know that thou fearest God."—12.

TOPIC.—Mercy in Trial.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

At last to Abraham the promise was fulfilled, and in his old age, after weary and trying years of waiting, a son was born to him "at the set time of which God had spoken to him." He called his son Isaac, or Laughter, and Sarah said: "God hath made me to laugh so that all that hear will laugh with me." Sarah saw Ishmael, the son of Hagar, mocking, and forthwith demanded that she and her boy should be cast out. And yet Sarah herself was the cause of the presence there of Ishmael! Abraham would have kept both sons, but Sarah was too selfish to admit of a divided reign, and only the assurance of God, that of Ishmael would he make a great nation, reconciled the patriarch to sending off his boy and the mother into the wilderness.

"Take now thy son, thine only son," etc. It was a test of Abraham—not a real demand. But Abraham had no conception of the fact that it was only a test to which he was being subjected. To him the whole proceeding was torturingly in earnest. He had given Isaac in accordance with the pledge, though his coming was long delayed, but now He proposed to take the gift away! And if he were taken away, from whence should come that posterity that was to be as the sands of the sea for multitude? And yet he was prompt in the execution of the command. He set about his preparations, though his heart must have been very heavy, with a thoughtful anticipation that omitted none of the necessary details for the carrying out of the Lord's direction. He said nothing of his purpose, evidently fearing the obstructions which Sarah would be likely to put in his way. The wood was prepared, the ass was girded, the fire was secured, the knife was added, and, perhaps, whetted for its work, and before the rest were stirring he was away upon his painful mission. The promptness with which Abraham obeyed the divine command was something wonderful. They went up the mountain "together"—the heavy-laden boy, and the still heavier-laden man. The unsuspecting question in regard to the lamb for the burnt offering was asked by the one who himself was the lamb that was intended for the sacrifice. The question was a trying one. "God will provide himself a lamb." It was an admission that he had no animal of the kind usually employed in sacrifices. The mountain was not a place where one would expect to find a lamb. When Abraham explained to him, as he must have done, that he was the lamb which God had provided for the burnt offering, willingly he must have submitted; for in the narrative there is no hint of any resistance upon his part. "Laid him upon the altar." He was intent only upon carrying out the divine will. When he raised his knife to slay, Isaac was the same to him as one of the dead, "from whence," the same Epistle says, "he received him in a figure." The Lord knows just when to interfere. He never is an instant too tardy. There was no need of the offering up of Isaac. Caught by his horns in a thicket near by, was the type of one who, crowned with thorns, was the lamb "slain from the foundation of the world," in the stead of Isaac, as well as in the place of all who have lived since he suffered on the cross.

God gave Isaac back to Abraham, and in a way that made him dearer to him than ever. Three days of trial—years of increased happiness!

DEATHS.

In the city of Independence, Kansas, of Typhoid fever, after about 7 weeks' illness, Hampton W. D. Howard, formerly of Darlington, La. He leaves a wife and 3 little children in a strange land among strangers. His brothers and sisters and also his wife's relatives are still in Darlington, La. Bro. Howard came here in the spring and had made himself a host of friends by his good deportment. He was a probationer in the 2d M. E. Church of this city, a member of the Bible class and an earnest seeker after salvation. His friends thought he was getting well, but the Master has taken him to Himself. W. B. AVERY, Pastor.

Is it possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvelous and wonderous cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

—The September Popular Science Monthly well sustains its character of a magazine of valuable reading. It opens with a striking article on "The Science of Comparative Jurisprudence," by William M. Ivins. His problem is the treatment of jurisprudence by the method of evolution, or the development of the system of civil law. Mr. Ivins shows that Herbert Spencer's sociological investigations supply the material for making the historical origin of the elements of jurisprudence complete. The second paper, by Sir Auberon Herbert, is "State Education," and is devoted to the question whether it is "A Help or Hindrance?" Dr. Fairchild pursues his popular physiological expositions in an illustrated article entitled "How Animals Digest." "The Solar System and its Neighbors," is by Dr. C. B. Waring. Another curious paper is on the "Legal Prosecution of Animals." Those who care to be reminded from what degradations science has redeemed humanity will find this article very helpful. Francis Darwin gives an instructive chapter on the economy of "Climbing Plants." Alice Hyneman Rhine writes on "Night-Schools in New York and Paris." The editor discusses "Sewage in College Education," and raps some of these institutions vigorously for their devotion to Latin and Greek, and their neglect of the sciences upon which health and life depend. A Valuable Book

Offered to Yearly Subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN for 1880,

AT A REDUCED RATE.

Home and Health and Home Economics,

A Cyclopædia of Facts and Hints for all Departments of Home Life, Health, and Domestic Economy.

—BY—

C. H. FOWLER, D. D., LL. D.,

—AND—

W. H. DE PUY, A. M., D. D.

The above-named book, a 12mo., 352 pages, bound in cloth, we offer to each yearly subscriber of the SOUTHWESTERN who may send us $2.50 cash—$2 for the paper, and 50 CENTS for the book. It treats of everything necessary to make a happy, elegant, healthful Christian home. The purpose is to take the average Methodist home, where the parents earnestly desire the improvement, refinement, health, and spirituality of their children, and put within the reach of such a family the means necessary to secure these ends by a fair application of the principles laid down, and of the suggestions offered. It has been prepared by a careful consultation of the highest authorities on the many themes treated.

The Literary Revolution.

In January, 1879, The Literary Revolution was inaugurated by the publication of one small volume. In September, 1880, its list, published and in preparation, comprises over 100 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 500 hands, is actually delivering to purchasers over three tons of books a day, or over 1,000 tons a year, and is so far from able to fill all orders that additional buildings have just been leased, machinery purchased, and other steps necessary taken to double the present product within the next sixty days. To meet the popular demand for the coming twelve months at least 2,000 Tons of Good Literature. [illegible] volumes will be required. The almost wonderful success which the Revolution has achieved is doubtless to be attributed to its leading principles, which are: I. Publish only books of real merit. II. What is worth reading is worth preserving—all books are neatly and strongly bound. III. Work on the basis of the present cost of making books, which is very much less than it was a few years ago. IV. Books have commonly been considered luxuries; in a free republic they ought to be considered necessities, and the masses will buy good books by the million if prices are placed within reach. V. To make $1.00 and a friend is better than to make $5.00 only, and 1000 books sold at a profit of $1.00 each gives a profit of only $1,000, while 1,000,000 books sold at a profit of one cent each gives a profit of $10,000; and it is more pleasure as well as more profit to sell the million. The most important publication thus far undertaken—indeed the most important work ever published in this country—a work that every intelligent person wants in his library, is the Library of Universal Knowledge. It is a verbatim reprint of the last London edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with copious additions by American editors, about 15,000 topics being added to the original work. It will contain, complete, about 10 per cent more than Appleton's and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopædia, though costing but a fraction of the price of either. The publication of a large type edition of this Library of Universal Knowledge is just begun, vol. 1. being issued September 1. Two or more volumes will be issued each month till the whole is completed in 15 vols, octavo of nearly 1,000 pages each. The price of the large type edition in cloth binding is $1.00 per volume; bound in half Russia, gilt top, price $1.50 per volume. According to our usual custom, special reduction in price is made to early purchasers, and during the month of September only, orders for volumes I., II., or III., either or all, will be received at the nominal price of 75 cents per volume for the cloth, 95 cents per volume for the half Russia, gilt top. As a portion of the Library of Universal Knowledge, the Chambers's Encyclopædia is also published separately, complete in 15 volumes of clear nonpareil type, and sold, bound in cloth, for the nominal price of $7.50, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $15.00. In this style 12 vols. have already been issued, vol. 13 will be ready September 10, and Vols. 14 and 15 a few days thereafter. On this also special terms are given to early purchasers, the price being to those whose orders are received during September $6.75 for the set complete in cloth, $13.50 for the half Russia gilt top. The volumes already issued will be sent at once by express, and the remainder when completed in October. The Revolution is always undertaking new enterprises and accomplishing new victories. Amazing Offers. September. During September in Religion we expect to complete Young's "Analytical Concordance to the Bible," the great "Webster Unabridged" of religious literature, and it is cost [illegible] edition of of Smith's Bible Dictionary. In Biography, two volumes added to our Acme Library of Biography containing 10 works, selected from the famous English Men of Letters series, at little more than one-tenth the cost heretofore. In Poetry we shall soon have the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, translated by Pope, and a large type edition of Shakespeare. In History a cheap edition of the celebrated Froissart's Chronicles, with over 100 illustrations. In Fiction, Scott's "Ivanhoe" and Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii." In Juvenile, "Karl in Queerland," profusely illustrated. The cost of making books diminishes in large degree as their number is multiplied. Prices Down. Many of our books are selling in so much larger quantities than we anticipated that we find it in our power to considerably reduce their prices, and we do it with a great deal of pleasure. Among those so reduced are the histories of Macaulay and Gibbon, Taine, Rollin, Josephus, Modern Classics, Milton, Virgil, Dante, Koran, Bunyan, Crusoe, and several others.

THE BOOK OF BOOKS! THE GREAT BIBLE DICTIONARY,

And Repository of a Million Facts about the Sacred Scriptures.

An eminent Christian philologist calls it "THE CHRISTIAN'S ILLUSTRATED WEBSTER." Grandest Compendium of Biblical information ever prepared. All in one volume. Invaluable to Clergymen of every Denomination; to Collegians of every grade; to Sunday-school Teachers and Scholars to every Christian Man, Woman and Child in the English-Speaking World.

Contains First.—The New and Complete Illustrated DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE, comprising a General Index, in which the various Persons, Places and Subjects mentioned in it are accurately referred to and every difficult word explained. Contains Second.—Brown's famous CONCORDANCE OF THE NEW AND OLD TESTAMENTS. The most perfect and comprehensive book of its class ever issued, and almost the only sacred text book that the Professors of both Oxford and Cambridge, in England, recommend to their students. Contains Third.—PROPER NAMES PRONOUNCED AND DEFINED, included in this is every name of person or place occurring from the first verse of Genesis to the last verse of Revelations. Contains Fourth.—TABLE OF KINDRED AND AFFINITY forbidden to marry together. Contains Fifth.—A Table of the several PASSAGES OF THE OLD TESTAMENT QUOTED BY CHRIST AND HIS APOSTLES. Contains Sixth.—Tables of Scripture MEASURES, WEIGHTS AND COINS. Contains Seventh.—A Chronological Index of the TIME FROM ADAM TO CHRIST. [illegible]

A volume of this paper would not constitute [illegible] of the wonderful, terrible and beautiful scenes which make the Bible the most interesting as well as the best of books. [illegible]

GREAT OFFER.—The price of this large and beautiful 800 page volume has been put at the remarkably low sum of $1.00, including postage to any place in the United States or Canada. This makes it the cheapest volume ever offered to Christian readers. ALMOST GIVEN AWAY.—In order to introduce this great work as quickly as possible, we will send it, post-paid to any Clergyman or Sunday-school Teacher, or to any person who will act as agent, at the reduced price of $1.66. To all others the price is $2.00. Address WORLD MANUFACTURING CO., 122 Nassau Street, New York City.

MAKE HENS LAY.

An English Veterinary Surgeon and Chemist, now traveling in this country, says that most of the Horse and Cattle Powders sold here are worthless trash. He says that Sheridan's Condition Powders are absolutely pure and immensely valuable. Nothing on earth will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powders. Dose: one teaspoonful to one pint food. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.

NEW CHURCH RECORD.

We can now sell the "Record" at a price much less than we have ever been able to do. It is a large quarto, containing about 180 pages, divided into seven sections, namely:

Record of Pastors.
Record of Classes.
Record of Official Members.
Alphabetical Record of Full Members.
Record of Probationers.
Record of Baptisms.
Record of Marriages.

We are confident that this record will meet the demand long felt, namely, a cheap book, suitable for a majority of our churches. Price, $2.50.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

E. Foster, China Grove: "My quarterly meeting was held July 10, but the elder was not with us; 12 joined the church."

TENNESSEE.

Alex Burdett, Clifton: "We had a good time on Eagle Creek. At Walnut Grove three professed hope in the Lord; one convert."

TEXAS.

R. Roberts, Clarksville: "We commenced a protracted meeting July 20th, and continued until August 6th. The altar was filled with seekers of religion; four were converted and thirty-four joined the church. The church was much revived and a general state of good feeling exists. Rev. T. Moore, of Paris, was with me three days. Our third quarterly meeting commenced at Free Hope, Aug. 7. The presiding elder, Rev. W. L. Molloy, was present and preached with power. He continued with us until Thursday night. We had a great number of mourners at every service; nine joined on probation; presiding elder's collection, $8 25. The Clarksville circuit is in a good condition."

T. Moore, Paris: "During the conference of the A. M. E. Church recently held here, many unkind things were said of our Church. Our people were urged to withdraw from a church ruled by white elders, and which did not admit colored elders to the cabinet. This influence led to only one member leaving us. The church is doing well here and is making rapid preparations to take care of the district conference."

E. Jefferson, Huntsville circuit: "I have four points. At Galilee we have a good church and parsonage; the parsonage was built since second quarterly conference. The membership is small, we reported to the elder 16 conversions, 20 on probation. Our third quarterly conference was held Aug. 7. Elder W. B. Pullam was with us and administered the Lord's supper to 130 members. We have no property at any of the three other points, but hold in part with other denominations. We are doing all we can to get land of our own."

Edward Lee, Hempstead: "Our church has been weatherboarded and extended in length, with doors and four additional windows; bell raised in a tower, and a fine organ bought and paid for."

PREVENT Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

A CHEMICAL MARVEL.

Though a thousand leagues away

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my father. He was sold from me in Dallas county, Alabama, when I was a baby. He belonged to A. J. Thompson and his name was Isom. I am his youngest son. Mother was named Harriet, and oldest sister Martha, then Emma, Leigh and Jame. Address me at Midway, Texas.
OSCAR RANDOLPH.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for one Robert Brown. The last I heard of him he was on Davis Bonno's plantation, 12 miles below Baton Rouge, or near Plaquemine. Iberville parish, La. He wrote two letters to me at Allen, but I was in New Orleans at the time. His grandmother and mother are very much troubled about him. He is a mulatto, about 20 years old and 6 feet 6 inches high. My address is Allen, La. D. J. PRICE

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire brother Anthony. He belonged to Elias Hodges, of Barber county, Alabama. He was with a lawyer named Seals, in Clayton, Barber county, Alabama, the last time I saw him—about 20 years ago. I do not know what name he goes by now. His mother's name was Jennie; she belonged to Green Neeley. I belonged to Elias Hodges and was called Little Berry, as there were two Berrys on the place. Sister was sold to Jno. D. Johnson as well as I remember; she also belonged to Green Neeley, and was sold with her husband, Phillip Johnson—her name was Martilda. I will pay for any information that can be given of my brother or sister. My address is Millican, Texas.
BERRY NEWTON.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for old friends, Emanuel Prial, his wife Emily Prial, and Gracy Green. They left here for Kansas last January. The last time I heard of them they were near Vicksburg, Mississippi. Also for my two sons, who belonged to Scott Jno. Wilson of South Carolina, near Anderson court house. Their names were Emerson and Mark Wilson. My daughter was named Louisa Wilson. Mother's name was Caroline Wilson. She and I were sold to Tyler Harrison, and when I was sold again my name was Elie Harrison. We were then sold to Jim Snerr, but name is now Elie Hnes. Address me at St. Martinsville, La., in care of Rev. Allen Luster.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for two brothers and one sister—James Almnight, Henry Davidson and Mary Knight. Brothers left me at Batesville in 1865. James went to Helena and then to New Orleans. The last I heard of him he was living at the latter place in 1870. Henry went to Ohio about the close of the war. The last I heard of him was in 1873, when he was in Ohio. I left my sister in Fairfield, Tenn., and the last I heard of her she was living with Mr. Armstrong at that place. She belonged to Will Knight, in Bedford Co., Tenn. When I was in Tennessee I belonged to Henry Davidson, was carried to Texas by Mack Norton and brought back by Matt Norton. My name was Sarah Davidson, but after the war I went by the name of Sarah Vance—my father's name. Address me at Batesville, Ark., in care of Rev. W. H. Higgins.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully,
JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.
Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly,
R. CAULKINS, M. D.
Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporal relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others.

A NAME IN THE SAND.

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed
One lingering look behind I cast;
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so methought, 'twill shortly be
With every mark on earth from me
A wave of dark oblivion's sea,
Will sweep across the place,
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time, and been to be no more—
Of me—my day—the name I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet with Him who counts the sands,
And holds the waters in his hands,
I know a lasting record stands,
Inscribed against my name,
Of all this mortal part has wrought;
Of all this thinking soul has thought;
And from these fleeting moments caught,
For glory or for shame.

Notes from Denison.

BY A. W. DECKER.

MR EDITOR—Having never written you a letter for publication and knowing that your columns are ever open to the friends of our enterprise in the Southwest, and the deep interest you have personally in our church work, I now take the liberty to pen you a few lines from this part of the sunny South for insertion, in your valuable paper. I will soon have closed my fourth conference year, and in the midst of difficulties, surrounded by obstacles, and having questions put to you of the most perplexing kind, we look back over the time spent in this field with a great deal of pleasure, feeling that God has stood by us and we are marching out from under the heat and battle of four years—through God claiming the victory.

I entered the field as a minister of the gospel, supposing that meant to preach the word to every creature; but I find some, even among the ministry, who interpret the Scriptures very differently from myself, as I never knew that "creature" meant simply one race or nationality. This very question is a hinderance to the progress of the M. E. Church, and just so long as the Church will quibble and cater to principles, not religious, because of the prejudices of men who are always talking about caste and color, her progress in this country will be slow. If it be our mission to preach the gospel of the Son of God, let us preach it regardless of what men say; as to them we are not responsible. If this free gospel is the power of God unto salvation, then it is our business as the servants of the Most High to proclaim it as such. If it be the power of God, then there is no power on earth that can check its speed; it will climb the mountains, descend into the valleys, cross the plains and rivers of the sunny South, bullets can't hurt it; devils fear and fly; hell trembles at its approach; no opposing elements can be brought to bear to hurt it—but friends can hurt it. May God grant that as a Church we may be a unit in endeavoring to preach the gospel to every creature. The greatest hinderance in my way preaching the gospel is what is called the "color line." I meet it wherever I go, some of the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN will recall [illegible] the very, very sad and [illegible] words and actions of the [illegible] Book Conference, held in [illegible] Little Rock, in the [illegible] how colored ser- [illegible] at the hands [illegible] and how other [illegible] who [illegible] of [illegible] the bounds of the Austin Con- [illegible] which, I believe, is strictly but God ruled otherwise, and other men were admitted some heroes who were anti-color, and the more I read God's word, the clearer conceptions have I of it and the more thoroughly am I convinced that the color line business is not the teaching of the inspired book. I may be alone in this my belief, but to be with my Savior who commanded me to preach the gospel to every creature is as good company as can be found on earth.

During my ministry in the "City of Roses" I endeavored to treat all men alike, knowing no man after the flesh, but soon learned that I was to make a distinction, even to refrain from associating with him who was in authority over me, and one, too, of the most devoted men I ever met, but because the Bishops made him presiding elder, and gave him the State of Arkansas almost as his district, embraced greater part of the State, and because he worked with that zeal which characterizes but few men's labor, and was successful in soon building an annual conference from the stump and from the fact that (God had made a great mistake in creating the people to whom he was sent black) his brethren under him whom God created white were to shun him as though he were Satan. If this class of persons be Christians, then I will confess that their walk is not worthy to be followed, as "the world loveth its own." "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," is the command; and yet it is very hard to get a certain class of professors to believe that "creature" means the black race. I hope such may become enlightened and with willing minds and hands devote their energies to the work of elevating that society of which many were instrumental in degrading.

I was transferred from Little Rock, Ark., to this city, and entered upon my duties as pastor of this charge last February. I found a good people in this place, and have no reasons to change my mind. Denison is a thriving town with a population of four thousand four hundred souls, situated in the midst of a great fruit section of the "Lone Star State," and is one of the first railroad centers in Texas, having four roads leading out in every direction; and in the centre of this busy town, beautifully located, stands the M. E. Church with her two spires towering heavenward, preaching sermons to every passer by, condemnation to sinners and joy to the children of God. Our church at this place is excelled by none in the way of edifice and membership. Our congregations are large, filling the house, and our Sunday-school presents almost an army of faces. The pastor of this flock did that about what the Scriptures speak of the young man He married a wife last May, which necessitated the building of a parsonage about the first of July, and with the help of the good people we are now completing a preachers' home that, when finished, will be a property worth one thousand dollars. The home will be open for the reception of friends next Tuesday evening, and the elder and wife, whom we have learned to love, are cordially invited to be present, but if not convenient we hope to greet your friendly faces soon.

In connection with my work I have organized an M. E. Church (colored), having now about thirty-five members, which I hope to turn over to my good presiding elder when he comes to hold my quarterly meeting. I was called upon by my colored brethren twice to organize them into a society. I refused them at first, and recommended them to go into the A. M. E. Church, but they answered me by saying that they could not forsake their mother, and the A. M. E. Church could not do for them what the old church could do, and that they had been waiting for reinforcement, which had come in the person of Bro. Watson, a local preacher in the church, and quite an increase in membership, and were now ready. I met them at the place appointed, and a happier people I never saw. I talked to them about the position of our Church, and that is all the colored people need to bring them all into the Church. Wherever I have been among this class of people and placed our Church in the right light before them, it seemed to be just what they were looking for, and a ministry posted concerning the Church will bring them all into the fold. This new church is [illegible] white. What are we to do with them? Where shall they be connected? Has one conference a right to trespass on the rights of another? Here comes again the "color line," which is a perplexing question to a great many, but to me a problem easily solved. Poor, down-trodden race! Ignorant because they are ignorant. No fault of theirs, and yet the class who are responsible for their ignorance will laugh because they are ignorant. Oh, shame! When will the time come for the Church to take a decided and positive stand? Ever? God grant the day soon when men of courage and boldness, filled with the spirit of the Savior, may rise up to defend a race who have been held in chains, and are yet in chains because of the fear which cometh over men.

Mr. Worldly Wiseman.

BY DANIEL WISE.

Bunyan's Pilgrim, after struggling through the slough of Despond, met a gentleman, named Worldly Wiseman, who affected to be very friendly. He pitied him because of the burden he bore, and advised him to get rid of it with all speed, assuring him that he "never could enjoy the benefits of blessings which God had bestowed" upon him until it was gone. This apparent sympathy deceived the Pilgrim and he therefore listened with interest to Mr. Wiseman's censures of Evangelist who had directed Pilgrim to the Wicket Gate.

"Beshrew him for his counsel;" said Wiseman, "there is not a more dangerous and troublesome way in the world than is that unto which he has directed thee. * * * Thou has met with something as I perceive already, for I see the dirt of the slough of Despond is upon thee; but that slough is the beginning of the sorrows that do attend those that go on in that way."

He then drew alarming pictures of terrible things which the Pilgrim might expect to meet. But being in dead earnest, the latter was not frightened; "this burden on my back," he replied, "is more terrible to me than all these things which you have mentioned."

Finding the Pilgrim so determined, Wiseman asked how he came by his burden. On being told it was caused by reading the book—the Bible—Pilgrim had in his hand, he began to cry down the divine volume as unfit for "weak men" to read, because it distracted their minds, and set them seeking to "obtain they know not what."

"I know what I would obtain. It is ease from my heavy burden," retorted the Pilgrim with emphasis.

Upon this Worldly Wiseman changed his tone, professed much friendship, and promised to show him a short and easy way of getting rid of his burden. If he would but go to the village of Morality, he said, a judicious man named Legality who with his son Civility had helped many, he would be sure to get his burden removed. He might then take a house in the village where rents were cheap, send for his family, and live a "happy life."

This seemed so plausible that Pilgrim agreed to visit Mr. Legality. He soon found the village which was built directly beneath a very high overhanging hill. But seeing fire flashing from the hill he paused, "sweat, and quaked for fear," while his burden became vastly heavier than it was before. Happily for him, Evangelist came toward him just then, reproved him sharply but tenderly for having listened to a bad adviser, and then kindly guided him back to the path which led to the Wicket Gate.

The value of Bunyan's book lies partly in the fact that its characters are found everywhere and in every generation. Mr. Worldly Wiseman is found to-day, going about, like his master, seeking whom he may destroy. He may be found wherever sinners are awakened, making sport of the penitent, talking against Christ's ministers, saying bitter things against the Bible, and telling seekers of religion who are weak enough to listen to him, that there is no need of one's being alarmed about sin. All one needs, he says, is to live a moral life and one will find things all right hereafter.

Dangerous man! He is a seducer of souls, and no penitent should listen to him for an instant. Every awakened sinner may be certain that whoever makes light of sin, or speaks evil of the revival minister, or talks against the Bible, or jeers at the doctrine of salvation by faith only, is an enemy to be avoided, not a friend to be listened too. Especially should his counsel to trust to good morals, instead of fleeing to Christ for pardon, be treated as one would treat advice to blow out his own brains; inasmuch as the former would be as fatal to the soul's life as the latter to the life of the body. No human being ever did or ever can stand before God and say, "I have a right to heaven because I am free from sin." But the worst of sinners who believes in Jesus, can stand before the throne and say, "O my Heavenly Father, thou dost save me because all my sins are washed out in the precious blood of thy beloved Son!"

Let penitent sinners beware of Mr. Worldly Wiseman!

Jefferson District—Texas Conference.

BY W. L. MOLLOY.

MR. EDITOR—Our district conference closed Monday, Aug. 30th. All parts of the district were well represented, and the reports of the pastors, local preachers and others gave evidence of improvement in every department of the work. The pastor at Marshall, Bro. Wesley, said his church was in a better condition in both spiritual and temporal things; he had a very fine Sunday-school and growing constantly. There had been quite a revival in his church, a good number had been converted and united with the church. Bro. Moore, of the Marshall circuit, reported revivals, good Sunday-schools, and a general state of good feeling on his work. He had built one church, it would be completed, had another on the way.

Bro. Price, of Woodlawn, reported his work not in as good a condition as he desired, but it was improving at one or two appointments. He said he had to make his support outside of his work; they had not given him anything. Bro. Johns, of Cypress, said his work was in good condition, he had had good revivals, many had united with the church, good Sunday-schools and every appointment on his work was improving.

Bro. Wells, of Jefferson circuit, said his work had been coming up all the year; he could say it was in good condition, the people were doing all they could for him as their pastor. Bro. McKinzie, of Jefferson, said Jefferson was improving slowly, had had but little revival influence, a few had united with the church; had a good Sunday-school. Pittsburg, Mt. Pleasant, and Marion circuits were not represented. Some preachers are always behind. Two of these circuits are among the best appointments in the district, yet the pastors could not come. Who are to blame?

Queen City, Bro. Gill, pastor. He said they had had good meetings, several conversions and a good number had joined the church. One good Sunday-school. Bro Pratt, of Texarkana, reported his work not in good condition, he could not tell why, he had done all he could; his own people would not come to church. Bro. Roberts, of Clarksville, made a fine report. He had had good revivals at every appointment, a number had been converted, and united with the church. Bro. Moore, of the Marshall circuit, reported revivals, good Sunday-schools, and a general state of good feeling on his work. He had built one church, it would be completed, had another on the way.

Who are to blame?

Queen City, Bro. Gill, pastor. He said they had had good meetings, several conversions and a good number had joined the church. One good Sunday-school. Bro Pratt, of Texarkana, reported his work not in good condition, he could not tell why, he had done all he could; his own people would not come to church. Bro. Roberts, of Clarksville, made a fine report. He had had good revivals at every appointment, a number had been converted, and united with the church. He brought a large number of his people with him. They are grand workers. Bro. Woodard, of Blossom Prairie, was on hand full of life, and well pleased with his work. He made a splendid report. There has been extensive revivals in his work, a large number of young men have been converted, and joined the church.

Bro. A. Williams, who was appointed by the Bishop to Bonham, was changed to Sulphur Springs and Bonham. He said he had not had a fair chance, while some good had been done. His work was not in very good condition. He goes now to Texarkana. Bro. Polland, of Brookstone, has done a good work; had revivals and several united with the church. Bro. Smith, of Red River, reported his work in good condition, several had been converted and joined the church.

Lewis Richards, of the Indian Nation, having left his lawful wife was married to another a few weeks ago. He was expelled from the Church. About 250 have joined the Church on probation, and more than 200 have been converted on the district this year. We have five or six churches going up, and would have double that number, but have not received one dollar from the Church Extension Society; have not heard from our application. The president of the conference board has not notified us if they were approved or disapproved. We had the best conference at Paris I have ever attended. God was with us in great power from the commencement. All who attended, and they were many, were struck with the Divine power, it could be heard on every hand. We have never seen any thing like this. It was the common talk on the streets, in stores, and business houses, all agreed they had never witnessed the like in Paris. We had about sixty converts and more than 50 had joined the church up to the close. Some fifty mourners at the altar and meeting still going on. All the preachers caught the fire and said they were going home to scatter it on their works. Bro. Moore, the pastor, has done a noble work, his people love and respect him very highly, has not taken the big head yet. May the Lord keep him from it. We lifted the standard, both of morals and education. We passed no man's character who had a spot, if we could get hold of it. There seemed to be no disposition on the part of the brethren to cover up anything, everything exposed that could be got at.

I said in my last letter that the condition of the district was not good; I said what was true, and I can now say in truth that it is good. God is doing wonderful things for us. We give him the glory. Our people at Paris entertained the conference grandly. They are a noble people. Too much could not be said in praise of a few sisters and brethren we have there. They have stood by the old church for nine years. It mattered not with them who went or came they said we will stay with our mother, and where she is buried we will make our graves. But God has been watching these faithful few, and given them the victory at last. may God bless them, and may they live to bless the Church and world for many years.

Letter from Kansas.

DEAR EDITOR—We have just closed our quarterly conference for Independence charge, consisting of Independence city and circuit embracing seven other appointments. Our presiding elder, W. O. Lynch, was with us. Sunday, August 8th, will long be remembered as the day on which the corner stone of our new church, St. John's, was laid in the city of Independence. Elder Lynch preached the sermon from Psalms 90: 16 17. It was one of his happiest efforts, and he carried his audience along with him until we seemed to be standing with Moses on Pisgah's top. The ceremonies were very impressive indeed, from the fact that it was the first of its kind ever conducted by a colored minister in this city. The gathering was very large; the ceremonies were conducted by the presiding elder, assisted by three white and two colored clergymen. The foundation is of stone; size of house to be erected, 24x40 feet. The membership are very poor, but we have paid our way to date and are endeavoring to continue paying as we go. Last Sunday night we secured by subscription $54 50.

We have commenced a log house on Snow Creek, Indian Territory, and another on Big Creek. When I came on this work there was not a single house of worship belonging to us on it; now we have three in process of erection. In five months we have more than doubled our membership and have laid the foundation for three chapels. Our charge has not only increased in numbers, but has grown in grace. We have a temperance church or churches. Kansas is emphatically a temperance State and a Methodist State. It is one of the best, if not the best, States of the American Union for the colored man. The only bar to his advancement is himself. Here he can, if he wills it, be a man in its broadest sense. Every department is open to him. Like the constitution of our beloved Methodist Episcopal Church, no distinction based on color is made. This is the home of the John Brown whose daring bravery shook the prison walls of slavery from center to circumference. It was here on the sacred soil of Kansas—soil consecrated by the blood of her best men—that slavery received its first check in its westward march. Here on this soil the slave-holder was made to know that God and liberty had decreed the downfall of his iniquitous system.

I have simply introduced myself. I shall visit you again and hope to be more interesting. Success attend you. W. B. AVERY.

Action of the Executive Committee of the Freedmen's Aid Society.

The corresponding secretary, Dr Rust, submitted the following paper to the executive committee, which was unanimously adopted:

It will be seen, by the action of the General Conference, in the preceding reports No. I and II: 1 That the present organization of the Freedmen's Aid Society is to remain unchanged; 2 That the society must faithfully prosecute its work among the freedmen; 3. It must aid the schools for whites in the South all it can without embarrassment to its work among the freedmen; 4. "Our pastors, in presenting the claims of the society, should remind our people that a portion of the appropriations of the society will be made for the education of the white population connected with our Church in the Southern States, but not to the embarrassment of the work among the people of color;" 5. In view of the importance and extent of this twofold work, the General Conference declares that the contributions of this society should be largely increased.

The managers of the Freedmen's Aid Society have carefully examined the action of the General Conference in regard to the interests of the work under their supervision, and they are endeavoring to carry out its instructions to the best of their ability. At the beginning of the quadrennium the board of management finds itself embarrassed with a heavy debt, resulting from the erection of Chrisman Hall, the Meharry Medical College, and Wiley University. It is also intrusted with the prosecution of an important enterprise requiring a large annual expenditure of money, circumstances by no means encouraging, either for the enlargement of our work among the freedmen, or the inauguration of a new one among the whites.

But it is thought that, by a judicious enlargement of our work among the whites in the South, we may reach a large class of our people who have never been interested in this movement, and who have never contributed to its wants, so that, instead of diminishing, we may hope to increase our funds for the elevation of the freedmen as well as for the education of the neglected white people of the South. In the accomplishment of this purpose donors may name the object to which they desire their benefactions to be applied, and all funds concerning which donors do not give specific directions shall be appropriated by the society in accordance with the instructions of the General Conference. Having made a vigorous effort to increase the contributions to this cause, such portion of it should be devoted to the white work as can be done without embarrassment to the colored.

General Conference has entrusted this distribution to the officers of this society, and the contributors to the enterprise should not hesitate to do the same, with the assurance that the disbursement of these funds will be made in accordance with the wish of the donors and the authorities of the Church.

We appeal to the friends of humanity and Christian education for increased contributions in behalf of millions of freedmen in ignorance and degradation, and in the interest of millions of poor and neglected whites, that their pulpits may be supplied with well-instructed and consistent ministers, and their schools with good and intelligent teachers, that fraternity and love may be increased among our membership in that section of our land, that our white work may prove a tower of strength in our enlarged movements, that this poor and degraded people may be elevated and the nation saved. To our people we turn with confidence, assuring them that our appropriation to this enlarged sphere of action shall be limited only by their liberality.

American people who build churches in six weeks will be glad to learn that the Cologne Cathedral is finished; the last stone was laid last week. This work has been going on since about 1250, or say six hundred years. Of course, parts of the edifice have been in use nearly all that time, from the year 1322. It is one of the finest religious temples in the world, and of pure gothic architecture. It is worth while to repeat the figures of its dimensions. The cathedral is in the form of a cross, and is 511 feet in length and 231 feet in breadth. The towers are about 500 feet high. The heaviest of the six bells belonging to the cathedral weighs eleven tons.

Social Ostracism.

The New England newspapers are gradually working up to the true significance of the solid South. The Providence (R. I.) Journal has the following to say in regard to a recent South Carolina incident: "In Aiken, S. C., which is a health resort, there is a small gathering of Northern Republicans, who have gone into business and settled there. Recently they organized a Garfield and Arthur club, and issued an address in which they declared they had no purpose of taking part in local or State politics, but simply desired to express their belief in and give support to the national principles of the Republican party. For this they have been assailed in the severest terms. They are called radicals and carpet-baggers and denied the name of Republicans, accused of sinister designs, and finally pointed out by name and devoted to social ostracism in thinly disguised protestations that such hitherto respectable gentlemen should have set themselves against Southern sentiment; and the Aiken Journal and Review characterizes their conduct in thus giving expression to their opinions in national politics as 'unblushing and downright impudence.' According to the South Carolina code, it is 'impudence' to have an opinion or express it contrary to the wishes of the majority."

The Outlook.

Garfield will have, counting New York, Indiana and Connecticut among the Republican States, 222 electoral votes. Let him lose Indiana and Connecticut and he will still have 201. Take away Maine from the list thus depleted, and he will have 194. In addition to these he may lose Oregon and California and still have 185—enough to elect. If he lose New York and carry the other States named, Garfield will have 187 electoral votes. If he lose New York, Connecticut and Florida and carry Virginia, he will have 186 votes. Or he may lose New York, Connecticut and Indiana, and carry Virginia, Florida and New Jersey, have still 190 votes. The Democrats can only succeed by carrying all the Southern States and New York, New Jersey and Oregon or Connecticut. Losing New York, they must carry all the Southern States, New Jersey, Indiana, Connecticut, Maine and all the Pacific States of California, Oregon and Nevada to have 187 votes. The prospect is certainly not discouraging to the Republicans.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Liberality.

Our cousins of the North keep on giving. Turn up your nose as you please, at the name of Yankees, when the question of liberality presents itself. You had better turn it down again. The papers say: "George J. Seney, an eminent Methodist layman in New York, has given $50,000 to the Wesleyan University at Middletown."

There must be religion at the bottom of such liberality. Have we no rich Methodists in the South? If we have, has the Lord never bestowed upon them the grace of liberality?—Holston Methodist.

The sentinel picketed to watch the enemy does his duty by giving the alarm if the enemy approaches—not by advancing single-handed to the conflict. So the duty of a Christian, watchfully discerning the approach of temptation, is to convey the case to God; it is foolhardiness to adventure into the combat unsent and unprovided for.—Budington.

Do you wish to live without a trial? Then you wish to die but half a man—at the best but half a man. Without trial you cannot guess at your own strength. Men do not learn to swim on a table. They must go into deep water and buffet the surges.

DISCOLORATIONS & SPOTS IN ORIGINAL

THE SOUTHWESTERN.

JOSEPH C. HARTZELL, D. D., Editor.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1880

The General Missionary Committee will meet Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 2:30 o'clock, p. m., at Mission Rooms, 805 Broadway.

We do not receive the Western Methodist, of Little Rock, Ark., and the Texas Christian Advocate, of Galveston. We trust that it is a mere oversight of the publishers.

The scarcity of labor is giving planters some uneasiness. Mr. Charles Nathan expects to import 500 Portugese and Spanish laborers to work on Louisiana plantations.

Two missionaries are wanted in the South India Conference. Rev. W. J. Gladwin says the people will pay the passage of two men, to reach Bombay by the middle of November next. Who will respond to the appeal?

The City Item, pioneer of our evening dailies, enlarged and improved, gives evidence of public appreciation, and the enterprise of its conductors. Col. M. F. Bigney, a veteran journalist, carefully directs the editorial department.

The News, published at Clarendon, Texas, will hereafter be issued semi-monthly. It is the representative of a Christian settlement in the panhandle which appears to be on the road to prosperity. E. E. and L. H. Carhart are the editors and publishers.

The Churchman says that it is feared that the altar costing $8,000, given as a memorial to St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rochester, has been lost at sea. It is a singular fortune if it be so, as the one whom it was given to commemorate, Mr. Mumford, died at sea.

Educate your children. Do not delay this urgent duty. The schools established by the church should be filled with eager students. There is a growing demand all over the Southern work for an educated ministry and a more intelligent leadership in civil affairs.

It will not do to be beaten now. We should never be beaten until every man who counts or represents those who count in the enumeration, to give representation in the electoral college, can cast his vote just as he pleases, and can have it counted just as he cast it.—U. S. Grant.

The speeches of President Hayes on the subject of national education are most statesmanlike in their character. The nation, in self defense will sooner or later be compelled to discharge certain duties which the States leave undone. The great amount of ignorance incorporated in the body politic is a menace to the general welfare.

The Southern Live Stock Journal of Starkville, Miss., met with a great misfortune in the total destruction of its office by fire recently. The proprietors procured a new outfit, and the Journal reappears in neat and business like quarto form. It deserves patronage because of its merits as a farmers' guide, and the energy of its publishers. Terms, $2 per year.

All truly consecrated men learn, little by little, that what they are consecrated to is not joy or sorrow, but a Divine idea and a profound obedience, which can find their full outward expression, not in joy and not in sorrow, but in the mysterious and inseparable mingling of the two.—Philip Brooks.

The Wesleyan Christian Advocate (Church South) thinks the charge of fraud in Southern census returns shows little respect for the administration of President Hayes, who appointed the supervisors who did the counting. The Advocate conveniently forgets that a Democratic Senate rejected the nominations of President Hayes for census supervisors, and confirmed men of their own choice whom the President was thus compelled to appoint. Its point is not well taken.

Holiness.

Has your attention ever been called to note the fact how many lips there are that never pronounce this word? And even among professors of Christianity, how seldom do you hear it uttered by them!

The word to all intents and purposes appeals to a finer instinct in the human soul, forbidding this word to be used with irreverence or flippancy of speech.

The fact is, it would greatly embarrass some men and women, to hear this word holiness, deliberately uttered by their own lips in casual discourse. There are some words, and this is one of them, that forbid their desecration by common use, because it carries with it a singular, intense, individuality of character, something separate and sublime in meaning. By implication, as well as application, it suggests something which is foreign to their nature and characters, for there is nothing in their habit of life, thoughts or feeling which answers to it.

The word virtue passes current on men's lips, but must not be confounded with the word holiness, for they are distinct in meaning and origin. Virtue is based upon conscience, holiness springs from consecrated faith, and hence they are supplied from two different fountains. Virtue depends upon an educated self-will as the classical origin of the word clearly indicates, and expresses a special characteristic of the Roman mind, synonymous with valor or fidelity based on personal courage; and is so used by the great apostle to the Gentiles. Holiness, however, implies a subjection of self-will and the presence of higher qualities; such as love, consecration, and a sanctification of all the powers of the soul.

A virtuous people may possess all the outward forms of morality and godliness; but a holy people possess all the inward power of the Holy Spirit. Christ is throned as king in their hearts and the power of sin is dethroned and cast out, and they move on a higher and happier plain of life.

Our ordinary congregations embrace three times as many virtuous hearts as holy ones, and hence the word holiness does not dwell with care on their tongues.

Ingratitude.

If there is any one thing that meets with the universal outcry and condemnation of mankind it is the unnatural vice of ingratitude.

For this world of ours is nothing more or less than one great exchange mart, where the intercourse of the world is carried on by giving and receiving, where one good turn is the stated price of another. In short, we may truthfully say that gratitude and faith is the cement that binds together the great human fabric of society.

Gratitude is the main spring which sets the universal machinery of the world agoing; the great balance wheel which keeps up a just equipoise in human affairs.

No wonder, therefore, if the vice of ingratitude is looked upon as a foul blotch, and an exception to the rule that ought to govern dependent human beings; for there is surely nothing in the heavens above us that can find a parallel to so base a principle, as it can only be found in two places in all God's wide universe, hell and the human heart. And were it not for the restraint of Christianity, and the power of the Holy Spirit, this monstrous vice would wreck society as with the throes of a volcano.

Illness of Bishop Simpson.

The Sunday dispatches of the associated press announce that Bishop Simpson, who is temporarily in San Francisco, essayed to preach a sermon at the First Methodist Church, and was seized with a congestive chill, from which he is still suffering, though he is reported to be improving. The church was filled to its utmost capacity. Among those present were President and Mrs. Hayes. Further news will be awaited with great interest. The prayers of the whole Church will be offered for the speedy recovery of one of the most faithful and able of its servants.

Serious Charges.

In a recent issue of the Pontchatoula (La.) Gazette it was said, after reference to bonds issued by the Pope, Kossuth and the Confederate States:

Coming nearer home—Archbishop Perche, with a direct tax of five or ten per cent upon the receipts of every priest in his diocese—which certainly ought to be enough to serve as pocket money for a single man, all his other wants being supplied from other sources—is not satisfied, he will borrow, and he does so to the amount of half a million dollars, and not satisfied with this—he, too, issues [illegible] bonds, which turn out to be no [illegible] than the Pope's, Kossuth's, [illegible] Confederate States' and [illegible] beg or borrow no more, he puts on his wishing cap, wishes himself away over in France, and sure enough there he is—and his dupes are left lamenting.

In the issue of Sept. 8, the Gazette again said:

In looking over last Sunday's Morning Star, we cannot find the least vindication of the leaders of his Church, from the charge of deception and cruelty we brought against them—in borrowing money, without the will or ability to repay it—thereby entailing misery on thousands; he lets the whole case go by default, on the plea we suppose that a bad defense is worse than no defense at all; as we only stated well known facts.

"Brotherhood of the Sea and Land."

The Sailors Magazine for September contains the following:

Chaplain Pease wrote in August:—

"In all our departments of labor, religious meetings in different languages, temperance meetings, musical entertainments, reading room attendance, meetings on shipboard, Sabbath-school and visitations, God has granted us signal success during the past year, beyond that of any of the previous fifteen years of service with the Society. But I wish to make particular mention of the organization of our sailor church, the 'Brotherhood of the Sea and Land.'

"Located as I am among the grogshops in the heart of the old Franco-Spanish Catholic town, where hardly a Protestant resides, it was deemed impossible and impolitic by the Protestant clergymen to attempt to organize an additional Protestant church. But the Lord supplied a long-felt want, and opened the way through the influence of our precious weekly entertainments for seamen, for the union of brethren and sisters of six or eight different nationalities, and of as many different religious denominations, in a thoroughly evangelical, undenominational, independent church of worthy and capable members, for the special in-gathering of seamen. The Scandinavians and French, who each hold divine service in their language in our Bethel, unite with us, and we have Germans, English, Creoles and Americans. Some have hitherto been numbered as Catholics, and some as Episcopalians, but these and Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists unite in one brotherhood on a broad platform for a common object. We have between thirty and forty to begin with, one-half brethren and one-half sisters, and there are more to follow. The hand of God is evidently in the movement for good. We bespeak the prayers of our Christian friends in behalf of New Orleans, that wicked metropolis of the Southwest."

Not Well Informed.

R. G. Porter, of Verona, Miss., in the New York Advocate, Sept. 2, says:

> The thousand and one stories told on the South and Southern people for political purposes have hindered immigration to this country. A state of profound peace prevails every where in the South. The relations of the two races here are of the most amicable kind. If demagogues and political cormorants, who want the spoils of office, will hold their hands off and quit stirring up race issues, the South will adjust herself to the situation, and move forward to prosperity. The whites, native to this country, have no disposition to vex and oppress the freedmen among us, and the freedmen, when not stirred up by bad white men, are as inoffensive as any race of people in the world.

Either Mr. Porter is not well informed or he simply repeats the general denial, the characteristic Southern method of shielding her law breakers from a just public opinion.

Hon. John Lynch, the peer of any public man in Mississippi, a popular leader of his people, and a candidate for Congress, is canvassing his district, according to universal custom. Says the Mayersville Spectator, edited by a white native:

> We understand that black rascal, John Lynch, will be in our midst next week for the purpose of organizing his party, and appealing to the passions of our colored people in his behalf. We trust that Lynch will think better of such a course—have more respect for the feelings of the wealth and intelligence of the country, if he has none for himself. Our citizens are now at peace with each other, and to seek to disturb the present peaceable relations would work hardship on our colored citizens.

Evidence is abundant that peace in Mississippi is a delusion, and bad white men are encouraged.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—Bishop Wiley has recently visited our missions in Utah and Montana.

—Bishop Pierce is said to be writing the life of his father, the Rev. Lovick Pierce.

—N. Sidney, of the Colored M. E. Church, at Yazoo City, reports a prosperous revival at that place.

—Rev. Geo. B. Lynch has changed his post office address from Edgard P. O., La., to Palestine, Texas.

—Rev. Dr. G. R. Bristor, it is now reported will return to his work in New Orleans in October, and that Rev. W. C. Webb, who was named as his successor will not go.—Christian Standard.

—In the post office of Huntsville, Texas, their remains some tracts and other papers for Revs. W. F. Smith, C. Samuel, Jerry McDaniel. They are requested to give their post office, that the mail may be forwarded to them, or call and take it from the office.

—Ex-Postmaster-general Key goes out of his place in the Cabinet with the personal respect and good-will of all parties. Tennessee will welcome him back to his home cordially, and expects him to make an upright and able magistrate.—Nashville Advocate.

—Prof. I. N. Failor called Monday morning. He has just returned from a vacation North, and is eager to enter upon his duties as President of New Orleans University. That institution, it is announced, will open on the 20th, and it is hoped the repairs now being made will be completed by that date thereby causing no delay.

—In a private letter to the editor, L. P. Cushman, presiding elder of the Houston, Texas, district, says: "On my third round over the district I rode by railroad 772 miles, horseback 315, and walked 173; preached 48 times, attended 12 love feasts, held 18 quarterly conferences, administered the Lord's supper 20 times and baptized 48."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

Peter Kirkland, French Camp: "My work is in a good condition."

John Gaston, Okolona: "Have closed a camp meeting; 36 were converted, and on the whole work, 44. The Lord is with us."

A. J. Thompson, Simpson circuit: "Our protracted meeting has just closed. We have added to the church 46; six converts, 10 reclaimed."

E. Collins, New Hope: "Protracted meeting resulted in 30 conversions, 44 on probation. I think God will build up our church in this part of the country."

P. Jemison, Macon: "Our second quarterly conference was held Aug. 14-15. Presiding elder J. W Dunn in the chair; J. W. Longstreet acting secretary. The Elder preached Sunday. The Lord's supper was administered to about 117. Elder's collection, $18.05. The good Lord was with us."

Alfred Graham, Green Hill: "We had a Sabbath-school union pic-nic July 31. The meeting was opened with singing; prayer by Rev. D. W. Calvert. Exercises consisted of singing and repeating verses from the Bible. A great many scholars were present; the congregation was very large. The following scholars said the highest number of verses, namely: Sabe Edward, 58; Charles Holliday, 58; Eliza Brown, 51; Augustus Williams, 59. Prizes were given them. Mrs. M. J. Calvert, wife of Rev. D. W. Calvert and a teacher in the Sabbath-school at Bethel, read a beautiful essay suitable to the occasion. Mr. Walker Tucker, a student from the Normal School at Holly Springs, takes an active part in our Sabbath-school. We have taken up for the Sabbath-school this year $16. Collection on the day of the pic-nic $6.25. Total number of verses repeated, 525. Our Sabbath-schools are doing very well. Pray for us."

TENNESSEE.

J. Gregg, Springfield: "I have just closed a 10 days protracted meeting at New Bethel Chapel, which resulted in 11 conversions and 7 accessions. Our Sunday-school is in a growing condition. The new church at Springfield is not finished, but the trustees and members are in good spirits, though times are hard here and money is hard to get. The Lord has blessed us and we trust Him."

A. Burdett, Clifton: "Our church is up here so we can preach in it. At Waynesboro we will preach by Sept. 1. The men are at work on the church and are waiting for the money. Dr. Braden sent us $50 from Church Extension Society. Our members and the white people are doing all they can. We hope Dr. Kynett will send us the balance. Some people gave money, timber and nails. The Ladies' Mite Society and my lecture at Clifton raised $23. Protracted meeting there resulted in 15 conversions, 12 additions. We are expecting Elder Butler."

Thomas Belcher, Alexandria circuit, Mount Zion Church, Rev. Eli Provine, pastor: "Our pastor commenced a protracted meeting the second Sunday in August. He preached six able sermons long to be remembered by both colored and white people, for this is a famous place for white people to come to colored people's meetings. On Wednesday our pastor was called home to see his aged mother and see her laid away till the morning of the Resurrection. He left here and went by Alexandria, and sister Provine had closed her school and was waiting for him to come to go on to Lebanon to the funeral. On Thursday he returned to Mt. Zion to take charge of the meeting, but with surprise to himself and friends he was unable for duty. Rev. B. Daniel, one of our local preachers, did a great deal to prosecute the meeting. At this time our pastor lay at Bro. Isaac Tubbs, one of our stewards, under the care of Dr. Martin, a very skillful physician. It is true we did need the aid of our pastor, but the Lord was with us. The church was greatly blessed, backsliders healed, 4 professed religion, and 3 joined the church. Our meeting closed, mourners looking sad, and sinners asking, why did you close the meeting?"

LOUISIANA.

Last Sunday night the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered at Union Chapel church, New Orleans, Rev. A. E. P. Albert pastor, to nearly 200 communicants, Rev. Wm. Davis, of Thibodaux, La., assisting. The church is in very good spirits. Sunday, Sept. 5th, $60 was collected on the debt.

J. H. Rylander, Gross Tete: "I have assisted Bro. Andrew in a protracted meeting that began Aug. 19, and is now in progress. We have had congregations of about 250 persons, 13 conversions and 20 probationers. Members say they have never witnessed such a display of the grace of the Lord."

B. H. Forest, New Orleans: "Simpson's Chapel Sunday-school, Bro. J. Page superintendent, gave a pic-nic on the 6th inst. Many schools were invited, but through the inclemency of the weather we are sorry to say, did not participate with us. A goodly number of teachers and pupils present seemed to enjoy themselves. Fine refreshments were served. Our pastor, Rev. Henry Green, may be proud of us."

TEXAS.

Wade Hamilton, Cooke's Point: "Have closed camp meeting, lasting 12 days, with 30 conversions. Rev. J. Gness, W. W. Brown and S. Hardwell assisted us."

Clarendon News: "Our new church is ever before us and until accomplished we will give ourselves no rest until we find an abiding place for the cause of the Master. Robt. McLalen of California sends five dollars."

W. H. Jackson, San Felipe: "Rev. Louis Lane received four converts at a recent meeting. Collection, $4.10. A protracted meeting going on now. Crops are good, and the brethren expect to meet all their benevolent collections this year."

P. Clark, Floresville: "Our third quarter was held Aug. 9. I expected Bro. T. August, but was disappointed. Had able assistance from locals D. Cole, A. H. Miller, and Bro. J. T. Gibbons. Bro. Gibbons lectured the people on supporting the minister, and took up $4 95. I have a long way to ride, being a cripple, and my horse is hardly able to carry me to my work. The brethren propose to purchase a horse for me. Owing to sickness in Elder Mack Henson's family, he could not be with me this quarter."

ARKANSAS.

J. G. Thompson, Little Rock: "The Misses of the Wesley Chapel Sabbath-schools from 8 to 16 years of age, got up an apron fair in behalf of the new church enterprise, as an experiment, and they realized $44 60. They will make another effort, to come off in October."

In Japan we have at least fifteen missionaries—natives—and over 600 members and probationers, with a number of young men—converts—studying with a view to the ministry of the word among their own people.

In coining $20,000,000 in silver and $22,000,000 in gold at the San Francisco mint in 1878, there was lost only $29. The carpet, which had been down five years, was taken up last spring, cut into small pieces, and burned in pans. The debris was put through the same process as mining dust and yielded $2,500.

The increase in the orange crop of Florida within the past six years has been most remarkable. In 1874 the entire crop was represented by 2,500 half-barrel cases. It has risen since then by the following gradations: In 1875 the crop was 10,000 half-barrel cases; 1876, 15,000; 1877, 31,000; 1878, 75,000; 1879, 200,000.

The railroad between Vera Cruz and the City of Mexico is said to be a marvel of engineering. It ascends 7000 feet, 4700 in 25 miles. It passes from hot to temperate, and from the latter to the cold country. It spans ravines, scales precipices, and plunges through the bowels of mountains below; then up into the clouds again. To construct this line took thirty-six years, forty Presidents and one Emperor.

The South Carolina census, we can tell Gen. F. A. Walker, will have to be taken again. The increase is really incredible, especially in farming counties, which have maintained a steady population for forty years before 1870, which have no railroads and no immigration. That Kershaw county could have increased 80 per cent. in ten years is beyond belief, or Greenville 60 per cent., or Marlboro 70, and the whole State 40 per cent. We charge that there has been deliberate falsification of the census for political purposes, and we demand that Superintendent Walker test these returns.—N. Y. Independent.

Domestic Missions.

Each presiding elder whose district is within the limits of the Tenth mission district as arranged by the General Conference of 1880, is earnestly requested to prepare a full and careful statement of the condition of his domestic mission work, and of the amounts needed from the Missionary Board in November 1880, and send it to J. Denison, at Holton, Jackson Co., Kansas; or, to the same at 805 Broadway, New York, on or before the 1st of November, prox.

Notes from Houston District.

MR. EDITOR—I know that you dislike long letters, but what shall a poor man do whose heart is so full that he cannot tell you one-tenth of the good news with which the Lord has furnished him. On some parts of the Houston district the Lord has given the preachers and people a wonderful degree of prosperity, and this has made some others a little jealous of the Church where all are brothers.

When Bro. Culbreath was sent to Frost Chapel and Pitsville, he found after diligent search sixty-eight persons who counted themselves members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the bare walls of a church at Frost's Chapel.

It is true that his predecessors had held in their hands for nearly two years $230, of the Lord's and people's money, put there for the special purpose of erecting a church, and it is just as true that when he left he took along with him over $130 of that money and it is laid away in his napkin still. Bro. Culbreath found the people discouraged and almost demoralized, with little or no confidence in Christian ministers. They felt that they had been swindled outrageously. But he went to work, put a roof upon and seated the church, and called the people together. The Lord blessed the sower and the seed; sinners soon began to feel the force and power of God's truth, and tremblingly asked: "What shall I do to be saved." The preacher had repeated, he believed on the Lord Jesus, he had been saved and was now prepared to tell the inquiring and trembling souls what to do. Nor did he speak in vain; a large number around Frost's Chapel have been converted to God and added to his church. At Pittsville he found a few old people who counted themselves as members of the "Old John Wesley Church." They welcomed him as their pastor. To them and the few sinners who came out to hear, he preached Christ's gospel, and God wonderfully blessed the Word, and here, as well as at Frost's Chapel, men and women have been converted to God. Nor is this all; a good site has been secured and paid for, and soon our people will have a church of their own. At both points of this work over one hundred have been received on probation. This is the Lord's doings, and is marvelous in our eyes.

In December, 1879, Bishop Haven stationed Rev. V. M. Cole at the Tabernacle Methodist Episcopal Church, Galveston. Very soon after conference Bro. Cole went to his appointment. He spent about a month visiting from house to house. He found, he says, eighteen persons who counted themselves members of the Tabernacle Church and congregation, and a Sabbath school of about twenty-five members. The church was sadly out of repair, and upon examination he found a debt of nearly $1400, hanging over it. The outlook was anything but inspiring. For nearly two months he was laboring with little or no success. Along in March the tide began to come in; the trial of faith seemed to be over, and the triumph almost complete. Since that time they have paid out over $600 on repairs, about 200 of the debts, and a congregation averaging from three to eight hundred has been gathered; a Sunday school numbering one hundred and eighty, and three hundred and fifty added to the church. This is indeed a wonderful work. It is taking hold of the work of the world's conversion. It is crowning Christ Lord of all. These are some of the things that make my heart glad.

Letter from Alexandria.

The announcement that Dr. Hartzell would visit this district was received with delight by our people, all being anxious to see the editor of the church paper. On Friday, the 20th inst., he reached this place, fatigued with the ride he was compelled to take on stages and in buggies from Vermillionville—a distance of 115 miles. After a little respite, the next day (Saturday, the 21st) quarterly conference was held, at which the Doctor formed the acquaintance of a number of local brethren whom he had never seen before. This over, a visit was made to the U. S. cemetery, in the suburbs of Pineville, just opposite Alexandria on Red River, where he saw 1300 and more marble slabs that mark the spot where an equal number of our gallant "boys in blue" now sleep beneath the verdant sod of that beautiful site.

Sunday, with its important religious services, was nearly upon us. The day dawned, and a more beautiful one we have seldom seen. It was a memorable Sabbath to the people here. At 11 a. m., from the words of the blessed Master, "By their fruits ye shall know them," the Doctor addressed the Sabbath-school, and sowed some seeds that have already germinated and show signs of precious fruit. The sermon at 3 p. m., in Pineville, from our Lord's invitation to a sin-burdened humanity to come to Him for rest, was very instructive and left its impress on the audience. But the evening service at 7:30 p. m., which included a discourse on the power of the Gospel as set forth by the apostle Paul in his letter to the Thessalonians, endeared the Doctor to all who heard him. He left Monday morning, followed by our prayers to the great Head of the Church that his life and health may be preserved to continue the work in which he is now engaged.

Letter from Luling.

LULING, Texas, Aug. 25, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—Our third quarterly conference of Luling circuit was held at Union Hill Chapel on the 21st inst., G. W. Richardson presiding. The conference was graced with the presence of the elder's son, who is principal of the Conference School at Austin. They called a teachers' meeting of the Sabbath-school at night, which was largely attended. Much valuable information was gained in regard to conducting and teaching Sabbath-schools. On Sunday morning we had Sabbath-school, consisting of very near a hundred children and adults, and much interest was manifested. After Sunday-school, with a short intermission, came a love feast and class meeting, when one after another spoke without cessation. In this the manifestation of Christian love was shown in a remarkable degree. At the close of this service over $9 was collected for the elder. We then had recess till 3 o'clock. Sister Richardson then held Bible class, which was as much or more interesting than anything we officiated in. The cause taken up was the temperance one, and in condemnation of intoxicating drinks. Should sister Richardson visit here often I think the inebriating cup would have but few to handle it among our people. She went back over three thousand years, and traveled down through the ages to the present time, condemning whisky in the most vehement terms. The elder preached at night to a large and enthusiastic audience. He will go from here to the Gonzales district conference. His wife and son, I presume, will return home. I hope the angel of peace will be with them all on their journey.

Letter from Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Aug. 17, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—One Madame Louis, said to be from Hayti, lecturing through this portion of the State, came here a few days ago and was introduced to our pastor by her husband as a member of our church, he being a Wesleyan. She lectured in our church Sunday night to 400 or 500 people, and was introduced by Rev. J. F. Marshall as a sister of our church. Her lecture was good and a collection of $8 was raised for her. She was taken sick, our sisters waited upon her very attentively; when lo and behold, she was taken worse, sent her husband to the Catholic priest, and the Catholic white women lit candles and placed them around her bedside, the priest came and she contessed to him, the beads were used and the sacrament given.

We consider that we have been duped, and the couple should be treated as impostors. Do not let our brethren in the city yield to this device to get the use of their churches. She was in your city in 1873 collecting money to go to Africa, but whether she went I leave some one else to say. We have no objection to one's denomination, but dislike this imposition. They are going to Natchez, Miss.

Yours truly, H. J. WRIGHT,
Steward Murray St. M. E. Church.

An Example of Energy.

MR. EDITOR—No doubt your many readers rejoice to hear of the success of any young man or lady who has had the nerve and courage to undertake a course of study for any profession, in any one of the schools of the Church. And we are equally proud to say through the SOUTHWESTERN that we have had the privilege of meeting repeatedly one of those noble young men, whose example of energy and success should inspire a thousand others to action. We speak of Mr. E. Watts, late a student in Meharry Medical College, at Nashville, Tenn. He is practicing in Forest City, and has the respect of all the white physicians of the place, as well as their co-operation. They meet and treat him not as a "nigger," but as a physician, a gentleman and a scholar. He has made the point so well, and so successfully vindicated and recommended by Rev. Mr. Hays, in a late number of your paper. We say let ten thousand young men leap forward at once and lay hold of the boon of education so easily grasped, and in every case, like this of our young friend Watts, caste and prejudice will give way to common sense. May God bless him and all who fearlessly toil for the goal. He has quite an extended practice, and is very successful.

Walden Seminary opens in Little Rock on the 20th inst. If any young man or lady who reads this desires to obtain an education, please tell them to come and to bring all of their friends, and drink at this fountain and quench their thirst. We hope to be able to give them a thorough course in vocal and instrumental music.

Letter from Shubuta.

SHUBUTA, Miss., Aug. 26, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—Our camp meeting closed on the night of the 23d, the closing sermon being preached by Rev. J. P. Hardon, of the Church South. We had 43 accessions and 25 accessions. The weather, for 11 days, was beautiful. The following ministers were present: A. Peebles, of Quitman; A. R. Sanders, of Paulding; L. P. Ranney, of Shubuta; L. Eohles, of Waynesboro; H. Cawthorn, of Enterprise, and G. Brooks, of Meridian. Several local preachers were of assistance.

The three Sunday-schools of the charge had an anniversary at the camp grounds, which will long be remembered. The schools raised $30—Pleasant Grove $23, Liberty Hill $3 75, Shubuta $2 25. The congregation, same day, raised $20.25. Grand total, $50.25. The anniversary was conducted by Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, principal of our music school, and Miss M. O. Keever, principal of Meridian Academy. We had a large attendance on Sabbath the 15th inst.—no less than 3500 persons being present.

Letter from Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Aug. 21, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inform my friends of my arrival in the free State of Kansas. Through the goodness of God I reached here July 15, well and hearty. My first object was to seek a church where I could bow down in humble submission to God, and give Him heartfelt thanks for His unspeakable goodness and mercy towards me. I found a church presided over by Rev. H. A. Lewin, named Asbury Chapel. I then made it my home and assisted in organizing a Sabbath-school which numbers from 200 to 300 pupils, old and young. My second visit to the school filled my heart with great joy, to hear the sweet songs of praise from the dear little children. The colored people are religiously and financially well. May our Father hasten the day when truth and justice shall prevail in America. Yours in Christ,

A. A. LACY,
Late trustee of Union Chapel, N. O.

DISCOLORATIONS & SPOTS ON ORIGINAL

From Walker (Texas) Circuit.

MR. EDITOR—When I came to my charge I made a report of my work, after a short view of it. Since I have looked over the charge and find it in a bad condition. I have three appointments with a good membership, but we have no property. At one charge the colored people all preach in the same building—Colony church. The first of our preachers is a trustee of land, the building is a union house of Methodists and Baptists—we own one-fourth. At Dodge we are in union with the county. We are said to have a lot, but have no deed for it, and it seems we can not get any. The church lot and school lot were given together by the same man, without deed, and the house was built in union with the public free school of the State. At Pine Grove we own part in a lot with the Baptists. This was the management of our preachers up to the year 1878. The members have been allowed to do as they please a great deal. It is hard to get them to know the Methodist doctrines. On centennial day we raised $2. We were glad to receive Elder Pullam July 24. He was with me also at the close of my six months' term of school and at the examination. Mr. D. Williams has also closed his seven months' term of school, and given a grand entertainment.

Donations.

Rev. John Seay, a supernumerary member of the Tennessee Conference, has recently donated one hundred dollars, conditionally, to the conference for the purpose of promoting the cause of temperance, of which he has long been an earnest advocate. He has also given fifty dollars to furnish one of the dormitories in the new Meharry Medical building of the Central Tennessee College. He is still confined to his bed from the effects of his recent fall.

QUARTERLY REVIEW.—THE TRUE COVENANT.

QUARTERLY GOLDEN TEXT.—"Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will."—Heb. 13: 20, 21.

BY MRS. G. R. ALDEN.

My method will be to recall by aid of the earth-chart which I have used every Sabbath, the special points made in each lesson, keeping constantly before the class the fact of sin, and the evergrowing need of a way of escape from the punishment of sin.

I shall commence by calling from class the names of all persons about whom we have been studying during the quarter, aiding them with initial letters, when necessary, placing the names on the board as they are given me; then ask from individual scholars a fact about each one. Thus calling out the fact of Eve's sin, Adam's sin, God's promise, Cain's sin, Abel's offering, Noah's altar, the repeated promise, Abraham's obedience, Lot's selfishness, Abraham's brotherly kindness, God's promise repeated, Abraham's prayer for Sodom, Lot's escape, and, finally, the great trial which came to obedient and faithful Abraham. This looks like a formidable array of work, but it will be remembered that a review is only a look at work already done; if it was well done, it will be an easy matter to look it over with profit.

Let the main thread which shall run through each lesson be the fact that disobedience, wherever it appeared, worked disastrous results, and obedience, whether in the patriarch Abraham or the child in your class, is always pleasing to God.

Worthless stuff!

[illegible] my friend; if you could see the strong, healthy, [illegible] men, women and children that have been raised from beds of [illegible] suffering and almost [illegible] by the use of Hop Bitters, you would say "Glorious and invaluable remedy." See another column.

MARRIAGES.

[illegible] 1880, at the residence of [illegible] by Rev. G. Brooks [illegible] E. Ramsey, Mr. T. [illegible], Miss., to [illegible], of New [illegible] Adam Moore [illegible] at the [illegible] 1880.

[illegible] Lovelady. Also on the 24th inst. at Meridian, Miss., the rites of matrimony were performed between Mr. James Woods and Miss Elvira Oliver at the bride's residence. Also, on the evening of 23d inst. the rites of matrimony were performed between Mr. Berry Neal and Miss Alice Williams. Rev. P. Jemison officiating.

At the Methodist Episcopal parsonage in Granada, Miss., Aug. 25, 1880, Mr. Ephraim H. McKissack, of Holly Springs, and Miss Mollie A. Exum, of Yazoo City, Miss., were joined together in holy matrimony. Rev. J. M. Shumpert, pastor M. E. Church in Granada performed the ceremony. Mr. McKissack as well as Miss Mollie, his beautiful bride, are both students of Shaw University. They are both favorably known in various counties in this State as acceptable school teachers. Miss Mollie is to graduate next June. May flowers, peace and prosperity attend them through life, is the sincere wish of one of their school mates.

DOCTOR BILLS.—The man whose Blood and Liver is in good condition is all right even in the midst of epidemics. This has been often noticed in the life of every one. If all would only avail themselves of the advantages of restoring and maintaining the health of the body, there would be fewer doctor's bills and much less sorrow. The only thing needful, and the one recommended above all others, is found in Simmons Liver Regulator. The testimonials are counted by the thousands, and its merits are undoubted.

"Having passed through the siege of YELLOW FEVER, in 1874, in Savannah, and not having any physician to attend to my family, I resorted to the Regulator, and found to be a perfect cure and preventive if taken in time. I had two children down with the Fever, used nothing but Simmons Liver Regulator, and am happy to say it cured them. It will cure and keep off Fever if taken in time.

DEATHS.

Sister Luiar Hadon departed this life Aug. 1. She had been a member of the church over two years, and was a faithful worker. She leaves a husband and many friends.

D. MOORE.

Columbus, Miss.

Sister Delphia Warren, a faithful member of the Mt. Vernon Church departed this life in full triumph of faith, Aug. 19, 1880, age about 60 years.

REV. TENOLA EDWARDS, Pastor.

Houston, Texas.

Sister Hester Dunn departed this life on the 4th inst. She was a good and faithful member of the M. E. Church. She leaves a husband and three children to mourn with us. She died in the full triumph of Gospel faith.

P. JEMISON.

On Sept. 8, Sister Charity Taylor departed this life. She was a faithful member of the church for a number of years, and died in the full triumph of faith. Her death is mourned by her children and friends in Asbury Chapel.

W. H. GALLION.

Holly Springs, Sept. 11, 1880.

Sister Judy Finn, the wife of one of our local preachers departed this life Aug. 20. Sister Finn has been a faithful member of the Methodist church for seven or eight years. She died in her good mind. She asked her brethren, sisters and friends to meet her in heaven, and her class leader, Bro. Wm. Wadkins, to meet her in the general class where Christ would preside. Sister Finn leaves a husband and son to mourn her loss.

H. SWANN.

Dallas, Texas.

Sister Peggie Harmann was born in the year 1801, and died the 10th. of May, 1880. She professed religion when young and joined the church. She lived a life worthy for all to follow. She loved the church, but loved her Lord and Maker supreme more than anything else. She lived as she would wish to die, a true Christian, and I doubt not that her immortal spirit is now happy in heaven. Let all follow her example. She was a member of Harmonia Church. She was about 79 years of age, and left many friends both white and colored.

In Yazoo county, Miss., of malarial fever, Peter Donelson in the thirty-first year of his age. My pen, pointed with sorrow, writes under the inspiration of a hand clad in sable mourning. An all-wise Providence has seen fit to take from me a brother. Though not a member of our church he was a member of a benevolent society, and still more, a man of Christian virtues; a man loving and beloved by his fellowmen, an affectionate brother, a true friend, and a devoted and loving father and husband. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his untimely end. Peace to his ashes.

T. J. D.

Mary A., youngest child of Rev. C. A. Tabor and wife, pastor of [illegible] circuit, Jefferson Co., Ark., passed up to join the great company near the throne, July 24. She was 7 years old, had been baptized about six years, was taught to pray and trust in God at her mother's knees and at the family altar, and had been taught with her little brother, in the family circle to sing. On the morning of the day she left us she sat by the side of her little brother and sang "Sweeping through the gates," and in a few hours told her mother she was willing to die and then soon passed away. May we meet her at the river.

A Pastor Made Happy.

I have been greatly troubled with my kidneys and liver for over twenty years, and during that entire time I was never free from pain. My medical bills were enormous, and I visited both the Hot and White Springs, noted for the curative qualities of the water. I am happy to say I am now a well man, and entirely as the result of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Not only this, but my little daughter has been cured of St. Vitus' Dance by Warner's Safe Nervine, which I always keep in my family. With such glorious results, I am only too glad to testify regarding the remedies which have made me so happy.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE AUTHORSHIP OF THE FOURTH GOSPEL: EXTERNAL EVIDENCES. By Ezra Abbott. Boston: Geo. H. Ellis.

A scholarly essay by the Bussey Professor of New Testament Criticism and Interpretation in the Divinity School of Howard University. It reviews at length, and by copious reference to authorities, the attacks made on the genuineness of the Gospel according to John; and cites external evidences in support of its genuineness. To those who would be armed against the assertions of infidelity, the book is heartily recommended.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE, OR ANIMAL AND VEGETABLE BIOLOGY. By Rev. J. H. Wythe, A. M., D. D. New York: Phillips & Hunt. Price, $1.50.

This book, issued by the Book Concern at New York, was written by a prominent member of the California Conference, who has always been fond of the studies included in its pages. He is qualified by actual experiment in examination of the development of vegetable and animal life to write on the subject. The Chautauqua Scientific and Literary Circle adopted it as a text book to be studied by its members. To appreciate it fully it should be preceded by at least a partial course in physiology. The book is having a large sale, and will doubtless do much toward enlarging the views of our young people as to the "science of life."

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—Golden Hours for September tells about Crooked Johnny and his oak.

—The Railway Messenger, published by A. A. Carman, for circulation on the opening of the railroad to Texas, is a very respectable looking sheet. In preparation and typography it ought to satisfy its numerous patrons.

—The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly for September (New York: I. K. Funk & Co) contains three sermons in full on Robert Raikes centennial service, and condensations of sermons by Dean Stanley, Lyman Abbott, M. R. Vincent, T. B. Kettell, B. D. Thomas and others. It is filled with hints, queries and helpful data.

—The September number of The Sunday School Teacher is one that to teachers and superintendents is quite valuable. The Teacher, certainly, all the while is making steps forward. Chicago: Adams, Blackmer & Lyon Publishing Co., 147 and 149 Fifth Avenue.

—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending September 4th and 11th contain: Marie Antoinette, Quarterly; The Place of Socrates in Greek Philosophy, Westminster; A Reindeer Ride through Lapland, Blackwood; Minnets, and "The Ship of Fools," Cornhill; Morocco, Good Words; Annie Keary, Macmillan; Aristotle on Free Will, A Scotch Tutor, and Cannes, Spectator; Early Friendships, Globe; "The Portrait of a Painter by Himself," and "A Trip, and what followed," with the usual amount of poetry. The subscription price ($8) is low. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

—The October number of Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine is particularly attractive; there is such an abundance of good things, literary and artistic, as to fully justify its claim to be the best and cheapest Sunday magazine published. The leading article by A. H. Guernsey, "The Christians in the Turkish Empire," is replete with information; it is followed by others of marked merit, "From Titicaca to Cuzco, a Legendary Journey in Peru." "The Passion Play in Havana," "Catharine of Siena," etc. There are several short stories, sketches and essays by celebrated writers. "To a Canary Bird," has the ring of genuine poetry. Among the especially noteworthy articles in the number are "Felicia Dorothea Hemans," "Petticoat Lane, London, Sunday morning," "Coptic Community in Egypt," "A Portuguese Convent," "Pictures of Swedish Life" There are 128 quarto pages, the illustrations generally exceed 100. Single copies 25 cents each, annual subscription, $3, sent postpaid. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

What is Compound Oxygen?

This new remedy for chronic diseases, which of late has attracted so much attention, will be found advertised in the present number of our paper. The question naturally arises, "What is Compound Oxygen?" Its discoverer claims that it is a new combination of oxygen and nitrogen—the two elements which make up our atmospheric air—in such proportions as to render it richer in the life-giving element, and that it acts in complete harmony with natural laws and forces. If one fifth of the cures which are claimed for it, and which seem to be well authenticated, have really been made, then it is the most wonderful agent for the relief of suffering humanity which the world has seen. A Treatise on Compound Oxygen, containing a history of the discovery of this remedy, a statement of its nature and mode of action, and a record of many remarkable cases, will be sent free to any one who will write for it to Drs. Starkey & Palen, of Philadelphia. See their advertisement.

Dr. Wm. Alex. Green, Macon, Ga., writes,

* * * I cheerfully state that I have tested the virtues and efficiency of Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef in my private practice in cases of general debility, weakness, depressions, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and nervous afflictions, when medicine had proven more than useless. I have found it the best remedy I ever used in chronic alcoholism, when the stomach is always irritable, and food required to nourish and invigorate. I. L. Lyons, druggist, agent, New Orleans.

The New Louisiana Remedy is winning golden opinions from many who have tested its merits in the treatment of coughs, colds, etc. We recently examined some fourteen pages of signatures vouching for its effectiveness. Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. C. C. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Brittain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management. THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention, if Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave: "It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 59°, being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

I dess dere's somefin de matter!
Dere's mice on de pantry shelf!
My dolly looks scared, and I'm tinking
I'm—a—little—bit—scared—myself!

My muvver went off and left me,
And I'd been as dood as tould be;
If she'd only taken me wiv her,
Or taken dat pantry key!

For my sweet toof got to jumping
So hard, dat it wouldn't stop
Till I got the jam: and I'd taken
Just the teeniest, tiniest drop.

When I fought dat I heard somebody
A-coming right in do door,
And the jam slipped out n' my fingers,
And dere it is on the floor!

Dear me, but I'm dreffle sorry!
And oh! what a scolding I'll get!
I want to see my dear muvver!
No, I don't want to see her—just yet.

Oh! how I wish she had taken
Off wiv her that pantry key!
And oh! how I wish dat my dolly
Had been naughty—instead of me!

—Josephine Pollard.

How a Dog was Outwitted by a Parrot.

A lady on Seneca street is the owner of a small frisky dog, and a very talkative parrot. Occasionally Polly gets demoralized, and, instead of behaving herself as a good lady bird should, she gives vent to some terrible shrieks, and endeavors to be as bad as she possibly can. When she takes spells the dog, knowing that a reprimand is needed, goes to the cage and administers several severe rebukes in the shape of a savage little bark. Yesterday afternoon Poll sat upon her perch with all the dignity possible. The dog was taking a nap in an adjoining room. Suddenly, without a moment's notice, Poll let loose two or three unearthly screeches. The dog was awakened of course, and immediately started toward the cage at a full run, barking as he went. After he had scolded, as he thought enough, he adjourned to the other room and snugged himself for another snooze. He had no more than closed his eyes before Poll shrieked again, longer and louder than before. Up jumped the dog, and out he went barking furiously. When he reached the cage, Poll, who had stopped her noise to give the dog a chance, began to bark just as loud as her four-legged associate. Penny choked himself off, and gazed on in holy horror. He stood looking at the cage for several minutes. Finally his tail dropped between his legs, and he turned around and left the spot. Just as he was going out of the room Poll stopped barking, a sort of pleased expression crept down her jagged beak, and as the dog faded from view she yelled after him, "Good bye, Penny," and without further ado resumed her meditations upon her perch.—Utica Observer.

"Brightening all it Can."

The day had been dark and gloomy, when suddenly, toward night, the clouds broke, and the sun's rays streamed through, shedding a flood of golden light upon the whole country.

A sweet voice at the window called out in joyous tones, "Look! oh, look, papa! the sun's brightening all it can."

"Brightening all it can? So it is," answered papa, "and you can be like the sun, if you choose."

"How? papa; tell me how!"

"By looking happy and smiling on us all day, and never letting any tearful rain come into the blue of those eyes; only be happy and good, that is all."

The next day the music of the child's voice filled our ears from sunrise to dark; the little heart seemed full of light and love; and when asked why she was so happy the answer came laughingly, "Why, don't you see, papa, I'm the sun? I'm brightening all I can."

"And filling the house with sunshine and joy," answered papa.

Cannot little children be like the sun every day, 'brightening" all they can? Try it, children.—Selected.

At a recent Sunday-school reunion the superintendent proposed that they form a line, and march to the song, "Hold the Fort." Accordingly the line was formed, with Deacon B. at the head. All went beautifully until they came to the second verse:

See the mighty host advancing
Satan leading on,

... they were all so impressed ... the exceeding ludicrousness of ... thing, that singing, marching, ... and all solemn feelings, ... knocked into "pi" by a gen... of laughter at the expense ... Deacon B.

A String of Nevers.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

D. Moore, Columbus: "Our protracted meeting is going on, and the Lord has blessed our labors; 10 converts received in the church."

W. McDonald, Starkville: "My protracted meeting added 15 souls to the church, and it is revived. Have raised $90 this year on the church debt. Sabbath-school is good, with 90 in attendance."

Letter from Batesville: "Our minister has been with us for about six months, and we believe he is a good workman for Christ. He urges and teaches every important duty leading to Christ. We pray that the blessing of God may continue on him."

C. L. Crump, Goodman: "I have had a hard time of it on this circuit. My wife is not with me. I sent her to school to Holly Springs this year. We are going to buy a house and lot for a parsonage, costing $200. I got 10 probationers in the July meeting."

G. Brooks, Meridian: "There were 83 accessions up to June 14 Camp meeting began July 15, and continued for 11 days. We had 7 conversions and 22 accessions. May 30 Robert Raikes' centennial was observed; took a collection of $10. There is quite an interest in the church. Pray for our success."

TEXAS.

Peter Morgan, Palestine: "My work is prospering well for a young mission."

Mack Hanson, Austin: "Camp meeting commenced at San Antonio and Austin Aug. 11. I have heard from several that have met with signal success in gaining souls for Christ."

D. Mucker, Winchester: "I have just ended a protracted meeting which resulted in the conversion of 18 souls who received baptism and joined the church. I also baptized 9 infants and received on probation 42. I stand at the head of a band of Christian workers. Pray that God in His providence may bless us in this good work."

P. Johnson, Oakland: "Camp meeting commenced July 15. The people being poor has made it hard for us. We had 10 converts. The young people are very earnest. We had 16 well supplied tents. Revs. J. Harrold and S. Morgan, from Hallettsville; N. Axel, from Columbus, and J. Oakman preached for me. Presiding elder G. W. Richardson held our quarterly meeting and it was a good session."

Geo. W. Smith, LaGrange: "We have just closed a protracted meeting, during which the Lord blessed us with a glorious revival. As the result we are very much pleased to report 32 accessions to our church and 19 baptisms. I was assisted in the meeting by the Revs. J. R Carnes, J. Jarmon, P. M. Carmichael and M. Scott. Bro. J. W. Robinson, financial agent and vocalist of the West Texas Conference School, paid us a flying visit and rendered much assistance with his songs of Zion and stirring appeals to sinners to flee from the wrath of God. There were a number of interested mourners at the altar, but I concluded best to close, as the large cotton crop demands the immediate attention of our people. Permit me to express my grateful appreciation to the people of LaGrange for the kind care and great pains taken by them to alleviate the sufferings of my oldest son, who has been confined to his bed for two months with consumption. May God bless them abundantly for their acts of kindness, and the manifest interest in their church and pastor."

LOUISIANA.

Chas. Washington, Mandeville: "Quarterly conference was held at Springfield on the 30th; 25 withdrew by letter this year; 16 members remain; 1 full member received; collection 45 cents for quarter. Mandeville church is improving."

The Doctors Disagree

as to the best methods and remedies, for the cure of constipation and disordered liver and kidneys. But those that have used Kidney-Wort, agree that it is by far the best medicine known. Its action is prompt, thorough and lasting. Don't take pills, and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.

Do little things as if they were great, because of the majesty of the Lord Jesus Christ, who dwells in thee; and do great things as if they were little and easy, because of his omnipotence.—Pascal.

HUNDREDS OF MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN RESCUED from beds of pain, sickness and almost death and made strong and hearty by Parker's Ginger Tonic are the best evidences in the world of its sterling worth. You can find these in every community. Post. See advertisement.

PREVENT Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them ever week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chill and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Of a Far Higher Class than any other proprietary medicine of the day stands

Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,

And for this reason: it is an exact counterpart of one of the most valuable natural medicines in the world. We refer to the great Seltzer Spring of Germany, to which thousands of the dyspeptic, the bilious, the rheumatic, and the victims of venal disease resort annually, and return to their homes convalescent or cured. The Aperient is one of the first and by far the most successful of all the efforts made to reproduce, in a portable form the popular mineral waters of Europe. KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."

NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "it is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."

C. S. HOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.

KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.

One package will make six qts of medicine.

Lost Friends.

[We make no charge for publishing these letters from subscribers. All others will be charged fifty cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.]

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my husband and two children, a boy and girl. Husband's name is James McBride; the girl's name is Georgia, and the boy's Cornelius McBride. I have not seen them for four years, and cannot hear anything of them. Please address me at Millican, Brazos Co., Texas, in care of Mrs. M. E. Marshall.

MARY MCBRIDE.

DEAR EDITOR—Will Southerland, living in Waelder, Texas, wishes to find his brothers Anthony and Samuel, and sisters Betty and Cyntha Southerland. They were born in the family of Tom Southerland, who died and left a widow who is now married. Will Southerland, their father, is dead. Their mother's name is Greecy Southerland. Any information of them can be addressed to Will Southerland, Waelder, Texas, care Rev. Jas. Harrold, or to me at Independence, Kansas, box 94.

WM. B AVERY.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for mother and sisters. Mother's name is Martha Jackson. She was taken away from me by Judge Lomock, our owner, in Virginia, carried to Fredericksburgh, Va., and sold in 1855. The last time she was heard from she was in Columbus, Miss., keeping a millinery store with three daughters, Serena Henrietta and Louisa Jackson. All are now grown. Address me at 259 Peter street, New Orleans, La.

MRS. ALICE REBECCA LEWIS.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire about my relatives. I was born in Virginia, but am unable to name the county; but I remember that it was 12 miles from Daville. My master was James Ferrill and mistress Martha Ferrill. I was sold to Ferrill's brother, William Ferrill, a speculator, and was brought to Mobile at the age of 10 years. To my recollection father's name was Joseph, mother's Milly, brother's Anthony, and sister's Maria. We belonged to James Ferrill except one sister, Julia, and I don't know who she belonged to. My name was Annie Ferrill, but my owner changed it to Caroline Rhodes. Direct your letters to 185 Soraparu street, New Orleans, La.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my brother. He belonged to one Shars (I do not know his first name), of Wytheville, Va. Brother's name is Arthur Zacheriah Tolaver. Mother's name was Millie. She belonged to John Woort at the time brother was sold to Bob Sanders, a negro trader, who took him to New Orleans. Brother worked and bought himself. He was living in New Orleans the last I heard from him—he sent me a small tin box with $100 in it. He was the oldest child and I am the youngest. I was taken away from all my people. Mother is dead. Brother was a member of the M. E. Church. Please address me at Lavernia, Texas.

LETITIA E. RODGERS.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to make some inquiries about my friends. I was born and raised in Warren Co., Ga., by Arthur Muncrief. I have three brothers that were carried to Macon Co., Ala., with myself by Dr. Henry Lockhart. We lived on the Chattahooche river a few years and then I was moved out of the Lockhart family to Henry Co., and lived with Sam Greenwood. I left my three brothers in Barbour Co., Ala. My oldest brother, Anderson Fountain is a Methodist preacher. My next brother is John; he is two years older than I. Charles is two years younger than I. I have not seen them since 1854. The last letter that I had from them they were living near Chunnennuga ridge, Ala. I have written them several times, but have received no answer for five or six years. We were all raised together. Anderson must be an old man for he is eight years older than I. I commenced preaching in 1840. I have a son somewhere in Alabama—Macon or Barbour county. His name is Willis; his mother's name is Jane Parsons. Address me at Ofahoma, Leake Co., Miss.

REV. WILLIS GREENWOOD.

Beautifiers.

Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength, buoyant spirits and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. See another column.

Actions undoubtedly speak louder than words. The wasp cannot speak, but when he says "drop it," in his own inimitable way, neither boy nor man shows any remarkable desire to hold on.

Dr. Harter's FEVER & AGUE SPECIFIC

STANDS TO-DAY WITHOUT A RIVAL IN THE WORLD. For the cure of all kinds of Ague and Chills it has no equal; having stood the test of universal use for thirty years in the most malarial districts. It never fails to cure not merely removing for a time the symptoms, but eradicating the cause of the disease, thereby making a permanent cure. PRICE ONLY 75 CENTS.

Manufactured by The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., No. 213 N. Main Street, St. Louis.

REV. F. HACKEMEIER, Supt. German Protestant Orphans' Home, St. Charles Rock Road, St. Louis Co., writing April 30th, 1877, says: "Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific is a positive cure for Chills and Fever; has never failed with us."

MR. JNO. C. WELBORN of Keysport, Ill., says: "I cured a little girl of Ague of three years' standing, with Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific, after the best physicians failed to benefit her."

DR. YOUNGBLOOD of Little York, Mo., says: "I have used Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific in my practice, and can heartily recommend it to the public."

The Literary Revolution.

In January, 1879, The Literary Revolution was inaugurated by the publication of one small volume. In September, 1880, its list, published and in preparation, comprises over 150 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 500 hands, is actually delivering to purchasers over three tons of books a day, or over 1,000 tons a year, and is so far from able to fill all orders that additional buildings have just been leased, machinery purchased, and other steps necessary taken to double the present product within the next sixty days. To meet the popular demand for the coming twelve months at least 2,000,000 and probably 3,000,000 volumes will be required. The almost wonderful success which the Revolution has achieved is doubtless to be attributed to its leading principles, which are: I. Publish only books of real merit. II. What is worth reading is worth preserving—all books are neatly and strongly bound. III. Work on the basis of the present cost of making books, which is very much less than it was a few years ago. IV. Books have commonly been considered luxuries: in a free republic they ought to be considered necessities, and the masses will buy good books by the million if prices are placed within reach. V. To make $1.00 and a friend is better than to make $5.00 only, and 1000 books sold at a profit of $1.00 each gives a profit of only $1,000, while 1,000,000 books sold at a profit of one cent each gives a profit of $10,000; and it is more pleasure as well as more profit to sell the million. The most important publication thus far undertaken—indeed the most important work ever published in this country—a work that every intelligent person wants in his library, is the Library of Universal Knowledge. It is a verbatim reprint of the last London edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with copious additions by American editors, about 15,000 topics being added to the original work. It will contain, complete, about 10 per cent more than Appleton's and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopædia, though costing but a fraction of the price of either. The publication of a large type edition of the Library of Universal Knowledge is just begun, vol. 1 being issued September 1. Two or more volumes will be issued each month till the whole is completed in 15 vols. octavo of nearly 1,000 pages each. The price of the large type edition in cloth binding is $1.00 per volume; bound in half Russia, gilt top, price $1.50 per volume. According to our usual custom, special reduction in price is made to early purchasers, and during the month of September only orders for volumes I., II., or III., either or all, will be received at the nominal price of 65 cents per volume for the cloth, 95 cents per volume for the half Russia, gilt top. As a portion of the Library of Universal Knowledge, the Chambers's Encyclopædia is also published separately, complete in 15 volumes of clear nonpareil type, and will be ready September 30, cloth, for the nominal price of $7.50, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $15.00. In this style 13 vols. have already been issued, vol. 13 will be ready September 30, and Vols. 14 and 15 a few days thereafter. On this also special terms are given to early purchasers, the price being to those whose orders are received during September $6.75 for the set complete in cloth, $13.50 for the half Russia gilt top. The volumes already issued will be sent at once by express, and the remainder when completed in October. The Revolution is always undertaking new enterprises and accomplishing new victories. During September in Religion we expect to complete Young's "Analytical Concordance to the Bible," the great "Webster Unabridged" of religious literature, and a 50 cent edition of of Smith's Bible Dictionary. In Biography, two volumes added to our Acme Library of Biography containing 10 vols. selected from the famous English Men of Letters series, at little more than one-tenth the cost heretofore. In Poetry we shall soon have the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, translated by Pope, and a large type edition of Shakespeare. In History a cheap edition of the celebrated Froissart's Chronicles, with over 100 illustrations. In Fiction, Scott's "Ivanhoe" and Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii." In Juvenile, "Karl in Queerland," profusely illustrated. The cost of making books diminishes in large degree as their number is multiplied. Many of our books are selling in so much larger quantities than we anticipated that we find it in our power to considerably reduce their prices, and we do it with a great deal of pleasure. Among those so reduced are the histories of Macaulay and Gibbon, Taine, Rollin, Josephus, Modern Classics, Milton, Virgil, Dante, Koran, Bunyan, Crusoe, and several others.

Blancard's PILLS

City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elasticity; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodine of Iron. The Iodine purifies, the Iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists.

HOP BITTERS,

MUSTARD PAPER.

Southwestern Christian Advocate.

VOL. 15—NO. 39. NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1880. WHOLE NUMBER 425.

THE SOUTHWESTERN, [illegible] BOOK CONCERN, [illegible] Orleans, Louisiana. [illegible] & HUNT, Agents. [illegible] D.D., Editor. [illegible] per Year, Cash in Advance. [illegible]

[illegible] land on either side broadens. For some distance, often fifty to a hundred miles, levees are necessary to protect the plantions; but further northward, often for a hundred miles, these streams are navigable and the banks are high enough to prevent overflow. The richness of the soil along these bayous is marvellous. Could the thrift and enterprise of western farmers be transplanted to this region, Louisiana would be in a few years one of the richest States in the Union. Think of it—these acres will often produce a ton of sugar at a single crop, worth from $100 to 150. In the cotton region from one to three bales can be raised to the acre, worth from $50 to $150. One man can tend to ten acres of cane or cotton. We passed through one rice field where the crop is estimated worth $20,000; and the whole expense of working it, was less than $4000. Elbert Gantt, on fifty-eight acres of cane, made $13,000 worth of sugar, and $5600 worth of molasses. Besides this he made 7700 barrels of corn, and eighty-six bales of cotton. He employed twenty-two hands, and cleared over all expenses $18,719. This is a sample. This was when prices were some better than now; but also when labor and implements were dearer.

HOLMESVILLE.

Holmesville is a small village with a few stores. Ours is the only church in the place. The Southern Methodists have a church two miles up the Bayou. Our property consists of an acre of ground in the heart of the place and a good sized church and a poor excuse of a cabin for a parsonage. The pastor, Rev. Horace Wallace is one of our older as well as good men, who has the respect of all the people. His family lives in Alexandria, which is unfortunate. A minister's family should be with him at his appointment. We found the brethren in the midst of repairing the church, at an expense of fully $350. This [illegible] commendable enterprise. At [illegible] a very large audience filled the house and all the standing [illegible] outside and adjacent to doors [illegible] windows. Quite a large representation of the white friends of the village was present. Rev. Mr. [illegible], of the Church South, was [illegible] and took part in the services, also Bros. Hilton and Brooks of our own Church. The quarterly [illegible] after the sermon was quite lengthy, and questions relating to church discipline and temperance reform were discussed. We will not report all that was said and done.

BOONESVILLE.

Twelve miles beyond Holmesville up the same bayou is the [illegible] postoffice, near which [illegible] one of our best country [illegible]. The proprietor on whose [illegible] it is located, Mr. Rhodes, [illegible] two acres of land to our [illegible]. One acre of this is set [illegible] for a cemetery, and the other [illegible] church and parsonage. Until [illegible] an old and poor church [illegible] has been occupied. But [illegible] the pastorate of Rev. A. [illegible] the past year a good [illegible] has been erected. [illegible] a good gallery, [illegible] inside and out. The [illegible] crowded at night. We [illegible] pleased to see the [illegible] people who at[illegible] belong to the [illegible]. The singing was excellent. [illegible] in charge also the [illegible]

The African Methodists.

BY I G. POLLARD.

We have been told repeatedly since our last General Conference that a failure there and then to elect a Bishop of African descent was such a mistake and blunder,—that by the ten thousand our colored membership would go to the A. M. E. Church where they could have representation;—where a colored Bishop who could enter into the sympathies and wants of the colored people and could look after their spiritual and temporal interest as white men could not do. This, and a lot of other stuff too sickening to write, brethren of the A. M. E. Church have been cramming into our souls for consolation in these days of trial. A. W. Springer, from Mississippi, let us have his expressions of sympathy the other day about as follows: "Ah, you missed it! You missed it! Your General Conference missed it at Cincinnati." We of course asked how. "By not electing a colored Bishop." "Well," we said, "we guessed things would work out all right." "Ah, me," said he, "we'll take in your members by the thousands—they won't stand it. The great A. M. E. Church with her nine Bishops and Book Concern, Christian Recorder, etc., are just ready to take in all you have and we will get many of them in Mississippi." Well, we felt somewhat strange, excused ourselves and passed on.

Since that time we have given the matter a little study and now call the attention of the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN to this humbug of a great Church.

The Recorder has repeatedly published, within the last few weeks, the following statistics for the Christian world to accept: 30 annual conferences, 1716 traveling preachers, 387,566 members and probationers, 9,345 Sunday-schools. Let us look at these figures a moment. According to the above they have an average of 12,685 lay members to each annual conference. Now we say this is a false showing on their part. They, for instance, have two conferences in Arkansas. At the last session of their Arkansas Conference the Recording Secretary told me they reported about 2500 members and probationers. They do not claim exceeding 3000 in their south Arkansas Conference, while their Indian Conference west of us, numbers but a few hundred, and these three put together will not, within thousands, reach the average number for one conference according to their general statistics. They have two conferences in Tennessee, and according to the showing of the journal of their strongest conference, as published in the Christian Advocate a few weeks since, numbers less than 8000. Where is the annual conference in their connection that has the 12,685? We venture the assertion that their statistical secretary can not tell us where.

Take the Sunday-schools, 9345; about 300 to the conference, or more than 5 to each preacher. This is simply absurd. Many of their ministers are stationed and have but one Sunday-school, while very few, if any, of their circuit preachers have 8 or 10 appointments, and we all know there is no more than one school, and in hundreds of places not one, at each appointment. Mistake somewhere?

When you touch the money question, then you get close to the fountain of life—so poor Methodist preachers usually feel and think. Well, let us look at the report of their finances for the last 4 years. Contingent money, money to make up deficiencies at the annual conference session, $27,897.39; dollar money, $263,352.56; missionary money, $25,218.06; mite missionary money, $2,296; Sunday-school money, $115,694.40; for education, $6,125.43; a grand total for these purposes of $440,583.91, which leaves out pastors and presiding elders' support, including traveling expenses, and also the amount raised for building and repairing purposes. Now they have one missionary in Hayti; then they distribute a few dollars around to the [illegible] at the annual conference, [illegible] we may account for this more [illegible] $37,000 missionary money. [illegible] because of this more [illegible]. Bishop Payne, [illegible] published in [illegible] 1878, the following [illegible] "In [illegible] elapsed and it was in debt $11,000; but that it had property—office, furniture, etc.—to the amount of $5,000, leaving an outstanding debt of $6,000, and nothing to show for it. Now allow that they pay their Bishops the same salary that we do ours, namely, $3000 each; six Bishops then would draw $72,000 in four years. But even this large amount leaves more than $325,000 still unaccounted for. And still the Recorder, or the Book Agent through the paper, sounds the alarm of danger of bursting up the concern.

Now before they come banging at our doors, and shouting in our ears ruin, let them look at home. Before they thunder to our members white overseers, bondage and oppression, let them straighten out their hundreds of thousands of the poor down-trodden colored man's wasted money. Before they, or some of our own brother preachers, talk any more about a colored bishop because he is a man being able to sympathize with the dear people in their humble homes, let them tell us what becomes of all these thousands. I suppose they needed more bishops, why not? They had a surplus of dollar money. It looks like that these good colored bishops with their ability to have deep sympathy because they were colored, and having it for God's poor of the South, would have dropped down one or two hundred thousand dollars somewhere about where Dr. Springer is going to capture so many thousands from us in Mississippi, and built a neat little college something like the Central Tennessee, Shaw, Wiley or Clark. But no. If you want an education go to the old Church or to Wilberforce and join the blue vein society. All those true to Christ will stay aboard the old ship.

Notes from Granada.

DEAR EDITOR—The third quarterly conference for Granada was held on the 11th and 12th inst. Rev. J. G. Johnson was at his post of duty and expressed himself most highly pleased with the reports, which showed that 15 had been converted and 12 received into full membership. Sisters Phillis Keglar and Sallie Harvey had died in great peace during the quarter. Both had been suffering for several months, but they fully realized the blessed words of the apostle: "For our light of affliction which is but a moment worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Our Sabbath-school is in a prosperous condition. Mrs. L. Bradford, one of our teachers and our organist, remained with us all the hot summer months, and has worked like a heroine. She is one of the most earnest, faithful and successful Sabbath-school workers that we have ever met. On Sunday morning our membership was delighted with the presence of not only our own presiding elder, but the presiding elder of the Greenwood district, Bro. L. Bradford. Both took part, and their words were cheering. Elder Johnson preached at 3 p. m., after which Elder Bradford assisted in administering the sacrament to a large number of communicants. The trustees and members have determined to build an addition, including a bell tower, to the church, to cost $300. On a recent Sabbath we took up $144 toward paying for it.

Granada is one of the most thrifty and best cotton markets in the State, and the colored people are doing as well here as in any part of Mississippi. The African Methodists say they are determined to build a church here. In six or eight years they have made several unsuccessful attempts. The M. E. Church has shown no hostility to them, for when they first came to this place, more than eight years ago, the pastor of our church opened the doors and invited them to preach and organize their church. They accepted the invitation. They preached and opened the doors of their church after explaining that theirs was conducted altogether by colored men, with their own bishops, etc. They failed to get any members, but for all that they were not discouraged. For more than eight years they have struggled hard for existence here, and up to this date they say they have three or probably five members, and not a church lot. The Methodist Episcopal Church has a good two story building and a membership of 250. But these few members of the A. M. E. Church were greatly encouraged by a recent visit of one of their newly elected bishops—Bishop Turner, who arrived in Granada on the 9th inst. to preach and look after the interest of his church. The use of the M. E. Church was offered for the bishop to preach in, but it was declined on the ground that they had made arrangements to hold the meeting in the court house. A goodly number assembled to see and hear a negro bishop preach. Doubtless there would have been more present had the notice been better circulated. His sermon, to all appearances, was enjoyed by all present, after which the bishop explained why he was in Granada. He said that he was a bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, that they had no church here and that he had come to build one—that was his business. The Bishop then spoke of the African Church as being the one for the colored people. He said that his church was conducted altogether by black men—their own negro bishops, negro colleges, negro book concern, negro periodicals, and indeed he thanked God that he was a negro. Bishop Turner also said that Dr. Marshall W. Taylor, of Cincinnati, the fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal Church to the general conference of the African M. E. Church at St. Louis, last May, in his speech before that general conference, said that the colored members of the M. E. Church were just only in there for the present, and were preparing to leave the M. E. Church for the African M. E. Church, and when they did start they were coming in a mass. Mr. Editor, if Dr. M. W. Taylor said what Bishop Turner represents him as saying, we want to know by what authority Dr. Taylor uttered such language. We know nothing of such preparations, and if such a movement is on foot it should be known all along the line. I claim that Dr. Taylor most grossly misrepresented the colored members of the M. E. Church, and dishonored the cause for which he was sent. We trust that Dr. Taylor will explain the matter soon through the columns of the SOUTHWESTERN, for it is a very important matter to Methodists in this part of the country. If Dr. Taylor did not say what he is represented as saying, such an argument used to entice members from the M. E. Church to the African Church is beneath the dignity of the Christian ministry. We are in the Methodist Episcopal Church from choice and we are determined to stay. The colored members of the old mother church were never more loyal to her than they are to-day.

Letter from Gainesville.

DEAR EDITOR—Permit me to send you a short communication from the extreme north of north Texas. Gainesville is a town of some 4000 inhabitants, mostly newcomers. It is improving by the building of good substantial brick buildings, hotels, banks and business houses.

Our own work.—I found, when I took charge of this work, just seven members, whom I organized into a class. I then obtained the use of the court house to preach and hold Sabbath-school in; we succeeded swimmingly for awhile. I began to preach to a congregation of eight persons, and in two months my congregation increased to three and four hundred; when we were voted out of the court house from prejudice against our cause. Then we were invited to preach in the theatre, which we did till it closed. Then we were compelled to look out for other quarters, so we began to build us a house which is now under roof, and we hope to get into it by the first of October, but to do this the trustees have necessarily been led to assume some responsibilities, which we hope our friends in the North and East, who are friends of the whites in the South, and wish them elevated and educated will come to our rescue and help us finish our house. I believe yet, if we could get into it by the first of October we would present a membership of a hundred by conference. Pray for us and help us by calling on our friends through your columns. You can truly sympathize with us, having been in like tribulations. God bless the SOUTHWESTERN.

Delaware Conference.

BY BISHOP THOMAS BOWMAN.

As this is the first colored conference held since the adjournment of the General Conference, it will doubtless be interesting to the readers of the Central to hear something about it. The session was held at Dover, Del., commencing Thursday, July 22, and closing the Monday afternoon following.

Dover, as the capital of the State, is quite an interesting place, though not so large as Wilmington. It is situated in the interior of the State, in the midst of a fine agricultural region, from which it derives its chief support. On the way down from Wilmington we passed some of the finest farms we have ever seen—clean, well cultivated, nicely fenced or enclosed with neatly-trimmed hedges, and furnished with fine orchards and comfortable homes. The town is a quiet place, Southern in its style and in the habits of its people. Its population of four or five thousand are hospitable and polite. It is the residence of several of the old and distinguished families in the State. Judge Fisher, for a long time presiding in one of the District Courts at Washington, has returned with his family to Dover. Chancellor Saulsbury, for many years a member of the U. S. Senate, his brother, the present Senator, and another brother, now the Governor of Delaware, all reside here. Judge Fisher and the Chancellor were my schoolmates, and the other Saulsburys, I think, were students in the same institution—Dickinson College. On my arrival I found I was assigned as the guest of Mr. Cannon, the gentleman whose vote, as a member of the State Senate, saved Delaware to the Union. Although he was absent from home his accomplished wife and daughters made my stay with them exceedingly pleasant.

While visiting the cemetery we found the beautiful monument of the Hon. J. M. Clayton, one of the great men of Delaware and of the nation a few years ago. His eloquence often charmed the Senate and stirred the nation, and yet he dies, and his name is almost forgotten. How vain and fleeting is human fame.

The State buildings are all quite plain, though substantial. The local public buildings correspond. Through the kindness of the officials we were permitted to occupy the court house with our Sabbath morning service. The large and comfortable room was filled with a remarkably fine-looking congregation, about one hundred of whom were whites. In addition to this we had other indications of the kind feeling of the whites for the colored people. Quite a number attended the regular sessions of the Conference.

Among other things of interest in Dover is the famous "whipping post." This is simply a large post planted in the yard of the gaol, with clamps to fasten the hands of the doomed one. I put my arms around the post and my hands within the clamps, and it did not require much imagination to shrink as if the blows were ready to fall. The people there believe in the "whipping post," and affirm that on account of it crime is far less frequent in the State.

But I had almost forgotten the Conference about which I had proposed to write. It covers all of Delaware, the eastern shores of Maryland and Virginia, Southeastern Pennsylvania, and a small portion of Southwest New Jersey. It embraces about 65 preachers, nearly 15,000 members and 7,000 or 8,000 Sunday-school scholars. The disparity between the Sunday-school scholars and the membership is accounted for by the fact that the people are so scattered over the country that, in many cases, it is nearly impossible to have Sunday-schools, and especially to gather the younger children together.

Among the preachers, as in other colored conferences, there are two strongly marked classes—the old men who started out without education, and the younger ones who have had more or less educational advantages. Between these classes there is not always the utmost harmony. The old men feel that they are gradually being pushed aside, and the young men are not always so careful of the feelings of the elder brethren as they should be. Notwithstanding this, the sessions were pleasant and the conference adjourned with good feeling.

The "colored bishop" question of course received some attention. Some of the more ambitious young men were not pleased at the manner in which the question was disposed of by the General Conference, and the older ones had come up with a little fear that trouble would grow out of the result. A good deal of discussion was had, mainly in private circles. But finally, I think, all retired feeling that perhaps all had been done that could reasonably have been expected. I think they are seeing more and more clearly that their substantial equality with the whites is found in the fact that they sit as equals in the General Conference, which is greater than the bishops who are made by it.

Upon the whole the outlook for our work in the Delaware conference is very promising. There are several young men in it who, if they keep their health and habits of study, and do not allow their heads to be turned, will be heard from in the coming years.—Central Christian Advocate.

What About Such Laws?

We may be pardoned for mentioning another case in point. Two weeks a negro woman was taken before a trial justice charged with stealing corn from the field. We are informed that her crime consisted in stealing about a dozen "roasting ears." Under all forms of law she was bound over to court, and, in default of bail, she and her three months old infant are now in jail at Abbeville, where she will remain until our court of General Sessions, which meets on the third Monday in October. The jailer's fees will be about $30, the trial justices is perhaps from $3 to $5, and the cost of trial by a jury who will be compelled to bear evidence, two speeches and the judge's charge, will cost the county perhaps $50 more, when she will in all probability be found guilty. The law leaves the judge no discretion, and if found guilty, he will have her marched off to the penitentiary for any length of time he may choose to inflict. To carry her to the penitentiary will add more costs to the county. —Abbeville (S. C.) Press and Banner.

The British Empire.

The following is given by "Whitaker's Almanac" as the extent and population of the British empire at the beginning of 1880:—Great Britain and Ireland: area in square miles, 121,115; population, 35,590,000. Indian Possessions, etc.: area in square miles, 1,558,354; population, 251,000,000. Other Eastern Possessions: area in square miles, 30,000; population, 3,200,000. Australasia: area in square miles, 3,173,310; population, 2,500,000. North America: area in square miles, 3,620,500; population, 4,000,000. Guiana, etc.: area in square miles, 100,000; population, 200,000. Africa: area in square miles, 12,707; population, 1,500,000. West Indies, etc.: area in square miles, 12,107; population, 1,140,000. European possessions: area in square miles, 120; population, 160,000. Various settlements: area in square miles, 96,871; population, 200,000. Totals: area in square miles, 8,981,197; population, 279,400,000. The same authority says: "This table, short as it is, presents a result unparalleled in this world's history. The British empire is grander than that of Greece or Rome, or any other country. And it may be safely asserted that its rule is more beneficial."

To show that it is not necessary for a black man to go to Kansas to get rich, we refer to Gabe Parker, a freedman of this parish, and as an example of honesty and industry worthy of commendation. Gabe Parker is, in appearance, a genuine specimen of the African race. He was born and raised a slave, and freed with the balance of his race in the South. He is now the owner of a fine farm and brickyard on the Abita river, and two schooners, one of which carries wood, brick and sand to New Orleans, and the other is in the trade from New Orleans to Mobile. On a recent visit to his place, we were surprised at his crop of rice and cotton, especially the latter, which can hardly be excelled in the parish. He is out of debt, is reputed honest, and known as a man of wealth.—St. Tammany Farmer.

Through the Heart of Louisiana.

VII.

Rev. J. F. Marshall, our pastor at Alexandria, met us at Cheneyville with a buggy and the thirty-five mile drive to the former place was made pleasantly. Most of the drive was along the Bayou Bœuf that its contrasts of the few fine plantations and the many homes with indicate lack of thrift or practical knowledge of how to make a home comfortable or farming pay. We lodged and took breakfast the night before at one of the village hotels. Had a good bed and breakfast, and secured a good square lunch for self and friend for the day. The landlady, in speaking of the colored people and their churches mentioned one of our pastors and spoke of him as Mr. ——. She at once "corrected" herself by saying, "We don't Mister Niggers here, but that slipped out before I thought." Thus do prejudices long yielded to prevent the assertion of our truer natures. She respected the Christian minister whom she knew and of whom she spoke and the Mister indicated her real sentiments toward him as a man. But the apology bespoke her prejudices to which as yet she is a slave. This lady is a type of the multitude. How easy it is for even the best to misjudge their neighbors simply because they do not belong to our clique or church or are under ban of public sentiment.

A NOTED MAN.

During the day we spent an hour at the residence of Hon. James Madison Wells, of national if not world wide reputation. He is probably the worst hated man politically in Louisiana. We like to meet such men whether they be politicians or ministers, or of any other profession. There is real character in a man who can for a life-time stem the current of adverse public sentiment, and assert his convictions in the face of every sort of calumny and opposition even to facing death. We may not think as they do but we must respect them. The grandfather of this man settled in Louisiana in 1765, and his father was born in a neighboring parish, and he himself is [illegible] we judge beyond sixty. His blood is a mixture of the Irish and [illegible] Carolinian. He has always believed in the Union, and boldly [illegible] his love for the Union [illegible] mad days of secession, which [illegible] swept the Pelican State [illegible] whole South, into the vortex of Rebellion. American Bible Society.

The stated meeting of the Board of Managers was held at the Bible House, Astor Place, Sept. 2d, S Winston, Esq., Vice President, in the chair.

Announcement was made of the death of Rev. Dr. William Adams, a member of the Committee on Versions. Rev. A. H. Clapp, D D., read the nineteenth Psalm and offered prayer.

A memorial notice of Dr. Nathan Bishop was adopted by the Board, and a most affectionate tribute paid to his character by Mr. Winston, Mr. Wolcott, and others.

Highly appreciative remarks were made and resolutions adopted, in reference to the loss by the Society in the death of Dr. Adams.

Mention was made of letters received from all Agents in foreign lands, from Mr. W. J. Slowan, secretary of the National Bible Society of Scotland, from the Rev. C. Weiss, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Conference of Germany and Switzerland, and from Mr. P. Palmquist, who labors in Sweden under the auspices of the American Baptist Missionary Union.

Three societies were recognized as auxiliaries: one each in Iowa, Dakota, and Minnesota.

Grants of books were made to the value of about $7,000, including $5,000 for colportage, and 1,500 volumes for Sabbath-schools in Germany.

The receipts for August were $33,350 57. The payments for the month were $44,142 57. Number of volumes issued, 84,167.

The Independent Catholic movement is making headway in New York. Sunday, the 8th of August, there were fully 3,000 people present at the day's services.

Rome spends $200,000 on its public schools. Ten years ago it had none. The Romans now evince great alacrity in attending the schools, which are entirely inadequate to the demands of the population.

The Mormons are working away at their new temple. It is twenty years since it was commenced; $4,000,000 has been expended and it is one-fourth completed. It is being constructed of Utah granite, and when finished will be the finest church edifice, if not the finest building of any kind, in America. It will require $28,000,000 to complete it.

The statistical summaries of the Methodist Episcopal Conference of Germany and Switzerland present the following encouraging figures: Members, 11,821, a gain against last year of 485; traveling ministers, 78; local preachers, 59; chapels, without parsonages, 19; with parsonages, 53; parsonages, 11; Sunday-schools, 372; officers and teachers, 1,522; scholars, 25,827; volumes in library, 9,838; whole amount of contributions to benevolent objects, 214,506 marks.

The Cedar Key Journal says that whatever may be said about the colored people, they are certainly kind and charitable. During the late storm when the house of the Misses Hearn, of that place, blew down, the colored people gathered and offered their services. The Misses Hearn being disinclined to leave, the colored people told them if they didn't go with them out of the storm, they would be compelled to take them up and carry them to their own houses. They finally yielded and sought refuge beneath the roof of one of their colored friends. No white person was living near.

Opening of the Meharry Medical School Building.

The exercises of the formal opening or dedication of the Meharry Medical School building of the Central Tennessee College, will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 13th, prox. Rev. Bishop I. W. Wiley, D. D., will conduct the ceremonies. Dr. R. S. Rust, the present corresponding secretary, Rev. Dr. Walden, the first corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, are expected to be present, with others to assist on the occasion. The members of the Tennessee and Central Tennessee Conferences, and friends of the college are cordially invited to be present.

Who Will Come to the Rescue?

BY REV. A. E. P. ALBERT.

Something must be done for the elevation of the swarming mass of ignorance in the South; or the South will again prostrate our whole country in sackcloth and ashes. Slavery no longer menaces and blights the fair fields of our Southern country, but its imps that did not fall when Richmond fell are at work undermining the foundation upon which our free institutions are established. No republic supported by the votes of a race of ignorant, drunken Sabbath-breakers can long stand to protect and bless its citizens. The South is not the only portion of our country cursed by ignorance, drunkeness and Sabbath-breaking, but she has such a monopoly of these evils as will not only curse her, but will damn the whole country, if continued unchecked.

Something must be done; and what is done must be done quickly! What makes the situation even more serious in the South, is the fact that in addition to the swarming mass of ignorance that filled her political caldron before the war, one amendment to the constitution of the United States injected four millions more of men, women and children who were dyed even deeper in the wool of ignorance. Freedom brought untold blessings to master as well as to slave; but it brought also with it certain evils that have since conspired with the paroled subalterns of slavery which will certainly lead to fearful consequences unless checked by philanthropic and governmental aid.

One of the greatest demands of the South is education. Ignorance is always a dangerous element in any free country. Already the ignorant whites and colored of the South are being assimilated by identity of interest. We are heartily glad to see them meet upon the [illegible] their various inter[illegible] protest that an alli[illegible] in ignorance is a very dangerous one. We must educate or we must perish. The best interest of the country demands that at least for some years to come, the greatest educational labors be bestowed upon the colored people. They are over two hundred years behind, and consequently more work is necessary to bring them to the place where they should stand as intelligent supporters of our republican institutions.

Colored men must be educated in the learned professions. The colored people are dying at a fearful rate, because they lack the knowledge of some of the most simple hygienic rules. They have few, if any to teach them. Very often local prejudice prevents them getting the best practitioners. They are often made thus to suffer and to die for the want of the proper medical care and attention. Reader, these are your brethren. You are your brother's keeper. Contribute then to his comfort by helping to educate colored physicians who will teach them the laws of health and treat them when sick.

They sadly need, also, educated ministers. The young people who have had any educational advantages at all cannot be interested by men whose boast is that they have never seen a college, or sat in a school-house a day in their lives. They cannot be brought to Christ by ministers who lay aside their Bibles, to listen to the "dreams and travels" of their catechumens, in order to decide whether they are Christians or not. The afternoon of the nineteenth century calls for colored ministers who do not have to send their converts home to dream to find out which mode of baptism they must accept. Choose your young man; let him graduate in theology, and through him, under God, you shall rear a monumental shaft to your memory, that will stand as a witness for you before the judgment seat of Christ.

The next great need of the South is active temperance work. Such a work is sadly needed to be inaugurated in Louisiana, especially among the colored people on the plantations of the State. All the plantation stores sell more whisky than any other commodity kept on sale. These poor people drink all their small earnings. In some localities the deacons, stewards, ministers and members all drink intoxicants. There are very few colored churches that give social entertainments but what sell therein some light drinks (so-called). Others take license to sell all kinds of liquors. Unless something is done an overwhelming mass of our colored young men will ripen into a race of drunken sots. Before the war there was a restraint upon the slaves in this matter. Now they are free, it is hardly conceivable how they are being undermined by this evil.

Sabbath desecration is another gigantic evil, by which we are cursed. Sunday is our "big day." The retail trade throughout this State makes more money on that day than in all the other six. All the ball rooms are opened. The places of wickedness and ill-fame are all in full blast on that day. This is the day the workingmen's unions and many other societies meet to transact their business. Our churches are very often deserted by the men all day on Sundays, till evening service. They are engaged preparing rules, by-laws, rate tariffs, strikes, etc. Who will come to the rescue? Something can and must be done! Let the chords of agitation be touched so forcibly as to vibrate through the length and breadth of this country, and let some way be devised for the speedy elevation of these masses, upon whom the future good of the country greatly depends.

Colored ministers from all parts of this State write us, asking for temperance literature and other matters, to help them batter the powers of ignorance, intemperance and Sabbath desecration. We send such limited helps as are accessible, but we are unable to supply the demands of these deserving supplicants. Who will assist in bringing a healthy change for the better, by bestowing tracts and the means for their distribution in this Southern field? In our capacity of District Deputy Grand Templar for Louisiana, we would render any assistance possible, calculated to foster these interests.

Letter from Holmesville.

HOLMESVILLE, LA., Sept. 2, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—Our second quarterly conference was held on the 14th and 15th of August with thirteen present. The reports were satisfactory. I have baptized 43 infants and 1 adult, received in the church 18 this quarter. The Sunday-school is getting along nicely with 80 pupils and 5 teachers. Collection Sunday was $3.10.

We have made and are yet making a good move in the way of improvements. The amount of $100 has already been expended in this direction. We will raise another hundred. Then we will have a comfortable house to worship in. It is nicely ceiled, a good gallery for the choir, and we are fixing to erect a neat pulpit and fix the windows, then a new roof. To my worthy Board of Trustees and Stewards much is due for their zeal and their work in the improvement of the property. They are men of push, and they as well as the members and our white friends have put their hands and our shoulders to the wheel.

Our prayers have gone up and will continue to go to the throne of God in behalf of these people, and my cry shall be, "O that Israel might be saved," for we have some good people here, even among our white friends. They have and are yet giving us their aid toward building up the church. Several have given as high as five dollars and did not hesitate, for which we thank them very kindly through our dear ADVOCATE. The Rev. Dr. Hartzell visited my church on Tuesday evening, Aug. 17, and preached to us an excellent sermon which lifted us up. Several white friends were out and all were well pleased. Our prayers will follow him, and may God bless him in his work, for certainly it is a grand one.

REV. HORACE WALLACE.

Notes from Goliad.

DEAR EDITOR—For the last five months my time has been spent at Indianola, where I found the Missionary and Free Mission Baptists in power. They had to some extent inculcated great bitterness to Methodism. Having the opportunity to win the children's hearts, I made it possible to convince others that Methodism, in its wide resources, was as much fanaticism as the masses had supposed. I circulated the Good Tidings and Berean lesson leaves into nearly every house and was pleased to see that they were received with joy. My short stay seems to have created a lasting impression on both parties. May God bless Indianola. I was in Victoria on the 22d of Aug., where I found Bro. Norris laboring hard, but impatient to elevate his people, preparing for camp meeting, for which much zeal seemed to be manifested. On my arrival here I found Bro. May's camp meeting just closing which resulted in five conversions. I find also a lively spirit existing in the Sabbath-school for which we have already ordered a full supply of material that I believe will prove a blessing.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

A drunkard in one age of the world is the same as one in another. The picture given by Isaiah is a good photograph of the drunkards of to-day. He is speaking of those who have passed beyond the stage of occasional indulgence. Habit has become fixed and imperious. The time of elegant sipping has gone by. The man must have his glass—and have it all the time. What is the effect of alcohol in the stomach may easily be seen by throwing alcohol in the fire. Other things in the stomach slowly are burned—alcohol flames and inflames. The circulation is quickened, and its baleful fire is shown in the flushed cheeks, the glowing eyes, and in the fiery temper. And when men are thus inflamed, they are ready for anything, With their worst passions all in a blaze, they do things at which in their soberer moments they would shrink in horror. So it is that many a man has struck down his mother, his wife, or his child, and realized the terrible deed only upon his return to sobriety. Does that fact excuse? Nay, it is all the worse. For no man has a right to put himself in a condition wherein he is liable to commit such atrocities. And we are glad to see that the tendency of the courts is to hold that one is to be held just as accountable as though he were in the full possession of his faculties. To be inflamed with wine is itself a crime! The prophet was speaking of the captivity into which the Jews should be led as a punishment for their sins. The bondage to wine was a prelude of the bondage that they were to suffer abroad. A nation of drunkards is a nation that invites an invader.

"Then shall the lambs feed after their manner." The prophet meant that, the people of Judah being carried into captivity, the flocks would have the opportunity to roam wherever they would. But the farms of those who are captive to alcohol present the same liberty. It is quite easy to pick out the farm of one given over to drinking. His gates are unhinged, his fences are broken down, the cattle are running where they will, his windows are broken and stuffed with rags, and everything tells the story of his own dilapidation. The man himself is in the same condition as his farm. What a man is is shown by his premises. It takes only a short experience in sin to blunt the moral sense. A taste of evils begets a distaste of good. The milder forms of intoxicants, such as beer, light wines, etc., satisfy at first, but soon the appetite calls for something stronger, and, at last, there is nothing that is too concentrated. It is safe to mistrust the judge whose countenance shows a too frequent acquaintance with the bottle. No man can trust even himself when once under the corrupting influence of alcohol. To get the means of continuing his potations, he would betray his best friend, and sell his own children into slavery. No man who wears the ermine on his nose also should wear it upon his shoulders! A man's iniquity, whatever it may be, is the cause of his destruction. God uses the vice to which one is addicted as a punishment. It causes him to become as worthless as stubble, and then is the fire that consumes it. In the expressive phrase of the text, their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as the dust. What better could set forth the blight which alcohol produces upon man! It corrupts the hidden source of his life and his strength, and destroys all of those blooms that give to uncorrupted lives a present beauty and a future promise. Why any one, with all the examples of the ages before him, should reduce himself to such a state of worthlessness and of despair, is a mystery. And none would do it, if they only dallied not with the beginnings of the evil.

The Best and the Cheapest.

If you are suffering from a combination of liver or kidney diseases, and constipation, do not fail to use the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It is a dry compound, as easily prepared as a cup of coffee, and in one package is as much medicine as can be bought in six dollar bottles of other kinds. Physicians and hospitals are constantly using it with great success.

MARRIAGES.

At Mandeville, Sept. 15, by Rev. C. Washington, Mr. Felix Allen to Mrs. Viney Thompson; also, on the 16th, Robt. Green to Miss Alice Cruming.

Worthless stuff!

Not so fast my friend; if you could see the strong, healthy, blooming men, women and children that have been raised from beds of sickness, suffering and almost death, by the use of Hop Bitters, you would say "Glorious and invaluable remedy." See another column.

DEATHS.

Our beloved Bro. Nobles died Aug. 22, 1880, leaving a wife to mourn his loss. He was a missionary in the church, and had made all straight with his Master. He told his brethren not to doubt it, and his last words were counsel to dwell in peace and unity. He then slept with Jesus. A large concourse followed his remains to the grave, when the last service was performed by Rev. E. Lee.

EXACTLY WHAT IS WANTED AND SOUGHT AFTER.—To find a safe, reliable, harmless, not repulsive remedy that can be taken without interfering with business or pleasure, or disorganizing the system, a simple vegetable compound assisting nature to get rid of impurities in a gradual manner as nature intended. Such is in Simmons Liver Regulator, and the trial and use is all that is necessary to prove this to the most skeptical. Complete satisfaction is secured to every one and certainly it is a satisfaction to find the head clear, the bowels regular, the blood purified and the breath sweet. The Regulator is so mild, so gentle, so harmless, and does such a world of good in correcting the stomach, regulating the bowels, and restoring the health, that all that is necessary is to give it a trial.

"I can recommend as an efficacious remedy for all Diseases of the Liver, Heartburn and Dyspepsia, Simmons Liver Regulator.

All books received from publishers will be announced as soon as they come to hand. Notices or reviews of each one will be given, after examination, as we think their merits justify.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

THE PROBLEM OF HUMAN LIFE HERE AND HEREAFTER. By A. Wolford Hall. New York: Hall & Co.

CHRISTIAN SOCIOLOGY. By J. H. W. Stuckenberg. D.D. New York: I. K. Funk & Co. Price $1.50.

BOOK NOTICES.

JOY TO THE WORLD; or Sacred Songs for Gospel Meetings. By T. C. O'Kane, C. C. McCabe, and J. R. Sweeney. Cincinnati: Walden & Stowe.

Intended to meet a long felt want for a popular selection of choice Sabbath-school songs at cheap prices. See advertisement elsewhere of the different editions.

FATHER'S HOUSE. By Hewe Benning. New York: American Tract Society.

A tale for children, founded on American life, and told in a pleasing way. Work, temptations, perseverance and final reward follow the heroine to a comfortable home at last; and that is the Christian key to the story.

FROM HONG KONG TO THE HIMALAYAS. By E Warren Clark. American Tract Society, 150 Nassau street, New York. Price, $1.50.

An entertaining narrative of travel over a distance of 3000 miles, with numerous illustrations, and descriptions of the customs and habits of the people in the far East. A 12 mo. of 368 pages.

CLOSE THE SALOONS; a Plea for Prohibition. By Atticus G. Haygood, D.D. Macon, Ga.: J. W. Burke & Co. Price, 15 cts; $1.50 per dozen; $8 per 100.

Author's dedication: "This fireside talk with my fellow citizens is dedicated to all men and women who have convictions, and are willing to try to be free." It is a well written and powerful plea for temperance, giving statistics, opinions of judges, and other valuable notes.

AFRICA; PAST AND PRESENT. By An Old Resident. New York: American Tract Society.

A concise history of the country, its geography, explorations, climates, productions, resources, tribes, customs, languages, colonizations and Christian missions, with map and illustrations. An attractive book, and an encyclopedia of information on the dark continent that is stretching her hands upward for light.

THE THOUGHTS OF THE EMPEROR MARCUS AURELIUS ANTONINUS. Translated by George Long. No. 37 Standard Series. Price, 15 cents.

THE SALON OF MADAME NECKER. Vol. II. By Othenin D'Haussonville. Translated by Mary Stuart Smith. No. 38 Standard Series. Price, 15 cents.

THE HERMITS. By Charles Kingsley. No. 39 Standard Series. Price, 15 cents.

JOHN PLOUGHMAN'S PICTURES. By Charles H. Spurgeon. No. 40 Standard Series. New York: I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street.

These are all good books. The thoughts of Marcus Aurelius is "the noblest product of Paganism," and praised as a treatise of ethics. The book on Madame Necker is published in America for the first time. Kingsley and Spurgeon are entertaining and instructive authors.

LIVES OF HANCOCK AND ENGLISH. By Hon. John W. Forney. Atlanta, Ga.: Hubbard Bros.

A campaign biography to be well written, demands of its author a ready and able pen, a thorough appreciation of the events that frame the career of his subject, an earnest purpose to portray a great life nobly united to a sincere admiration of the hero. No one will for a moment question that that able journalist, John W. Forney, possesses all these, and something more. A life long admiration and acquaintance prompted him in his task, and to its fulfillment he brought all the enthusiasm of native comradeship, all the energy of true friendship. Colonel Forney years ago won his reputation as a graceful, forcible author, and as a journalist, is known almost as well abroad as he is at home. He is a protege of Republican institutions and most of the time during the last twenty years an office-holder. As a recent convert to Democracy he is quite zealous, and as oblivious to well known facts in picturing the actual condition of the South as her own rampant political leaders. The [illegible] of the great soldier who has [illegible] chosen to lead the Democratic hosts is a thrilling narative of conflict—in short, the career of a superb warrior, a patriot and simple gentleman. Gen Hancock placed all his private papers at Col. Forney's disposal, and he has made a liberal and judicious use of them. The pages are fascinating from "1" to "[illegible]" [illegible] book is sold by subscription [illegible] It is from the widely known [illegible] trusted house of Hubbard [illegible] Atlanta, Ga.

Editor's Corner.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

TEXAS.

A. Campbell, Courtney: "I hope the colored bishop question will die out for a few years, till we are able to walk a little stronger."

E. Lee, Hempstead: "We added 50 to the church; 15 conversions, 5 backsliders reclaimed, during our camp meeting. Our conversions were from the oldest families of the place."

M. Reddick, Willis: "Closed my camp meeting on the 21st, with 15 accessions and 12 probationers. Elder Pullam held our third quarter Aug. 21. Have added to the Montgomery work this year 50 souls."

J. Smith, Huntsville: "The spiritual condition of the church is good; there have been some additions, 9 received in full. We are at work on the church and have for the trustees $56.60. Elder Pullam was with us, and held our third quarter."

P. M. Carmichael, West Point: "My third quarterly conference convened on the 28th, and we had a nice time. On account of sickness Elder Gates was not present. Bro. Geo. W. Smith, of LaGrange, came in his place. Sunday the dedication of our new church came off. We are thankful to the Church Extension Society for the sum granted us for the enterprise. The sacrament was administered to about 60 persons. At three in the evening Bro. James Jarmon, of Giddings, was with us. The doors of the church were opened. One from the Baptist church came and joined. My work seems prosperous all over the circuit. Pray for us."

B. F. Smith, Waco: "Our district conference convened here on the 12th, Rev. C. L. Madison, presiding, Rev. H. Swann and myself secretaries; 71 members present. The conduct of business by the elder was satisfactory; the characters of all local preachers and exhorters were passed, some were discontinued for inability. The elder's report showed about 170 conversions on the district this year; great interest taken in paying off church debts; pastors, with few exceptions, reported favorably of their charges. Sunday-school superintendents showed 968 pupils, an increase of 148 since annual conference. All returned home with new zeal. Our next district conference to be held in Bremond."

PREVENT
Yellow Fever

It has been well proved that prevention is better than cure. A very simple and effective preventive for Yellow Fever and other fevers has been found in BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. They were used during the last season in New Orleans very successfully, the common method of using them was to apply them over the stomach, changing them every week. They are one OF THE MOST ACTIVE ANTISEPTICS and seem to destroy the poison. One reason why they are of special value is that they stimulate the digestion and thus enable the system to overcome the influence of the malarial poison. They are a cheap and almost certain preventative. Ask your physician about them. Benson's Capcine Plasters are a sure preventative and cure for chills and fever if worn as above. Price 25 cents.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

Of a Far Higher Class than any other proprietary medicine of the day stands
Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient,
And for this reason: it is an exact counterpart of one of the most valuable natural medicines in the world. We refer to the great Seltzer Spring of Germany, to which thousands of the dyspeptic, the bilious, the rheumatic, and the victims of venal diseases resort annually, and return to their homes convalescent or cured. The Aperient is one of the first and by far the most successful of all the efforts made to reproduce, in a portable form, the popular mineral waters of Europe.

The Literary Revolution.

In January, 1879, The Literary Revolution was inaugurated by the publication of one small volume. In September, 1880, its list, published and in preparation, comprises over 700 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 300 hands; is actually delivering to purchasers over three tons of books a day, or over 1,000 tons a year, and is so far from able to fill all orders that additional buildings have just been leased, machinery purchased, and other steps necessary taken to double the present product within the next sixty days. To meet the popular demand for the coming twelve months at least 2,000,000 volumes will be required. The almost wonderful success which The Revolution has achieved is doubtless to be attributed to its leading principles, which are: I. Publish only books of real merit. II. What is worth reading is worth preserving. Work on the basis of the present and of future years. IV. Books have commonly been considered luxuries; in a free republic they ought to be the manna with they good books by the million. IV. Present prices are placed within reach. V. To make $1.60 and a friend is better than to make $1.60 only, and 1000 books sold at a profit of $1.60 each gives a profit of only $1,600, while 1,000,000 books sold at a profit of one cent each gives a profit of $10,000; and it is more pleasure as well as more profit to sell the million. The most important publication thus far undertaken, indeed the most important work ever published in this country—a work that every intelligent person wants in his library, is the Library of Universal Knowledge. It is a verbatim reprint of the last London edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with copious additions by American editors, about 15,000 topics being added to the original work. It will contain, when complete, about 10 per cent more than Appleton's and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopædia, though costing but a fraction of the price of either. The type edition of the Library of Universal Knowledge is just begun, but 4 pages issued September 1. Two or more volumes will be issued each month till the whole is completed in 15 vols. octavo of nearly 1,000 pages each. The price of the large type edition in cloth binding is $1.60 per volume; bound in half Russia, gilt top, price $1.50 per volume. According to our usual custom, special reduction in price is made to early purchasers, and during the month of September only orders for volumes 1., II., or III., either or all, will be received at the nominal price of 65 cents per volume for the cloth, 85 cents per volume for the half Russia, gilt top. As a portion of the Library of Universal Knowledge, the Chambers's Encyclopædia is also published separately, complete in 14 volumes of clear nonpareil type, and sold, bound in cloth, for the nominal price of $7.35, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $15.65. In this style 12 vols. have already been issued, vol. 13 will be ready September 10, and Vols. 14 and 15 a few days thereafter. On this also special terms are given to early purchasers, the price being to those whose orders are received during September, $6.75 for the set complete in cloth, $13.50 for the half Russia gilt top. The volumes already issued will be sent at once by express, and the remainder when completed in October. The Series of new enterprises and accounting September in Religion we ... "Analytical Concordance to the Bible," the great "Webster Unabridged" of religious literature, and 10 parts ... edition of of Smith's Bible Dictionary, ... in Norway, two volumes added to ... Ancient Library of Biography contain 18 vols. selected from the famous English Men of Letters series, at limited ... more than one-tenth the cost heretofore. In Poetry we shall soon have the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, translated by Pope, and a large type edition ... of Shakespeare. In History a cheap edition of the celebrated Froissart's Chronicles, with over 120 illustrations. In Fiction, Scott's "Ivanhoe" and Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii." In Jewelry, "Earl in Queenland," profusely illustrated. The cost of making books diminishes in large degree as their number is multiplied. Many of our books are selling in so much larger quantities than we anticipated that we find it in our power to considerably reduce their prices, and we do it with a great deal of pleasure. Among those so reduced are the histories of Macaulay and Gibbon, Taine, Rollin, Josephus, Modern Classics, Milton, Virgil, Dante, Koran, Bunyan, Grasse, and several others.

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It casts diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends that are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women previous to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by H. H. WARNER & CO., Rochester, N. Y.

STRONG WORDS FROM STRONG SOURCES.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The writers are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expressions of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned:

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I find myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully,
JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.
Jersey City, June, 1880.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: Without solicitation I desire to express to you my high appreciation of your remedy. Some time since my attention was called to a gentleman who had for a long time been a great sufferer. After making a thorough examination of the case I found that his kidneys and liver were badly affected. Not without hesitation I prescribed your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The result, after taking two bottles, has been satisfactory in the extreme. Without hesitation, I would prescribe the same remedy to all similarly affected. Yours truly,
R. CAULKINS, M. D.
Rochester, N. Y.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:
GENTLEMEN: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporal relief. Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me, and after taking it the pain and distress left me, and I am to day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Remedies are the medicines needed, and can cheerfully commend them to others.

Republicans in politics "we the people" would be saying that the money was stolen for political purposes, but as the said officials are Democrats and were put in by said "we, the people," little is said of the failure to have schools. Throughout the parish of Rapides, in which Alexandria is located, there has not been a public school for a year, where the Republicans maintained forty-four each year, besides building a large number of school buildings. Where there is a will there is a way.

PINEVILLE.

Opposite Alexandria is Pineville, a place of a few hundred people with several churches and stores. On one of the principal streets we saw some genuine specimens of "poor white trash." Three box shanties in a row, occupied by as many families, each with several children which played together about the doors, nearly naked, and dirty as red-river dirt could make them. The doors of the shanties were all open, not a windowpane of glass in one, but instead board shutters hung on leather hinges. Not a bed to be seen inside, only some board bunks nailed up against the sides of the walls, with a few bedclothes lying in them, so filthy looking that it is difficult to imagine how any human being would sleep under them. No stoves, or books or anything that indicated thrift or intelligence. Tobacco and snuff in abundance, and egotisms, prejudices and ignorance in superabundance.

Our people own an acre of ground and have a comfortable little church on it, on the edge of the village. The larger portion of the ground has been laid off into a cemetery. A chief place of interest to the visitor to this place is the National Cemetery just beyond the village in the edge of the pine forest. Thirteen hundred boys in blue sleep here. On the tombs of about one half is written "unknown." The cemetery is kept by a soldier from Davenport, Iowa. The grounds are beautifully laid out, and substantially enclosed by a high wall.

A MODEL CHURCH.

Our church in Alexandria, under the pastorate of Rev. J. F. Marshall, is a model in its property, organization and administration. It is located in the center of town. The church is well finished inside and out, good pews, chandeliers, and bell. Nothing extravagant but all substantial and plain, within the reach of the financial strength of the congregation to take care of. Beside the church stands the parsonage, which cost about one thousand dollars, completed and painted. On the front gallery tastily arranged are pots filled with rare plants and flowers. The yard is cultivated and shows good taste. Both church building and parsonage are enclosed in a good picket fence, painted and kept in repair. Third Round San Antonio District.

MR. EDITOR—Having just returned home from my third visit around the district, I thought I would write something about parts not mentioned in my former letter.

The 11th of July found me at Hondo, where our society is small but faithful, and struggling against the power of darkness. The Sunday-school is doing tolerably, not unlike schools in isolated sections of the country. The great need of many is the want of proper literature. We have from time to time given advice and direction how to obtain this much needed supply. I trust the pastors on the district will remember and heed this oft repeated instruction. It is high time, dear brethren, that you send for what you want for your congregation and Sunday-school; and send the money with the order. Bro. M. Anderson is doing a good work among a much scattered but needy people.

The 17-18th found me at Boerne, after passing through Bandera and Elm Pass, in Kerr county, near Centre Point, a distance of nearly seventy miles from Hondo. Through all this section small colonies of colored people have purchased or are living on pre-empted lands. Being blessed with good crops, many will get out of debt and complete comfortable homes for themselves. This is truly a missionary field. The people have but little to give. At Boerne our people have a small school house to worship in, in a little colony named Streetsville. Most all the people here belong to our church. No other denomination is willing to risk chances to build up churches and save these far away people. Bro. S. Gibbs is doing all he can with this people. Scarcity of nearly everything desirable in this life compels him to work with his own hands to support his large family. However, his people love him and promise to make up better support for him when crops are gathered and exchanged for silver or other things to do a preacher good.

At San Antonio, on the 24-25th, I was among a lively and liberal hearted people, making great preparation for a camp meeting. Have received a letter from Rev. P. Gates, stating that at the first part of the meeting heavy rains hindered the gathering, but success crowned his efforts, resulting in 21 conversions and a great revival among his congregation. God bless that faithful pastor and people. Bro. P. Gates held quarter at Nockenut July 28-29 and at Lavernia July 31 and Aug. 1. His report of the work is cheering. The Floresville quarter was held Aug. 7-8th. On the 14-15th Bro. London Morris held his own quarter, by the presiding elder's request. Have just received a letter from him containing, among other particulars, the cheering news of a glorious revival. He says: "I write to let you know what wonderful things the Lord has done among his people. God has blessed us with 41 new converts, 30 of them have been baptized, besides many infant baptisms." May the Lord continue his blessing upon the work of this pastor.

The 21-22d found us at Nashe's Creek. Here our people have just completed a neat California box house 18x24 without aid from abroad. The membership is increased and revived. Bro. B. Dukes is doing good work. Having flung away his tobacco his lungs are nearly well. If some of our other good brethren would follow his example, they would be able with power from above, to conduct two or three week's protracted meeting without being surrounded by a half score hoarse "amens," coming up from as many hoarse preaching brethren.

The 27-28th I was at Mission Valley. Here Rev. D. Harper is moving forward in the right direction, followed by his loving flock.

Sept. 1st I was at Centreville colony. Bro. J. Caesar is not discouraged though his work is much scattered and few in number at three different points. Success has crowned his efforts.

The 4-5th found me at Victoria. Here the pastor and the people are up with the times, doing what they can to raise all the collections. [illegible] they must have them. [illegible], brethren, the end of [illegible] year is in full view. [illegible] Victoria we arranged [illegible] to hold Rev. W. [illegible]. This [illegible] fourth round commences on the 25th, with Fredericksburg, in Gillespie county, on the Perdernales, and ends with Corpus Christi, in November.

On my return home, looking rapidly over the columns of the ADVOCATE, my eyes fell upon an able but exaggerated article by Bro. P. G. Brown. Understand me, Editor, as not having any desire to intermeddle with the controversy between him and Rev. A. M. Gregory. No, this is not my intention, but to unwind the slanderous vail he attempts to place upon the fair brow of West Texas Conference as a whole. I proceed at once to quote. He says, "Though any would suppose that the desire of the West Texas Conference to that effect is almost universal, because any one that will vote himself into ignorance, as the colored ministers of the West Texas Conference did, wants a colored Bishop." Please to allow me in all candor to ask, is there any crime in this desire? If so please show it. Is ignorance the mother of such a desire? "Now, brethren, I said ignorance. Did you not separate yourselves from those who were able to teach you?" This he asks with an air of triumph. Let me answer. 1st. Yes, we are teachable, I am glad you admitted even that fact. But, 2dly, did we separate ourselves from "those able to teach us?" And did we urge separation? Did we ask for it? I am certain you are so blindly perched on the highest limb of pride that you can not answer. But let me state for your information that the question of separation was not first sprung by the colored members of West Texas Conference. The white brethren planned the whole scheme and worked for its accomplishment, enlisting as many recruits from our ranks as possible. And further still; when the question was raised in open conference it was as alarming to some of our ignorant colored preachers as a clap of thunder from a cloudless sky. And further yet; the wise heads that always meet our bishops no sooner than his foot strikes Texas soil, were not slow to make known their plan. After the work of the conference had fairly begun a great swarm of transfers was introduced to our ignorant colored brethren of West Texas Conference. And they, in the goodness of their hearts, voted them into our conference, rejoicing over this new force! Who seem to be more acquainted with the scheme than any of the ignorant, the new associates clamoured as loudly for separation as the old shrewd movers or getters up of the plan. The colored brethren, though very ignorant, seeing what had been forced upon them, many of them bowed to the storm. However there were some who believed in the first doctrine taught them, when the church readvented this Southern field, and believing in the sincerity of our disciplinary ruling (many not acquainted with the action of General Conference) were ill prepared to enter the contest, and showed their noble ignorance in granting the request of our wise white brethren. However, a few besides ourselves fought against separation with all our might. We, with our opposing disciples, spent four or five hours in a closed room after conference, where none could enter but the wise and the unwise, where the wise used every means in their power in induce we poor foolish creatures to give up our visionary ideas of trying to keep our white brethren bound to us. Every artifice was resorted to to no purpose. Next day the battle was fought and the victory accorded to the wise. Now, in the face of these facts Bro. P. G. Brown informs the reading public that the ignorant colored members of the West Texas Conference "voted themselves into ignorance!" I look him square in the eyes and tell him plainly that he does not know anything about the subject he is trying to ventilate by false argument. This is in self defence, Bro. Hartzell. "Let it slide."

MACK HENSON.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 10th, 1880.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Letter from DeKalb.

DEKALB, Miss., Sept. 22, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—Although not a member of your branch of our beloved Methodism, I am a Methodist and love the brethren everywhere, without distinction of race or color, and I thought perhaps a few lines from myself in regard to your church at this place might be of some interest to you and your readers.

I have lived here about seven years and have never seen more interest manifested in behalf of religion by your people than at the present time. There has been a great change among them of late. Under the leadership of Rev. Penny, P. C., they are learning, learning to think and act, learning how to govern themselves as a church, and they seem to be learning more than ever the important truths of Christianity. Some of them give liberally, and gladly share what they have with their pastor. Would that our people would learn a lesson from them. I attended their love feast a week or two ago, and I must say although their faces were black and mine white, I was spiritually blessed. The singing of those simple hearted, toil worn people was grand, and to have heard the experience of Uncle Billy Grady, an old colored man of over 80 years of age, would have melted anyone to tears. "His lamp is burning brightly." Bro. Penny presided over the meeting with firmness combined with kindness. He makes an excellent presiding officer, and is the best colored preacher I have ever heard. If you think these few lines are worth a place in your paper, all right, if not you can put them aside

HERBERT, Miss., Sept. 3, 1880.

MR. EDITOR—I thought a few dots from the Western part of Kemper county, Miss., would be acceptable to you. Herbert is near the line of Neshoba and Kemper counties, about 17 miles west of DeKalb, the county seat; and about 30 miles northwest of Meridian. It is the quietest and most sociable community in the county. About one month ago we commenced to rebuild Centre Ridge Methodist Chapel, two miles east of Herbert. The chapel will be 30x24 when completed, commodious, with a neat cupola. We will hold our protracted meeting in it, commencing Sept. 9. F. H. Brackett, of Scooba, an experienced teacher, began our public school here five weeks ago and is giving ample satisfaction to pupils and patrons. We presented a petition to our white friends to aid in completing our chapel, and they cheerfully gave us $7.15. The following pastors promised to be with us: Revs. R. Hayes, O. Gillespie, B. F. Penny, and Bro. Brown.

The Star of Granada Lodge No. 1984 celebrated its first anniversary Monday, the 20th inst. It consisted of a grand street parade headed by the Granada brass band and assembled at Stevenson's Hall on Main street. At 2 o'clock p. m. the orator of the day, Hon. J. J. Spelman, of Jackson, Miss., delivered a most brilliant and impressive address. Mr. Spelman will not soon be forgotten in Granada by the many friends he made on his first visit.

At 7 o'clock p. m. the hall was crowded to witness the installation of the officers which was beautifully conducted by Mr. Spelman, and the evening was spent very pleasantly.

Universal Prayer for Sunday-schools.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 17, AND MONDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1880.

It has been resolved by the Committees of the Sunday-school Union and kindred Institutions to recommend that Sunday and Monday, the 17th and 18th of October next, should be observed as days of solemn Prayer for Sunday-schools throughout the world.

The proposal, since 1872, has become an annual one. Year by year it has been adopted by a continually-increasing number of schools and congregations, and with growing heartiness and fervor. Innumerable testimonies have been received to the effect of the services held, in quickening the zeal of teachers, in arousing the interest of churches, and in producing the most salutary impressions on the minds of the young.

In this centenary year of Sunday-schools there is a special call to devotional earnestness. The memories of a hundred years may well awaken the deepest gratitude. The present state of religious education among the young is a theme for devout and joyful praise; while the shortcomings and failures of the past, with equal urgency call for penitential acknowledgment, and the promises of God encourage the earnest, hopeful prayer that the future of our schools may be fraught with a power and a blessing immeasurably beyond what has been yet attained.

Looking to the past, we thankfully exclaim, "What hath God wrought!"—looking to the future, we seem to hear the assurance, "Ye shall see greater things than these." Let this, then, be the twofold motto of our praises and supplications now.

There are some topics of prayer which the circumstances of the present year seem to make peculiarly appropriate, and which, without attempting to fetter or even to guide the free spirit of devotion, we may briefly indicate.

1. A blessing upon the past "Centenary Celebrations," in our own and other lands. Shall we not pray that every sacred impression may abide on teachers and taught, and that the universal tribute of joy and thankfulness may prove to have been but the beginning of a deeper and more heartfelt personal consecration to the service and work of Christ.

2. A deeper interest in Sunday-school work among Christians generally. It is the work of the churches; and teachers are but their representatives. Will it not be especially appropriate to pray that the loving affections, the generous support, the active sympathies, of all who love Christ may be concentrated upon this work, and that many who are qualified to become teachers, may be induced to dedicate themselves and their talents to the cause?

3. The increased union of Christians in the Sunday-school cause. Let the prayer be that unity of feeling may continue and increase, and that our churches and schools may labor together for the spiritual welfare of the young.

4. The extension of the system in other lands, and especially on the Continent of Europe. Our brethren in Europe, where the work is yet strange, and exposed to many a difficulty and hindrance, need our sympathising prayers.

Let these and kindred topics enter into the desires of our "Days of Prayer," and surely God will bless us. On the full co-operation of the pastors in our several churches we may confidently reckon, and we would most earnestly request that they should again make the Sunday-school, and the demands of the young upon the Church, the theme of at least one sermon. Such an appeal to the congregation will at once stimulate and direct its prayers, and these, in turn, will issue in sympathy and help, while God Himself will answer them by showers of blessings.

It is suggested that the following arrangements should, as far as practicable, be observed:—

That on LORD'S DAY morning, from 7 to 8 o'clock, private intercessory prayer be offered on behalf of Sunday-schools.

That the opening engagements of the morning school be preceded by a meeting of the teachers for prayer.

That ministers be asked to preach sermons morning or evening, or both, on topics connected with Sunday-school work.

That in the afternoon the ordinary engagements of each school be shortened, and a devotional service held. To this service the parents of the scholars might be invited.

That at the close of the evening service, the teachers, in union with other Christians, meet for thanksgiving and prayer.

That on MONDAY morning teachers again bring their scholars, one by one, in private prayer before God.

That in the course of the day the female teachers of each school hold a meeting for united prayer and thanksgiving.

That in the evening each church or congregation be invited to hold a meeting, at which the interests of the Sunday-school should form the theme of the prayers and addresses.

Seventh Annual Meeting.

The Woman's National Christian Temperance Union will hold its seventh annual meeting in Clarendon Street Church, Boston, Mass., commencing Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1880. Each State is entitled to one delegate for each congressional district. Besides the foregoing representation, the President and corresponding secretary of each State Union, also the chairmen of standing committees, and the editor and publisher of Our Union, are delegates, by virtue of office.

Owing to the great difficulties in procuring reduced railroad rates over such a large extent of country, it was deemed advisable by the Executive Committee at Indianapolis, to leave the matter with each State President to secure reductions in her own State as far as practicable. Delegates should communicate promptly with Mrs. Dr. A. J. Gordon, 102 West Brookline street, Boston, Mass., who is chairman of committee of arrangements, and who will secure and report places of entertainment for all.

Our local auxiliaries are requested to observe Saturday, October 23d, as a day for special prayer for God's blessing and guidance upon this National Convention, which will be called on to consider a new plan of representation and other subjects of vital interest to our growing work "for God, and home, and native land."

Dr. Tanner Defines his Position.

Dr. Tanner, editor of the Christian Recorder, (A. M. E. Church) defines his position:

"As declared at our last General Conference in reply to the magnificent address delivered by the fraternal delegate, Rev. M. W. Taylor, and as constantly maintained in the columns of the Recorder, we believe that the common interest of the "race" is advanced both by the A. M. E. Church holding an independent position, and our colored brethren remaining with the "Mother" Church, which must be hammered into straightness on the question of man's equality, both social and political, with man. But a thing cannot be hammered straight by beating only on one side. No, both sides must be hammered, the side within, if you will have it, and the side without. This last we propose doing. The hammering on the inside we leave to our colored brethren holding connection with the grand old body; and we ask them to be true to themselves, knowing that if thus, they will be true to us, to God and to the Methodist Episcopal Church; for what Junius somewhere substantially says, is as true ecclesiastically as it is civilly: "He is the best subject who tells his king the truth." So of these, our colored brethren of the M. E. Church. Let their loyalty to her be of this type and we can wish for no better thing than that they shall remain with her."

Turkey.

While more remote and distinctive pagan countries grow increasingly tolerant to the entrance and establishment of foreign missionaries in their chief cities, Turkey seems, under the direction of its present Sultan, to have taken retrograde steps. This ruler, Abdul Hamid, is reported to have officially notified the British ambassador that hereafter "no Moslem shall be allowed to leave his religion and become a Christian under penalty of death; that no one shall be allowed to teach doctrines subversive of Islam, and that, in defiance of treaties, any foreigner engaged in such teaching may be arrested and imprisoned without consulting the foreign consuls or ambassadors" It seems impossible to believe that these directions will be strictly followed; but should such be the case, the hindrance to the wonderful work in progress would be inestimable.

It is hardly probable that against the influence of England and other interested nations the Sultan will venture to carry out this sweeping prohibition, especially at this time, when his own position is of such uncertain tenure.—Heathen Women's Friend.

To Prevent Accidental Drowning.

Any human being who will have the presence of mind to clasp the hands behind the back and turn the face toward the zenith, may float at ease and with perfect safety in tolerably still water—aye, and sleep there, no matter how long. If, not knowing how to swim, you would escape drowning when you find yourself in deep water, you have only to consider yourself an empty pitcher; let your mouth and nose, and not the top of your heavy head, be the highest part of you, and you are safe.

Bishop Foss on Strong Drink

The following is commended to thoughtful Christians. It is an extract from a sermon by Bishop Foss:

"As a Christian minister I oppose drink because it opposes me. The work I try to do it undoes. My charge against it at this point is single and simple. It is an obstacle to the spread of the gospel; nay, it is an enemy which assails the gospel, and whose complete success would drive the gospel from the earth. The chains it forges are the strongest and most galling ever fastened to the human body or the human soul. There is not a sinner on the face of the earth so unlikely to be savingly affected by the influence of the gospel as a habitual drunkard. He may be a man of delicate sensibility, of lofty purpose, and of towering intellect; he may have qualities which, untainted by alcohol, would adorn his character; but if he is addicted to his cup his destination is almost inevitably to the bottomless pit. The salvation of a thorough drunkard is one of the mightiest miracles of Almighty grace. I know men who are frequently convicted of their need of experimental religion, but who are held back from a single step toward it by the charms of rum. All other fetters would be as gossamer in the way of their urgent longing; this holds them. Many a poor heart-broken wretch has staggered up to the altar for prayer, and cried earnestly for mercy, and reeled away again down to his sorrows in the bowl which caused them, and which will aggravate them until they culminate amid unquenchable flames."

Brutality in Prison Camps.

Louisiana convicts are turned over to prison contractors, who are authorized to employ them at all kinds of labor in any part of the State. The Penitentiary building at Baton Rouge simply designates the spot where criminals should be confined, and judicial sentence to the Penitentiary for a term means in practice anywhere within the limits of Louisiana.

According to a Democrat special, a convict named Ben Berkery, in camp near St. Joseph, was ordered to go to work at clearing land. He answered that he would not, and laid down beside a ditch. The lieutenant in charge of the guard advanced to get a strap to punish him, when Berkery ran towards a corn field. The guards fired at him and he fell pierced through the back with buckshot. It is said by fellow convicts that Berkery was ill and had on ball and chain at the time. Gov. Wiltz ordered an investigation.

Reports of brutality in prison camps have been frequently made, but it is not often the friends of a prisoner have sufficient influence to gain a public hearing. We hope the murder of Berkery may lead to some effort to change our prison system. Of course contractors regard convicts as their property and resort to persistent driving to secure a profit. But there is no necessity to subject our convicts to this [illegible] slavery. Why not devise [illegible] system to reform, instead of [illegible] and brutalizing fellow [illegible]

National Normal School, Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio.

The twenty-sixth year of this well known Institution opened August 31st, 1880. The past year was the most prosperous in its history; annual enrollment was over 1 500; twenty teachers are employed. Decided improvements are still being made in every direction, distancing all competition.

This Institution is not an imitation; it is the originator and leader of the grand revolution already accomplished in Normal and College instruction, saving half the time and three-quarters of the expense of a thorough and complete collegiate course.

Over fifty of its graduates are employed in leading Colleges and Normals, and thousands more of its graduates and students are engaged in public schools in every capacity from superintendents to primary teachers.

Several of the leading pulpits of different denominations are filled by graduates of this Institution.

It costs no more to attend the National Normal than other Normals with inexperienced teachers, meager facilities, uncertain arrangements—mere experiments. Then do not be experimented upon. Adopt for your Alma Mater the grand "old reliable," National Normal, which has sent out over 25,000 successful workers into every department in life, with scarcely a failure among them.

Ten departments sustained—Introductory, Preparatory, Teachers', Commercial, Collegiate, Engineering, Music, Modern Languages, Fine Arts, Law.

All of these departments are fully equipped, and afford facilities superior in every respect to those of other institutions, whether general or special, whether Collegiate or Normal, as proven by twenty-five years of growth, and 25,000 successful testimonials in the lives and success of its students.

Students can enter at any time. They will find classes to suit their wants. Average expenses $2.75 per week. Many cover all their expenses at $2 50 per week. Bring all your text-books, they will be useful; others you can rent for a trifle, or buy at reduced rates.

For catalogue and particulars address Alfred Holbrook, Principal.

Articles of agreement for a basis of organic union between the African Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States and the British Methodist Episcopal Church of the Dominion of Canada and the British Provinces were signed by the Commissioners of the two Churches, and by the Bishops and Secretary of the British Methodist Episcopal Church, in the presence of the above mentioned Conference, at 11 o'clock a. m., Saturday, Sept. 11, 1880.—New York Advocate.

We have Oak Grove Church ready for worship the third time; it has been burnt down twice. Pray for us that the work of the Lord may go on here in the midst of our fiery trials."

Austin District.

MR. EDITOR—Since my return from the General Conference I find all the preachers on my work in good spirits, and standing up strong for the cause of the Lord and our Church. Although times have been very hard, in consequence of crop failures last year, our work has steadily improved all over the district.

I found Bro. D. Gregory, pastor of Wesley Chapel, Austin, almost blind with inflamed eyes, still the church, in the hands of its leaders and local preacher, kept the good work moving on. After our district conference I held the third quarter here. Bro. Gregory was then able to be with us. Reports showed the work in a healthy and growing condition. The "West Texas Conference Seminary" locacated at this place, and in charge of Bro. G. O. Richardson had just closed a successful session.

Bro. G. Norman, in charge of Simpson Chapel, is having a very prosperous pastorate. Quite a number of accessions are reported here. The joined camp meeting of our churches at Austin, commencing August 12th, resulted in 33 conversions.

Georgetown work, in charge of Bro. E. Coggswell, shows a large and healthy growth. District conference was held here. Bro. C. and congregation certainly deserve great credit for the ample provision made for the entertainment of this conference. Many brethren met, and we had a good time.

On my way to the Fayetteville work I received a telegram informing me of the serious illness of my son and daughter. Bro. G. W. Smith, of LaGrange, kindly consented to attend to the deliverion of Smyrna church, and hold the quarter on this work for me. Bro. P M Carmichael is in charge of this work, and by his persistent efforts has succeeded in completing a comfortable church. A number of accessions are also reported here.

First Saturday and Sunday of September found me with Bro C. Hart at Flower Hill, a new preaching point on the West Point charge. This was the first quarterly conference ever held here. I can assure you the people highly appreciated this privilege. The membership has grown from 2 to 28 during the present conference year. Brethren met punctual, and all had good reports. Bro. Hart is one of those Christian workers who apparently never tire in the cause of the Lord.

In your issue of August 5th I found some serious charges against Bro. D. Gregory, by Bro Robinson; as presiding elder of this district I thought it my duty to ascertain the facts in the matter, and do now hold it my duty to state as the result of my inquiry, that on the first financial visit to Wesley Chapel on two consecutive Sabbaths the inclemency of the weather prevented the assembling of the congregation and of course the collection proved a failure. On Bro. Robinson's second visit Bro. Gregory suffered almost total blindness and consequently could not render the necessary assistance. Then, too, another collection had been previously notified for same date. The first collection for our conference school taken at Wesley Chapel amounted to $75, and that, too, in the absence of an agent. This certainly shows the people have the interest of the school at heart. I think experience has proved the policy of keeping an agent in the field quite expensive and very unsatisfactory. Making pastors agents for their respective charges would certainly prove the wiser plan.

West Point, Texas, Sept. 10, 1880.

Baton Rouge District Preachers' Meeting.

FIRST DAY.

This meeting was held in Mount Zion Church, Clinton, La., commencing Sept. 9. Opening sermon by Rev. W. E. Hill. Presiding elder Rev. J. Gould explained its object, and why there should not be a district conference. Rev. Z T. Gayden was appointed secretary. A collection was taken for books and stationary for the use of the meeting. There were five pastors present. Revs. T. G. Montgomery, Z. T. Gayden and W. Primms were appointed a committee to select from among local preachers suitable men to fill out the programme. The time of meeting was fixed from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. A collection of $2 was taken up for Rev. James Hayward.

SECOND DAY.

Session opened with reading of 27th Psalm, singing 718th hymn, and prayer by Elder Gould. Fourteen answered at roll call. Rev. Wm. Naylor of the M. E Church, South, being present was invited within the bar. Pastors gave favorable reports of the condition of their work. A committee consisting of Revs. Gayden, Montgomery and Primms was appointed to settle the disagreement between Bros. Smith and Martin.

THIRD DAY.

Opened with singing and prayer by Rev. T. S. Montgomery. A resolution was adopted cutting off debate and to proceed to business. Revs. Hill, Gayden, J Qualls and J. Rylander gave reports. The traveling and local preachers, stewards and Sunday-school superintendents having all submitted their reports, it was resolved to take up the programme. Rev. A. Smith spoke on justification; T. G. Montgomery on the duty of class leaders; Z. T. Gayden on the work of the late General Conference encouraging the brethren to stand up to the old Mother Church; Geo. Lacy and C. Moore addressed the meeting. Rev. A. B. Robinson, of the Church South was with us in the evening and entertained us. Jackson was selected as the next place of meeting. Benediction by Rev. A. B. Robinson.

Z T. GAYDEN, Secretary.

Collections for Personal Benefit.

HOUMA, La., Sept. 7, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—With no little interest have I been reading the various subjects discussed through the columns of the SOUTHWESTERN, and yet I have failed to see anything about giving collections simply for personal benefits. Societies, churches and superannuated persons are, to some extent, dependent upon collections, fairs, etc., when pecuniarily embarrassed. Everybody knows that these benevolent contrivances were not inaugurated that penurious persons might ruthlessly encroach upon benevolent causes. I have known collections to be made by individuals who were not members of a church society, or any save that of evil doers. They were as healthy as I was, worked during the week, drew their money on pay day, and then gave a collection Saturday night. Sometimes, when the refreshments were not sold during the night, the selling would be carried on Sunday. How regardless of God some of our people are! Is not this a great sin? But how can this mischief-making be stopped and completely eradicated? I answer, simply by God's word. The church must open her eyes and adopt some means by which she can entirely exclude satan from her grounds. Let every minister make it his special duty to speak against the desecration of the Lord's day, and the usurpation of the means by which societies, churches and superannuated persons are partially sustained.

W. S HAWTHORNE.

A Benevolent Society.

BAYOU GOULA, La., Sept. 18, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to say something about the Young Evening Star Society of Bayou Goula. We started with a few, but now have many members and they are very good. They rally to pay their dues the first of each month, and employ a doctor. The secretary keeps his books in order, and is able at all times to give a faithful account of all that is done in each meeting. The officers are: F. Manigo, president; Julius Green, vice-president; John Dominique, grand marshal; Alexander Johnson, second marshal; Hawkins Hills, third marshal; Julius Sims, fourth marshal; Joseph Johnson, treasurer; Joshua Sanders, secretary; Edward Marshal, key holder; Joseph Palmer, faithful old father; Sanders Ross, pall bearer; Edward Johnson, pall bearer; Virginia Belle, lady president; Martha Green, vice president; Maria Johnson, first steward; Hannah Manago, second steward. J. SANDERS, Sec'y.

[We hope that the brethren at Bayou Goula will not become so absorbed in their benevolent society as to forget the higher duties they owe to the church. Let them rally to her benevolent collections, and have a care to their precious souls. —ED.]

An Old Doctor's Advice.

It was this: "Trust in God and keep your bowels open." For this purpose many an old doctor has advised the habitually costive to take Kidney-Wort—for no other remedy so effectually overcomes this condition, and that without the distress and griping which other medicines cause. It is a radical cure for piles. Don't fail to use it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Oct. 3.—ISAAC'S PROSPERITY.

SCRIPTURE—Gen. 26: 12-25.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The blessing of the Lord it maketh rich."—Pr. 10: 22.

TOPIC.—God Blessing with Wealth.

The Connection.—The first event of importance after the offering up of Isaac was the death of Sarah. She died in Hebron at the age of one hundred and twenty-seven years, and was buried in the cave of Machpelah. The second was the procuring of a wife for Isaac from Abraham's kindred in Haran. The story is very interestingly told in chap. xxiv. The third was the death of Abraham at the age of one hundred and seventy-five. The fourth was the birth of Isaac's two sons, who were destined to such rivalry and bitter contests with each other. The fifth was the sojourn of Isaac in Gerar, and the lie that he told to Abimelech about his wife, similar to the one with which Abraham had deceived the king of Egypt.

Geographical.—Gerar. A Philistine town of great antiquity. It lay between Kadesh and Shur toward the extreme southwest of Palestine, near Beersheba. It must have diminished very much in importance; for after the wars of Asa it is not again mentioned. Beersheba (Well of the Oath). This place received its name from the oath, or covenant of peace, into which Abimelech entered with Isaac, as related in verses 23 31 of the chapter containing our lesson.

Biographical.—Abimelech (Royal Father). This name probably was a kingly title, like that of Pharaoh in Egypt, and, therefore, from the name alone we have no means of knowing what Philistine king here is referred to. Isaac (Laughter). So named because of the laughter with which the pre-announcement of his birth was received. In our last lesson we learned of his being offered up by Abraham. Isaac married his cousin Rebekah, had two sons, Jacob and Esau, lived an uneventful, upright life, and died at the age of one hundred and eighty.

Worthless stuff!

Not so fast my friend; if you could see the strong, healthy, blooming men, women and children that have been raised from beds of sickness, suffering and almost death, by the use of Hop Bitters, you would say "Glorious and invaluable remedy." See another column.

MARRIAGES.

On the evening of Sept. 6, at the bride's residence, Mr. Frank B. Sylvester, of New Orleans, to Miss Julia Fulton, of Bay St. Louis, Miss., Rev. J. B. Smith officiating.

At the bride's residence, on Friday, Sept. 24, at 7 p. m., by the Rev. A E P. Albert, Mr. Curtis Harris, of Iowa, to Miss Charlotte Wilson, of New Orleans. No cards.

It does not make any difference how severe the case of Bilious Derangement is, it can be cured speedily and effectually without salivation, or that prostration of the system ensuing from the use of drastic purgatives. Simmons Liver Regulator does not merely relieve the sufferer, but effects a permanent cure. It has been used successfully for a long time as a substitute for Quinine and Calomel, and the effects of the medicine are truly wonderful.

"I have used in my family your Regulator for the last eight or ten years, and found it to supersede anything recommended for Chills, Fever and Ague. I use it, and nothing else. I have given up Calomel, Quinine, and all other Mercurial treatments. I give it to my children from one year old to those of twenty-five years old. It is all you could wish in a family. Please use my name as you wish. very truly,

DEATHS.

Bro. James Slade died May 9. He was an excellent local preacher, and left a wife and one child.

D. HARPER.

Cuero, Texas.

Sister Rachel Rives departed this life in the full triumph of faith, Aug. 19, 1880. She had been a faithful member of the M. E. Church seven years. GEO. W. SMITH.

La Grange, Texas.

At Texarkana, Ark., Dec. 7, 1879, sister Harriet Slone, a faithful member of the M. E. Church, died at the age of 48 years. She fell asleep in Christ, leaving a husband and four granddaughters, all members of the M. E. Church. S. PRATT.

God called away from us Aug. 25 our respected Bro. J. T. Hill, in the full triumph of faith, at the age of 40. He declared that all was bright before him. A dear wife mourns his loss. May the Lord give her strength to sustain it.

S. MORGAN.

Hallettsville, Texas.

Bro. Columbus Williams died Sept. 3, 1880, aged 42 years. Bro. Williams was a member of the M. E. Church 2 years. He was a faithful class leader, and died in triumph of faith. He leaves a wife and 6 children to mourn his loss.

R. ANDERSON.

Jackson, Miss.

Richard Higgins died on the Augusta circuit, Aug. 16, 1879, where he had resided since 1867. He joined the M. E Church in Alabama 45 years ago, and was an exhorter and local preacher 37 years. Thirty conversions were made through him on this circuit. At the close of a well spent life he passed away in triumph, at the age of 75 years.

Batesville, Ark. W. H.

Sister Louisa Bennama departed this life Sept. 5, aged 60 years. She was an original member of the Lutheran Benevolent Society No. 2, and of the LaHarpe M. E. Church, which she remained with 14 years. She died in the full triumph of faith, and leaves a husband and 6 children to mourn her loss.

E. P. ROYAL, Pastor.

New Orleans, La.

On Sept. 7, 1880, Sister Priscilla Head died, aged 56 years. She was born in Virginia, and came to Texas when she was 12 years old. She was converted and became a member of the M. E. Church when 27 years of age, and lived a faithful member until death. She died in full triumph of faith in Jesus. Her last words were her last words: [illegible] husband to her, she said, "[illegible] follow me," and [illegible]

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—"I Am Thinking To-night of Our Loved One," words by Mrs. H. M. Bryan, music by Edgar Hayes. Price, 35 cts. D. P. Faulds, Louisville, Ky., publisher. Beautiful words in memory of a child.

—The Contemporary Review for September (New York: D. Monro & Co.) has The Unity of Nature, Heinrich Heine, Future of the Canadian Dominion, The Eleusinian Mysteries, Last Phase of the Afghan War, the Sonnet in England, the Apprenticeship of the Future, Fiji, the Impending Crisis in Turkey, etc.

—Arthur's Home Magazine for October is on hand, its departments all filled with interesting and instructive reading matter. There is nothing sensational about this deservedly popular magazine. It is clean, and a welcome visitor to homes that we most heartily commend. Philadelphia: T. S. Arthur & Sons, publishers.

—Appleton's Journal for October has the second paper of Hon. P. H. Morgan on the International Tribunals of Egypt, Curiosities of Wills, All Alone, A Talk About Sonnets, Romance of Literary Discovery, An Anonymous Admirer, A Perished Kernel, The Bradlaugh Controversy, Brain and Mind, Modern Italian Painting and Painters, Smiling and Mourning, etc. Price, 25 cts.—$3 per annum. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

—The October Wide Awake opens with a suggestive story for all young girls who haven't much money. This is followed by Part II. of Mrs. Lucia Chase Bell's amusing story of "The Boy That Was Too Beautiful." "Mrs. Hungerford's Letter From Home," with its very original illustrations, will amuse all the mammas at least. There is a spirited account of the brave boyhood of Capt. James B. Eads, whose name is connected with the Mississippi Jetties, and a paper in Mr. Benjamin's "American Artists" series about engraving and the well-known engraver, Mr. Anthony, accompanied by a portrait and a picture of him at work. The number has many illustrated poems, as usual. Mr. Louis C. Elson closes the number with a capital exercise song, entitled "The Children's Orchestra." Only $2 a year, etc., etc.

—Good Company, Number Twelve ($3 a year; Springfield, Mass.) closes the volume, and subscriptions should be made at once. A specimen copy will be sent to any one not familiar with it for ten cents. Two papers just read before the American Social Science Association are given. One, about food adulterations, is by a competent authority, Prof. S. W. Johnson of the Yale Scientific School. The other, Associated Charities, explains the modern method of organization by which the various benevolent societies and individuals in a town unite so that a large proportion of money given in charity need not be wasted. It is by Rev. Oscar C. McCulloch of Indianapolis. Sarcoscarda and the Renaissance is a careful synopsis and criticism of the great reformer's work by the Noble O. Butler. There are many stories; also Recollections of Seward, Greeley, Lincoln and Hughes; papers about camp meetings, in favor of family movings as a social benefit, about the servant-girl question; besides other articles.

—St. Nicholas for October completes the seventh volume of the magazine. Louisa M. Alcott's serial story, "Jack and Jill," is brought to a happy end, and Noah Brooks's continued baseball story, "The Fairport Nine," closes with the decisive championship game—a lively and hard fought match in which the manly young heroes of the tale are victors. "H. H." concludes her [illegible] part record of what she entitles "The Haughtiest Day of My Life; and What Came of It;" Robert Lewis illustrating the installment with a picture of the naughty child a prisoner in the garret. THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention. If Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave:

"It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 65° being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

The Literary Revolution.

In January, 1879, The Literary Revolution was inaugurated by the publication of one small volume; in September, 1880, its list, published and in preparation, comprises over 150 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 500 hands, is actually delivering to purchasers over three tons of books a day, or over 1000 books a day, and is so far from able to fill all orders that additional buildings have just been leased, machinery purchased, and steps necessary taken to double the present product within the next sixty days. To meet the popular demand the coming twelve months at least 2,000,000 and probably 3,000,000 volumes will be required. The almost wonderful success which the Revolution has achieved is doubtless to be attributed to the leading principles, which are: I. Publish only books of real worth, II. What is worth reading is worth buying—all books are neatly and strongly bound. III. Work on the basis of the present wholesale price of books, which is very much less than it was a few years ago. IV. Books have commonly been considered luxuries; it is a free republic they ought to be. The Revolution and prosperity of the country are placed within reach.

To make $1.00 and a friend is better than to make $1.00 only, and 1000 books sold at a profit of only $1.00, while 1,000,000 books sold at a profit of one cent each gives a profit of $10,000; and it is more pleasure to sell a cent worth of pleasure than far more than the value of the paper and printing. The most important publication then for the present year is the most important work ever published in this country—a work that every intelligent person wants in his library, the history of Universal Knowledge, in the 2,000 Tons of Good Literature.

Library of Universal Knowledge.

edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with copious additions by American editors, about 15,000 topics being added, to the original work. It will compare, where it does not contain more than Appleton's and 20 per cent more than Johnson's Cyclopædia, but is fraction of the price of either. The work is issued in 10 vols. octavo, of nearly 1,000 pages each. The price of the large type edition in cloth binding is $1.00 per volume, bound in half Russia, gilt top, price $1.50 per volume. According to our usual custom, special terms will be made to early purchasers, and during the month of September only orders for volumes I., II., or III. standing will be received at the nominal price of 65 cents per volume for the cloth, 95 cents per volume for the half Russia, gilt top. As a focus of the Library of Universal Knowledge, the Chambers's Encyclopædia is also published in a variety, complete in 14 volumes of clear nonpareil type, and sold, bound in cloth, for the nominal price of $7.50, or in half Russia, gilt top, for $12.50. Up to the time of publication of this style 12 vols. have already been issued, vol. 13 will be ready September 15, and Vols. 14 and 15 a few days thereafter. On this also special terms are given to early purchasers, the price being to those whose orders are received during September $6.75 for the set complete in cloth, $12.50 for the half Russia gilt top. The volumes already issued will be sent at once by express, and the remainder when completed in October. The Revolution will always furnish the best current literature and accounts of events transpiring September in Belgium we have a Analytical Concordance to the Bible, the great "Webster Unabridged" of religious literature, and a 1,000 page edition of of Smith's Bible Dictionary, our Acme Library of Biography contains 50 of Letters series, at little more than one-tenth the cost heretofore. In Poetry we shall soon have the Iliad and the Odyssey of Homer, translated by Pope, and a large type edition of Shakespeare. In History a cheap edition of the celebrated Froissart's Chronicles, with over 100 illustrations, Fiske, Scott's "Ivanhoe" and Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii." In Juvenile, "Karl in Queerland," "Boy and Girl Captives," "Lost in the Jungle," "Lost in the Desert," "Lost in the Forest," "Lost in the Wilderness," "Lost in the Ice," "Lost in the Mine

A. Heady, Evergreen: "Held our third quarter Sept. 11 12. Received 18 members in full; took up for presiding elder $10 25. The Sunday-school is advancing."

R. Boone, Centre Point: "Several meetings held resulted in 70 accessions. We are trying to build a church 32x50, and have a fine sum on hand. The spirit is working powerfully here."

E. Graves, Meadville: "A protracted meeting in August was continued eight days and nights. We had a happy time, 7 accessions, 1 convert and 1 reclaimed. The circuit is in a prosperous condition."

H. Cawthorn, Enterprise: "I have 3 Sunday-schools and 125 in attendance. Have received 17 full members. At one country church there are 14 conversions and 24 new members, 22 on probation. The work is prospering. Money is scarce, though the crops are very good."

I. B. Griffin, Rosemeath: "I am very anxious to say a few words respecting the progress of religion down on the river during the present year. At first everything seemed to look very gloomy, but we continued to battle against Satan's kingdom. On the 10th of August we commenced a protracted meeting at Holly Grove, which lasted about 12 days and resulted in 46 conversions—all of them but 6 were grown persons. When we had finished there we moved the meeting to Wesley Chapel, where we staid several days on account of the rainy weather, for it rained three or four days and nights down here every week for some time. But through all this the Lord was with us and converted 20 souls. So we have had 66 conversions on this circuit this year. I am glad to say everything looks fair for the future, provided Satan don't break in on them. We ask everybody to pray for their long holding out."

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my people. Mother's name is Viny Bristo; her husband's Allen Bristo, and four children, Oarry, Alzera, Patsy and Manda. Please address me at Belle Prairie, Yazoo Co., Miss.

JAMES CRAIGG.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for a friend, Carter Key. She belonged to James Key, and lived in Macon Co., Ala., 7 or 8 years ago. She had 11 children, Gabe, Rye, Bob, Jack, Elbert and others. Her daughter Amanda I wish to find. Address me at Waelder, Texas.

R. A. McVEA.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my husband's brother, Frank Pierson. Husband's former name Roann Pjerson, but is now Roann Collier. He left Dickson Co., Tenn., where we now live, about 1870. Address me at Cumberland Furnace, Dickson Co., Tenn.

MARIA COLLIER.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my husband and two children, a boy and girl. The boy's name is Cornelius and the girl's Georgia McBride; husband's name is James McBride. They left here four years ago for Trinity, Texas, but I have heard since that they were in Galveston. Address me at Millcan, Texas, in care of Mrs. M. Marshall.

ELMIRA McBRIDE.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for two of my children, Sarah Matilda Jane and Thomas Henderson, who were sold by Henry George to John M. Roe, who took them to Mississippi and sold them. Their sister's names were Maria, Harriet, Lena and Elvira. My name was Viney Fuller, but is now Viney Richardson. Address me at Cedar Grove P. O., Carroll Co., Tenn.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my kin folks whom I left in Kentucky. Frathe's name was Mannel and mother's Easther. I do not know their family name. I cannot tell who either belonged to. I was brought from Lexington, Ky. to Lexington, Tenn., by Mr. Jim Cook. I used to belong to William Ruden. Brother's name was Sam, and sister's Caroline. Address me at Juno, Henderson Co., Texas, in care of Salim Gardner.

ELIZA PHILLIPS.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to make inquiries for three children and a brother, whom I left in Pope Co., Mo. The children's names are Charley, Maria and Lizzie Wilson. Sophy Wilson was the mother of the first two, and she and I belonged to Nat Wilson. Lizzie's mother is Maria Hedge. They lived in Platt Co., of the same State. Brother, Bentley Wilson, lived with Ben Wilson. Bentley's wife was named Judah Wilson. The nearest town to them was Bolivar. My address is Aberdeen, Monroe Co., Miss., in care of G. A. Watkins.

TOM WILSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my mother's kin people. Her father's name was Tom Stronder, and her two brothers were Albert and Frank Stronder. Mother's name was Emily Stronder, but before the war they went by the name of Stowers. We all belonged to John Stowers. Mother left them in Port Gibson and was taken to Mississippi by William Noble. I was born in Mississippi before the war. Please address me at Camp belisville, Yazoo Co., Miss.

Rev. F. HACKEMEIER, Supt. German Protestant Orphans' Home, St. Charles Rock Road, St. Louis Co., writing April 30th, 1877, says: "Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific is a positive cure for Chills and Fever; has never failed with us."
Mr. JNO. C. WELBORN of Keysport, Ill., says: "I cured a little girl of Ague of three years' standing, with Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific, after the best physicians failed to benefit her."
Dr. YOUNGBLOOD of Little York, Mo., says: "I have used Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific in my practice, and can heartily recommend it to the public."

Blancard's PILLS
... life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodine of Iron. The Iodine purifies, the Iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS
is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.
WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT?
You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap.
The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points.
Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing.
It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order, and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth.
A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.
THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER
embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.
THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS:
We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it, consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn.
As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted throats of which prevent its flowing backward, it becomes hotter and hotter, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT. SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.
THE IMPROVED WASHER,
has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.
THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER.
There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc.
The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order.
The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1½ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a boilerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water.
For LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury.
No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon.
For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well known leading journals, viz: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer.
From the Boston Youths' Companion:
"This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever known. We speak from experience when we say this. It is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeeper knows that ordinary modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."
From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880—"Lately we had special reasons for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this belief was due merely to immemorial usage, and had no real foundation in fact; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher.
From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the ROBBINS WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."
From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O.
A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a whole day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a ROBBINS WASHER one girl attends to the washing, cooks dinner at the same time, and has all the clothing hung out to dry, and tubs and wringer and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and also get them to understand that we write this simply and entirely for their benefit, and not at the solicitation of the manufacturers, nor with their knowledge or consent, but we write this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proved to be an article that does all that the manufacturers claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many times the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving in the soap will in a short time pay for the machine.
We advise our readers to send for a washer at once.
In ordering, write plainly your name, postoffice, county and State. Also the name of the express office to which you wish the washer forwarded.
CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ALL ORDERS.
Remit by Post-office Order or Registered Letter. We insure the safe delivery of all washers ordered as above. Money may be sent by draft on New York.

ng with them; it was therefore necessary they should have some experienced Christian woman with them who could have access to families and preach Jesus to the female part of them."

We find Paul saying to the bishops and deacons of Philippi: "I intreat thee also, true yokefellow, help those women who labored with me in the gospel." He speaks in Romans of "Phœbe, servant (or deaconess) of the Church at Cenchrea." Salute "Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labored in the Lord." Dr. Clarke shows that these women taught, or preached.

In his remarks on the first verse of Rom. xvi, he claims that the deaconesses of the Apostolic Churches "were chosen in general out of the most experienced of the Church, and were ordinarily widows—some ancient Constitutions required them to be forty, others fifty, and others sixty years of age. It is evident they were ordained to their office by the imposition of the hands of the Bishop, and the form of prayer used on the occasion is extant in the Apostolical Constitutions. The order became extinct in the Latin Church in the tenth or eleventh century, but was continued in the Greek Church until the twelfth."

Mosheim tell us that the Eastern Churches elected deaconesses in the first century, and the younger Pliny, in his letter to the Emperor Trajan in the second century, tells of his putting two deaconesses to the torture, during the persecutions of that age.

These persons were the servants of the Church, ministering to the sick, and instructing the ignorant; indeed, they exercised all spiritual functions short of the pastoral government, and were ordained to their position.

The great want of the Church today is a holy, devoted, and able auxiliary force of female workers to counter-work the nuns of Rome, and save the children of this nation from their influence, and from the influence of a second danger, godless primary schools, under the care of [illegible] minds.

And now, Doctor, I come to the [illegible] of a new departure for us [illegible] a band of Protestant female teachers, who will each give a [illegible] years' work, at low wages, in parish or primary schools. I [illegible] this desirable evangelical auxiliary force cannot be secured to us and the cause of Christ without a special call from the Church, and [illegible] call impressed on the mind by [illegible] strong enough to counteract the attractions of the world—or, if you please, fashionable life—which, [illegible] its ever-varying and changing [illegible] of style and pleasure, [illegible] the Church with godless thought and practice, injuriously [illegible] woman more than man, [illegible] by reflex action finally damaging man.

Have we any reason to expect [illegible] such a call will be given the [illegible] of this age? I think [illegible] have:

1. The necessity of such a band of [illegible] at this stage in the [illegible] of moral forces now [illegible] the earth.

2. We are now in that period of the [illegible] of the Holy Ghost, [illegible] of destruction from [illegible] we call by common [illegible] "the latter days," [illegible] the civil power of [illegible] is forever [illegible] that twin delusion [illegible] is broken [illegible] fall of Turkey [illegible] deprived of the [illegible] still, [illegible] policy [illegible] with [illegible]

some women may have a special call as teachers; but as Christ emphasises the word teaching in the great commission, naming it twice and baptizing but once, so the functions of the called in this case should be embodied in teaching, ever remembering that the gospel ministry constitute a body of teachers, not of priests. They are but teachers at best, yet appointed to administer the ordinances and government.

As to the ordination of an order of deaconesses, it is not for me to quarrel with the practice of the ancient Church. We find nothing in the Scriptures authorizing it; we are, therefore, under no obligation to follow tradition.

I close this letter by seconding the call of Bishop Warren for devoted workers for the South, and claiming that it is the duty of the Church to furnish an appropriate field for woman's activities and usefulness, so as to utilize and allow the pent-up zeal of hearts moved of God, by giving proper scope for labor in the cause of Christ. The children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light. Rome, with the gathered worldly wisdom of 1260 years, has found many places for devoted but deluded women in parish schools, in hospitals, orphan asylums, and other forms of charity, which appeal to the public conscience and benevolence of man, and aid in enslaving the nations by the tender links of affection for such devoted women. Well do Jesuits know the power of this arm of their system. Woman's heart is the last stronghold of that doomed Church.

Will not our Church give us an organization—a "Ladies' Home Mission and Educational Society"—to furnish evangelical school teachers to the needy sections of our land? We need the teacher as well as the preacher.—N. Y. Advocate.

Letter from Kansas.

The State of Kansas has for its southern boundary line the parallel of thirty-seven degrees, and for its northern the parallel of forty degrees north latitude. The adjoining States and Territories are, on the east, Missouri; on the north, Nebraska; on the south the Indian Territory, and on the west, Colorado. The dimensions of the State are four hundred and thirty miles long and two hundred and ten miles wide. Its area contains ninety thousand square miles—over two million acres. Prophecy is not yet bold enough to declare all the magnificent future of this great and growing young State, whose early history is written in the blood of her best men. The glories of Kansas have been the fertile theme of a throng of our best writers. In 1832, when all the Territory lay a native wilderness, Washington Irving, journeying in its southeastern confines, sounded the paean to "its brilliant skies, its bland and benignant atmosphere, its rare, pure, electrical and inspiring air, its beautiful champaign, its flowery plains and sloping uplands, its diversity of groves and long screens of woodland, its far-stretching motionless billows of prairie—landscapes there wearing an aspect of complete and even ornamental culture." In 1854 Horace Greeley, the philosopher, one of the most eminent of American writers, a man of facts, ventured to assign to Kansas an ultimate rank in wealth, population and power the third in the Union, next only to the great States of New York and Pennsylvania.

The exact interior position of the State is midway of the continent, both north and south and east and west, on the great highway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It requires no phrophetic sweep of foresight to mark it as the future [illegible] of these United States! The fertility of its soil, its health[illegible] rigorous climate, its grand [illegible] superior educational system, [illegible] liberty loving, sober and industrious inhabitants, bespeak for it a [illegible] yet untold. In every great [illegible] movement, having for [illegible] the amelioration of mankind, Kansas takes the lead. In [illegible] to the still small voice [illegible] "come up higher," this fall [illegible] witness one of the grandest [illegible] of the nineteenth century [illegible] temperance [illegible] by that noble [illegible] St. John, shall [illegible] by their [illegible] the crowning act of her history. So mote it be.

In my next I shall endeavor to give a description of southern Kansas. Will try to "condense" or "boil down" my articles in order to insure their publication. My friends in west Texas are deeply interested in this portion of Kansas. I refer to them because they know me best. Will aim to write the truth and nothing but the truth.

Buford's Chapel.

Away up in the northwestern corner of Lafayette county, Mississippi, stands a comfortable little house of worship whose name heads this article. About five years ago Bro. L. B. Griffin, a young minister of pluck, organized a Methodist society at this place. It started with a small band of zealous workers, and to-day its membership is about eighty in number. While this church has grown so rapidly in members, it has also drawn such a large attendance that we contemplate an enlargement of the building. During a protracted meeting of two weeks twenty-one souls were converted to God and fourteen united with the church. There are some ministers whose eloquent voices caused this church to rejoice in the past that will be happy to hear of her spiritual prosperity.

Elder J. G. Johnson held his third quarterly conference for the Abbeville circuit at this church on the second Sunday in August. On Sunday he opened our protracted effort by preaching the most instructive sermon we ever heard, from the text "Thy will be done," after which the meeting was conducted by our minister, Rev. M. H. Foster. He deserves success for his physical endurance and great success. Brethren, pray for the prosperity of Zion.

C. A. BUFORD.

College Hill, Miss., Sept. 19, 1880.

The Lyceum.

We have elsewhere suggested the value of the "Lyceum" as a sphere for pastoral influence. Multitudes of our young people are "out of school." They never expect to return. The doors once opened are closed, and closed forever. Each added yaar of life brings to them new regret that school days were not improved, and that now it is too late to return to them and their opportunities. Work in field, shop, or store occupies most of the day and part of the evening. "It is too late to get an education," is the mournful exclamation of these people. With this conviction comes a dead-weight of discouragement, and as one's mind must be occupied, our regretful youth goes into society, or reads weak and hurtful books and pamphlets, and falls into bad habits—intellectual and social.

There are full grown men and women who moan over the same early neglect. Their homes and their children soon bear melancholy witness to the poverty of thought and taste and conversation which is the outcome of educational failure.

Now, in this world of busy brains and busy printing presses and multitudinous books and papers, it must be possible to make up to some extent for the lack of other years. There must be hope and help for our farmer boys, our journeymen, our sewing and shop girls, our fathers and mothers. Where shall we look for this help and inspiration? To the clubs of sceptics? To the unregulated local town library? To the cheap news-stand? Or to the Church? Who shall lay claim to the six days of unconsecrated time and opportunity each week? Shall it be the world? Shall it be the devil? Shall it be ministers of God through Church agencies?

The "Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle" has answered this question in part and with wonderful success. The "Lyceum" course of study adopted under the educational scheme of the Discipline of our Church has also answered this question. Shall these answers echo through the Church? Shall we save our young people intellectually and socially? Shall we educate our homes? Shall we wash out the channels, now full of weak and wicked literature, by pouring into them under skillful direction a torrent of pure, wholesome, living water every week?

Pastors: We appeal to you. Will you gain a hold upon these [illegible] factors—literature and education—and wield them in the interest of a broad, high-toned, spiritual life, or will you turn them over to the world?

Superintendents: We appeal to you. Can you not induce teachers and older pupils to take up a course of secular reading and thus open broad and blessed possibilities to those now living in a narrow world and under the bondage of prejudice, indolence, and bad habit?

Teachers: We appeal to you. Are not some of your pupils old enough to take up a course of simple reading in history, literature, art, and science, requiring, say, about thirty minutes a day, by which (if they persevere) they may complete a very respectable course of training in a few years? Propose the matter to them. Tell them how they may do this. Inspire and direct them. They will bless God, years hence, for your ministry to them.

Pupil: We appeal to you. Let us suppose that you are from sixteen years of age and upward. You have had no advanced "schooling"? You missed your chance years ago. It is too late now to go back to check apron, spelling-book and slate-pencil. But you can begin now and acquire an education—a very respectable education. You can give a few minutes a day to it and in a few years finish our course and receive your diploma, and take up after-courses and finish them and add seal after seal to your diploma. You can form new tastes in literature. You can improve your much-neglected memory. You can gradually accumulate a valuable library. You can discover your peculiar points of power and develop them and become a specialist in the department of thought, reading, and research to which you are particularly adapted. Will you try?

By dropping a line to the Editor of the Sunday school Journal, 805 Broadway, New York, you will receive circulars setting forth in detail these schemes of study. Let us hear from you.—Sunday-school Journal.

National Local Preachers' Convention.

The Twenty-third Annual Meeting of the National Local Preachers' Association, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be held in the Fayette Street M. E Church, Baltimore, Md, commencing Saturday morning, Oct. 16th, and closing the following Tuesday night.

Delegates from all Conferences, District and City Local Preachers' Associations, will be received, and where no regular organization exists, local preachers in good standing will be accredited as delegates. Properly accredited local preachers of any branch of Methodism will be received as corresponding or fraternal delegates.

Essays upon important topics will be read by able writers, and afterwards discussed by the body; programme will be announced here after. It is expected delegates will be present and represent the English Wesleyan body; one of the fraternal delegates has arrived and is now visiting different points to see our great country. It is expected the usual railroad and steam boat arrangements will be made.

List of delegates should be sent at the earliest day to Rev. C. W Greenfield, 235 Lexington street, Secretary Local Committee, Baltimore, Md., and homes will be provided. Also send duplicates of the names of all delegates to W. H. Kincaid, Secretary of the Association, Lock Box 367, Pittsburgh, Pa., to prepare roll.

D. R. WHEELER, D D., Pres't.
WM. H. KINCAID, Secretary.

Pastors of every branch of Methodism will please inform their local preachers of this convention.

Whipping in Georgia.

The following account, dated Hoboken, Ga, Sept. 20, 1880, comes to us from a responsible source: "Last night a young man by the name of Milledge Rogers and Gilbert Williams and Harmon Williams, were taken out of their house and whipped. Two men came to the house at about 9 o'clock, and presented their pistols, told them if they did not come out they would blow their brains out. They were taken to a store, where the crowd met them, and carried them to the woods, and whipped them till they were nearly dead. I have seen Rogers since, and if what I hear is true the two Williamses will hardly live to see night come. They would probably have been killed if some of the neighbors had not come to their assistance. They were then told that if they were found anywhere around the next night that they would finish them. The names of some of the persons who committed the outrage are known."—Atlanta Methodist Advocate.

Gen. Grant's Speech.

Gen Grant, who presided at a Republican mass meeting in Warren, Ohio, September 28, read a written speech giving the reasons for which he adheres to the Republican party. He said:

"I am a Republican, as the two great political parties are now divided, because the Republican party is a national party, seeking the greatest good for the greatest number of citizens.

"There is not a precinct in this vast nation where a Democrat cannot cast his ballot and have it counted as cast, no matter what the prominence of the opposite party. He can proclaim his political opinions even if he is only one among a thousand, without molestation, without proscription on account of his opinions. There are fourteen States, and localities in some other States, where Republicans have not this privilege. This is one reason why I am a Republican. But I am a Republican for a great many other reasons. The Republican party assures protection to life and property, the public credit and payment of the debts of the government, State, county or municipal, so far as it can control. The Democratic party does not promise this. If it does, it has broken its promises to the extent of hundreds of millions, as many Northern Democrats can testify to their sorrow. I am a Republican, as between existing parties, because it fosters the production of field and farm and of manufactories, and it encourages general education of the poor as well as the rich. The Democratic party discourages all these. When in absolute power the Republican party is a party of progress and liberality toward its opponents; it encourages the poor to strive to better their conditions, the ignorant to educate their children, to enable them to compete successfully with their more fortunate associates, and, in fine, it secures an entire equality before the law of every citizen, no matter what his race, nationality or previous condition. It tolerates no privileged class; every one has an opportunity to make himself all he is capable of.

"Ladies and gentlemen, do you believe this can be truthfully said in greater part of fourteen of the States of this Union to-day, which the Democratic party control absolutely?

"The Republican party is a party of principles—the same principles prevailing wherever it has a foothold. The Democratic party is united on but one thing, and that is getting control of the government in all its branches. It is for internal improvements at the expense of the government in one section and against this in another. It favors repudiation of solemn obligations in one section and honest payment of its debts in another, where public opinion will not tolerate any other view. It favors fiat money in one place and good money in another.

"Finally, it favors the pooling of all issues not favored by the Republicans, to the end that it may secure the one principle upon which the party is a most harmonious unit, namely, gaining control of the government in all its branches. I have been in some part of every State lately in rebellion within the last year. I was most hospitably received at every place where I stopped. My receptions were not by the Union class alone, but by all classes without distinction. I had free talks with many who were against us in the war, and who have been against the Republican party ever since. They were in all instances reasonable men, judged by what they said. I believed then and believe now that they sincerely want a breakup in this solid South political condition. They see that it is to their pecuniary interest as well as to their happiness that there should be harmony and confidence between all sections. They want to break away from the slavery which binds them to a party name. They want a pretext that enough of them can unite upon to make it respectable. Once started, the solid South will go as Ku-kluxism did before, as admirably told by Judge Tourgee in his "Fool's Errand."

"When the break comes those who start it will be astonished to find how many of their friends have been in favor of it for a long time, and have only been waiting to see some one take the lead. This desirable solution can only be attained by defeat, and continued defeat of the Democratic party as now constituted."

Gen Grant was followed by Senators Conkling and Logan.

Sectionalism and Gush.

BY EMERSON BENTLEY.

A leading daily of New Orleans recently mentioned, in all seriousness, that since the close of the war Southern military companies had been cordially received in Northern cities, and Northern military companies had been welcomed in Southern cities. The editor saw in this a cheerful sign of the disappearance of sectionalism, which was only kept alive by shallow-pated political leaders against the wishes of the masses. He might have added a number of instances to illustrate his theme. For instance, "since the war," Southern people have gone to Northern watering places and drank and danced with Northern people; Southern and Northern delegates have met on terms of equality in political and commercial conventions; and on the floor of Congress Southern and Northern brigadiers have taken oaths of loyalty to the Union. Also in a dreamy moment of gush, after referring to the nomination of the Northern General Hancock by Southern Democrats, he might have observed that he (the editor) resided on one end of the Mississippi river while another good Democrat lived on the other.

It is one of the plainest facts confronting the student of history that all parts of the United States are settled by descendants of a common ancestry, with originally like traits of character. The latter have undergone some modifications in contact with the institution of slavery, which in a few years after its introduction on this continent became a subject of sectional solicitude and defense. The common schools and freedom of speech were restricted and still continue to be. Churches followed the political lead, and there are to this day denominations with "South" or "Southern" as their sectional brand to distinguish them from denominations of like doctrines of a national character. All schemes of fraternization between them are in embryo, if not hopeless. There is no room for gush on this point. In elections for office, and criticism of public men, fidelity to the "South" is the main criterion. Honest, loyal men like John Hancock of Texas, or D. H. Chamberlain of South Carolina, are politically outlawed because they are national and not sectional in their antecedents and creed.

The "Solid South," made by criminal defiance of national laws, pledges her 138 electoral votes, through her acknowledged political leaders, to Gen. Hancock, not because of his record as a national soldier, but because of his political service to sectionalists by order No. 20. All the gush and flattery of Democratic editors can not hide that fact from Hancock's comrades in arms, or the great Northern constituency which embraces in the highest degree the wealth, intelligence and statesmanship of the country.

The worst enemies of the South are her present sectional leaders in the Democratic ranks. They are postponing the time of real reconciliation and enveloping great material interests in a torrent of dreamy gush about Democratic ascendency under the guidance of a national soldier. The curse of sectionalism is the most dreaded of all evils threatening national prosperity, and the Northern voters are ready to meet it. They have met the issue in Oregon, Vermont and Maine and the verdict is clear. Hancock is to share the fate of McClellan, Seymour, Greeley and Tilden. No great name or record can mask the heresy, or atone for its sins. Gen. Garfield spoke for national millions when he said:

> It is certain that the wounds of the war can not be completely healed, and the spirit of brotherhood can not fully pervade the whole country until every citizen, rich or poor, white or black, is secure in the free and equal enjoyment of every civil and political right guaranteed by the constitution and the laws.

There is no sectionalism in it.—Donaldsonville Chief.

Design of Baptism.

God organized His Church on earth first in the family of Abraham. From that time to the present, there have been visible ordinances in the Church by divine appointment. The first was circumcision. At a later period various other ordinances were instituted, chiefly bloody sacrifices and ablutions. When the new dispensation was introduced the burdensome ritual of the Jewish dispensation was removed, and in its stead two simple and significant ordinances instituted—the Lord's supper and Baptism. I hold this fact, that there has always been in the Church an ordinance to signify the regeneration of the heart, that this ordinance represents and confirms the application of the righteousness of Christ to the heart by the Holy Ghost—and that the same ordinance has always stood as an initiatory to membership in the visible Church. This ordinance is circumcision under the old dispensation, and baptism under the new. Circumcision was a sign of the circumcision of the heart or regeneration. See Rom. 2: 29—But he is a Jew which is one inwardly, and circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter. Also Col. 2: 11. It also represented and confirmed the application of atoning merit to the heart. Rom. 4: 11. Abraham received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet, being uncircumcised, and this faith was imputed to him for righteousness. So baptism signifies the washing of regeneration, or the baptism of the Holy Ghost. "Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins." It also confirms the union with Christ. Then they that gladly received his words were baptized. It would be quite easy for me to show that the Church has never been without an ordinance figurative of the sufferings of Christ for man's salvation. These bloody sacrifices which pointed forward to the mournful scene on Calvary were replaced by the simple, yet significant ordinance of the Lord's supper. [illegible] the great design of the ordinances in the Church has always been to portray and keep in vivid remembrance the two great events in the Church's history, compared with which all other event sinks into insignificance. These events are the [illegible] of a system of grace through the sufferings of Christ, and the application of that grace in the regeneration of the human soul. The two events in the dealings of the Creator with the creature are the chief glory of the Gospel. They are subjects of wonder and rejoicing to the angels on high. In view of the first, John, in his sublime vision on the island of Patmos, saw in the celestial city the number of ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands with a loud voice, giving glory, honor, riches, power and strength to the lamb that was slain, and in view of the second we are told that there is more joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth than over ninety and nine [illegible] no repentance. [illegible] Church, with its [illegible] and sublime ordinances, is intended to keep these [illegible] events vividly in the [illegible] of the Christian [illegible] members of the [illegible] attend to [illegible] do testify that [illegible] that the children [illegible] of the spirit. [illegible] Baptist friends affirm, [illegible] to represent [illegible] resurrection [illegible] in [illegible] day—the [illegible] for one ordinance is enough to represent one thing. By the Baptist view of the design of baptism, the conversion of the soul, which had been figured ordinance in the Church for more than two thousand years, is entirely overlooked by the Gospel ordinances. If the Baptist view of this subject is correct baptism has never fulfilled its proper mission, for there is no mode of baptism now practiced which even faintly represents the death, burial and resurrection of Christ, or any one of them. I know it is claimed that immersion does this. But does the subject, before he is immersed die? Does he even feign to die? If not, how does he represent the death of Christ? Christ died before he was buried. But even this would fill the case, for Christ was put to death. Moreover, immersion under water no more represents the burial and resurrection of Christ than the washing of a man's face and hands does. Christ was not buried as people are buried at the present day. His body was never put down under the ground; it was wrapped in fine linen and laid in a new sepulchre hewn in a rock above the ground. This sepulchre, as was the custom at that day, had an entrance large enough for at least several persons to stand in it at once. This will all appear true to any one who will read the circumstances of the Savior's burial recorded by the evangelists. Now where is the resemblance in the act of Joseph and Nicodemus—John 19: 38-42—taking the dead body of Christ in their hands and walking into the sepulchre and leaving it there, and that of a minister of the Gospel going into a pool of water by the side of a living man and putting him down under the water and walking out with him? Why there is just no resemblance at all. In the burial of Christ those who buried him were as much under the ground as the dead body was, but in immersion the administrator is certainly not under the water as much as the subject is. They were surrounded by a solid rock and the body of Christ did not touch soil, but in immersion the subject certainly touches water. Christ was buried entirely by other persons, but in the burial of water, when the subject wades into from two to four feet of water, he buries himself that high up and the preacher only buries the other part of him. Christ stayed in his grave until the morning of the third day, but the subject never stays in the liquid grave even till the third minute; three seconds of time is more than usual. There is not a shade of resemblance that I can discover between the raising up of a man out of water in the act of immersion, and the resurrection of Christ. The subject of immersion is raised by a power not his own; Christ was raised by a power all his own. Baptists seem to think that if they can represent the rising up of the body they represent the miracle of resurrection. The miracle of resurrection consists not in the rising up of the body but in the restoration of life to a dead body. And it has always been a matter of astonishment to me that there was ever a mind so singularly productive of ideas as to discern that the work of Divinity in the restoration of life to a dead body could be represented by the rising of a body out of water. If any Baptist thinks that my object in writing this and what shall follow in opposition to their views, is to hurt feelings or proselyte, he does but imagine vain things. Both are very foreign from my purpose. I trust I have too much Christian charity to be willing to hurt the feelings of any one, much less one who is my joint heir of an eternal inheritance. If I could add anything to the present stock of piety in the world by proselyting I would go at it soon, otherwise I shall let it alone. My object in writing is to contribute my little mite to strengthen my brethren in their most precious faith. Our doctrines are so often most unmercifully assailed and so many arduous efforts are made to ridicule our practices, that we must defend ourselves once in a while. Let not the [illegible] complain that I make use [illegible] language, as long as they [illegible] of one mode of baptism [illegible] foolish, as assumed [illegible] language [illegible] is taken [illegible] I hold that [illegible] the regeneration [illegible] of the [illegible] justifica[illegible] It is said, [illegible] be administered [illegible]

God. In addition to the foregoing I will submit the following remarks. The Baptist denomination claim to be the regular successors of the primitive disciples, and that they derive their baptism from John the Baptist. They also claim that baptism, in part at least, represents the burial and resurrection of Christ. If baptism represents the burial and resurrection of Christ now it did the same in the days of John the Baptist, and the early disciples. But that such was not the case is palpable from the following considerations. The apostles did not understand baptism to represent the burial and resurrection of Christ. Because Christ alluding to the prophecies, said to the twelve—Luke 18:33—"And they shall scourge him and put him to death, and the third day he shall rise again," and in the next verse it is said, "And they understood none of these things." Now if John's baptism represented the burial and resurrection, and the apostles baptized do represent the same, is it not inexplicable that they did not understand the language, "and the third day he shall rise again." Thomas did not understand baptism to represent the burial and resurrection, for after Christ had risen he was found to be a disbeliever in the resurrection. Now, where these facts are so plain, how inconsistent and conflicting for the Baptists to boast of having the baptism of John the Baptist. It is charging the apostles with being profoundly ignorant of the very thing set forth by the baptism which they practiced. John's baptism was a figure, and what that figure was is easily seen in the following passages and others: "I baptize with water, he shall baptize with the Holy Ghost, and it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, that I will pour out my spirit on all flesh." And Peter, in the Acts II, when telling of the conversion of Cornelius and others, says, "And as I began to speak unto them, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning. Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said: 'John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.'" These quotations make it plain that John's baptism was a figure of the work of the Holy Ghost. And these are only specimens of a large number of passages which can be produced to establish my views of the design of baptism as set forth in this article.

The Car Drivers.

The New Orleans Street Railroad Men's Association, W. H. Yates, President, submitted a written request to President Wintz, of the City Railroad Company, to prohibit station boarding houses. Mr. Wintz declined to take cognizance of it as the signers were not employes of his line. He said drivers could board where they pleased, provided there was no tardiness in reporting for work. He wanted his hands to be satisfied, and would do all in his power to correct abuses that might have existed heretofore without his knowledge.

The New Orleans Times of the 3d, summarized the grounds of opposition to station boarding houses:

The car drivers believe station boarding houses "tend toward the degradation of manhood," and to impose upon them unnecessary restrictions. This is probably the case, not too strongly stated. To say nothing of poor and insufficient food, absence of ordinary conveniences and animated bedding, it is reasonable to suppose that the car drivers would develop their manhood sooner as heads of families or in homes of their own selection than they would in compulsory attendance at a station boarding house.

General experience shows that the congregation of men, by themselves, away from the social influences of the other sex, is not conducive to the highest degree of morals. During the extension of railroad lines, and beyond the accessible limits of proper accommodation, railroad companies are justified in housing and feeding their men; but in a large city, where hundreds annually take out licenses to run hotels and private boarding houses, there appears to be no excuse for a railroad company to attempt a monopoly in the business. It is to be hoped that the city railroad authorities will grant the request of the car drivers, or cease to make the patronage of their boarding houses a compulsory requisite in the employment of faithful and capable men. This concession could be gracefully made.

What Does it Mean?

In the official proceedings of the Board of School Directors of the parish of Terrebonne, published in the Courier, September 25, is found the following:

On motion of A. Jolet, Jr., seconded by H. M. Johnson. Be it resolved, That the white voters of the second ward in which Capt. J. M. Sanders resides, hold an election in said school ward, on Saturday, the 2d day of October 1880, to decide whether or not they authorize this Board to sell the following property donated to said particular school ward, the price of sale to inure to the use of said school:

A certain tract of land situated on the left descending bank of Bayou Terrebonne, measuring 28 feet front on said bayou, by a depth of 142½ feet, bounded above, below, and in the rear by land of Catharine Pitre.

Some of our readers desire to know what is meant by an election by white voters, officially ordered by this school board. Is the fifteenth amendment recognized in Terrebonne?

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

W. H. Ogburne, Enterprise: "Our Sunday-school is doing good at this time, with an average of 80 pupils. We expect to have a Sunday school mass meeting on October 10th."

L. L. Shumpert, Okolona: "The Union Grove circuit is in a good condition. In our protracted meetings 35 were received in full connection, 50 on probation, conversions this year 53, baptized 38."

TEXAS.

M. A. Daugherty, San Antonio: "We have just let the contract for putting the pews in our new church. This completes the inside and gives us one of the most attractive church buildings in the State. We hope to see the power and glory of God in this sanctuary and the salvation of a multitude."

John Jackson, Marion circuit: "We have four Sunday-schools and have built two new churches this year. Have received to date by letter 11, on probation 19, conversions 26, reclaimed 40. This has been a year of returning for backsliders. Pray that they may grow strong in the faith."

LOUISIANA.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—On Thursday night, September 16th, as the Rev. Robt. Anderson was preaching at Mount Pisgah M. E. Church, (colored) Centreville, a line shot struck two feet above his head, passing through the church. The congregation became very much alarmed, but Rev. Anderson held them in control. The ball was from the Springfield rifle of George Mills, who during the evening had been under the influence of liquor, and had fired at Rev. Anderson by the light of the church lamps through the windows, from off the road.—Morgan City Review.

The Review publishes the particulars of the shooting of the ruffian Mills, by a citizen of Centreville named Crawford, shortly after the occurrence mentioned above. Mills armed with his rifle riddled the dwelling house of Crawford, to the terror of its occupants, and a day or two afterward was overtaken by Crawford, who fired a load of buckshot into the neck and brain of Mills. A coroner's jury declared it justifiable homicide.

P. Landay, Donaldsonville: "We thank Him from whom all blessings flow that we too are able to boast of His goodness, and for the diffusion of His holy spirit in this part of the vineyard. The general health of our people during the summer just past has been exceptionally good. They are now taking advantage of the great rice harvest which is now going on, and must soon give way for Louisiana's favorite staple (sugar). The Missionary Band of our church gave an entertainment for the benefit of the church and netted $38.20. Spiritually, we are pleased to say that we rejoice in the conversion of eight persons, who now profess their faith in the religion of Christ, and the return of four backsliders to the sheep fold. On Sunday night last Rev. J. W. Hudson, of Franklin, La., assisted by the Rev. R. S. Stuart, rector of the Episcopal church in this place, preached to a fair audience, who, in spite of a threatened storm, made their way to the church to hear our good brother and fellow-laborer. We read with great pleasure the accounts given by our worthy presiding elder, Dr. J. C. Hartzell, of his tour through the heart of Louisiana. A more interesting and complete account could hardly be given, though one might have given the subject years of study. We pray that the account thus given of this wealthy region of our State may be the opening of a broad road to her resources, and that the angel of peace—substantial peace—may preside over her destiny."

Letter from Batesville.

BATESVILLE, Ark., Sept. 27, 1880.

There is a mistake in Bro. A. W. Decker's article in your paper of the 16th inst. He speaks of some "lamentable and sad scenes in the Little Rock Conference at its session in the spring of 1878." These "scenes" should be placed to the credit of the Arkansas Conference, for it was at this session of the conference that the Little Rock Conference came into existence. We pray that no such prejudice on account of color as was shown in that notable session may ever disgrace the pure history of our young conference (the Little Rock).

But another phase of this sin of the age (caste) is presented by our good brother Decker. He has more than thirty members in his charge which Southern sentiment says should not belong to the Austin Conference. But they are there! How will the powers that be get them out? It will not do to mix the work, for that would "destroy all our white work," said a delegate to the last General Conference. Well, what can be done? It will never do to be Christ-like and let them stay together. We cannot predict. It may be that there being no loyal way out, the Texas Conference will have to send up a preacher and make his mission a special one; namely, to split a society in another conference, which if a preacher should do—all being of one color—he would be handled at the next session of this conference for sowing dissnion. Thus we fear that in the case of our folks in Denison, the pastor, presiding elder, bishop, two annual conferences, the law of the Church, and the gospel of God's dear Son will all have to bow to the goddess of "color line." We wait with suppressed breath to see if these honest Methodists are to be bound, hand and foot, and cast out into the darkness of a colored conference because they did not have on the wedding garment—a white skin.

In the mean time we say God bless Bro. Decker in his fidelity to right.

Columbus District Conference.

The district conference for Columbus district, West Texas conference, convened at Gonzales August 25, 1880. It was opened with appropriate religious services. Committees were appointed on Church, Finance, Temperance, and Sunday-school literature. The forenoon of each day of the session was devoted entirely to Sunday-school work, under the direction of Rev. G. O. Richardson, principal of the West Texas Conference Seminary, and Mrs. C. A. Richardson, the wife of the presiding elder, who gave us much valuable help in learning to use the International lesson series. The afternoons were devoted to the business part of the conference, and to regular theological drill of the preachers' class. The reports from the pastors showed that there had been conversions on almost every circuit in the district. Some of them—as Columbus circuit, Alleyton, Luling and Lockhart—had enjoyed very extensive revivals, and all the others showed that they had not been idle. The number of conversions in the district as reported will foot up more than 500. The Sunday-schools of the district are generally on the increase. On Saturday the committees brought in their reports as follows.

ON FINANCE.—Your committee are convinced that our people are willing to support their preachers and will do it liberally if the right plans are adopted for collecting. We therefore recommend that all our class-leaders should use the regular Church Class Book, and keep an account of the contributions of each member of his class weekly. We further recommend that all our members should pay twenty five cents a month or more according as the Lord hath prospered them.

ON TEMPERANCE.—Resolved, That it is the duty of our preachers to secure temperance books and papers and scatter them among their people, preach temperance sermons and to carefully teach the temperance Sunday-school lessons found with the International series. 2d. That we ask the pastors of this district not to nominate for stewards any man that uses intoxicating drinks. 3d. That we reaffirm the action of the General Conference in regard to Sacramental wine. If we cannot procure the unfermented juice of the grape, we will take some kind of fruit jelly and dissolve and use it instead.

ON SUNDAY-SCHOOL LITERATURE.—The "Good Tidings," containing the International Sunday-school lessons, is published expressly for free distribution, and can be had by making application to Rev. J. M. Freeman, D.D., 805 Broadway, New York. Therefore resolved, 1. That it is the duty of each pastor to see that his Sunday-schools are supplied. 2d. As the "Sunday-School Teachers' Journal" is the best help that teachers can possibly have to explain each lesson in the "Good Tidings," it is the duty of pastors, superintendents and teachers to supply themselves with this valuable help. 3d. As these helps will avail little or nothing unless properly studied, it is the duty of the pastor to appoint and attend weekly teachers' meetings.

The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE contains the news and notices of our home work, and has ever labored in the interest of the oppressed; Resolved, That it is the duty of each official member to take the SOUTHWESTERN and to encourage every Methodist family to do the same.

Resolutions of thanks were presented to the presiding elder and his excellent wife, and to Prof. Richardson for the great interest they have taken in our people: also to the good people of Gonzales for their entertainment, and especially to the pastor and his wife for their untiring effort to make the district conference comfortable.

The Sabbath of the conference was the "great day of the feast." At 9:30 the Sunday-school assembled and was conducted by Prof. Richardson according to the plans in which he had been training the Sunday-school workers. The house was crowded at the opening. These were all, old and young, organized into classes and were taught by these trained teachers. The Richardsons have demonstrated the fact that old people who cannot read can be taught the regular Sunday-school lessons.

At the 11 o'clock service the elder gave a Bible reading on "Holiness," which was listened to with intense interest. At 3 o'clock Mrs. Richardson gave a Bible reading on "Temperance." The amount of scripture that was selected and arranged for that reading was perfectly overwhelming. The audience was pleased and surprised to find that the Bible was such a strong temperance book. Mrs. Richardson's remarks, explaining and illustrating the readings, have made a profound impression on all hearers.

The conference closed Sunday night. During the week revival meetings were held every night with some success.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Oct. 10. 1880.—JACOB AND ESAU.

SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 27: 22-40.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Turn not to the right hand nor to the left: remove thy foot from evil."—Pr. 4: 27.

TOPIC.—God Blessing with Power.

(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

It is not unlikely, and indeed is most probable, that the antenatal prediction in regard to Jacob and Esau, that the elder should serve the younger, was known both to Isaac and to Jacob, if not to Esau. The assumption of such a knowledge makes clear the whole story of Jacob's attempt to secure, first, Esau's cession of his claims as first-born to the birthright, and, second, the confirmation of his title through the paternal blessing. It was for a moment's gratification that Esau surrendered the covenant blessing. No doubt he was hungry, and no doubt he was faint, but if he had not been a sensualist he would not have been willing to have made so wretched a bargain. Fully understanding what he did, Esau confirmed his sale with an oath. People are likely to be attracted most by their opposites, and, therefore, we can see how Isaac, himself a man of quiet and uneventful life, most was drawn toward the vigorous and active out-of-door man, Esau, and why Rebekah, who was of a restless, scheming turn, had her affections most drawn out by the domestic, home-loving Jacob. It was these unwise preferences that led to the complications of which our lesson treats. It was a contest between Isaac and Rebekah. Isaac appears equally to have been culpable with his wife. For it is evident that he meant to bless Esau in a way that should be unknown to the others. The arrangement was intended to be secret. Rebekah accidentally, or it may be, pryingly, overheard, and prepared to foil the purpose of her husband, and make him pronounce the blessing upon Jacob whether he would or no. Jacob hesitates, not from principle, but from prudence. He is afraid that the deception may be detected, and, in that event, that he may receive his father's curse instead of his blessing. But the mother overrules her son. She is willing to take all the consequences upon herself. She makes ready for the trial with shrewd cunning and forethought. 1. She makes savory meat. The kids of goats are tender, and she knew that a good cook with them could impose upon almost any man, especially one whose perceptions had been dulled by extreme age. 2. She took Esau's raiment and put it upon Jacob. Why? Because she cunningly foresaw that Jacob might be asked to go near to his father, and if he should, his own garments would be likely to betray him; for they smelled of the sheepfold, whereas those of Esau smelled of the fields! 3. She put the fine soft wool of the kids of the goats upon his hands and upon his neck, so that if Isaac should feel for the hairy hands and neck of Esau, he would find that which would allay his suspicions. Apparently, both conspirators were aware that, on account of Jacob's voice, suspicions were liable to be aroused, and hence the necessity of evidence sufficient to lull them. And with these preparations they were ready for the trial. Two things had tended to arouse the mistrust of Isaac. 1. The savory meat had been prepared in an incredibly short time, considering that one had to hunt the game of which it was supposed to be made. 2. The voice was the voice of Jacob. He tried by searching questions, and by the one certain sense that was left to him to make sure that it was his favorite son. In reply to his father's very probing question, he had reiterated his assertion that he was his very son Esau. Jacob's position was not a comfortable one. Every moment he must have been afraid of conviction. And if he were discovered, then he was likely to receive his father's curse. And he dreaded that as much as he coveted his father's blessing! Having been brought into a comfortable physical state by the pleasant meal in which he had indulged, and, now, lifted up by the thoughts brought in by the smell of the odors of the fields, a real inspiration seems to have seized upon Isaac, and he spoke with the authority of a prophet. Esau, also, comes in for his share of reprobation in this matter. While he was roaming over the fields for game, it is hardly conceivable that he was not a little triumphant at what was to take place, when he returned. Now, he thought he would get even with Jacob! That bargain over that mess of pottage would go for naught. The birthright should be his, after all. Isaac trembled, with sorrow and indignation on [illegible] of being tricked, and with [illegible] for his best beloved son. He blamed every one but himself! God has many blessings for the humble. But Esau desired one that would be the equal of Jacob's. Isaac answered his appeal by detailing what he had given to his brother, and then asks, "What shall I now do unto thee, my son?" Isaac in endeavoring to interfere with the divine will, his own peace of mind was disturbed, and war was introduced into his household. Rebekah soon was obliged to part with her favorite son to avoid the wrath of Esau. Jacob, without the double portion, and, indeed, without any portion at all, was compelled to flee from home to escape from Esau, and remained an exile for forty years. As he had deceived, deception was practiced upon him, Laban changing his wages ten times, and giving him Leah instead of Rachel to wife, as he had agreed. All through his life, in fact, he seems to have suffered in retribution for this sin. The most cruel return was when his own sons deceptively brought the coat of his favorite boy, stained with blood, that he might believe that he had been slain by a wild beast. Esau lost the coveted blessing, and in heart, though not in fact, became a murderer. If any portion of the Scriptures emphatically teach the necessity of honesty before God and man, our lesson contains that portion.

Set back 42 years.

"I was troubled for many years with Kidney Complaint, Gravel, &c.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive; could hardly crawl about; was an old worn out man all over; could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood and kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72, and I have no doubt it will do as well for others of my age. It is worth a trial."—(Father.)

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by Physicians Druggists and the Press.

The manufacturers received a special award and the only medal given for porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Nothing Equals the New La. Remedy,

a product of the swamps of Louisiana, discovered by the Indians. It contains no poison, and is delicious to the taste. Unequaled as SOOTHING SIRUP for children. It has been sent to more than twenty States, and to England, and is everywhere winning golden opinions.

Fourteen pages of names of Home References and piles of documents steadily increasing, attest its extraordinary merits.

From the same vegetable product of our swamps, LIFE TONIC is prepared for chills and fever, Debility, Scrofula, Diarrhœa, poor appetite, etc. The epidemic in New Orleans of 1878 proved it a perfect preventive of yellow fever and all other fevers. Contains NO poison. Sold by druggists and country merchants.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their last sessions made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with the NEW HYMNAL, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with HYMNALS and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the HYMNAL at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price.

Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services in which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the best forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song. "JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 130 Tunes in full, and 232 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 125 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

CLOTH, flexible, 30 cents per copy; $3 per dozen; $24 per hundred.

BOARD (the usual style of Sunday-school singing-books) 25 cents per copy; $2.50 per dozen; $20 per hundred.

PAPER, 20 cents per copy; $2 per dozen; $16 per hundred.

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $500 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. C. C. Goss, 21 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Brittain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D. D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by C. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

C. W. Ivy, Shuqualak: "Quarterly conference was held by Elder J. W. Dunn. Churches all prospering. Three Sunday-schools well conducted, with good teachers. The elder preached on Sunday to a large audience. Collection $15."

S. Smith, Crawfordsville: "We have received 83 in full membership and 10 on probation. The people are anxious about their souls and are coming over. We had a good many visitors from other churches. We received for our pastor, W. Jones, $31.40. Have never had such a time since 1877."

L. J. Terrell, Aberdeen: "My protracted effort closed with 27 converts. On the 19th Rev. G. Dobson baptized 18. Our Sunday-school met Sept. 18, and among the exercises was the recitation of verses. Berry Hoges, Sidney Whitfield, G. Timblin, Louisa Oliver, M. Witherspoon led in the order given."

A. R. Sanders, Paulding: "I closed my camp meeting, held with the Spring Hill church, after laboring under many disadvantages. We had several converts and 36 accessions to the church; 78 in all this year. I had with me Rev. A. Peebles, of Quitman; L. P. Brown, of Shubuta; L. Clayton, of Brooksville, and old father D. James. Spring Hill is a church that has been in a backsliding state for four or five years. They had built them a church and got in it, and there they sat without seats, windows or doors. Their preacher left them to shift, and not get along with them, and as my work was small the elder gave me a place in charge. So I went to work, and now I have it most seated and the work is coming up grandly."

LOUISIANA.

Henry Johnson, Morgan City: "Third quarterly conference was held Sept. 19, Rev. S. Evans in the chair. Paid our pastor during the quarter, $37.45; on the debt, 11.30; for fuel, $2.40. The superintendent reported the Sunday-school prosperous, with 45 in attendance. The church is in good spiritual condition."

ARKANSAS.

W. R. Duncan, Louisville: "Our third quarterly meeting is over with good results. We conducted services in our new church last Sunday morning. Sunday-school opened with 36 pupils. Elder Crawford preached an excellent sermon, and baptized 7 children. Collection, $11.35. My small membership is active; 35 pledged themselves to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors. We long to see the time when intemperance shall cease."

TEXAS.

S. Smith, Pleasantville: "I entered on this work Sept. 13, after having served three weeks by sickness. I found the work had been going backward since the decease of Rev. Peter Nobles, Aug. 22. On the 19th I received 23 in full membership and 7 on probation. The Lord is blessing us."

[illegible] Edwards, Houston: "We have, through the blessings of God, been able to report our church [illegible] 43 on probation. DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my people. My owner and people moved to Mississippi from Chatham Co., N. C. My owner was Jack Reaves, and his wife was Nancy Reaves. His oldest son was named Thomas and others named Brooks and Sam; his daughters were Patchly and Polly Reaves. Uncle Sippa Reaves, his wife and myself belonged to the Reaves family. Uncle had sons named Branton and Robert Reaves. He had a daughter named Anaca, Hannah, Jane. Mother's name was Minnie Ann Molbear. She was taken away from me and carried to Marengo Co., Ala. I had two sisters, Minerva and Priar. My step-father was George Underwood. The last time I saw him he was in Hardemon Co., Tenn., and his mother was on her way to Alabama. I was born in Chatham Co., N. C. Parker Brooks brought me from that State. Address me at Locksburg, Ark.

ELISHA BROOKS.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for kin folks. I have five sisters and four brothers. I left them all in S—— Co., Miss., in 1855. My oldest sister, Rachel, was carried to Jackson parish, La., by William Smith. My sister Siney belonged to Avery Chambers. Hetty belonged to Lnet Sigers. The last I heard of Viney she was still with our old owner, Judge Kayhe, and Daniel was with John Kayhe. My younger brothers, Wesley and Aaron, belonged to Dr. Kelly, and the last I heard of them they were still living with Dr. Kelly. I went by the name of James Kayhe when we all belonged to Judge Kayhe, but since freedom I have gone by the name of James Richards. My brother Isaac and sister Esther are living at Columbus with me. Please address me at Columbus, Sabine parish, La.

For any Washing Machine that will Wash Cleaner, Quicker, with Less Labor and Wear and Tear of Clothes than the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, Pat'd Oct. 3, '71. THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY PERFECT SELF-OPERATING WASHER IN THE WORLD.

No rubbing required. No more yellow clothes nor hard work on washing day. It will wash anything from a lace curtain to a horse blanket, and cannot get out of order.

Good Agents wanted, both Male and Female, to whom Liberal Inducements are offered. Agents can make from $10 to $100 per week.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.

WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT? You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap.

The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points.

Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing.

It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth.

A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS:

We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it; consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn.

As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted threads of which prevent its flowing backward it becomes hotter and better, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT. SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.

THE IMPROVED WASHER has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.

THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER.

There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc.

The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order.

The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1¼ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a boilerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water.

For LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury.

No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat-bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon.

For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

THE INDUCEMENTS WE OFFER.

We want a local agent in every town in the United States.

We want first class men as GENERAL AGENTS—men capable of managing one or more counties.

To such we give a duly executed Certificate of Agency.

We furnish descriptive circulars for distribution among families; also large posters for advertising in public places. Printed directions for using are sent with each Washer.

The retail price of No. 1 WASHER, in New York, is $3.50; No. 2 WASHER, $5.00; No 1, $24.00 per dozen; No 2, $36.00 per dozen.

WE SEND SINGLE OR SAMPLE No. 1 WASHERS, PREPAID, TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY EXPRESS OFFICE, in any part of the United States east of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, also in Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, for $5.0.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well known leading journals, viz: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer.

From the Boston Youths' Companion: "This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever known. We speak from experience when we say this. It is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeeper knows that ordinary modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."

From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880:—"Lately we had special occasion for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this boiler was due merely to immemorial usage, and had no real foundation in act; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher."

From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the Robbins WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."

From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O.: A SPLENDID WASHING MACHINE.—This is what they call the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER at the home of the Business manager of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. Heretofore it required one woman a whole day from early morn till late at night to finish the washing, and an extra girl to cook. But since we got a Robbins WASHER one girl attends to the washing, does lighter at the same time, and has all the clothing hung out to dry, and ironing and everything put away before 12 o'clock noon. We wish we could tell our subscribers how delighted they are at our house with this simple washer, and please get them to understand that we write this simply and entirely for their benefit, and not at the solicitation of the manufacturers, nor with their knowledge or consent, but we write this to let our readers know that the ROBBINS WASHER has actually proven to be an article that does all that the manufacturers claim for it, and really does away with a great part of the drudgery required in washing clothes. We would pay many times the price asked rather than do without one. We have also noticed that it requires less soap than formerly, so that the saving in the soap will in a short time pay for the machine.

We advise our readers to send for a washer at once.

In ordering, write plainly your name, postoffice, county and State. Also the name of the express office to which you wish the washer forwarded.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY & LIVER CURE

THE SOURCE OF STRENGTH.

Physical force is one of the greatest of human possessions, but unfortunately it lasts only a short time. Accident, disease or old age come along, and the forces which were once so powerful quickly pass away. Anything that can restore these powers or preserve them is therefore more valuable than the powers themselves, and more to be admired. This is exactly what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It takes the body when it is broken and bowed by sickness and restores it to all the powers it once possessed. It cests diseases and all other opposing evils over the precipice into oblivion. It has no friends but are enemies of health and no enemies that are the friends of health. The vast importance of the lower portion of the body in producing good health is becoming better known every day. Both men and women of all classes realize this. For women peculiar to child-birth, for all the diseases peculiar to their sex, for debilitated men and puny children there is nothing which so safely and surely sustains and restores as this Great Natural Remedy. The kidneys and urinary organs, when deranged, undermine the life much quicker than consumption, and they must be attended to promptly or fatal consequences are sure to follow. The testimonials which are printed herewith clearly show that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure will not only check those diseases, but entirely cure them even after they have become seated. It is the only known remedy which will safely and certainly do this, and there is not an instance on record where it has failed. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world, and is manufactured by H. H. WARNER & CO., Rochester, N. Y.

The following statements are the voluntary expressions of a few among thousands who have been saved by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The testimonials are not personally known to the proprietors, but they have sent these letters as the expression of their gratitude. Their sincerity, therefore, cannot be questioned.

Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I have for a long time been afflicted with a terrible kidney complaint, which it seemed at times nothing could control. I tried doctors and medicine extensively but found no relief. Finally I was advised by a friend to try your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and now, after suffering nearly four years the most acute pain, I feel myself entirely well and able to attend to business every day. Respectfully, JOHN G. L. CRAWFORD.

in the Churches. The fat and ruddy cheeks and the bright and intelligent faces of the children and youth spoke well for their keeping and treatment. I have no doubt that such asylums are needed, and that for the want of them American Methodists are losing great opportunities for good.

Another peculiar feature of the German Conference is the provision made to meet the traveling expenses of the members. As they come from such great distances, attendance would be extremely expensive, and practically impossible to many of them, unless it was borne by a common fund, to which the congregations, also, are expected to contribute.

All the collections are usually taken, and the Conference contributes a handsome surplus to the Missionary treasury over and above what it receives. A judiciously distributed increase of appropriations to our Home Missions will greatly increase the net income of our Missionary Society for foreign work. It is a ruinous economy to cut off appropriations to our home work, provided only that the expenditures are judiciously and systematically made. They are so made in the German work.

We think, however, that we detect a little too much inclination among our German brethren to be satisfied with present attainments. There is scarcely enough new missionary work to keep up the character of former days. Are there not yet new fields to be occupied? Are there not more young men called of God to the ministry? And are they not willing, like their fathers, to [illegible] into the regions beyond?

There is always an heroic age in every new development of Christian [illegible]—the age when enthusiasm is strong, and the hope of immediate [illegible] lead to large results. Then [illegible] an age of new difficulties and [illegible] patient toil. American Methodism has reached this second stage. The German Conferences [illegible] were lately into it. Now is the time for "the second [illegible]" of the struggle. Now is the time when hardihood and perseverance will be put to the test. [illegible] we are confident our German [illegible] will not fail.—N. Y. Advocate.

Everybody was weeping. Somehow the glorious resistance of the old man's spirit to the ravages of time and sorrow, seemed sublime. If another vote could have been taken just then, the work of the previous session might have been undone; but Brother Johnson did not seem to expect it. The Bishop's face was buried in his handkerchief and he was weeping no unmanly tears. Suddenly the "power" seemed to come on Father Johnson as in the days of other years. He jumped full two feet high. He clapped his hands for joy. He shouted with all his might, and then said: "Brudder Bishop, I comes up heah to dis conference, and I feels just like some old war hoss what's been turned out to die—but when he sees de banners and hear de drum, and listen to de bugle blow—he feels he kin run in de charge; but he finds he's loss his wind."

The old man's gloom was gone. Clear through the cloud he had prayed, and sung and shouted, and now, with an air of triumph, and with perfect acquiescence in the judgment of his brethren, he waved his long arm like a banner of victory in front of the little band of Methodist preachers, and shouted as he sank into his seat, "Dey say I's superannuated, and I 'spose I is."

A School Meeting.

MOSS POINT, Miss., Sept. 27, 1880.

DEAR EDITOR—On the evening of Sept. 25, about 9 p. m., a meeting was called by patrons and friends of education. It was called to order and opened by singing a hymn, prayer and reading from the scriptures. Seven experienced brethren were appointed as a committee on business. The chairman instructed the committee that the object of the meeting was an arrangement by which some means shall be provided that our children may be educated. The committee retired and returned in five minutes with a report, as follows:

We agree to assist in creating a fund for the benefit of education; and that a school shall commence on the first Monday in October; said school to be located at Moss Point, at the most convenient place for a school; and that a suitable person, who has a teacher's qualifications, shall be employed, and shall receive a salary of $25 for the present or first month.

The report was received and adopted. Three trustees were then appointed—Robert Howard, John Lancastel and Henry Andrews. They were instructed as to their duty.

The patrons and friends were then at liberty to choose a teacher. Sister Howard thought they should employ a male teacher, and nominated Chas. S. Collard for the work. He was voted for and elected. Mr. Collard is a native of Jamaca, has been in our midst for the last seven years and has for six years taught both private and public schools. He delivered a short address on the principles of education. The meeting adjourned to meet at 8 p. m., October 8, 1880.

Brethren, pray for us that we may succeed in this good work.

J. C. WALKER, Chairman.

Grant and Hancock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Times publishes the following from Cincinnati:

The Gazette will print to-morrow a report of an interview between Rev. C. H. Fowler, D.D., and Gen. Grant, which gives some startling points in connection with the inside history of Hancock's order No. 30. Grant talked freely to Fowler, and after the interview gave a written consent to its publication, under certain restrictions as to time. The conversation took place in Grant's library at Galena on the second of September. Speaking of Hancock, the ex-President said:

"Down to 1864 he seemed like a man ambitious to do his duty as an officer, but in 1864, when McClellan was nominated, Hancock received one vote, and that greatly excited and changed him. He was so delighted that he smiled all over. It crazed him. Before that we got on well. After that he would hardly speak to me. I was working to enforce the laws of Congress, and he was working for the Presidency. Perhaps he thought I did not praise him enough, but anyway he hardly spoke to me. It was on my nomination that he was made brigadier general in the regular army. When I was made general, Stanton told me that it was a compliment to me, and that I could name the men to fill vacancies in the lieutenant generalship and in the major generalship caused by my promotion. I nominated him for the vacant major generalship in the regular army. He acknowledged it manfully. He was a very fair corps commander, but was never thought of for any great place. When the army of the Potomac was hunting for a commander it took almost everybody—even come over into the West for officers—but nobody ever even suggested Hancock for the place. After he received that vote in 1864 he had a bee in his bonnet, and shaped everything to gain Democratic and Southern favor. He has watched and planned and waited, till at last he has received the Democratic nomination."

"Do you think, general, that his celebrated order No. 40 represents the direction of his sympathies?"

"Well, I will give you a true inner history of order No. 40. Congress was striving to prevent Andrew Johnson from undoing the reconstruction laws. Whenever Congress passed a law Johnson bent his energies to defeat its enforcement, and would find a pretext to dodge around it. Then Congress would pass another law to hedge him up there. So it went on till Congress had taken from him all control of the generals commanding the seven districts of the South, except power to remove them and appoint others in their places. These commanders could remove any civil officer of any grade—judge or governor.

"When I was made general and they were determining my powers and duties, they gave the general, by accident, I think, or without seeing all it involved, co-ordinate power with these district commanders, and as I was senior it gave me authority. Gen. Sheridan was sent to the department of Louisiana, covering Louisiana and Texas. He was very shrewd and very able. He kept his eyes open, learning men rapidly, who were not worthy to occupy their places, and discovering competent and worthy men to put in their places. The Legislature of Louisiana passed a law authorizing the issue of $7,000,000 of levee bonds, ostensibly for the levee; they conditioned their sale on their bringing to the State not less than 80 per cent. of their face. The governor and three commissioners were to place the bonds on the market, but they soon found out that the bonds would not bring more than 40 per cent. To avoid the law they invented a plan of borrowing money and using the bonds as collateral. They could borrow about 34 or 35 per cent. of the face of the bonds. Just at this juncture, to prevent these men from defrauding the State, Gen. Sheridan took off the heads of the governor and commissioners so quick that they did not know what ailed them, and appointed good men in their places. For some reason the removed men were very anxious to be re-appointed; they employed Reverdy Johnson and another lawyer to work for them, agreeing to pay them $250,000 if they were reinstated. This is a great deal of money for four men to pay for positions, unless [illegible] is some special gain in the [illegible] Reverdy Johnson came to [illegible] so much and stubborn that I could not be induced to reappoint them. He went to Andrew Johnson and made his case. Andrew Johnson sent for me and asked me to reinstate those men. I refused to do so. He said: reinstate them, even if it is only for one day. I will promise that they will resign.

"I thought Johnson might not know of the motive why they were so anxious to be reinstated, and thinking I would do him a great service in keeping him from a great blunder, I told him that one hour would serve those men as well as one day and I unfolded their intentions; but Johnson insisted on their being reinstated. I refused and excused myself. Johnson then removed Sheridan and appointed Hancock. He called Hancock to Washington to instruct him in defeating the laws of Congress concerning reconstruction.

"As soon as I learned that Hancock was in town I called at his hotel, instead of sending for him. I wanted to see him privately in his own room. I found him in his room, perhaps before he had his breakfast. I said: 'General, you and I are soldiers—army officers. We have life positions. We serve under successive administrations without regard to party. It is our duty to enforce the laws of Congress. We are not responsible for the wisdom of the laws. Congress bears that responsibility; we simply enforce them.' He said: 'Well, I am opposed to nigger domination.'

"I said: 'General, it is not a question of nigger domination. Four millions of ex-slaves, without education, seven millions of whites, with all the education and property—it is a question of doing our sworn duty.'

"He said: 'Well, I am opposed to nigger domination.'

"I saw that my only chance to influence him was by the remnant of authority left in my hands. He was determined to please the Democratic party and the South. He went South and removed the governor and commissioners that Gen. Sheridan had appointed. I instantly telegraphed him not to appoint to office any men who had been removed and to give me his reasons, by mail, for removing the men. He telegraphed, in a long reply, costing the government $250, his reasons. I telegraphed him that the reasons were not sufficient; to send by mail the other reasons. He again telegraphed about the same points, only not quite so long, costing only $150. He telegraphed that if he could not have freedom to act his usefulness would be destroyed, and that he would have to ask to be relieved. I telegraphed him to revoke his order. He asked Johnson to relieve him, as no one else could.

"That is the inner history and spirit of his celebrated order No. 40. This order resulted in the loss of many lives. I know of cases and can give them. His statement that the civil authorities are supreme, is a truth admitted by all in the time of established peace, but I can demonstrate that he did not subject the military power to the civil, but that he used his military power to overthrow the civil.

"In speaking of three reasons why I would have accepted the nomination: First—On account of the character of the men who urged it. I esteem their respect and confidence more than the nomination. Second—I believe I could have broken up the solid South. Many life-long Democrats in the South had given the strongest assurances of their cordial support, believing that I could deliver them from the evils of the solid South. Third—There is another partial reason. I believe that I could have induced, from my knowledge of our consulars, the enactment of certain laws touching our commerce that would have given us control of much desirable commerce. For instance, in Mexico, instead of dealing with the people who use only slave labor and receive little or nothing but sterling in exchange."

Dr. Fowler, who held the above conversation with the ex-President, was, until recently, editor of the Advocate, a leading Methodist paper published in New York. He is now missionary secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Moral principles do not admit of compromise, having their foundation in the immutability of the Divine nature. He therefore who affects to compromise them, affects to change the unchangeable God. Thus do men exhibit the greatness of their folly, and the extreme of wickedness.

The True Religion.

We want a religion that softens the steps, and tunes the voice to melody and fills the eye with sunshine, and checks impatient exclamation and harsh rebuke; a religion that is polite to superiors, courteous to inferiors, and considerate to friends; a religion that goes into a family, and keeps the husband from being cross when dinner is late and keeps the wife from fretting when the husband tracks the newly-washed floor with his muddy boots, and makes the husband mindful of the scraper and the door-mat; keeps the mother patient when the baby is cross, and amuses the children as well as instructs them; cares for the servants besides paying them promptly; projects the honey-moon into the harvest-moon, and makes the happy home like the eastern fig-tree, bearing in its bosom at once the beauty of the tender blossom and the glory of the ripened fruit. We want a religion that shall interpose between the ruts and the gullies and rocks of the highway of life and the sensitive souls that are traveling over them.

Paper Imitation of Stained Glass.

Nothing contributes more to the beauty of a church than neat stained-glass windows; but their expensiveness and the difficulty in some places of obtaining them, and of replacing the broken pains, puts them practically beyond the reach of our plainer and cheaper churches throughout the country. Quite a variety of devices have been resorted to, to secure the general effect with less trouble and expense. The application of paint to common glass has proved unsatisfactory, especially where the windows are exposed to the rays of the sun. The best substitute that has yet been found is a light, fine paper prepared by lithographic process and properly applied.

Some twenty years ago a patent for this device was taken out in England, and has been quite extensively used. Within a few years it has been introduced in this country. Those who have visited Ocean Grove will have noticed the windows of the "Janes' Memorial Tabernacle," and of the "Young People's Temple," which are ornamented in this way. The parties furnishing the paper claimed a patent, and as a consequence the expense was nearly half that of real stained or enammelled glass. Investigation in the Patent Office shows that the patent covers only the opaque lines in imitation of lead sash; the application of colored paper without the opaque lines, is free to use.

During the past year Mr. Benjamin D. Price, who has prepared the plans furnished by the Board of Church Extension, has been experimenting in the preparation of paper and different methods of applying it, and has succeeded admirably, and the effect produced is almost equal to that of genuine stained or enamelled glass. Quite a number of churches have tried it and are well satisfied with the result. As Mr. Price makes no claim to a patent, our churches can supply themselves with this article at a moderate cost. It can be applied to windows of any size and form in old and new churches. The Board of Church Extension has no interest in the business except in behalf of churches that may be benefitted by the use of this article. For this reason we call attention to the subject through our Church papers. Definite information will be given to any interested by communicating with Benjamin D. Price, 1026 Arch street, Philadelphia, and asking samples and price list, for which they need only enclose postage covering such quantity as they may desire.

Chinese Labor in Massachusetts.

Ten years ago C. T. Sampson, a shoe manufacturer of Massachusetts, brought over seventy-five Chinese. Within a year the number was increased to 125, which has been the average number employed up to two or three years ago. They were originally hired for three years, and staid after that without a definite engagement as to time. But the conditions which led to their employment were gradually removed. The power of the Crispin Lodges was broken. Improved machinery was introduced, Chinese labor was slowly displaced, and last Saturday all of the Chinamen, with one exception, started on their homeward journey to the old country. They were thrifty and worked overtime, but did not take away with them the large sums of money commonly supposed. Their food cost an average of $2 a week. One boy who was in the employ of Mr. Sampson seven years and was specially skillful, industrious, and saving, took with him on leaving $2,000; others accumulated $1,000, but the great majority laid up sums of from $100 to $300, and many spent all they earned, while some went away in debt.

A Senator Rebuked.

Senator Bayard, of Delaware, for whom we have entertained a high respect and who certainly is one of the most decent members of the Democratic party, made a thoroughly dishonest speech last week at the Hancock-Tammany-John-Kelley jubilation in this city. We say dishonest because the Senator is an intelligent man, and he knows better. When he said that the "Southern claims," so called, are barred by the Fourteenth Amendment, he knew that this amendment has no relation to the class of claims in question and that their payment depends entirely on the will of Congress. These claims relate to property of rebels taken or destroyed by the armies of the United States in suppressing the Rebellion; and in respect to this subject the Fourteenth Amendment says absolutely nothing, and no man knows this better than Senator Bayard. He did not speak the truth; but meant to utter what he knows to be false. He was equally false, and he knew it, in the attempt to parade the Democratic party before the country as having favored resumption of specie payments, and the Republican party as having opposed this great measure. He knew that the party in Congress voted solidly against the Resumption Act, and that, in Congress and out of it, the party continued to denounce it until its success put the party to silence and shame. He knew that resumption was and is a Republican measure. Senator Bayard cannot be ignorant of these facts; and when he attempts to present a different picture as the true one he deliberately lies. We are sorry to use such a word in application to him; yet the word is the fitting term for the fact.—N. Y. Independent.

Cotton.

Cotton has a history dating back thousands of years.

Herodotus, 484 years before the birth of Christ, says that the ancient inhabitants of India wore garments made of cotton.

The muslins of India have long been celebrated for their wonderful beauty and extreme fineness of texture.

In the first voyage of the Spaniards to this country they found the Mexicans and Peruvians cultivating cotton and using it largely for the manufacture of clothing.

Cortez sent as presents to Charles V. mantles and goods of all colors made of cotton by the Mexicans.

Mark Twain's Recipe for New England Pie.

To make this excellent breakfast dish proceed as follows: Take a sufficiency of water and a sufficiency of flour, and construct a bullet-proof dough. Work this into the form of a disk, with the edges turned up some three-fourths of an inch. Toughen and kiln-dry it a couple of days in a mild but unvarying temperature. Construct a cover for this redoubt in the same way and of the same material. Fill with stewed dried apples, aggravate with cloves, lemonpeel, slabs of citron; add two portions of New Orleans sugar; then solder on the lid and set in a safe place till it petrifies. Serve cold at breakfast and invite your enemy.

Capt. McTaggart has left with us a specimen stalk of cotton, about six feet high. It was grown by Levi Baily, an exoduster, who has a very large field on the Captain's farm. It is looking very fine and promises a large yield. The colored people generally have splendid cotton prospects, and feel flattered over their prospective success.—South Kansas Tribune.

The fallacy that it is allowable to maintain one standard of honor for private life and another for public affairs will, if acted upon, bring any people to grief and shame.

The Divine Guidance.

There is no question but that we need it. We are encompassed with perplexities and mysteries. Our pathway is beset with many dangers, difficulties and temptations from the world, the flesh and the devil. We cannot, by our own wisdom, order our steps aright, or escape the perils that surround us. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." We need to be guided by "the wisdom that cometh from above and is profitable to direct."

This Divine guidance is promised to us. There are no promises in the Word of God more explicit and abundant than the promises that God will guide those that put their trust in Him. "In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths." "This God is our God forever and ever. He will be our Guide even unto death." "I will guide thee with mine eye." "The weak will He guide in judgment, and the weak will He teach His way." "The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord." "Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory."

But by what agencies does God guide His people? Certainly not by a visible hand stretched down from heaven to lead them. Not by an audible voice saying: "This is the way, walk ye in it." Nor yet by visions and dreams, as is claimed by some; but by the teaching of the Holy Spirit; for so the Savior promised His disciples, saying: "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father [illegible] in my name, He shall [illegible] you all things, and bring to [illegible] remembrance whatever I have [illegible] unto you." "Howbeit, when [illegible] the Spirit of truth is come, He [illegible] you into all truth." [illegible] then it is the teaching of God's word that men may be in [illegible] intimate union with God and [illegible] conformed to His will as to be [illegible] of the impressions of His Spirit and rightly interpret those impressions. And this is not only [illegible] privilege, but has been the actual experience of Christians in the [illegible] and in our own time. [illegible] speak to the believing soul [illegible] accents, and many an [illegible] and lowly brother can say [illegible] as truly as St. Paul: "I [illegible] the Spirit that is of [illegible] I may know the things [illegible] freely given me of God."

[illegible] that men are liable to [illegible] mistake their own [illegible] for the guidance [illegible]. And so they [illegible] if we had no other guide. have the divine guidance in all the duties, trials and perplexities of life is very precious and full of comfort. We know not what may befall us, what sorrows and conflicts we shall have to pass through. But with the ever vigilant providence of God over us, with His Word in our hands and His Spirit in our hearts, we not only need not, but positively shall not go astray. Indeed, we never can be so safe and happy as the child of God who goes through life trusting in the guiding and protecting care of his Heavenly Father, with a firm faith that He will lead him safely through this world of uncertainty and mystery and pain, to the unclouded light and joy of heaven. May God help us all so to live that we may constantly realize His ever-present and divine guidance.

The Unpopular "Heresy."

Gov. Wiltz has written two letters, with the purpose of picturing Louisiana's condition in roseate hues, for the political effect they may have upon the campaign. We hope few will be mislead by them. The popular Southern idea just now is to acquire and hold power by any means, fair or foul, and a majority of the assertions made are wholly untruthful.

We call attention to the fact that a competent official, Col. D. F. Boyd, has just been removed, and the son of Albert Sidney Johnston, an idolized Confederate general, elected to the Presidency of the Louisiana State University. Gov. Wiltz made a special trip to Baton Rouge for the purpose of giving his official aid in the matter. It is not at all surprising that a member of his administration should write the following letter, which the New York Tribune publishes:

OFFICE OF STATE SUP'T PUBLIC EDUCATION, STATE OF LOUISIANA, NEW ORLEANS, August 21, 1880.

Messrs. Clark & Maynard.

GENTLEMEN—Please accept many thanks for the "Government Class Book" sent this office. I have examined it with much care, and while there is much to admire in its beautiful and attractive dress, and typographical neatness and accuracy, in its clear and perspicuous as well as condensed statements, yet it contains many statements which are not borne out by a strict construction of the constitution of the United States; and the heresy now so popular in some sections, that this is a Nation, is one that I, at least, am unwilling to be taught the children of Louisiana, for it is not true, if the early fathers of the constitution knew whereof they affirmed. I regret that any such sectional idea (perhaps I should say "national" idea) should pervade the book. I regret I cannot introduce it into the schools of Louisiana, for with this exception I like it.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD H. FAY, A. M.,
State Sup't of Public Education.

Contemplating the genuine Confederate ascendancy and the nature of the semi-military instruction of the State University, we can only add that the State troops are organized on the same plan. There are no colored militia in Louisiana and none desired by the ruling powers so far as heard from.

The report of the investigation of the killing of the convict Berkery, made to Gov. Wiltz, claims that prisoners are well treated by the Penitentiary lessees. The Democrat contends that some efforts should be made to catch a convict trying to escape before killing him, and there appears to be too rigid a military surveillance of prisoners. With all temptations to escape near the convicts engaged in plantation labor or clearing timber, it is not at all surprising they should yield to their love of liberty, and attempt to pass the guards. There is a lack of humanity in the prison system for which law makers are most responsible.

Nothwithstanding Gov. Wiltz's highly colored presentation of Louisiana affairs, in his recently published letters, intended solely for the Northern public, the facts are [illegible] was no adequate provision [illegible] for public education by the [illegible] tutional convention, schools [illegible] now closed for want of funds in [illegible] least half the parishes of the [illegible] teacher's salaries are in [illegible] and no prophet can safely [illegible] when a change will come. [illegible] system has been reduced to [illegible] and is a mockery and a [illegible] upon the taxpayers of Louis[illegible]

The Religious Telescope, organ of [illegible] United Brethren in Christ, [illegible] Ohio, on Sept. 29 began [illegible] volume, as a 16 page paper [illegible] new typographical outfit. He is now engaged in the interest of the young men of his country in the United States, and is working earnestly for their salvation, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. He spent several days here last week and is trying to form a German Association. He travels much, is fluent in German and has his home in Chicago.—N. Y. Methodist.

OUR SOUTHERN WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

W. B. Walker, Forest: "My protracted meeting in August continued 14 days or more. We had 9 accessions and 15 converts. The work is in a prosperous condition. Pray that the work may go on."

H. Cawthorn, Enterprise: "I commenced my protracted meeting in Enterprise Sept. 30th. I received, up to Oct. 4th, 4 conversions. The revival still goes on. Pray that the good Lord may still pour out his blessing upon us."

M. Crockett, Fayette: "Our third quarterly was held Sept. 20 and 21. A collection of $5.75 was taken up. Our membership is not large, but it is increasing. In protracted meeting I received 3 converts, and 7 on probation. Bro. Israel Rucker assisted me."

N. Sidney, Yazoo City: "The M. E. Church in Yazoo City is gathering souls for Christ, and it is in a prosperous condition. On Sunday, Oct. 3, 4 joined, 1 from the Baptists. Collection $20.10. Our pastor is worthy of all praise that can be extended to him."

R. Hayes, Philadelphia: "My work is growing. In protracted meeting 16 were received in full connection and 5 on probation. Four came to us from the Baptist church. We have built two new churches this year. Elder Dunn held quarterly conference on the 28th. The amount paid to pastor was $19.60 for the quarter. The elder gave us a glorious sermon."

P. Harris, Crystal Springs: "We are trying to complete our church. We had a basket meeting on the 2d, and the pastor of Hazlehurst and several of his members responded, as did Rev. A. Davis, of Jackson. We had a nice dinner for our guests. Collections were as follows: J. Burrill $10.60, J. Drayden $11.25, A. Davis $15.20, Sunday-school $4.70, at night $8. Our church is prospering."

D. Goodwin, Vicksburg: "Our protracted meeting has been on hand a week; 12 conversions and about 20 accessions. Dr. C. K. Marshall preached the opening sermon. Elder Williams is with us. We will proceed with our new church collection after the meeting closes. Our church is out of debt and has some $250 for the new building. Pray for us. The church is alive."

C. P. Head, Edwards: "Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 18-19. Presiding elder D. A. Williams was with us and the quarterly was very largely attended, nearly all the members were present. It was a very agreeable session. We have held a number of protracted meetings on circuit during the quarter. Conversions, 20; accessions, 23; paid to our preacher, $57; collected on Sunday 19th, $20, and we had a good spiritual time of it. The conference passed a resolution to present me with a fine suit of clothes as a token of their respect."

A. J. Allen, Enterprise: "We have met with a great misfortune. I started my protracted meeting at Mt. Jordan church on the second Sunday in September, and it went on until the third. By that time I had two converts, and many others were deeply interested. On the third Sunday I had a very large congregation, so many that all could not get into the church. We had a good time all day long, and closed up at night and went home. In two hours afterward the church was found on fire, and bell, lamps, bible and books were all destroyed. The Mt. Jordan people are out of doors; but we built a brush harbor, preached under it Monday night, and started to work on a new church. We believe the church was burned by an unknown incendiary."

LOUISIANA.

W. L. Amos, Booneville: "Rev. A Hilton held a love feast on the 2d. There were 90 communicants the Sunday following, and one accession."

Jos. Jennings, Baton Rouge: "I have a blooming Sabbath-school, with 105 in attendance. Our pastor, W. P. Forest, preached to the children this morning."

Edward Fields, Houma: "Our present condition is good. Our love feast meeting brought out a large congregation. Rev. John Lewis and many of the Baptist brethren attended. Sunday school has increased from 97 to 128, with with an average attendance of 92. On account of his illness our presiding elder was not with us this quarter. We hope to hear of his recovery soon."

T. J. Johnson, Shreveport: "Allow me to report the condition of our church, St. Paul. We are repairing the building by raising the roof three feet higher and adding on fifteen feet. We expect to have it completed in a few months, in order to hold the annual conference. It must be held at the mother church. We are working earnestly for it. Our pastor, H. Abbott, has been working earnestly, but for the past three weeks his health has been failing him. He has been confined to his bed for two weeks, and I trust in God to raise him, so we may be blessed with his presence and assistance in our midst. Our church is in a thriving condition and we will have it ready to receive the annual conference."

TENNESSEE.

B. Anderson, Brentwood: "At a protracted meeting at Mt. Pizgah church, 16 professed faith in Christ and 14 joined the church. On the second Sunday of September we had a basket meeting. Rev. Nightingale, of the Missionary Baptist church, preached the 11 o'clock sermon; 2 were received in the church. During the week 11 professed faith. Elder Pickett held our fourth quarter on the 18th and 19th. Collection $41.10. In ten days 19 professed faith in the Lord. On the circuit this year there have been 50 converts and 70 accessions. At Brooks' chapel, meeting was commenced September 25. Pray that the work may go on."

TEXAS.

John Guess, Milican: "Our church is in a flourishing condition; our protracted meeting has just closed, lasting four weeks. We have added to the church 35; 10 on probation, 6 in full membership, 4 reclaimed. On last Sunday 10 were baptized, after which a collection was taken up for the preacher in charge, amounting to $14. Our church had her wing drooping, but the good Lord has revived us again. We have torn down our old church and rebuilt it. Pray for us, that the Millican church may move on to the glory and honor of God."

ARKANSAS.

C. A. Tabor, Rob Roy: "My work is prospering. Our people are needy. We want Sunday-school matter."

J. A. Peel, Sweet Home: "We have just closed our camp meeting, resulting with 3 converts, 2 accessions and 6 on probation. I have some difficulty in carrying out the rules of Discipline."

They then formed in a solid body, approached their stand, and forced them to (reluctantly) divide time. Colonel John C. Haskell, Solicitor Jervey, and General Izlar made telling speeches in behalf of the Democracy, thereby casting a damper over the whole day's proceedings. Mackey, with his usual effrontery, charged the Democracy with everything wrong imaginable, and did all that he could with his serpent's tongue to inflame the passions of the negroes against their fellow whites."

Lynch Law in Rapides.

DEAR EDITOR—The people of this vicinity are undergoing a painful shock, caused by a horrible crime, committed last Sunday, the 3d inst., on Row Gully, about six miles above this place on the opposite side of the river. It seems that a little girl twelve years of age was abducted from home by some fiend, who outraged the child, then murdered her by inflicting a wound on her forehead and others on her throat with a knife of some kind, supposed to have been a dirk; and to conceal the body threw it in a lake or pond in some unfrequented place in the woods, where it was found late Tuesday the 5th inst.

A young man living on the same place, and said to be half brother to the child, was suspicioned, arrested and brought to Pineville yesterday, and lynched last night on the Pineville side of the river on a tree facing the two towns, Alexandria and Pineville. The young man was colored, the girl white, and said to be brother and sister by father.

The writer saw the accused in the hands of a crowd and asked him if he was guilty of the charge to which he answered, "I am not guilty."

Seeing that they were resolved on taking his life I asked them if they would not let him have a trial—meaning a legal trial before a court of justice—several replied to this, saying, "yes, we'll give him a trial." On this, one spoke up and asked that a jury of twelve men be appointed to hear the pros and cons in the case, which was done. A court was held and testimony taken, but all the evidence was circumstantial, nothing direct or positive, though said to be very strong and conclusive against the accused. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty and the unfortunate young man met his sad fate early last night. There is an opinion prevalent to-day that the wrong man was hung, and quite a number of citizens condemn the hasty steps of those who did the hanging. M.

Letter from a Local Preacher.

DEAR EDITOR—I am a constant reader of the ADVOCATE, and as I read from time to time letters from the preachers of the traveling connection I often wonder why some of the brethren of the local ministry do not give your readers some of their experience in their peculiar fields of labor. I am now in my third year in the local ministry, but it is with much fear and trembling that I undertake to send you a few words in reference to the work of this very important part of the ministry of the M. E. Church. It seems to me that local preachers, as a class, are not as earnest in their work as they should be and do not supplement the work of the traveling ministry as is intended in the Discipline. As I watch the self-sacrificing labor of our conference preachers I have though if the local preachers would come to their aid and work for the upbuilding of the Redeemer's kingdom as they do we should succeed in gathering into the fold of Christ those who are perishing much faster than we now do. Our last district conference left the appointment of the local preachers in the hands of the preachers in charge. We have five local preachers on this work. Our pastor, Bro. L. M. Layton, who has charge of Lonoke circuit keeps us employed. I have one appointment at Richwoods on the fourth Sabbath in each month, at Lonoke on the second Sabbath, and am present on the first and third Sabbath at pastor's appointments, and take such part in the services as he arranges. So you see my time is pretty well employed. We are having a glorious time on this work this year. There is not a single appointment where we have not had conversions and accessions. We are finishing our church in Lonoke, which has been standing unfinished for four or five years. Bro. Layton is a white man and it seems strange to me, as I look at the success he meets with in preaching the Gospel among our people, that our Bishops do not send more educated white pastors to the colored people than they do. It seems to me wherever we have only colored pastors at work in our Church it looks as though we were a race Church, as I am sorry to say some other Churches are. If I understand the M. E. Church it welcomes all races alike into its fellowship, and its ministry, both local and traveling, is to preach the Gospel to every creature; and if that is the case I do not see why a white pastor can not have charge of a Methodist society even though it is composed of people more or less colored. I pray God to bless Dr. Hartzell and the SOUTHWESTERN.

BERRY MCCAIN.

The Colored Work in Kansas.

To the M. E. Church in the United States:

BRETHREN: Owing to the exodus of the colored people from the South, and their settlement in great numbers in this State, in great need of moral as well as intellectual instruction, necessitated immediate efforts to meet their spiritual wants. To this end, on June 15, 1879, Bishop Edward G. Andrews effected the transfer of Rev. W. O. Lynch from the Central Alabama Conference to the Kansas Conference, and appointed him Presiding Elder on the Kansas District to look after the religious and moral interests of the colored people in and coming into this State from the South. Under the arduous, but efficient labors of Bro. Lynch, the work, when considering the obstacles encountered, has progressed very satisfactorily. At first there were a small membership, which met in an old blacksmith shop in this city. At present there are twelve circuits, with from two to eight appointments in each. There are thirteen ministers employed on the work, and have many calls from different portions of the State for more men, but these cannot be supplied for lack of means to support them and their families. The Missionary Board of New York has done all that could reasonably be expected. It has appropriated to the colored work in Kansas $2,000, which, Bishop Foster says, is the best the Board could possibly do, under the circumstances. But when it is observed that the colored people having recently come from the South are not able to do much, if anything, toward the support of the ministry, and but two thousand dollars to support thirteen ministers and their families for twelve months, including traveling expenses, some idea may be known of the sacrifices and hardships these noble Christian men have and are enduring for the cause of Christ. It should be remembered that this district covers the entire State of Kansas; thousands of colored people are entering the State from the South, and if money is only furnished by our friends in response to this call, a very large portion of this population may be gathered into the M. E. Church. We must send out missionaries, erect houses of worship, and establish Sunday-schools, and support these until the people are prepared to support themselves. To assist in this work the undersigned have associated themselves by the name of "The Colored Preachers' Aid Society of Kansas," so that all contributions shall be faithfully and honestly disbursed. We need money to support the ministers and build churches. All contributions may be paid to Rev. William O. Lynch, of Kansas Conference, Postoffice Topeka, Kansas, who will remit all funds to the Secretary of the Society. Acknowledgments will [illegible] through the Church pa[illegible] all moneys given.

Oct. 17, 1880.—JACOB AT BETHEL.
SCRIPTURE.—Gen. 28: 10-22.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"Behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest."—5.
TOPIC.—God Blessing with Promises.
(Condensed from the National S. S. Teacher.)

Immediately Jacob began to experience the evil results of the deception he had practiced upon Isaac to wrest the paternal blessing from Esau. He secured the hatred of his brother. Esau told others of his contemplated revenge, and by this means it came to the knowledge of Rebekah. She, in turn, communicated the fact to Jacob, and urged his flight. She does not frankly tell Isaac that she desires to send Jacob to Laban because of the danger in which he stands from Esau, but suggests to him that it would be a terrible thing if Jacob should take to wife one of the daughters of Heth. Isaac who was as sensitive about that as she pretended to be, called Jacob before him, and sent him to Padan-Aram that he might get for himself a wife among his own kindred. Esau, when he heard of his having gone away, and of the ostensible reason for his going, in order that by that he might not gain upon himself in his father's estimation, and somewhat to atone for having married two Canaanitish women, took to himself another wife, who had the recommendation of being a granddaughter of Abraham, and who, therefore, might be supposed to be a little better than a daughter of Laban.

Our lesson tells of an incident which happened to Jacob upon his journey. It was an event which had much to do with his after life, and is the key to the vexing query why it was that God could choose one so despicably deceitful as Jacob for the covenant blessing. The vision at Bethel may be said to have been the turning-point in the life of Jacob. It was the spot upon which, or near which, Abraham had built an altar. Night there overtook him, and the place being in accordance with his mood, rather than go farther he lay down there to sleep. The stones that he had for pillows were not harder than his memories of the past and his fears for the future. God comes to the despondent. He did not take this opportunity to reprove Jacob for his sin, but, instead, won his heart by his promises concerning the future, and so led him to better things. It is not necessary to suppose that Jacob was aware of the typical meaning of the stairway which he saw. From this allusion of Christ to the vision it is [illegible] that what he saw was mean[illegible] others as much as for [illegible] God speaks to Jacob as "[illegible] God of Abraham thy fa[illegible] the God of Isaac." The [illegible] that follow needed that [illegible] tion in order that Jacob [illegible] place full faith in them. "T[illegible] whereon thou liest, to thee [illegible] give it, and to thy seed." He was lying there, too, entirely possessionless. He gave to the sleeper a hint of the numberless multitude of his spiritual posterity when he said, "And thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south." Neither sin nor change of place had separated him from God nor from the love of God. He did not have to fight his battle single-handed and alone, and neither does any other repentant sinner. He experienced the same surprise that every sinner feels when he finds that heaven, instead of being shut as he supposed, really is open to him. Jacob really consecrated three things: 1. The stone memorial; 2. The place; 3. Himself. He made a monument of the stones which had answered him for a pillow. That served to mark the place where the vision had occurred, and also to act as a dumb witness of his vow. The anointing only was a sign of the sacredness in which he held the spot. "He called the name of the place Bethel." In making his vow, Jacob seems to have gone a step beyond his predecessors. Jacob simply accepted God's promises, and, in [illegible] turn, made pledges of his own. The first one was the greatest pledge that Jacob could make. In that he gave himself to God. "This stone—shall be God's house. I will surely give the tenth unto thee." When a man is willing to pledge a tenth of all his income to the Lord, there is no need to look into his "evidences" any farther [illegible] he conscientiously carries that [illegible] And now we see why Jacob [illegible] the elect one of God in [illegible] He was chosen, as every [illegible] chosen, not for what he [illegible]

[illegible] was to be. He had possibilities in him [illegible] lay in Essa. Visit Beatty's Organ Factory.

In another column we publish a large organ advertisement from the Hon. Daniel F. Beatty, Mayor of Washington, New Jersey, the well known manufacturer of the Beatty organ. The offer is beyond doubt the best yet made, and our readers should avail themselves of it. No more appropriate gift for a holiday present could be made than one of his 14 stop organs. Mr. Beatty extends a cordial invitation to all who desire to purchase either a piano or an organ to visit his manufactory at Washington, New Jersey. Every organ he sells he makes in his own factory. Read his advertisement and send for his holiday newspaper and catalogue which he sends out free, if you have not the time to visit him.

What Eminent Physicians Say

Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator is partiularly useful when tonics are required in Diptheria, Malarial Typhoid Fevers and every depressing disease. We have prescribed it with success, and believe it to be a most valuable remedy. J. H. Leslie, M. D., G. P. Copp, M. D., S. B. Parsons, M. D., R. A. Vaughan, M. D., Drs. S. L. and J. C. Farmers who want to make money as rapidly as possible, should read the new Agricultural Book advertised in another column by J. C. McCurdy & Co. The uniform excellence of the publications of this firm is a sufficient guarantee that this will be a Standard work. Competent critics pronounce it the best work of its kind, and many practical farmers have given it unqualified praise.

The New Louisiana Remedy is winning golden opinions from many who have tested its merits in the treatment of coughs, colds, etc. We recently examined some fourteen pages of signatures vouching for its effectiveness. Read advertisement elsewhere, and remember that this home medicine is well known, and finds sale throughout the country.

THE FINER DRAWING ROOM STYLES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

Comparatively few musicians, even, have kept pace with recent improvements in reed instruments and are fully aware of the excellence now attained in the finer styles, in the manufacture of which the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. are quite unrivaled. These styles must not be judged by the small organs so largely sold; which they greatly excel. It is principally these finer styles which have won for the Mason & Hamlin Organs the extraordinary distinctions awarded them at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION AND COMPARISON OF THE BEST PRODUCTIONS OF ALL NATIONS FOR THIRTEEN YEARS; being the only highest awards to any American organs at any one. It is one of these which led Dr. FRANZ LISZT to characterize the Mason & Hamlin Organs not only as "matchless," but as "unrivaled," and which led the distinguished OTTO JAHN, of Berlin, to declare them "the most excellent of instruments," adding: "They are capable of giving the finest tone coloring, and no other instrument so enraptures the player." THEODORE THOMAS testifies that musicians generally rank these organs very high, far above all others, in which opinion he himself fully concurs. OLE BULL found them so superior as to draw from him the declaration that "Their fine quality of tone is in contrast with that of other reed organs." The distinguished tenor, ITALO CAMPANINI, in a note to the manufacturers, as he was about leaving this country recently, wrote: "Having had opportunity to observe and use your organs, while singing in your country, I take pleasure in testifying to their admirable qualities. They excel all similar instruments of which I have any knowledge. But you have better proof of my opinion of them than even this expression, in the fact that I have just purchased one to take with me to Italy." Hundreds of similar opinions from distinguished musicians have accumulated in the hands of the manufacturers.

A recent beautiful invention which the Mason & Hamlin Co. are now introducing, greatly improves the key action of such instruments, lightening the touch, heretofore difficult when many stops were used, one-half, and still more improving it in other respects.

THE FINER DRAWING ROOM STYLES of the Mason & Hamlin Organs are furnished in cases of BLACK WALNUT, MAHOGANY, ASH and EBONIZED, plain to very elegant, some with pipe organ tops. They have from THIRTEEN to TWENTY-THREE STOPS; some with TWO MANUALS and FULL PEDAL BASS. NET PRICES are from $200 to $900.

The Mason & Hamlin Co. also manufacture a variety of styles of fine organs for churches where a greater volume of tone is required; they also, regularly make a large variety of small organs from $61 up; all of which are of very highest excellence. Organs are furnished for monthly or quarterly payments, $5 and upwards.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES, 82 pp., 4to, with prices and circulars containing much useful information, sent free.

We especially invite all persons taking an interest in such matters to visit our warerooms and examine these organs. It is always a pleasure to exhibit them.

THE NEW HYMNAL.

The Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences at their last sessions made it the duty of every preacher having charge of a station or circuit to see that their pulpits were supplied with a NEW HYMNAL, and all were to use their influence in having the people supply themselves with HYMNALS and to use them in the public congregation and in social meetings.

We are now prepared to supply the following styles of the HYMNAL at the prices named. Our terms are cash before sending, or we will send by express C. O. D. Specimen copies sent by mail on receipt of price.

It is Five Octave, fine Walnut Case of handsome appearance, ball-proof but very neat, so it will not take the dirt or dust. It contains Swell-board. Vox Celeste Stop, which is the sweetest toned and most perfect stop placed in any organ, also the Vox Humana Stop, the Grand Organ Right and Left Knee Swell (2) Power Set of Golden Tongue Reeds, as follows: A set of powerful Sub Bass Reeds, 8 feet 3 octaves of Vox Celeste, and 3 1-2 Octaves of the Regular Golden Tongue Reeds. Besides all this it will be filled up with an Octave Coupler, which everybody knows doubles the power of the instrument. Equipped with a standard Pocket for Music, it has adding 8d & convenient arranged handles for moving. Its bellows, which are of the usual pattern, are made from the very best Rubber Cloth. Of great power, and are fitted up with steel springs and the best quality of pedal straps. The pedals instead of being covered with carpet, are made of metal, of neat design, and never get out of repair or foot-worn, like carpet.

☞ This Organ is built expressly for parties who dont want to pay a high price, but want plenty of Music in a plain, substantial case.

I will box and deliver the above Organ on board cars at Washington, N. J. with Stool, Book and Music, for only $65.00, (Not even freight charges.) To keep the organ unless it is just as represented in this Advertisement, as it will be shipped to you on three to five days test trial. And after you decide to keep it, I will then send you a warranty for six years. ☞ Those desiring to purchase are requested to visit my Manufactory and Warerooms.

Travelers Should Not Forget

The Facilities and Advantages Offered by the

Louisville and Great Southern Railway,

THE LEADING RAILWAY of the SOUTH.

THROUGH PASSENGERS.

The Louisville and Great Southern is the great thoroughfare between all points North East and West.

THROUGH TICKETS

By this line will be found on sale at the Ticket Office, corner Camp and Common Streets. The Louisville & Great Southern offers all the attractions of an unsurpassed line in construction, equipment and management.

THROUGH CARS to all the principal cities North, East and West connect with this Trunk Line at Louisville. On all first-class through tickets stop over privilege is granted at Cave City to passengers desirous of visiting

MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thus a view of the greatest of natural curiosities, marvelous and wonderful beyond description, can be enjoyed with little expense or detention. If Through Tickets are secured by the Louisville & Great Southern. The Mammoth Cave is situated eight miles from Cave City, which is eighty-five miles South of Louisville on the Louisville & Great Southern Railway Line. McCoy's Concord Stages run to and from all passenger trains. The Cave Hotel is under the management of Wm. Miller, Esq., and is first-class in all its appointments.

Hon. BAYARD TAYLOR said of the Cave: "It is the greatest natural curiosity I have ever visited, Niagara not excepted, and he whose expectations are not satisfied by its marvelous avenues, domes and starry grottoes must either be a fool or a demi-god."

A visit to Mammoth Cave at any season of the year is delightful. The temperature, 56° being the same the year round, the most delicate can visit it without fear of cold, heat or exhaustion.

Robert Raikes

Founder of Sunday-schools, 1780.

Standard Memorial Portrait.

Line and Stipple Steel Engraving.

This Portrait has been produced at a cost of $600 from the original Painting by Romney, in possession of Maj-Gen Raikes, London, by Rev. O. C. Goss, 97 Varick street, New York.

Officially recognized by the London Sunday School Union, and Sunday-school workers of Great Britain, and circulated there among the various Sunday-schools.

Endorsed by the leading Clergymen of New York, and commended by them to the Sunday-schools of this country.

Half Life Size. Printed on plate paper—22x28 inches—the only steel plate of Raikes extant.

Proof impressions, $2 each. No inferior prints made from the plate.

All Sunday-schools and Sunday-school workers desire it.

Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, says: "I have examined with great care the portrait of Robert Raikes issued by O. C. Goss, of this city, and take great pleasure in commending it as a fine specimen of Art, and a very pleasing picture."

...OUR SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORK.

MISSISSIPPI.

W. Jones, Crawford: "Have received in full membership 112; baptized 26 children last Sunday."

T. C. Carter, Moss Point: "There are near 40 in attendance on Sabbath school. The babies are very numerous. I wish some of the older people would come out."

P. McFerrin, Shannon: "I feel persuaded that God will put all natural and literary qualifications in the dust, if there be not the simple exhibition of Christ for us in the preaching of the Gospel."

Jas. Ellis, Greenwood: "On the Roebuck circuit we had a great revival of religion. 33 joined the church, and out of that number 15 were converted, baptized and received in the church; probationers, 21. The Lord has been with us in the good works."

P. A. McFerrin, Shannon: "Allow me to say something in regard to what was said at Granada by Bishop Turner, of the A. M. E. Church. He said Dr. Marshall W. Taylor, of Cincinnati, the fraternal delegate from the M. E. Church to the General Conference of the A. M. E. Church at St. Louis, said the colored members of the M. E. Church were only in there for the present, and were preparing to leave the M. E. Church for the A. M. E. Church. Either the Bishop or Taylor is misrepresenting the members of the mother Church. I talk with them often about the good work of the Church and they rejoice and praise God and the Church. We love the Church more and more every day, let her roll on; and Mr. Taylor write to us through the SOUTHWESTERN. We want to hear from him. No Church like the mother Church with us."

TENNESSEE.

A. Burdett, Waynesboro: "At Mt. Zion Church, on Hardin creek, our protracted meeting resulted in 14 converts, 5 baptized, and 15 were received in full. Rev. George Burrus, of Linden circuit, was with us. Dr. [illegible] sent us some money from Rev. John Seay, of Lebanon. I know all who can will send us aid [illegible]."

Geo. Burrus, Linden: "We have had some very good meetings. The first was at Ashland: 2 professed faith in Christ, and 10 joined the church. At Cedar Grove one professed faith. Rev. A. HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The accumulated evidence of nearly thirty years shows that the Bitters is a certain remedy for malarial disease, as well as its surest preventive; that it eradicates dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and nervousness, counteracts a tendency to gout, rheumatism, urinary and uterine disorders, that it imparts vigor to the feeble, and cheers the mind while it invigorates the body.

Joy to the World

IS A NEW COLLECTION OF

Hymns, Spiritual Songs, and Tunes for Worship in Social Meetings, Sunday-schools, and other Religious Services

In which appropriate Song forms an important part.

The Editors, CHAPLAIN M'CABE and PROFESSORS O'KANE and SWEENEY, are widely known. A book which is the joint production of these champions of the best forms of congregational singing will be of service beyond furnishing a treasury of song.

"JOY TO THE WORLD" contains 128 pages, furnishing 120 Tunes in full, and 203 Hymns and Songs. The Tunes comprise a desirable variety, new and old, and of the Hymns and Songs about 125 are those which have been and will be used in the Christian service.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my father, Toney Carson, who lived in Carrollton, La. He has two daughters, Agnes Crocket and Emeline Carson. Agnes is married. Grandmother is Eliza Watson. Address me at Booneville, La.

HORACE CROCKET.

MR. EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my brother, Spencer Clements. It has been 8 years since I saw him. He was then in Victoria county. He belonged to Dr. Croselen, of Jackson county. Any information of him will be gladly received. Address me at Mission Valley, Victoria county, Texas.

J. W. ANDERSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my folks. Emeline Scott was my mother, but she is dead. Brothers Perry, Jacob and Moalen Scott; sisters Martha and Jane Lonisa Scott. They all belonged to Miss S. C. Morgan, who lived in the Eastern part of Maryland, except mother. Address me at New Orleans, La., Perrier near Penniston streets.

MELVINEY YORKER.

MR. EDITOR—I desire to inquire for my sister, Lucinda Waller. She belonged to Dr. Owens, of Linohburg, Va. Her sisters were Sidney, Margaret, and Eliza Waller; brothers, Wiley, William, James, Chiprich, and Jerry Waller. My father was Benjamin Waller; mother, Malda Waller. My name is Eliza McCormick. Address me at Bastrop, Morehouse parish, La.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my mother. Her name was Martha Staples, but sometimes went by the name of Martha Hastin. She belonged to James Staples, who lived in Henry county, Va. She was then sold to some one unknown to me. The last time I heard from her she was in Montgomery, Ala. My name was Sophier Staples. I have married since—my name is now Sophier Poole. I am the only child living of the family. I was taken from my mother when 3 years old. Dear pastors and friends please help me to find my mother. Address me at Waco, Texas, in care of Rev. B. F. Smith.

SOPHIER POOLE.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my daughter. Her name was Harriett Roberts. She belonged to Rev. Lewis Roberts, who lived on Wolf River, 25 miles from Memphis, Tenn. My husband was named Isaac Roberts. I was sold to the Chickasaw Indians. They were then moving to Arkansas. At the time they bought me, when I left my daughter, she was only 5 years old. It has been near 35 or 40 years since I last heard from her, and the only child living. My name was Catherine Roberts. I have married since—my name is now Catherine Robinson. Address me at Waco, McLennen Co., Texas, care of Rev. B. F. Smith.

CATHEERINE ROBINSON.

DEAR EDITOR—I wish to inquire for my people. My mother's name is Maria Phillis Coats; my father's name is Carter Relections Coats; oldest brother's name is Alexander; the next William; the next James; the next Anthony; the next Nathan; the next Relections. My oldest sister is named Elizabeth; my name is Julia Ann; my next sister is named Margaret; who was dead before I was brought away from there; the next is Harriet. They lived 25 miles from Washington City, near Bendie river, on the eastern shore of Maryland. My father and mother belonged to Joe Montgomery. I am a widow; my name is Julia Ann Johnson. I had four children, 1 boy and 3 girls; only 2 grand children. I live in Meridian, Landerdale Co., Miss. I had 2 aunts, Mary Hope and Betsie Hope; and an uncle, Nathan Hope, who lived in Washington City. I was brought away from there by the speculators. I was about 11 years old as near as I can recollect.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, etc., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple pure effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies, that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines.—Exchange. See another column.

A SMOOTH COMPLEXION can be had by every lady who will use Parker's Ginger Tonic. For promptly regulating the liver and kidneys and purifying the blood there is nothing like it, and this is the reason why it so quickly removes pimples and gives a rosy bloom to the cheek. See notice.

Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

Dr. Harter: Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefit his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved. F. A. PATRICK & CO.

Blancard's PILLS

City life offers many distractions and pleasures, under which the body suffers or is sacrificed. The rosy cheeks disappear; languor replaces the elastic step; weakness and functional irregularities, symptoms of failing health, follow. The blood, vitiated by impurities, becomes thin. To restore health we must remove impurities and supply the blood with iron. This is done by Blancard's Pills of Iodide of Iron. The Iodide purifies, the Iron strengthens. Prescribed by physicians. Sold by all druggists. 6 1y

MUSTARD PAPER.

$1000, REWARD

For any Washing Machine that will Wash Cleaner, Quicker, with Less Labor and Wear and Tear of Clothes than the ROBBINS FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, Pat'd Oct. 3, '71.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY PERFECT SELF-OPERATING WASHER IN THE WORLD.

No rubbing required. No more yellow clothes nor hard work on washing day. It will wash anything from a lace curtain to a horse blanket, and cannot get out of order.

Good Agents wanted, both Male and Female, to whom Liberal Inducements are offered. Agents can make from $10 to $100 per week.

THE ART OF CLEANSING FABRICS is yet but imperfectly understood by thousands of good housekeepers. The numerous devices of friction rollers, pounders, squeezers, dashers, agitators, steam wash-boilers, etc., have all failed in one or more of the three essential points, namely: The saving of labor, wear and tear of clothes, or in imperfectly extracting the dirt and discoloration.

WHAT IS IT REMOVES THE DIRT? You may ask washerwomen and housekeepers, and your answer from nine out of ten will be, "Plenty of elbow-grease," or in other words, laborious rubbing upon the wash-board. And such is the case, for you first rub soap upon the cloth, and then you have to rub it in to make the dirt soluble; but does that remove it? No; to do that you must dip it in the water and rub repeatedly to force water through the fabric, again and again. That is what removes dirt after having been softened by the chemical action of the soap.

The way in which this could be most economically accomplished has been developed in the FAMILY WASHER AND BLEACHER, which embodies all the above points.

Mechanical devices take the entire time of a person during the whole wash, and will not remove streaks from clothing.

It is harder to operate them than to use the common wash-board. They are constantly getting out of order, and wear out in a short time. With all such devices, as well as the rubbing-board, there is great friction and consequent unnecessary wear and tear of clothing. With the Washer and Bleacher there is no friction or wear of the fabric whatever; and washing, baking and housework are contemporaneous operations—the fire doing the washing and baking, while the housewife does her housework. As stated, water force is what removes dirt from the fibre of the cloth.

A large body of water is required to hold in solution a comparatively small quantity of dirt.

THE PRINCIPLE OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER embodies all the essential points. First, we have the desired heat, which expands the fabric and causes it to discharge the dirt. Second, we obtain a powerful suction beneath the clothes, which produces a rapid downward current or water force, through and through them, thereby removing the dirt. Third, we use a large body of water, which holds the dirt in solution. Fourth, we use but a small quantity of soap. Fifth, the washing is done by water, and not by steam. This process cannot injure fabrics. It cleanses thoroughly, rinsing the clothes being all that is required to complete the operation.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER IS THIS:

We have 5 lbs. of metal, which attains a much greater degree of heat than the water surrounding it, consequently the water underneath the Washer becomes hotter and more expansive than in any other part of the boiler, and is thereby thrown to the surface through the tube, thus tending to produce a vacuum underneath the Washer at the bottom of the boiler, into which the water is rapidly drawn.

As it passes along the channels of the Washer, the curved and contracted throats of which prevent its flowing backward, it becomes hotter and hotter, consequently more expansive and more forcible, until thrown to the surface, thus producing a powerful suction beneath the clothes through which the water must pass in a rapid downward current, thereby obtaining a water force which cannot be obtained by any other method known in cleansing fabrics. Thus, we get a combination. FIRST, WE HAVE THE DESIRED HEAT, SECOND, PERFECT CHEMICAL ACTION OF THE SOAP. THIRD, FORCE OF WATER—ALL OF WHICH ARE REQUIRED TO THOROUGHLY CLEANSE AND PURIFY ANY FABRIC.

THE IMPROVED WASHER has a perfect fitting pipe, and is a combination of metals which does not become sticky or dirty. It comes out of the boiler as bright as new.

THE CAPACITY OF THE WASHER AND BLEACHER.

There are two sizes: No. 1, the Family size; No. 2, suitable for small Hotels, Restaurants, and Barber-shops, Boarding-houses, etc.

The Washer is composed of metal and cannot get out of order.

The discharge-pipe is 13 inches high and 1½ in diameter. It throws water in a solid unbroken stream, at the rate of 6 to 8 gallons per minute. It will work in any flat-bottom boiler. It takes only 3 or 4 ounces of soap in 10 or 12 gallons of water, and will wash bed or table linen, a boilerful in 10 or 15 minutes, and wearing apparel in from 10 to 30 minutes. Use no chemicals, only good soap and soft water.

For LACE CURTAINS the Washer is invaluable. It cleanses them as no other process can without the slightest danger of injury.

No. 2 or small hotel size will work in a flat-bottom boiler, holding 15 to 25 gallons, and wash of average pieces from 1500 to 3000 per day; or it may be used in any smaller boiler that has a flat bottom large enough for it to rest upon.

For hospitals this Washer is pronounced by the medical faculty invaluable, being the most perfect disinfector known, leaving the fabrics pure as when new. By bleachers and chemists it is said to be the most efficient method of removing dirt and vegetable matter from fabrics ever known.

THE INDUCEMENTS WE OFFER.

We want a local agent in every town in the United States.

We want first-class men as GENERAL AGENTS—men capable of managing one or more counties.

To such we give a duly executed Certificate of Agency.

We furnish descriptive circulars for distribution among families; also large posters for advertising in public places. Printed directions for using are sent with each Washer.

The retail price of No. 1 WASHER, in New York, is $3.50; No. 2 WASHER, $5.00; No. 1, $24.00 per dozen; No 2, $36 00 per dozen.

WE SEND SINGLE OR SAMPLE No. 1 WASHERS, PREPAID, TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY EXPRESS OFFICE, in any part of the United States east of the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, also in Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, for 3.50.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

As to the reliability of this Company, we refer you to the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of this city, or to any Express Company in New York. Also to the Publishers of the following named well known leading journals, viz.: NEW YORK—American Agriculturist, Weekly Sun, Weekly Times, Weekly Tribune, Weekly Witness, Weekly World, Christian Advocate, Christian at Work; BOSTON—Youths' Companion, American Cultivator, Chicago Inter-Ocean, Cincinnati Gazette, Andrew's Bazar, Springfield Farm & Fireside, St. Louis Journal of Agriculture, Detroit Free Press, New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, all of whom have frequently editorially endorsed us as well as our washer.

From the Boston Youths' Companion: "This washer is very simple in construction, yet it is the best we have ever known. We speak from experience when we say this. It is truly the woman's friend, for with it the hard work of washing almost disappears. Every housekeepers knows that ordinary modes of washing are apt to wear the clothing. With the Robbins Washer there is absolutely no wear at all, even to the most delicate lace fabric. We have known of this washer for several years, but we had no idea that it was such a prize until we were induced to give it a trial, and now with us it has taken its place as a household necessity."

From the Rural New Yorker, May 8, 1880.—"Lately we had special reasons for thoroughly testing the character of the Robbins Washer and Bleacher. The test has been fully made for upwards of a month in the family at the Rural Farm, and has demonstrated the great merits of this machine. As in the case of hundreds of others, the first impression of the mistress of the house was that the old-time use of "Elbow grease" was essential to the thorough cleaning of the soiled clothing; but repeated trials of this device have convinced her that this belief was due merely to immemorial usage, and had no real foundation in act; for on every occasion in which it was used, this washer did everything that is claimed for it in an entire satisfactory manner. We can, therefore, unhesitatingly recommend it to all our readers who may be in need of a first-rate washer and bleacher.

From the N. Y. Weekly Tribune, May 19, 1880: "Washers again! We have several inquiries concerning the ROBBINS WASHER AND BLEACHER. It does exactly what is claimed for it, and is cheap at ten times its cost."

From the Farm & Fireside, Springfield, O.
